RUBBER PRICES DROP IN THE LOCAL MARKET

Decline of 70 Points in January Deliveries Leads List—Advance in London Trading.

Reaction in crude rubber prices continued again yesterday, when all of the seven active positions traded in on the local exchange sustained losses ranging from 40 to 70 points. Except for a slight buying interest by one of the large importers early in the session, there was little to offset the softening disposition of the market.

Business was in comparatively fair volume, the turnover involving 276 contracts. Nineteen new transferable notices were issued, bringing the total to date to 198 notices.

January suffered the maximum drop of 70 points, to 40.70 cents. May and December closed with a decline of 60 points. February and November sold off 50 points, while March and April declined 40 points.

The London market was easier in the forenoon, selling off ⅛d, but recovered in the late dealings for an advance of ⅛d.

	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Close.
November	40.40	40.40	40.40	40.90
December	40.60	40.40	40.50	41.00
January	40.90	40.70	40.70	41.40
February	41.10	40.90	40.90	41.40
March	41.40	41.20	41.30	41.70
April	41.40	41.40	41.50	41.90
May	41.80	41.60	41.60	42.10

Other months closed: June, 41.70; July, 41.90; August, 42.10; September, 42.30; October, 42.50. Spots were quoted at 41.00 nominal.

RUBBER SHIPMENTS RISE.

Shipments of crude rubber in the world during the nine months to Sept. 30, were 448,672 tons, against 367,753 tons during the corresponding period of last year, an increase of 22 per cent. The shipments were distributed as follows: 171,725 tons from British Malay, 109,123 from other Malayan regions, 42,483 from Ceylon, 36,370 from Java, 30,936 from Sumatra, and 18,592 from Brazil.

Consumption during the nine months in the United States totaled 276,427 tons, compared with 384,644 tons for the entire year 1925. Stocks on hand in this country at the end of September totaled 62,078 tons, against 51,215 tons as of Dec. 31, last.

New York & Ontario Gain Seen.

John R. Kerr, President of the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company, estimated yesterday that the last quarter earnings would exceed those of the corresponding period last year. He said the declaration of common dividends probably would not be discussed at the meeting this month. The road does not pay any dividend on the common stock now. It was hard hit by the anthracite strike.

COMMISSION MEN MEET.

Local Branch of National League Elects Officers.

The election of officers and a general discussion of matters affecting the handling of fruits and produce in the New York market were held at the annual meeting of the New York Branch of the National League of Commission Merchants of the United States at the Waldorf last night.

The following officers were elected: President, Carl I. Dingfelder, to succeed T. L. Turney; Vice President, B. C. Haynes; Secretary, Thomas F. Cochran; Treasurer, E. J. Schwetters.

R. S. French, general manager of the National Association, announced that the thirty-fourth annual convention of the organization would be held at Chicago from Jan. 18 to 22.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

All the Markets Show a Trend Downward.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Hog prices were 10 to 15 cents lower, with a fairly active demand at the decline. The bulk of the 210 to 300 pound averages sold at $11.40 to $11.60, with the bulk of the sales at $10 to $11. The top price for the day was $11.80 and the average $11.45, the latter being off 15 cents from Monday.

Packers bought 21,760, shippers 11,000 and 8,000 were left over. Receipts were 35,000, with 22,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Fat lambs were weak to 25 cents lower, with a top of $13.10 and the bulk of the sales at $12.50 to $12.75. Sheep were strong, with main sales at $5 to $6.50. Receipts were 5,000, the smallest of the year, but in the face of this lamb values were the lowest of the season.

Offerings of cattle were excessive and many were carried over unsold. Fancy yearlings sold at former prices, but other kinds were weak to 25 cents lower. Best yearlings brought up to $12.25, with heavy steers at $10.65 and the bulk of beef steers at $8.75 to $11. Receipts were 18,000.

If a Woman Resident of New York State Dies Without a Will She Cannot —designate to whom her property shall go.

—keep her family out of the intricacies of court procedure at a most distressing time.

Her husband receives no interest in her New York real estate if there are no children, and if there are children then only a life interest.

Her husband, unless she leaves children or near relatives, takes only an interest in common with others in furniture, jewelry and other personal effects.

If all legatees do not agree upon a division or if there are minors her personal effects will be sold as part of the estate.

Although she may wish to provide for grandchildren, they will not share in her estate unless their parent, who is her child, is deceased.

Any share of her estate passing to a minor will be held by a guardian appointed by the court.

When a minor arrives at the age of twenty-one, such minor receives his or her share of the estate to do with it as he or she pleases.

Are you satisfied to leave your estate without a guiding will?

Our booklet, How to Protect Your Estate and Your Family, will be mailed upon request, together with our Will Memorandum, which when filled out will give your lawyer the information he needs in drawing your will.

Women as well as men—should make wills

Some of the reasons are given in the column at the left. Read it . . . then send for an Equitable Will Memorandum.

COTTON SALES HOLD TO NARROW RANGE

DECEMBER EVENS JANUARY

Demand for Former Month Lifts It to January Level—Scattered Liquidation at Close.

A larger quantity of cotton contracts changed hands yesterday than the limited range of 10 points indicated. Swapping between months furnished a substantial volume of business and, after a slight advance, left final quotations 2 points lower to 3 points higher on the day. In addition to active covering of December hedges, buying of May against sales of July and October occurred. Operators are now looking forward to the final semi-monthly report of the season to be issued Monday. This is expected to show an 18,000,000-bale production for 1926. Figures were increased 464,000 bales in the last report to 17,918,000.

For the first time since June the December and January positions sold at the same price yesterday. Demand for December, which had been a feature for several days, had lifted that month from a discount of 12 points to an even level with January and reduced the spread between December and October from 115 to 72 points.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

COTTON MILLS PLAN MERGER

Pepperell and Massachusetts Companies to Combine 537,000 Spindles.

BOSTON, Nov. 16 (AP).—The plan of a proposed merger of the Pepperell Manufacturing Company and the Massachusetts Cotton Mills, already approved by the trustees and directors, will be sent to stockholders of both corporations within a few days. The plan will not be made public until then.

The Pepperell Company operates a mill of 250,000 spindles at Biddeford, Me., a bleachery at Lewiston, Me., and a mill of 25,000 spindles at Opelika, Ala. The Massachusetts Mills have 160,000 spindles at Lowell and 102,000 spindles at Lindale, Ga.

The Pepperell Manufacturing Company reported on Oct. 21 a net profit of $616,530 for the fiscal year ending June 30. Sales for the year were valued at $13,004,235, a decline of $651,056, reflecting an eleven weeks' strike at the Biddeford plant, the report of the Treasurer said. The profit and loss surplus was $5,303,198. Total assets were $12,962,169, as compared with $12,847,656 a year ago.

Holiday Demand in Hardware.

Sales of both holiday and staple hardware are being well maintained and there is a marked stimulation in the flow of merchandise for gift presentation in many market centres, according to Hardware Age. Sales are expected to equal or exceed those of a year ago. The demand for staple items is consistent, although not of the volume it should be. Prices are firm, and collections are reported as improving.

DECLINE FOLLOWS RISE IN THE CURB MARKET

Call Money Rate Is Regarded as Cause of Reaction—Bond Trading Reduced.

Trading in the Curb Market yesterday was characterized by a firm undertone in the early dealings and by a shading of prices in the subsequent operations. At the opening, constructive sentiment was fostered by a reported large reduction in local brokerage loans and the action of Standard Oil of New Jersey to retire its preferred shares through the issuance of low interest-bearing securities. In the later session the restraining influence appeared to be the continuance of call money at 5 per cent., the highest renewal rate since Oct. 15.

Before the lull in the advance, several securities reached attractive levels. American Seating common ran up to a new high point for the year and the preferred stock equaled its top level. Brill shares improved noticeably, and New York Telephone preferred crossed 113 for a good gain. Johns-Manville added a few more points to its price and the coal stocks sought higher levels.

Standard Oil securities did not show the uniformity of strength exhibited on Monday, but several issues closed higher, particularly the pipe-line shares, of which Eureka Pipe, Northern Pipe and Prairie Pipe were leaders.

Small and mixed price changes were apparent in the domestic bond section, and the same was true of the foreign department, where Japanese and German obligations commanded most trading attention.

INVITES SIR WILLIAM LETTS.

Sir William Letts, European representative of the Willys-Overland Company, has been invited to speak at the thirtieth anniversary dinner of the Sphinx Club on April 23. In a wireless sent to him yesterday he was advised that John M. Willys, President of the Willys-Overland Company, would be a guest at the dinner and was asked to radio his acceptance.

Cyrus H. K. Curtis and Robert C. Benchley will be other speakers at the dinner. Mr. Willys also will be the guest of the Sphinx Club at a dinner to be held next Tuesday night at the Waldorf. Many Past Presidents of the club will attend.

SUIT TO BAR GIFT OF INDIAN BEGINS

Guardian of Jackson Barnett Seeks to Withhold Fund From Baptist Society.

$500,000 FOR MISSIONS

Action Was Brought to Prevent Payment by Equitable Trust Co. —Fall Approved Donation.

The suit to prevent the Equitable Trust Company from turning over to the American Baptist Home Mission Society $550,000, established as a trust fund for the benefit of the society by Jackson Barnett, a full-blooded Creek Indian, began yesterday before Federal Judge John C. Knox. Barnett lived in Okmulgee, a banking and post village of the Creek nation in Oklahoma. The land allotted him by the Government, it turned out, was located almost in the centre of the great Cushing oil field.

From this property, which came to him without any action on his part, Barnett reaped a fortune of more than one million dollars. With the money came all sorts of tronble to Barnett. He sued and was sued, and there are pending actions involving his fortune in four different States. Elmer S. Bailey of Tulsa was appointed guardian for Barnett along with the Secretary of the Interior. The gift to the Baptist Society was made with the approval of the Department of the Interior, but Mr. Bailey objected to the transfer of the funds from the trust company.

This was about fonr years ago, three years after Barnett had married a white woman and had given her $500,000, which is also tied np pending the outcome of the litigation. Yesterday's opening argument was made by Carroll G. Walters, trial counsel for Mr. Bailey. He explained that the main issues were whether Barnett, who has been adjndged both competent and incompetent by the courts, could establish the trust fnnd in the first instance, and whether the Secretary of the Interior had any authority to approve it.

Through Mr. Walters's argument ran a thread of accusations against various persons accused of seeking to separate Barnett from his money by any means that appeared at all likely to succeed. Mr. Walters said that the gifts to the Mission Society and to Mrs. Barnett had been approved by Albert B. Fall, as Secreary of the Interior, in 1923, after A. J. Ward, national counsel for the Creek Indian tribe, a subordinate of the Interior Department, had prepared for Barnett formal petition and statement which Barnett signed with him thumb print.

Mr. Walters in tracing the history of Barnett since he was five years old, in 1896, described him as a laborer on farms and on a flat boat ferry until 1903, when he turned up at Henrietta, Okla. Oil was discovered on his property in 1912 and in 1919 royalties from the wells paid over to Barnett amounted to more than $1,000,000. Barnett, on his own account, it was said, gave $275,000 to the Baptist Church and to societies connected with it, but that none had been approved.

In the story of Barnett's life were incidents tending to show that Mrs. Barnett had made several efforts to marry Barnett before she succeeded; even going to the extent at one time of kidnapping him.

Barnett, dressed in a neat suit of gray and looking much younger than his years, sat in the rear of the courtroom and by him sat his wife, both as stolid and apparently as uninterested as if the proceedings had no bearing upon their fortunes. Associated with Mr. Walters in the case are E. H. Foster of Oklahoma, Charles H. Selby and N. M. Lacey, and Thomas J. Crawford appeared for the Government, A. M. Stackhouse represented the Equitable Trust Company and Charles S. Fettretch appeared for the Baptist Home Mission Society. The case will be continned today.

ALLIED BROADCASTING DEBUT COST $50,000

National Company Paid $25,000 to Performers—Advertising to Meet Expense in Future.

The radio entertainment that was broadcast Monday night in the début of the National Broadcasting Company, whose program was heard over WEAF and WJZ and allied stations, cost more than $50,000.

In revealing these figures yesterday to The Associated Press an official of the company said it was expected to make advertising ultimately pay the entire expense of elaborate programs to come.

Of Tuesday night's expense more than $25,000 went to the artists and performers in the fonr-hour program. To the ultimate consumer who tuned in on Mary Garden, Titta Ruffo, Harold Bauer, Will Rogers, Weber and Fields and the participating orchestras, the cost was nothing. Some 5,000 miles of telephone wires were under lease for this broadcasting enterprise which required the services of more than 100 radio engineers. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which leased the telephone wires, would not venture to estimate the number of telephone engineers and others required to keep the transmission ways clear.

The National Broadcasting Company visions a future when its programs will be transmitted over circuits covering the entire continent.

TWO BREAK FROM AUBURN.

One Is Caught, Lut Notorious Bandit Gets Free.

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 16 (AP).—James McGrath, 25, of Buffalo was still at large tonight after a spectacular escape from Auburn Prison today. Howard Keavin of Rochester, notorious jailbreaker and bandit, was recaptured and was back in his cell tonight. McGrath was serving thirty years for robbery.

Keavin and McGrath obtained a ladder, and, using a rope made from bed straps, they lowered themselves to the street over the west prison wall. Thomas Smith Jr., a guard on the wall, saw the prisoners and fired his rifle three times. Keavin injured his foot in getting over the wall. He was limping when escorted back to the prison.

A posse of fifty armed guards is searching Cayuga County for McGrath. Keavin during his criminal career has escaped from the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries in Pennsylvania and from the Ontario County Jail at Canandaigua, where he was being held for murder, second degree. He was recaptured in Olean last May.

RIGHT NAMES FOR PELTS APPROVED BY FUR MEN

Groups in Industry Agree That Ambiguous Terms Should Be Barred in Advertising.

Representatives of the National Association of the Fur Industry agreed yesterday with the National Better Ensiness Bureau and the Better Business Bureau of New York City that furs should be advertised and sold under their right names and that all misleading nomenclature should be eliminated. Following the meeting of the three groups at the Waldorf, the fur men appointed a committee to discuss with the two bureaus the trade names and advertising used by members of the furriers' association.

The fur dyers and finishers were invited to a hearing for a discussion of the Better Business Bureau's recommendations in the campaign to have fur advertisers "name the pelts."

"Fundamentally, there was no difference of opinion expressed," declared B. L. Shinn of the National Better Business Bureau, who presided. "The bureaus explained that in their opinion the time has come for the finishers of skins to correct the nomenclature and abolish all ambiguous terms. The fur men gave approval of our stand that the public is entitled to know what skins it is buying. The group also approved of suggestions whereby muskrat dyed to simulate sealskin shall be advertised as 'seal-dyed muskrat.' Similiarly, if rabbit skin is dyed to look like sealskin, it should be advertised as 'seal-dyed coney.'"

David C. Mills, General Director of the National Association of the Fur Industry, and Vincent Gilroy, its counsel, were appointed to examine with Business Bureau representatives all fur advertising now used by member firms. At the meeting were representatives of the Fur Dressers & Fur Dyers Association, Joseph Ullmann, Inc., Ideal-Belgian Fur Dyeing Co., Great Northern Fur Dressing and Dyeing Corporation, David Friedman, Mendoza Fur Dyeing Works, Inc., Federal Fur Dyeing Co., Joseph Hollander, Inc., and the two Better Business Bureaus.

PIANO TAX ENRICHES PARIS.

Municipality Collects 4,700,000 Francs on 132,000 Instruments.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—It is a fortunate thing for the municipality of Paris that Parisians are so fond of their pianos.

This year the city will collect the round sum of 4,700,000 francs in taxes on 132,000 pianos—an important item in the municipal tax budget.

DE FORD RESIGNS CITY TRANSIT POST

FERTIG MAY SUCCEED HIM

Frank X. Sullivan of Queens Also Said to Be an Aspirant for $15,000 Position.

William A. DeFord, the last supporter of William Randolph Hearst in the City Administration, has resigned as a member of the Board of Transportation, it was made known yesterday, and his resignation will become effective on Saturday. His term expired on July 1. The salary of the office is $15,000 a year.

Mr. DeFord, who was appointed by former Mayor Hylan, sent his resignation to Mayor Walker on Sept. 15. In his letter to the Mayor he said:

"I feel constrained, because of the pressure of personal obligations and of conditions with which you are familiar, to tender you my resignation as a member of the Board of Transportation, to take effect on or after Nov. 15 next at your convenience.

"I am writing to you now that you may have ample time in which to consider and determine upon the appointment of a successor.

"I take this occasion to express to you my sincere appreciation of the uniform consideration that you have shown me, both personally and officially, since you have been Mayor, and to wish you all possible success in the administration of your high office.

"Will you please be good enough to acknowledge the receipt of this letter?"

Mayor Walker wrote yesterday the following reply:

"To avoid possible complications regarding your status on the Board of Transportation, your letter of Sept. 15, 1926, submitting your resignation as a member of the Board of Transportation to take effect on or after Nov. 15. was not filed or acknowledged. It was very considerate of you to notify me so far in advance and the courtesy is appreciated.

"With a sense of personal regret I accept your resignation to take effect Nov. 20. Because of my well developed admiration for you personally and officially, you have my best wishes for your continued good health and success."

Assistant Corporation Counsel M. Maldwin Fertig of the Bronx was said to be a likely successor to Mr. DeFord. Mr. Fertig, who has had a great deal of experience in transit litigation, was the candidate of the Bronx Democratic organization for counsel to the Transit Commission. Frank X. Sullivan of Queens also was said to be an aspirant for the appointment.

SET FINAL HEARING ON NEW YORK CANAL

Army Board Will Receive Pleas for All-American Route, but Oppose It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16. — Final hearing on the all-New York ship canal project, as a preliminary to an unfavorable report to Congress, today was set for Dec. 1 by the Rivers and Harbors Board of the Army engineers. Adherents of the New York project and of the St. Lawrence route will argue the merits of their respective waterways for the last time before the engineers.

In granting a final hearing the Board of Engineers acted at the request of Representative S. Wallace Dempsey of New York, champion of the all-American canal. Mr. Dempsey likewise has fought the St. Lawrence route, and maintained that his plan is the only satisfactory route from the Great Lakes to the sea.

Army engineers appear to differ with him, it was revealed three weeks ago, when they decided that the New York route was impractical and that an adverse report should be submitted to Congress. At that time they notified Representative Dempsey and others interested of their decision.

The rejecting report has been made available to those interested in both the New York and St. Lawrence project, but it has not been made public. It is learned authoritatively, however, that it finds any proposal to dig a thirty-foot canal across New York as utterly impractical, and holds that any saving in freight rates the canal would provide would be offset by its tremendous upkeep and initial cost.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

....4¼ per cent. for the best names; ....4½ per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Pearl Vogue Is Growing.

While the greater part of it is confined to imitation pearls, the vogue for these gems that set in soon after the arrival in this country of Queen Marie of Rumania continues to grow. Beginning in the larger cities of the East, it has become nation-wide with the travels of the Queen, and reports from the jewelry trade indicate that sales of this merchandise are doing business of record proportions. All sizes of the imitation pearls are being purchased in two and three-strand necklaces, earrings, sautoirs and bracelets; and a nice business in matched necklaces and earrings of the imitation gems is told of here. While the demand is general, it narrows as the value of the pieces increases. In other words, the broadest demand is for the cheaper and medium-priced articles.

Call for Novelty Umbrellas.

Business for women's umbrellas have been coming along nicely, according to manufacturers here. The demand from retailers' replacements and also for more expensive special novelty that manufacturers have been offering for the holiday gift sale. Children's umbrellas made to simulate those for grown-ups have been meeting with a very good turnover. The short sixteen-rib umbrella with fancy colored handle and trimmings to match is the type moving most actively. Colored silks with contrasting border treatment or other design detail are being widely sold, although there is some demand for the staple black.

Women's Spring Coatings.

With normal labor conditions in the women's coat trade assured, there has been some gain in the orders placed with the mills for Spring coatings. What the mills term "real buying," however, has yet to materialize, but selling agents yesterday expressed themselves as confident about the immediate outlook. Sports fabrics, including novelty woolens, crêpes, flannels and worsteds, are the outstanding items. The mills are very much interested in any indications that the vogue for suits is likely to have a "comeback" during the Spring. The movement is believed assured of popularity, and this trend may include tailored suits, which would greatly increase the demand for worsteds.

Gray Goods Sales Numerous.

Sales of gray goods were numerous enough in this market yesterday, but the quantities moved were so small individually that the aggregate volume of business was not large. Most of the reported sales were for near-by deliveries, they including 39-inch 72-76s at 8½ cents, 38-inch 68-72s at 7⅛ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 6⅞ cents and 38½-inch 48-48s at 5 9-16 cents. Business was done in 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings at 7 cents, with 3⅛ cents paid for 36-inch goods of that weight and of the 56-60 construction. For 40-inch 2.85-yard sheetings buyers paid 9⅛ cents. December deliveries of 37-inch 1.35-yard drills were sold at 7½ cents, and "quick" sales of 37½-inch 4.37-yard goods were put through at 11⅞ cents. In fine-yarn cloths there was some movement of pongees and voiles, and prompt and January sales of 100-60 broadcloths were reported at 11¼ and 10½ cents, respectively. The latter figure was that asked for February deliveries of the goods.

Spring Men's Wear Fabrics.

With some additional business in men's wear Spring fabrics is being booked, the market generally presents a quiet appearance. Most of the duplicate business is going to the larger factors, as was the case with the initial Spring business. The next few weeks are expected to show a gain in the lightweight activity, as more of the clothing manufacturers get a definite "line" on the extent and choice of retailers' orders. So far, the Spring business booked by the clothing factors is said to be progressing nicely when due account is taken of conditions in certain sections. Woolens of attractive color combinations are doing better than worsteds in the duplicate orders coming in. Fabrics on the order of cheviots are particularly well liked.

Overcoat Demand Hits Stride.

As was expected, the consumer overcoat demand is now beginning to hit its full stride. Particularly good turnover during the next couple of weeks is counted on by the stores, providing the weather man lends his assistance. Stocks in retail hands are not heavy, this being fully demonstrated by the hurry calls reaching manufacturers and by the continued production activity at this time. The call for stock overcoatings has also been stimulated somewhat, with more business of this kind expected to develop later. Retailers have been holding back overcoat "sales" in order to take advantage of the peak demand at full prices. Many consumers, however, have been delaying their purchases until the sales are announced.

Price Rises Not Anticipated.

Men's wear mills looking ahead to the 1927 heavyweight season find the raw wool market easier in tone. With stabilization in mind, there is now little talk of advances in prices of the new goods when they are opened about two months hence. Quotations at the wool auctions are lower than last year, with an easy tendency prevailing on all but the choicest merino grades. The mills therefore are inclined to look for fairly favorable wool buying opportunities, unless conditions substantially reverse themselves as they begin actively to cover their needs. Guesses made by market observers are inclined to place the 1927 heavyweight goods price level at pretty much the same as prevailed for the present Fall.

Like Matched Lingerie Sets.

Considerable business is now being done here in matched lingerie sets in special boxing for the holiday trade. They consist of bloomers and costume slips to match. The material from which they are made is usually crêpe de chine or radium silk, and both pieces show touches of hand embroidery. Among the newer things are flesh pink crêpe de chine bloomers with small ruffles of georgette for wear under dance frocks. Very short petticoats, in satins and crêpes and in pastel colorings, as well as costume slips in silver and gold metal cloth, are among the other holiday items offered to the trade by manufacturers represented in the membership of the United Petticoat League of America.

Christmas Neckwear Sells Well.

Women's neckwear continues to sell freely in this market, with particular interest now being given to boxed collar and cuff sets for holiday gift purposes. The most popular sets are made of georgette ruffling, of lace and net, and of silk. Many tailored sets in crêpe de chine and satin are also being sold, these, too, being put up in boxes of appropriate holiday design. The business now being done in holiday gift lines, coupled with the regular Fall business in neckwear done earlier in the year, is giving manufacturers of this merchandise one of the most satisfactory seasons they have had in some time.

APPEALS FOR 5-DAY WEEK.

O'Connell Urges It for Workers in Navy Yards.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP).—A five-day week for navy yard employes was asked of the Navy Wage Board today by James O'Connell, President of the Metal Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

"The five-day week is not philanthropy," Mr. O'Connell said, "but a cold-blooded business proposition."

Uncertain conditions in navy yards since the armistice, he asserted, had brought employment to the lowest ebb in many years. The five-day week would give greater permanency of work, he argued.

An increase in the wage scale also was requested, but no specific amount was named.

SIBERIAN WHEAT IS BLOCKED

Scarcity of Rolling Stock Holds Up Movement—Much Being Ruined.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Nov. 16.—The transport of grain from Siberia is now difficult owing to the scarcity of rolling stock. According to an official announcement, great quantities of wheat have accumulated in the Omsk district awaiting trucks, and more than 8,000 tons on the Kulundinsk branch railway are being ruined in the open.

About 4,000 tons of wheat have accumulated at Akmolinsk station. All warehouses are filled and "the situation at Novosibirsk is still worse," the announcement says.

"Fruit of Loom" Muslins Out.

A reduction of a cent and a half a yard was made on "Fruit of the Loom" 4-4 bleached muslins here yesterday, when Converse & Co., selling agents for B. B. & R. Knight, Inc., announced a new price of 16 cents on the goods. This figure is the lowest quoted on "Fruits" in nine years. The last previous price on them was 17½ cents, which was named late in July, and this figure represented an advance of a quarter of a cent a yard over the quotation of 17¼ cents that was made about May 1. At that time it was said that the 17¼ cent price was the lowest put on the goods since 1921.

$3,000 FOR LONG POEM

The original antograph manuscript of Robert Louis Stevenson's "David Balfour," afterward called "Catriona," brought $6,350 last night in the Anderson Galleries at the auction of books collected by Harry Glemby of this city.

The manuscript, which was bought by the Rosenbach Company and which comprises about 100,000 words, is entirely in Stevenson's hand, for the most part in his fine, small, upright script. The first complete original autograph manuscript of Stevenson's long poem, "Ticonderoga," written in America late in 1887 and signed in full, was bought for $3,000 by the Rosenbach Company, which also paid $1,750 for an original autograph manuscript of an early draft of a portion of Stevenson's famous "Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

The same company paid $3,700 for a copy of the rare first collected edition, with the duplicate title page, of Shakespeare's Poems, printed in London in 1640. A copy of the fifth edition of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" was also bought by the Rosenbach Company for $2,800. A copy of the rare second edition of Shakespeare's "The Merry Wives of Windsor" was bought by the Rosenbach Company for $3,200. The same company paid $2,300 for a copy of the second edition of Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," and $2,500 for the complete original autograph manuscript of Stevenson's early story, "When the Devil Was Well." The original antograph manuscript of Stevenson's unpublished blank verse tragedy, "Monmouth," was bought by the Rosenbach Company for $1,350.

A set of the first issue of the first edition of Jonathan Swift's "Travels Into Several Remote Nations of the World," was bought by the Rosenbach Company for $4,200. Last night's session brought $59,600, making the total for the entire sale $98,612.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

14-STORY FLAT SOLD ON RIVERSIDE DRIVE

IT WAS HELD AT $1,750,000

Simon & Hartstein, operators, sold 440 Riverside Drive, known as the Paterno, to Salem E. Munyer, importer of fine arts. This is a fourteen-story apartment house and has a circular frontage.

Measuring 107 feet on Riverside Drive and 234 feet on the north side of 116th Street and Claremont Avenue, it has the unusual advantage of three street frontages. Erected in 1910 by Dr. Charles V. and Joseph Paterno to accommodate 105 families, it is fully rented with many of the original tenants who leased apartments at the time of completion still its occupants.

The sellers acquired the property last Winter from Benjamin N. Duke and Anthony J. Drexel Biddle. It was held at $1,750,000, with an annual rental of $210,000.

Simon & Hartstein recently conveyed the Temple Rodeph Sholom site, southeast corner of Sixty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, to the Allerton Hotel interests, who are constructing a hotel for women.

Gettner, Simon & Asher and Benjamin Hartstein represented the sellers. Joseph P. Day, Inc., as broker, negotiated the transaction.

In the purchase from Lee and J. J. Shubert of 234 and 236 West Fiftieth Street, between Broadway and Eighth Avenue, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, Lewis R. Schwartz and Irving Maidman have completed the assembling for building clients of 100 by 100 feet, upon which they will immediately erect a seventeen-story fireproof hotel, representing an aggregate outlay of $1,480,000.

The plot just sold adjoins 238 and 240 West Fiftieth Street, which the same brokers recently sold for the heirs of Joseph Cudlipp, after an ownership of seventy-seven years.

Bing & Bing sold 228 and 230 West Fifty-eighth Street. The property is situated between Broadway and Seventh Avenue and measues 45 by 100.5 feet, and was held at $250,000. The purchasing interests contemplate improving the property with a twenty-story business building as soon as present leases expire. The brokers were Raber, King & Co.

Third Avenue Warehouse in Resale.

Fred Oppenheimer, through his Acra Realty Company, Inc., has resold through O'Reilly & Dahn, as brokers, the six-story and basement storage warehouse building, on a lot 25 by 110 feet deep on the east side of Third Avenue, 25 feet north of the corner of Eighty-ninth Street, and known as 1,587 Third Avenue, to the Centcres Realty Company, Inc., which will use the building for their own occupancy. The seller acquired the building in July of this year.

Irving I. Lewine, Inc., purchased from Z. J. Kanter 735 Tenth Avenue, comprising the southwest corner of Tenth Avenue and Fiftieth Street. The property consists of a four-story brick tenement, on a plot 25.5 by 75 feet. J. Arthur Fischer was the broker.

Ernest T. Bower sold for Mrs. Mary A. Fox to a client for investment the two three-story and basement brick dwellings, 334 and 338 East 125th Street, each on a lot 20.6 by 106 feet. This is the first sale of this property in over fifty years, as it has been continuously in the same ownership since it was built by the father of the present seller.

ASSEMBLES 107TH ST. SITE.

Kehaya Realty Corporation Acquires Broadway Corner.

With the acquisition of 247 West 107th Street by Sara F. Pettit and James R. B. Pettit, the Kehaya Realty Corporation has assembled the entire northeast corner of 107th Street and Broadway, a plot 108 by 147 feet, with an outlet to 108th Street.

The purchaser intends to hold this plot for investment. Mark Rafalsky & Co. acted as brokers in the assembling of the plot, and Richard B. Hand, as attorney, acted for the purchaser.

Leases From Plans in New Building.

In the new sixteen-story building, 75 by 100 feet, at 16-20 East Fifty-second Street, to be completed in the Spring, Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co., agents, have leased, in addition to a store, basement and space on the second floor, about one-half of the third floor to Ruder Brothers, dealers in furniture. One-half of the third floor has also been rented to the Arthur M. Rosenberg Company of New Haven, Conn. Potter, Hamilton & Butler represented the Arthur M. Rosenberg Company.

Owners Commission Architect.

Samuel A. Hertz, architect, has been commissioned to prepare plans and specifications to alter Nebenzahl's department store at Far Rockaway, N. Y. The structure to be altered covers an area of 100 feet on Central Avenue and extends back 200 feet to White Street. The frame front erected over one hundred years ago is to be removed, and the new Central Avenue facade has been designed in classic Italian Renaissance period. The cost of the proposed changes will be approximately $50,000. Construction work is to commence immediately.

Woodycrest Avenue Flats Sold.

Joseph Sager, operator, sold to the Ruthmore Realty Corporation 1,145 and 1,155 Woodycrest Avenue, two five and a half story apartment houses, one at the southwest corner of 167th Street. The two structures stand on a plot 223 feet on Woodycrest Avenue and 113 feet on 167th Street, housing 115 families and seven stores. Bimberg & Rosen were the brokers.

Hospital Property Leased.

Charles F. Noyes Company, Inc., has leased for the Roosevelt Hospital the store, basement and subcellar of 9 Great Jones Street to the Ace Paper Company and in the same building floors to the Charleston Hat Company, Inc., and Jacob Goldberg.

East 223d Street Investment.

D. Houlihan's Sons sold to David Broderick four lots on the south side of East 233d Street, 50 feet west of Ely Avenue, for investment.

Plans Filed by Builders For Three New Apartments

Three six-story apartment houses are to be erected in Manhattan at an aggregate cost of $775,000, according to plans filed yesterday in the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings. The sites are variously located.

The Kay & Bee Holding Corporation filed plans through G. G. Miller, architect, for a six-story building at 10 to 24 Park Terrace East, on a plot 186 by 100 feet. This project will cost $375,000.

At 30 to 36 Magaw Place, a plot 69 by 100 feet, Max Lippman & Sons, Inc., as owners, plan a six-story flat to cost $150,000. Mr. Miller is the architect for this operation and also filed plans for a similar building on the southeast corner of 175th Street and Wadsworth Avenue, 89 by 100 feet. Real Good Construction Corporation is the owner of this property. The proposed structure will cost $250,000.

$5,220,600 IN LOANS PLACED ON PROPERTIES

Mortgages Announced for Parcels in Three Boroughs and the Suburbs.

Loans on properties in three boroughs and the suburbs were placed yesterday. The loans total $5,220,600.

The Prudence Bonds Corporation made a first mortgage loan of $1,800,000 to the 983 Park Avenue Corporation, Fabian M. Crystal, President, and Clement S. Crystal, Secretary, on the new fourteen-story apartment building which is now being erected at the northeast corner of Park Avenue and East Eighty-third Street.

The Prudence Bonds Corporation also announced yesterday a first mortgage loan of $1,400,000 on the twenty-two-story apartment hotel located at 253 to 263 West Seventy-second Street. The building, erected by 253-263 West Seventy-second Street Corporation, of which J. B. Book Jr. is President, is now completed. The loan was negotiated by Lawrence, Blake & Jewell, brokers.

Hubbard, Westervelt & Mottelay placed for the Pythian Temple Association on its new fraternal building at 135 to 145 West Seventieth Street a loan of $750,000. The building, on which the mortgage has just been executed, will be ready for occupancy about May 1, 1927. Hugh S. Horton was associated as broker in placing the loan.

The building and furnishings when finished will cost about $1,700,000.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., obtained for the 51 East Ninety-sixth Street Corporation, Harry N. Wessel, President, a mortgage of $200,000 on the six-story elevator apartment at the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Ninety-sixth Street. The building occupies a plot 100 by 100 feet.

James Boyd secured a first mortgage of $120,000 at 5½ per cent. interest on the four-story brick apartment house situated at the northwest corner of Carroll Street and Schenectady Avenue, Brooklyn. The same brokers placed a loan of $60,600 on premises 7 and 9 West 118th Street for J. C. Levy.

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell, Inc., arranged for the 11-13 West Thirtieth Street Corporation, Louis O. Cohen, Secretary, a building loan of $350,000 on the property at 11 and 13 West Thirtieth Street. The property, 50 by 98 feet, is to be improved with a fifteen-story and basement fireproof building suitable for offices, lofts and stores.

Momand & Co., Inc., have placed for the N. D. T. Construction Company a mortgage loan of $60,000 on the four-story apartment building situated on the northwest corner of East Twenty-ninth Street and Tilden Avenue, Brooklyn; for the Tricomi-Moschella Realty Company, Inc., a mortgage loan of $165,000 on the four-story and basement apartment building situated at the east side of Crescent Street, 143 feet south of Thirtieth Road, Astoria, L. I., and for the Remington Construction Company, Inc., a mortgage loan of $105,000 on the four-story and basement apartment building situated on the southeast corner of Webster Avenue and Remington Place, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Livingston Wetmore and William L. Moffat have placed for Isaac J. Levy, with a savings bank, a loan of $100,000 for five years at 5½ per cent. on the six-story apartment building at the northwest corner of Southern Boulevard and Elsmere Place, Bronx.

William A. White & Sons have negotiated two loans of $100,000 and $70,000 for Mrs. Ethel Hoffstatter Hutchinson on her properties at 52 West Fifty-eighth Street and 19 East Sixty-fourth Street. Constantine S. Miller was the cobroker in the transaction.

Slawson & Hobbs have placed for the Harding Avenue Apartments, Inc., a permanent loan in the amount of $65,000 on the new three-and-one-half-story apartment house on the east side of Jefferson Avenue, 412 feet north of Battle Avenue, White Plains, N. Y., size 137 by 120 feet. The same brokers have also placed for Samuel Burke a permanent loan in the amount of $55,000 on premises at 5,065 Broadway, a five-story apartment with stores, size 50 by 100 feet.

Tall Building for 49th Street.

Brown, Wheelock; Harris, Vought & Co. have leased for the Caroline A. Grant estate the four-story house at 22 East Forty-ninth Street, on a lot 25.4 by 100.5 feet, adjoining the southwest corner of Madison Avenue. The lessees are Michael H. Lazarus and Samuel L. Wallerstein, who have been identified with several leasehold deals in that section. The lease is for twenty-one years, with three similar renewals, and carries an option of purchase. The lessees will improve the site with a new seven-story building.

Bronx Industrial Site in Deal.

The Ediar Realty Corporation has purchased an industrial site comprising about one acre on the Boston Post Road, about 1,500 feet south of the Pelham line. The property has a frontage of 500 feet on the east side of the Post Road and fronts 250 feet on the west side of Hutchinson River, with an irregular depth. It was sold for Mrs. Martha Stillwell through the office of Angus S. McCabe.

Sale on Madison Avenue.

William A. White & Sons sold, in conjunction with George W. Mercer & Sons, 927 Madison Avenue for W. Brewster Humphrey to the Back Bays Realty Corporation. It is a four-story and basement altered building on a plot 20 by 80 feet, between Seventy-third and Seventy-fourth Streets.

BUILDERS PURCHASE FLAT SITES IN BRONX

HOMESEEKERS ARE ACTIVE

Investment Company Sells Four Parcels for Private Houses—Other Deals.

Real estate transactions in the Bronx yesterday were featured by the sales of vacant parcels to builders for improvement, with buyers showing a preference for apartment house sites. Emilia Figola sold through Nat E. Fink an apartment house site comprising five lots on the east side of Wayne Avenue, forty feet north of Reservoir Oval, to a builder for improvement with a six-story elevator apartment house to cost in the neighborhood of $300,000. Grudin & Sawitch were associate brokers in the transaction.

Nat E. Fink also sold, in conjunction with Irving Troy, for Charles A. Theilessun an apartment house site on the east side of Kings College Place, 99 feet north of Gun Hill Road, to a builder who plans to improve the plot with an apartment house.

Richard Casey sold through S. A. De Cesare and Scott, Caminitta & Co., as brokers, a plot 40 by 100 feet forming the northeast corner of Rawlins Avenue and Eastern Boulevard. The buyer is a builder and purchased the property as a site for a four-story apartment house.

The Oakes Security and Investment Company has sold through Faley & Shanahan, as brokers, the following four plots to buyers who plan to erect one-family brick dwellings: a plot 50 by 100 feet on the west side of Hone Avenue, 100 feet north of Morris Park Avenue; a plot 50 by 100 feet on the east side of Lurtig Avenue, 100 feet south of Neil Avenue; a plot 50 by 100 feet on the west side of Haight Avenue, 90 feet north of Rhinelander Avenue, and a lot 25 by 90 feet on the north side of Rhinelander Avenue, 50 feet east of Lurtig Avenue.

The Leader Realty Company, operators, purchased a plot 50 by 100 feet on the west side of Morrison Avenue, 350 feet south of 174th Street, through Louis M. Weiss & Co., as brokers. A resale is pending. The same operators also purchased a plot of four lots measuring 100 by 100 feet on the east side of Fteley Avenue, 160 feet north of 172d Street. The Vasco Realty Company negotiated the sale. The buyers own the adjoining parcel, a plot 100 by 100 feet, and plan to improve the combined plot in the immediate future.

The Weeks Avenue Construction Company, A. Robinson, President, sold the northeast corner of 172d Street and Morrison Avenue to Max Block. The purchaser will erect a one-story taxpayer with eight stores. John J. Reynolds was the broker.

Joseph Wecker and another sold through S. H. Kosse & Co., Inc., the business plot forming the northwest corner of Washington Avenue and East 184th Street, to a builder for improvement, with a taxpayer. This is the first sale of the property in twenty-five years.

The southeast corner of Burke Avenue and Colden Avenue, a plot 50 by 92 feet, has been sold to the Stillman Construction Corporation. Albert G. Illich was the broker.

John & Arthur Seekamp sold to an investing client of the Julius Trattner Company the six-story apartment house at 731 East 156th Street, between Jackson and Forest Avenues, built on a plot 41.6 by 100 feet. This is the first sale of the property in twenty years.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

Mrs. Henry Cammann Buys Adjoining East Side Suites.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co., Inc., have sold to Mrs. Henry Cammann, whose residence at 7 Sutton Place was recently reported leased to F. Louis Slade, two adjoining apartments in 430 East Fifty-seventh Street, the new group ownership cooperative building recently completed by the Samuel A. Herzog Building Company, Inc., from plans by McKim, Mead & White.

The two apartments consist of four and six rooms, each with three baths, and both are now under lease for a term of years. At the expiration of the leases Mrs. Cammann intends to combine the apartments into one. In the meantime she has leased, also through the Elliman firm, a six-room and three-bath apartment in the same building for her own use as well as extra space for servants. Out of fifty-nine apartments in this new building only two are available for rent and one for sale.

Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. have leased, furnished, for Theodore Douglas Robinson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, his five-story English basement house at 750 Park Avenue to James T. Lee.

The Warren Service Corporation has let the building contract for a new service station at the southeast corner of Broadway and 133d Street to the Turner Construction Company. Construction will start at once. Parker & Shaffer are the architects.

SPACE ON MADISON AV. LEASED BY IMPORTERS

Stern & Stern Take Quarters in New Textile Centre—Other Business Rentals.

Stern & Stern, textile importers, have leased the third and fourth floors, comprising 30,000 square feet of space, in the Backer Building on the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Thirty-first Street for a period of five years. The lessees have been located for more than fifteen years at 79 Fifth Avenue.

The deal was closed for Samuel Levy, the Estate of George Backer and Emanuel Arnstein, as owners of the building, through Spear & Co., as brokers, with Roy Sherrick acting as broker for the lessees.

This section of Madison Avenue was formerly the heart of the ladies' garment manufacturing centre. Since the removal of that industry to the new garment centre the district has been converted into a textile centre.

Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. have leased for the Childs Company the front portion of the fifth floor at 605 Fifth Avenue to Ybry, Inc., importers of perfumes, for their sales rooms and offices. The same firm has also leased for James Martin the second and third floors of 135 West Fifty-first Street to Jane O'Rourke for use as an experimental theatre.

Greene & Co. leased for a term of fifteen years for Henry H. Cording the one-story building, 40 by 70 feet, at 119 to 123 East 129th Street, Manhattan, to Paul H. Bernstein, who will improve the building as a modern garage. The same brokers also leased from plans for Gralin Realty Company, Inc., the two-story factory building, 25 by 100 feet, on the north side of 137th Street, 75 feet west of Madison Avenue, to Rubin & Markman, Inc., for a term of ten years. They will occupy the building as a distributing station for their milk and dairy business.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., leased a large suite of offices at 110 William Street to the Canada Life Insurance Company of Toronto. The premises will be used as the local offices for this company, marking their entry into the United States.

Cross & Brown Company leased space in 35 and 37 West Thirty-ninth Street to David Lorence and Joshua A. B. Ezra; also to Skolnick-Schack Company, Inc.; space in 119 West Fifty-seventh Street to Sam A. Marcusson and Jack K. Pierce, and additional space in the Kings Tower Building, 678 Eighth Avenue, to Leo Lovallo. The same brokers, in conjunction with Adams & Co. have leased space at 15 to 19 East Twenty-sixth Street to the Heyman Process Corporation.

Steinholz & Sweedler have leased for M. H. Harris the large store and basement at 781 Broadway to the Klein's Rapid Shoe Repair Company, Inc., for a long term of years.

Byrne & Bowman rented lofts at 133 Bleecker Street to Joseph I. Shapiro; at 28 West Fifteenth Street to Metro Yarn Company, and at 22 West Twenty-first Street to Moses Rapaport.

The Haggstrom-Callen Company has leased for Susie Scott Hall, represented by Howard Payson Wilds, the four-story and basement building at 130 West Sixty-fifth Street to the Virginia Pope Birds and Animals, Inc.

Bastine & Co., Inc., leased the entire building at 157 East 116th Street for three years to Eliza Fairweather. The same brokers also leased the front half of the sixth floor at 45 West Twenty-seventh Street to Stoutwear Sweater Mills, Inc., and the rear half of the sixth floor at 45 West Twenty-seventh Street to Schwartz Brothers.

The Emporium World Millinery Company, who conducts a chain of millinery departments throughout the Middle West and South, has leased the eleventh floor in 39 to 43 West Thirty-seventh Street from Julius Tishman & Sons. Adams & Co., Inc., were the brokers in the transaction.

West Side Holdings Squared.

The H. Herrmann Furniture Company has squared its holdings on Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth Streets between Tenth and Eleventh Avenues by the purchase from Edith C. Mathews of the three and five-story buildinge at 534-536 West Thirty-fifth Street, 50 by 98.9 feet. The company owns 526-532, adjoining, and the abutting buildings at 527-537 West Thirty-fourth Street, which they now occupy. With their latest acquisition they control a frontage of 150 feet on each thoroughfare, upon which they plan to erect a structure to house the furniture and lumber companies of H. Herrmann.

To Build on Marble Hill.

The property 126 by 179 feet on the west side of Adrian Avenue, 106 feet north of Terrace View Avenue, Marble Hill, has been sold by George Hotaling as executor of the estate of Kate B. Murray to Anthony Imarata & Sons. The buyers have procured from the New York Title and Mortgage Company a loan of $155,000 for a housing improvement.

SALESMEN
FOR REAL WATERFRONT PROPERTY,
Long Island, North Shore.
An exceptional opportunity for you to make money.

A most beautiful development, unique of its kind, located on the North Shore of Long Island, with waterfrontage of 6,000 feet and 4,000 feet of a wonderful sandy beach. Lots are nearly all within two or three blocks of actual beach or are on the beach.

The property is contiguous to Long Island Railroad Terminal, 36 minutes from Penn Station, New York, with 72 trains daily, part of a town of 14,000 people and between large estates of prominent men, many of them the finest in America.

Improvements and landscaping are actually costing $5,000 per acre and are now two-thirds finished and being hurried to completion.

Prices include all improvements, without any assessments.

Prices are not high but the property is priced to assure a profit. Lots are as low as $1,200 with easy terms. Owners will build 40 houses, of which a number are almost completed. Property is just ready to show, although sales of several hundred thousand dollars are already consummated.

The completed property of only 70 acres with landscaping and improvements and without houses represents an outlay of $1,000,000. We believe this is the most saleable residential property from a home or investment standpoint in the entire East. The owners have unlimited financial resources and are completing all improvements on schedule. They own approximately $30,000,000 worth of property in the same vicinity.

Cooperation includes plentiful leads. In fact, all the leads qualified salesman can handle, assistance in closing and free transportation daily for prospects and salesmen.

Commissions are generous and paid promptly and in full out of first payment of 25 per cent.

We want clean-cut salesmen, ambitious, of good appearance and willing to work and determined to make big money. Real estate experience is desirable but not essential. We are spending approximately $2,500 a week now for leads and are just in the process of organizing a sales force. If you mean business, are willing to put in a real day's work six days a week to make real money on a commission basis, call at once, Room 503, 72 East 41st St.

SALESMEN
WHY HARMON?

HARMON name on real estate is synonymous with "STERLING" on silver—ask anybody.

HARMON salesmen never sell an inferior property—you know that.

HARMON improvements are always the best and are finished first—see for yourself.

HARMON property has never failed to produce big profits, in 26 cities over 40 years, consisting of 218 developments, sold to 100,000 satisfied customers—ask dad, he knows.

HARMON trained men are at the head of most all of our friendly competitors—and we are proud of them.

HARMON salesmen are the best paid and most contented of any sales organization in the world, because they get 100% training and cooperation—ask THEM.

HARMON commissions are never DUE; they are paid at once.

HARMON can use a few real men (experienced or not) to fill new division forming to sell the best located properties in New York City.

? ? WHY HARMON ? ?

SALES PEOPLE, attention to this very important ad. Our method of taking prospects in a de luxe bus, giving them dinners at a fine hotel and returning them to New York all at our expense, has proven a very successful way of selling lots near a marvelous beach for about $200 per lot on small terms; many of our sales people are making the most money they ever made in their lives simply by following our instructions; we need a few more ambitious men, and they can work all Winter in our bus excursion department; the highest commissions are paid promptly, and we furnish the sales managers to close the sale; 42 lots sold last Sunday; see us at once for particulars. Mr. Jackson, Suite 302, at 1,400 Broadway, near 38th St.

I have 4 salesmanagers who have been exceptionally successful in teaching men and women the real estate business and making them producers; each one of these salesmanagers has one or two vacancies due to promotions; to the right kind of man (or woman) this is a fine opportunity; I shall be glad to give my personal time to see that every assistance is given to applicants; let me show you how many of our sales people are making commissions far beyond their expectations.

Postoffice Notices

Postmaster John J. Kiely invites attention to the following announcements by the Post…Department:

The postal administration of the union of the Socialistic Soviet Republics has advised, through the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union, that a large number of newspapers from abroad arrive in that country without address, due to the fact that the wrappers are not strong enough to withstand the long voyage and repeated handlings, and must therefore be sent to the dead letter office by that service; and has requested that publishers use only very strong wrappers and that the address be reproduced on the article itself in order to insure its delivery in case the wrapper is torn off en route.

The postal administration of Mexico has advised this department that the general law for insurance companies was issued in Mexico on May 25, 1926, with the provisions of which insurance companies in the United States transacting business in Mexico must comply, otherwise mail matter for Mexico connected with such transactions will be returned on account of being considered as of fraudulent origin.

WHEN HAIR FALLS—YOUTH FADES

Is your bobbed hair too thin to be pretty?

THICK, live bobbed hair looks young. Thin, lifeless bobbed hair looks old—pitifully old.

You can't buy youth, but you can keep it. You can't hope to have the charm of youthful, beautiful hair if you neglect this crowning feature of youth and beauty.

Many women have found that their hair has become noticeably thin and lifeless after bobbing, and they have set to work to renew their youthful appearance and to revive their hair.

Thousands are now warding off "antiquity" with Sergeant's Mange Medicine. They use Sergeant's regularly, applying it to the scalp and rubbing it in well. It rids the scalp of dandruff, cleans the pores so that new hair can breathe and grow. It stimulates blood-circulation, and removes the causes of falling hair. It is also a delightful hair dressing, adding life and lustre.

Sergeant's Mange Medicine has been the one sure treatment for hair and scalp for fifty years—and now that the odor of tar has been removed there is no reason for most men or women suffering humiliation from thin, unsightly hair.

Sergeant's is sold by leading drug stores, department stores and toilet goods counters. Start now using this effective method of assistance in keeping your youthful appearance. Insist on orange package with red band. Price 75c.

Sergeant's Mange Medicine has been manufactured by Polk Miller Products Corporation, 1324 W. Broad St., Richmond, Va., for more than half a century.

DUELLISTS FIND THEIR FOILS IN SPORTING SHOP

Touché!

Already the victorious cry resounds in many a fencing club. Thrusting and parrying are engaging the attention of swordsmen adept and novice. Ducis are in the making all over town. And nobody is more aware of this than those in charge of the Sporting Goods Shop on the fifth floor at Macy's.

There are the celebrated Soury and Pricur French fencing foils awaiting practitioners of the romantic art. The Soury weapons may be had with bell guards or figure-eight guards at dollars and twenty-four cents, one-sixty-nine, and the Pricur at greater variety from one-seventy to three-forty-four. Masks and trons also are obtainable.

Whether you are lunging guard, you need never be afraid the prices at Macy's for these no wounds.

Gay English Braces Chained Fore and Aft

Since suspenders began being beautiful they have consistently gained support among men who dislike the pressure of a belt. Aesthetically the brace, recently arrived from England, in the Men's Shop on the street floor at Macy's, leave little to be desired. And for trustworthiness they are unassailable, for they attach themselves with bright and strong chains before and behind. Regimental stripes make them gay and colorful, and at four dollars and eighty-nine cents one may have any of these combinations:

Black and white	Red, yellow and blue
Brown and white	Blue, brown, light blue
Orange and black	Red, grey and blue
Blue and yellow	and others.

Other imported and domestic braces exploit moiré, in grey, café au lait, white or blue, and sporting scenes. These cost even less than the chained ones.

DIAZ ASKS OUR AID IN CHECKING MEXICO; WARNING BY KELLOGG

WASHINGTON ACTS QUICKLY

HAS GUN-RUNNING DATA

Bolshevist Hegemony Between the United States and Panama Canal Is Feared.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP).—The menace of a Mexican-fostered Bolshevist hegemony intervening between the United States and the Panama Canal has thrust itself into American-Mexican relations, already strained.

The striking development, which has been lingering near the surface for several weeks, came to light today with an appeal by Adolfo Diaz, new President of Nicaragua, for American intervention to restore peace in that country, and formed the background for a warning by Secretary Kellogg that "interference from outside sources" in Nicaraguan political affairs was viewed with concern in Washington.

President Diaz, immediately upon his recognition by the United States, which was extended today in the form of a note by Lawrence Dennis, American Chargé at Managua, sought American aid against a Liberal revolution, supported by Mexico.

Gun-Running Causes Concern.

While the American Secretary of State did not go beyond "outside sources" in explaining the recognition note on the Nicaraguan head of state, his warning was founded on official reports showing repeated gun-running expeditions from Mexican ports to Nicaragua and Guatemala.

In a statement Mr. Kellogg said he had Diaz's overtures to the Nicaraguan Liberals, in which he promised Liberal amnesty and Cabinet posts and sought cooperation in ending the revolt, would be accepted, as the revolution had created "a condition which has invited further interference from outside sources; a state of affairs which must cause concern to every friend of stability."

Another development in the situation today was a call on President Coolidge by Charles C. Eberhardt, American Minister to Nicaragua, who has been in this country on leave. He will depart for his post soon.

What action the Washington Administration will take on the Diaz request for intervention was not forecast. It had not reached the State Department tonight from Managua. Undoubtedly, however, it affords a basis upon which could be founded employment of American naval forces in Nicaraguan waters to prevent the landing of arms from Mexico for the revolutionists should the Washington Government deem the situation serious enough to warrant that action.

Other Questions Overshadowed.

The developments today served to deepen the reasons for the added seriousness with which Mexican-American relations have been considered here for the last ten days. For the moment, the question of Mexican influence in Central American countries, presumably for the purpose of fostering radical propaganda, and Bolshevist philosophy, has swept off the stage other questions pending between Mexico and the United States, such as the oil and land law and claims controversies.

While there is no sign as yet that radical theories similar to those of the Russian Soviet régime have taken any root hold anywhere in Central America, the Washington Government cannot fail to be deeply concerned as to the purposes of Mexican interference, because of the geographical position of these countries, intervening as they do between the United States and the Panama Canal.

The gun-running ships of which the American Government has knowledge are these:

The steamer Tropical, which loaded arms in a Mexican port, bnt on touching in Salvador was detained until the Mexican Minister intervened. There are indications that this steamer belonged to the Mexican Government or was under its orders.

The steamer Foam, which went from New York to a Mexican port and later proceeded as an armed ship and participated on the Liberal side in the fighting in Nicaragua at Bluefields and Bragmans Bluff.

The steamer Jalisco, owned by the Government-owned Mexican National Lines and apparently commanded by former Mexican naval officers.

The schooners Star and Palonita, the last-named of which was under the Mexican flag. Both carried armed troops and machine guns into Nicaraguan waters.

Secretary Kellogg's Statement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Secretary Kellogg today issued the following statement on American policy toward Nicaragua:

"I am much gratified that a solution has been found for the Nicaraguan political problems which is in accordance with the Constitution of that country and in harmony with the Central American Treaty of 1923.

"When General Chamorro sized the power a year ago it was of course impossible to accord recognition to his

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov 17.—Weddings in Russia will in future be contracted by means of stamps on identity cards, says a Moscow dispatch to The Daily Express.

The Soviet Russian Legislative Assembly, says the dispatch, has endorsed the proposal of the Government to abolish registration of marriages in Russia.

Marriage will now involve only the trouble of going to a marriage commissariat to record marital relations. This will be done on an identity card with stamps, which will cost a few pence. Then people may live in and out of the state of wedlock as frequently as they please.

INDICT 75 IN CHICAGO IN DRY LAW ROUND-UP

A Municipal Judge and Two Police Captains Are Among Those Accused.

CHIEF COLLINS' AIDE NAMED

Federal Grand Jury Finds Wide Plot Among Officials to 'Protect' Bootlegging.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP).—A municipal Judge, two police captains, many minor members of the police force and a number of saloon-keepers of Chicago were indicted today by a Federal Grand Jury on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Seventy-five indictments were returned, and identification of men and women named ranged from the secretary to Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins to "beer needlers."

The indictments followed by several weeks the return of similar writs against seventy-nine officials, police and gangsters of Cicero, turbulent suburb on which Chicago police officials have blamed the difficulty of dry enforcement.

Federal officials did not reveal the nature of charges against Municipal Judge Henry M. Walker, Captain John Prendergast, who is Chief Collins's secretary, and some of the others. Walker, however, attributed his indictment to his liberation of "minor offenders," while Chief of Police Collins, who several weeks ago turned over his records and promised cooperation to the Government, expressed disbelief that the charges against Prendergast were based on fact.

It was a cosmopolitan throng which was named in today's indictments. Frank Rydzewski Jr., son of the Vice President of Chicago's Board of Local Improvements, was accused of arranging protection for saloon-keepers, and several politicians were indicted as his aids. More than a dozen policemen, including two sergeants, were blamed for aiding in protection of saloon keepers.

A former policewoman was charged with having turned alcohol runner. Eight men were identified as "beer needlers." A former Deputy Sheriff was charged with having operated stills. Two proprietors of a prominent South Side restaurant were named, one as a still operator. A bailiff of the Municipal Court was indicted, as was a former bailiff.

Several were identified as former police officers, and were charged with being alcohol peddlers or collectors of graft. The saloon-keepers were identified in the charges as "protected" or as "specially protected." In both groups were several women.

Other indictments named men accused as alcohol dealers and peddlers and as makers of wine. Included among the names were those of "politicians," charged with cognizance of protection and with a hand in arranging it.

The writs alleged four overt acts, charging conspiracy to manufacture, transport and sell liquor and to maintain a public nuisance. Each count enumerates fourteen overt acts. Among these were an alleged tip by a bailiff to saloon-keepers of an impending raid, and a meeting between Rydzewski and Prendergast.

Edwin Olson, Federal District Attorney, announced in making public the indictments that before the law can

PRINCESS IN CRASH IN INDIANA RACE TO JOIN THE QUEEN

NARROW ESCAPE WITH LIFE

Pale and Unnerved, Princess Reaches Indianapolis as City Is Welcoming Her Mother.

QUEEN IGNORANT OF MISHAP

She Worries Over Illness of King in Rumania, Fearing Symptome May Mean Cancer.

New York Times Associated Newspapers.
From a Staff Correspondent.

ON BOARD THE QUEEN OF RUMANIA'S TRAIN, AT INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 17.—Queen Marie arrived in Indianapolis tonight in a drizzling rain, after bidding good-bye to Chicago this noon in a snowstorm, to learn that Princess Ileana, who motored down from Chicago with Prince Nicholas, had been in an automobile collision on the road and had narrowly escaped an accident which might easily have cost the girl her life.

The Princess arrived at about the time the special train was pulling into the Union Station. She went to bed in the suite reserved for the royal family at the Columbia Club. She was suffering from exposure to the near blizzard through which she had driven and from shock at the narrowness of her escape. She was reported to be otherwise unharmed, but this evening was under the care of Miss Adelina Young, the Queen's nurse.

Both the Prince and Princess are enthusiastic and skilful drivers and have piloted their own cars at every opportunity on the present journey. The Princess in a similar motor trip from Bellingham to Seattle in Washington narrowly escaped an accident when an automobile veered into her path. Her quick manoeuvring got her out of the difficulty.

Speeding Over Slippery Roads.

The Prince and the Princess, each in a powerful Stutz roadster, left Chicago at 9 o'clock this morning, more than three hours before their mother's departure by train. They had intended to stop at the Culver Military Academy, at Culver, Ind., where Prince Nicholas was to be made a colonel of the academy. Prince Nicholas was ahead. The Princess followed, driving a car in which were Miss Ida Marr, her companion, and two Culver students, N. D. Knight, regimental commander, and C. C. Culver, a grandson of the founder of the academy.

Before they were well out of the environs of Chicago it began snowing. The Dixie Highway, down which they were motoring, sometimes at a speed of sixty miles an hour, was slippery and dangerous. The snow grew heavier and the driving more difficult as they progressed, but the Princess refused to relinquish the wheel.

At Grant Park, sixty miles south of Chicago, as the Princess's car rounded a curve she met a heavy truck coming from the other direction. Princess Ileana tried to swerve away from it, but the two vehicles shaved each other from end to end, and were a block and a half apart when they were brought to a standstill. Newspaper correspondents, coming along in a car behind, stopped and hurried over to the Princess.

Princess Pale and Shaken.

She had climbed ont of her roadster and was standing, pale and shaken, looking over the damage. A mudguard on the Princess's car was bent and both hub caps were cut off. Another inch would have wrecked the car.

Prince Nicholas heard the crash as his sister's car side-swiped the truck. He stopped his car and hnrried back. He was relieved to find her unhurt.

Meanwhile the truck driver, Adoiph Keefer of Chicago, was standing down the road surveying his own damage. One of his fenders was completely crushed.

"Now, who's going to pay for this?"

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Dominion Prime Ministers who visited the Cardington royal airship works today saw R-101, England's latest airship, which will be, it is claimed, the largest and most powerful airship in the world. It is one of two dirigibles which will be used on experimental flights between India and Australia with the view of establishing a regular service.

The design and details of the construction of the R-101 have been kept secret. The new airship will have a carrying capacity of 100 passengers, ten tons of mail, sleeping cabins with two and four berths, lounges, smoking rooms and dining rooms capable of seating fifty persons at a time, promenade decks on which passengers can stretch their legs, kitchens which can serve seven-course dinners, shower baths, accommodation for dancing and games, and facilities for wireless entertainments which will be provided involuntarily by the countries over which the airship happens to be passing.

Airships hitherto have been based largely on the Zeppelin idea, hut the construction of the R-101 is a complete departure. Stainless steel has been used for the girders and it is said to be stronger for its weight than duralumin. Steel propellers also will be used. Five 600 horsepower engines, each housed in a car slung below the ship, will burn heavy oil instead of gasoline.

The R-101 will be 730 feet long, 130 feet in diameter and 140 feet high. She will be able to fly seventy miles an hour and will cruise at sixty-three miles an hour with a range of 4,000 miles.

It is understood that Premier Bruce of Australia, after inspection of the mooring mast at Cardington, decided to recommend the construction of a similar mast in Australia. This will enable an experimental flight to be made from London to Australia in 1928. Premier Mackenzie King already has announced that Canada will construct a mast for similar purposes.

The Imperial Conference probably will finish its labors early next week. Premier Hertzog, it is understood, desires to leave next Wednesday and every effort will be made to accommodate him.

'KING' PURNELL FREE ON $120,000 BOND

'House of David' Leader at the Benton Harbor Colony Is Held on Girls' Charges.

HE IS NOW OLD AND WEAK

Declines to Discuss His Arrest Which Came After a Search Lasting Three Years.

Special to The New York Times.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Nov. 17.—"King" Benjamin Purnell, fugitive leader of the House of David, who was arrested early this morning in a State police raid on the religious colony at Shiloh, near this city, after a search lasting three years, was released this afternoon on bonds totaling $120,000 and returned to his quarters in the Administration Building of the cult.

A reward of $5,000 for Purnell's arrest has been standing since the Grand Jury inquiry into charges against him in 1923.

The raid on the colony and the arrest of the 68-year-old cult leader followed disclosures made by a young woman once a member of the colony. She formerly was Bessie Daniels, but is now Mrs. Emerald Woodworth, wife of a musician of Benton Harbor. She led the police to Purnell's hiding place.

"Yes, that is he," she cried; "I'll never forget him," and burst out weeping as she made identification of the fugitive positive.

Hustled to the Berrien County Jail, neither Purnell nor any of his aids or high colony officials offered resistance. At the jail Benjamin did not talk, but sat with eyes on the floor throughout the rest of the night.

Officials of the colony and the colony counsel, W. J. Barnard and H. T. De Whirst, sought frantically to obtain bail of $50,000 demanded for the release of Purnell. During the night the $200,000 hotel building in the heart of Benton Harbor's business district was deeded to Frank Rosetta and Edith Meldrum, two House of David members, by the House of David Association.

First Bond Found Invalid.

The bond was accepted after Purnell's arraignment early this forenoon in Justice Elizabeth Forhan's Court, Benton Harbor, and the "King" was free to go to the colony again, in the custody of Chief Deputy A. L. Von Gar.

Later, however, this bond was found to be invalid. Purnell, a broken, gray-haired man, the ghost of his former debonair person, was then rearrested, jailed and photographed. His new bond was signed by seven prominent business men of Benton Harbor, including two former Mayors of the city, whose total estimated wealth runs over $3,000,00. These men have vouched for the cult ruler's appearance in court Dec. 22.

Circuit Court Judge C. E. White and Prosecutor George Bookwalter have taken every precaution to insure Purnell's presence when required.

The final bond bore the following signatures: John R. Price, wholesale grocer; Supervisor L. F. Sutherland; D. B. Sntherland, former Mayor and present City Commissioner; C. O. Brown, coal dealer; J. J. Miller, former Mayor; E. L. Smith, real estate dealer, and Charles A. Conkey, grocer.

Two Sisters Made Accusations.

Four warrants were issued against Purnell. Two allege statutory offenses, growing out of charges made by the sisters, Gladys Bamford Rnbel and Ruth Bamford Reed. For this a bond of $50,000 each was asked. On the two warrants in the girls' civil suit for $100,000 the Court fixed bail at $10,000 each, making a total of $120,000 required to insure Purnell's appearance next month in what is expected to bs the most sensational trial in the history of Berrien County.

For the last three months Purnell is said to have been in seclusion on the colony grounds, in company with his wife, "Queen Mary."

Purnell is a wreck of his former self, and had to be carried to the automobile taking him to ths jail. He faced the cameras with nonchalance, however, and "Queen" Mary's face held a proud expression. She refused to talk. Francis Thorpe, aid of Benjamin, was by his side with a throng of cult members.

Purnell, gaunt, long-haired and bewhiskered, founded the colony in 1903, having left Kentucky, preaching the doctrine that he was tha brother of the Saviour and that those who followed his teaching would be immortal.

BROADWAY BEGINS TERCENTENARY FETE

Street Is Gayly Decked to Mark City's 300th Birthday and Its Own Development.

CEREMONY AT THE BATTERY

Guns Boom at Governors Island —Gen. Summerall Recalls Broadway in Early Days.

Broadway was all dressed up in holiday colors yesterday in commemoration of the tercentenary of the founding of New York. Shop windows blazed last night with more than the wonted display of lights, many of them were given over to decorations, and the lamp-posts supported new yellow globes that gilded the edges of the famous street. Banners beseeching New York to give thought to Broadway hung below them.

There wasn't much excitement in the street over the celebration. Traffic policemen, in anticipation of crowds that might rival election night, were stationed along curbs, but the crowd was no larger than the usual midweek theatre crowd, and the policemen were merely interested in observing at leisure the millinery and costumes which lend color to New York's avenus of pleasure in the evening.

Ceremony at Battery.

The opening of the celebration was at the Battery at noon. Guns on Governors Island saluted while a flag was raised in Battery Park. The Sixteenth Infantry Band played, and there were speeches by Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, commander of the Second Corps Area; William B. Roulstone, founder of the Battery Park Association; William Hamlin Childs, President of the association, and Lee J. Eastman, President of the Broadway Association, which organized the celebration.

General Summerall reviewed the historic events which had taken place at the Battery and Bowling Green, and spoke particularly of the military operations which had centred around the lower end of the city from the early Dutch days.

"The military arm of our Government has always preceded our civilization," he said. "And it was the military arm which gained a foothold on this spot 300 years ago."

Mr. Eastman praised Broadway as the greatest street in the world, and said that judging from the amazing changes which had taken place along it during the first 300 years no imagination could conceive of the changes which might take place in the next 100 years. Mr. Roulstone spoke of the skyscrapers which lined Broadway and differed with those who blamed the high buildings for the traffic congestion. He said he believed that the plans of Governor Smith and August Heckscher to do away with tenements and huild better apartments on the east side would do much to relieve the subway congestion.

"If these apartments are filled with people who are within walking distance of their work, much will be done toward relieving the snhways," he said.

Luncheon After Flag Raising.

The flag raising was foliowed hy a luncheon to the officers of the Broadway Association given by the American Surety Company in the company's restaurant at 100 Broadway.

"Consider how impossible it was for those who huilt the wall a few feet to the south of us 300 years ago to realise that that site would become the financial centre of the world," said R. R. Brown, President of the company, at the luncheon. "What is now Wali Street was then merely a primitive thoroughfare within the stockade, and men of the colony seldom ventured beyond it exeept to trade with the Indians and to hunt in the forests to the north.

"When the British occupied the colony in 1664, streets were laid out north of the wall, the first two being known as King Street and Queen Street. And so the first uptown residential development began. What is now Broadway was known as 'Church Walk' because the plot to the west had been granted to Trinity Church. The upper end of the walk was called the Mali and laid out in imitation of Pali Mali, London. In it the English band gave concerts and it became a fashionable promenade.

"Bowling Green was then the business centre of the colony, but gradually the uptown trend continued. Low buildings for lawyers, merchants and bankers began to appear. Shops com-

WALLIS IS ASSAILED AS MAN RESPONSIBLE FOR TOMBS TRAGEDY

Martin McCue, a Tammany Leader, Says He Is as Guilty as Men Who Shot Officers.

CHARGES NEGLECT OF DUTY

He Tells Aldermanic Committee 'Connivery to Make Room for Favcrites' Led to Deaths.

PRISONER GIVES TESTIMONY

Hyman Amberg, ringleader of the attempted jailbreak at the Tombs on Nov. 3, was treated "like the Prince of Wales" by Tombs keepers, according to A. J. Friedman, a prisonsr in the Tombs, who has been questioned by the police investigators who are preparing the evidence which was being presented to the Grand Jury yesterday to ascertain responsibility for the attempted break.

In a sensational speech before the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen at City Hall, Martin G. McCue, Tammany district leader and Clerk of the Surrogates' Court, charged that Commissioner of Correction Frederick A. Wallis had caused the jailbreak by disrupting the Tombs service in order to make room for his favorites. This statement was challenged at the hearing by Robert L. Tudor, Deputy Commissioner under Wallis.

Friedman, who was a former rubber in a Turkish bath, and a prisoner in the Tombs when Amberg was there, alleged that keepers led Amberg from his cell on many occasions to meet a woman visitor in the counsel chamber. A highly successful bandit and the murderer of Aaron Rudeck, Amberg always had a large roll of bills in his cell and was generous in "tipping," according to Friedman.

Original Plan Went Wrong.

Friedman said the escape had been planned to take place on the Monday preceding election day. The scheme, according to Friedman, who said that he was in the confidence of Amberg, was for the three men to dash from the Tombs yard when the gates were opened to admit the van. Arrangements had been made, he said, to have Amberg and his pals in the prison yard at the time, but something happened to render this impossible. Friedman asserted that Amberg was allowed to violate prison rules right and left, to consort with other prisoners and to go wherever he wished.

Another witness questioned by Inspector Arthur Carey, head of the Homicide Squad, directly contradicted the story of Keeper Louis Lorch. Lorch said he was at the front entrance when the three prisoners rushed at him and tried, with pistols aimed at him, to compel him to open the gate. Lorch said he answered with oaths, drew the key from the lock and defied them. He added that they shot at him and missed.

The story of Lorch, who has been transferred from the Tombs to Welfare Island, is contradicted by a traveling salesman who was in the Tombs at the time. This witness asserts that Lorch was not at the prison entrance at all. The salesman said that, having finished his business with Warden Mallon, he was waiting at the entrance for Lorch to come and open it when the bandits came rushing toward him. They made him throw up his hands. Lorch, he said, was in the rear of the prison tying up a package, and his accidental absence from his post frustrated the scheme for a getaway through the main entrance.

McCue Attacks Commissioner.

The attack of Martin McCue on Commissioner Wallis took place as Mr. McCue was arguing in favor of the elimination from the budget of maintenance charges for Sidney Brewster, an employe of the Department of Correction. Mr. McCue alleged that Brewster worked as a clerk at the headquarters of the Department of Correction and that the charge for maintenance was based on the false as-

MRS. GIBSON WILL TESTIFY IN HALL-MILLS TRIAL TODAY; SIGNS WAIVER FOR HOSPITAL

Says His Fee Was $41 to Kill Mexican Deputy; Plot Fails

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17 (AP).—His price for accepting a commission to murder a member of Congress was 85 pesos (about $41) Sebastian Gonzales Chaves today told police when arrested on a charge of attempting to kill Deputy Marcelos Mejia of the State of Oaxaca.

Chaves told the authorities that another Congressman had hired him to kill Mejia, paying 75 pesos on account and promising ten more when the joh was done.

ASK CITY NOT TO TAX MODEL TENEMENTS

Advocates of State Project Urge Mayor to Lift Final Obstacle to the Program.

HECKSCHER'S PLAN PRESSED

Philanthropy on Large Scale Is Needed, He Says — Walker Encourages Him.

Darwin P. James, Chairman of the State Housing Commission, pleaded yesterday with Mayor Walker and his City Planning and Survey Committee to grant municipal tax exemption to housing improvements by the new limited dividend corporations recently authorised under Governor Smith's housing plan.

Lack of such exemption, Mr. James told the Mayor, was almost the last obstacle in the way before the limited dividend corporations could become organised and begin tearing down parts of New York City's slums. Mayor Walker assured him that a decision would soon be reached by the City Housing, Zoning and Distribution Committee, which is a subdivision of the Survey Commission of 472 men and women appointed several months ago.

Members of the Mayor's committee and others interested in housing relief discussed the problem yesterday at a luncheon at the Bankers Club, 120 Broadway. August Heckscher, philanthropist and real estate operator, was there to tell of his recent trip to Europe and to explain his plan of housing relief—of spending half a billion dollars provided by wealthy men to wipe out the slums in their entirety. Walter Stabler, housing expert of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, told of the success of individual limited dividend corporations which have already started operations, independent of State action.

Divergent Views Expressed.

Disagreements cropped up several times between Mr. Heckscher, who advocates philanthropic housing relief, and the advocates of Governor Smith's plan. At the end of the luncheon, however, it was felt that all forces interested in housing relief would soon be brought together and would work under the limited dividend corporations authorized by the State enactment. These companies will undertake housing relief with private capital, with a small specified return allowed on their investment.

"Before Mr. Heckscher went to Europe," Mayor Walker said, "he made a proposition to take two or three city blocks and erect model apartments on them. When he returned he had another and larger proposition. I don't mind saying that I was so attracted by his original plan that I am asking him now if he won't be the pioneer—the man to lead the way. I am confident that if he started on one or two or three city blocks there are ever so many others who would follow.

"By that I do not mean that the city should not take an active part; but that is still in a controversial stage. The decisive punch will come from the fact that some fellow—and you are the fellow to do it," said the Mayor, patting Mr. Heckscher on the shoulder—"will go out and do this thing alone.

NURSES TO BE IN COURT

Simpson Threatens to Seize Chief Witness if Necessary.

SHE DECLARES SHE IS READY

Still Too Weak to Sit Up in Bed —Will Be Carried to Stand on a Stretcher.

DEFENSE TO ASSAIL STORY

All Defendants to Testify—100 Subpoenaed—Trial May Go On Two Weeks.

Mrs. Jane Gibson will take the stand this morning when the Hall-Mills trial is resumed at Somerville, N. J. All doubt of that was ended last night when she signed a form releasing the Jersey City Hospital from all responsibility for any risk involved in her trip from the hospital to the courtroom.

Throughout the day the physicians and Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson had been at loggerheads on whether the "pig woman" would appear to tell her story of the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills. The doctors insisted that her illness prohibited the thirty-mile trip in an ambulance. The special prosecutor took another view.

He maintained that her testimony was the keystone of his case against Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry Stevens and Willie Stevens. He threatened that if the physicians held his witness in her private ward he would apply to Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker and Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Cleary for a writ of habeas corpus, and dispatch two motorcycle policemen to serve the mandate on the physicians.

Investigators at Her Bedside.

Even this threat failed to move the doctors. Early last night the prosecutor sent two of his investigators to interview Mrs. Gibson. They were Inspector John J. Underwood and Captain Harry Walsh. The two officers walked over to the bedside of the alleged eyewitness of the murders. The marcel wave she had acquired for her appearance in court two weeks ago, when she collapsed from the effect of cancer and kidney disease, had vanished. Her head, heavy features were white and her eyes sunken and weary.

She smiled at the visitors, however, and her voice appeared to be strong. Unable to rise from the bed, even to a sitting position, Mrs. Gibson talked briefly to the men. They asked her whether she thought she would be able to testify today.

"I can testify," she said, "and I want to."

Inspector Underwood cautioned her that the physicians took a rather pessimistic view of her condition, and added that if she made the trip it would be at her own risk. Mrs. Gibson held to her determination and finally the authorities of the hospital prepared a formal release, which she signed. It was as follows:

I, Jane Gibson, on the 17th of November, 1926, do hereby leave the Jersey City Hospital; do refuse treatment at the Jersey City Hospital, against the advice of the physicians and surgeons in charge, and do hereby release said hospital from responsibility of any results following such action on my part.

Physician to Be in Court.

Inspector Underwood, when his attention was directed to the fact that the release specified last night as the time of leaving, denied that she would be removed before 7:30 A. M. today. He said that he and Captain Walsh would ride with Mrs. Gibson in an ambulance of the hospital. A physician and two white-clad nurses will accompany Mrs. Gibson into the courtroom. They will remain near by, ready for any emergency, while the witness testifies from a stretcher.

Senator Simpson said last night that Mrs. Gibson's condition had shown a distinct improvement in the last few days and that as late as 5 o'clock yesterday evening, T. J. Golden, assistant superintendent of the hospital, had told him that it "would be perfectly all right for Mrs. Gibson to make the trip." The Senator said that Mrs. Gibson's temperature during the day hours had remained at 100, rising to 101 with the approach of night.

"I am feeling better tonight than I have felt at any time since I became sick," Inspector Underwood quoted Mrs. Gibson as saying. "I am anxious to testify and I am ready for it tomorrow."

Inspector Underwood said that Dr. Charles Snyder, of the hospital staff, would make the trip with Mrs. Gibson, as would also Mrs. Gibson's 3-year-old daughter, June Gibson.

"I talked to Mrs. Gibson for about half an hour," added the Inspector, "and she manifested keen interest in the progress of the trial. She told me that she had been reading the newspaper accounts of it when she was permitted to have the papers and has been greatly heartened by letters which persone have sent to her.

Some Send Her Flowers.

"She has received about twenty letters, chiefly from women, commending her spirit and courage, and expressing

Senator Shipstead to Hold a Lone Caucus To Decide Course as Balance of Power

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, the lone Farmer-Labor member of the Senate, announced this afternoon that he expected at an early date to hold a cancus with himself, at which time he would try to work out his program for the Seventieth Congress, in the Senate of which he will exercise a balance of power. If he votes with the Republicans they will—provided the radicals "stand hitched"—have a majority. If he votes with the Democrats the line-up will be a tie of 48 to 48, and then Vice President Dawes will be the deciding power.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, now President pro tempore of the Senate, said the other day that in the next Senate the most powerful and also the most popular member would be the Farmer-Labor Party's only Senator.

Rumor has it that as the Farmer-Labor Party has ceased to exist Mr. Shipstead might line up with one of the old parties, probably the Republican, but so far the Senator has failed to confirm any rumors. If he turns Republican he will be welcomed into the camp of the "Old Guard." If he stays radical and progressive he can still count on the support of his brotber radicals of the Republican wing of the Senate membership.

"I have not made up my mind as to what my course will be as 'balance of power' Senator," said Mr. Shipstead today. "However, I will say that to date I have not experienced any thrills as a result of the position I happen to find myself in. I guess I will have to hold a caucus."

In fact the balance of power that Mr. Shipstead can exert will depend on the attitude assumed in the next Senate by the radical progressives, Senators Frazier and Nye of North Dakota, La Follette and Blaine of Wisconsin, and Norris and Howell of Nebraska. Only when those six Senators stand with the party will Mr. Shipstead be in a position to bring about a tie. That this sextet will not bow to party discipline is considered certain by the regular old line Senators on both sides of the Senate political aisle.

The only thing about the next Senate that appears at all certain is that the forty-seven Democratic members will stand as a unit more often than will the regular and "on paper" Republicans.

Judge Gives Life Term, but Voices Regret; Baumes Law Compels It, He Tells Taxi Thief

Expressing disagreement with the new Baumes law, Judge William Allen, in General Sessions, yesterday increased the sentence of eighteen months' imprisonment in Sing Sing, which he previously had imposed on Frank Redding, a negro taxicab thief, to a life term, because of three previous minor felony convictions in the last sixteen years.

Redding was sentenced to Sing Sing on Sept. 30. When he arrived at the prison, Warden Lawes, through fingerprints, learned that the prisoner in 1910 was sentenced in Swathmore, Pa., for burglary and that in 1924 and 1925 he was arreeted in taxicabs which he had stolen while under the influence of liquor. The Warden sent Redding back to Judge Allen for resentence as a habitual criminal under the Baumes law, which went into effect July 1, and the Judge requested Edwin J. Cooley, head of the Catholic Charities Probation Bureau, to make an investigation and report at the man's arraignment yesterday.

"You may be what is termed a habitual criminal," said Judge Allen to the prisoner, after reading the report, "bnt you do not seem to be of a vicious nature. You're not a hodl-up man, nor is it recorded that you ever resorted to burglary or robbery in this city. I am very sorry, but I am compelled to revoke the previous sentence I imposed and resentence you under the Baumes laws.

"Some people may say that you had your opportunity and should have known better than to get into trouble again after your experience in Swarthmore. Well, you did seem to keep out of trouble from 1910 to 1924, and probably you got into troubie then because you had been drinking. However, the case comes squarely under the Baumes laws, and I must sentence you to State's prison for the term of your natural life."

"I am going to ask Louis Fabricant of Fabricant & Collings, the volnntary defenders, to place this case on their docket for future consideration. My sentence of this defendant on Sept. 30 last showed clearly wbat I thought the offense deserved in the way of punishment. If I had known about this Swarthmore case, I might have given Redding a little heavier sentence, bnt I am not sure I would have done so had there been no Baumes laws in existence. I rather think there will be a number of cases similar to this which will come up for consideration at some future time."

the hope that she may have a speedy recovery. In addition, a number of persons have sent flowers to her so that her room on the second floor of the hospital is fragrant with flowers. Roses, which she told me were her favorite flower, predominate. She expects that we will let her take some roses into the court room tomorrow.

"One of the women who wrote to her lives in Oswego, N. Y., and at the time she sent the letter this woman telegraphed flowers to Mrs. Gibson. A number of Jersey City residents have sent gifts to her, of one kind or the other. Mrs. Gibson asks that her gratitude be expressed through the newspapers to the persons who have been wishing her well."

The ambulance containing the patient-witness will be convoyed by two automobiles containing State investigators. Captain Walsh and several Jersey City detectives will be in one, and in the other will be Lieutenant Walter S. Cieculch, Captain John Torpy and Detective Sergeant Richard O'Neill. The route will be from Jersey City to Newark and thence through Elizabeth, Scotch Plains, Bound Brook and to Somerville. The ambulance is expected to be an hour and a half on the road.

Examination to Be Severe.

Senator Simpson said that he thought his direct examination of the witness would not take longer than twenty-five or thirty minutes. He will then turn her over to Robert H. McCarter, chief of the defense attorneys, for cross-examination. The defense has let it be known that the cross-examination of Mrs. Gibson will be exceptionally severe. While the attorneys may have some personal scruple against subjecting a witness presumably as ill as Mrs. Gibson to a strenuous examination, they will be supported by the knowledge that if she can tell her story, with its dire accusation against Mrs. Hall and her brothers, she can stand examination as to whether that story is true or false.

In addition, the attorneys say that by their duty to their clients they are charged with a solemn obligation to inquire searchingly into Mrs. Gibson's narrative, which has varied, according to their information. She has sworn that she saw Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, also accused of the crime but is to be tried alone later, with a "glittering thing" in his hand, and that one shot and then three others rang out immediately afterward. She picked Mr. Carpender out in court as the man with the "glittering thing" in his hand. She is now reported to have identified Henry Stevens as the man with the "glittering" object. She has also sworn that when she rode Jenny, her mule, back through the darkness of the Phillips farm on the night of Sept. 14, 1922—making her second trip in quest of nocturnal thieves—she saw Willie Stevens and Mrs. Hall, the widow, bending over something beneath the crabapple tree and weeping.

Had Testified Last August.

Mrs. Gibson told her story and made her identification of Mr. Carpender, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, at a hearing in Somerville in August. She was then cross-examined by Timony N. Pfeiffer of defense counsel, but stuck to her story. Mr. Pfeiffer, however, apparently sensing that a trial would follow, did not pursue his examination with the fire and the thoroughness which Mr. McCarter is expected to display this morning.

The signatures of Mrs. Gibson to the release closed a singular situation, with Senator Simpson seemingly at an impasse in his effort to get his principal witness to the stand. When court adjourned on Tuesday until 10 A. M. today the recess was taken on the statement of the prosecutor that he had been advised that Mrs. Gibson would be well enough to appear. Even then the hospital authorities appeared not at all certain that the State would be able to carry out its program.

Reporters who sought light on the condition of Mrs. Gibson at the hospital encountered a curious snarl of contradictions and a dearth of positive statements. Several physicians conferred on the patient's condition, and an attaché of the hospital announcing that there would be no formal bulletins on her illness during the day, made this cryptic announcement:

"Mrs. Gibson will not leave the hospital today. A further bulletin will be issued in the morning."

When Senator Simpson was informed that it appeared as if he would be minus his witness today he seemed annoyed. He said that the information the newspaper men had was at variance with the information he had, and he added that if necessary he would resort to a writ to produce his witness.

Mayor Hague at Hospital.

In the afternoon Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City visited the hospital, which is a pet project of his Administration. He told reporters he was there merely on one of his regular visits and that he did not plan to visit Mrs. Gibson. He said he understood that she was doing well and that she had eaten three meals on Tuesday, the first return to a regular régime. The Mayor talked to the administrative officers of the hospital and had luncheon there before leaving.

The defense attorneys were disinclined to comment last night on Mrs. Gibson or their plans for the defense, which is expected to open tomorrow. Mr. Pfeiffer contented himself with:

"I certainly hope Mrs. Gibson-Easton goes to the stand tomorrow, as we want to get the trial over with."

It was learned that the defense has subpoenaed nearly 100 witnesses, and this indication of the thoroughness of the effort to rebut the State's evidence led to a prediction that the lawyers for both sides would not be ready for summing up before the first week in December. Defense counsel, it was learned, do not expect that the jury will be sent out before the first of December.

Defendants to Testify.

The defendants will testify in their own behalf. Mrs. W. G. Bearman, a cousin of Mrs. Hall, said that Mrs. Hall was very desirous of appearing on the stand in spite of the fact that ever since the murder she has avoided publicity. Now that she is on trial, friends said, she is perfectly willing to appear on the stand.

Other members of the Hall-Carpender clan who may be called to the stand include the cousins, Edwin and Sydney Carpender, and members of their families; Mrs. Henry Carpender, whose husband is in the Somerset Jail awaiting trial on the same charge, and Mrs. Henry Stevens.

Captain James Mason, head of the Essex County detectives, who assisted Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott when he superseded the Somerset County authorities in the investigation four years ago, is another who will testify. Mason, it was learned, questioned Mrs. Gibson in 1922 and, according to one informant, is ready to go on the stand and testify that in her earlier stories the "pig woman" insisted that she saw only two persons on the Phillips farm and in De Russey's Lane on the night of the murder.

This version differs substantially from the tale she is expected to tell today which places the brothers and Mrs. Hall, as well as Henry Carpender, at the scene of the murder.

May Call Prosecutor.

For another witness it was learned the defense may reach into the prosecution itself. Lawyers for Mrs. Hall would like to know who went first to Prosecutor Francis Bergen of Somerset County with the information that led him to order the arrest of Mrs. Hall at midnight on Aug. 28. Prosecutor Bergen spent the afternoon of the day of Mrs. Hall's arrest in conference with State police and Jersey City detectives.

According to one story, which Mr. Bergen denied when he signed the order for the warrant, he did not know that the arrest was to be made at midnight. Why the arrest was so ordered and whose influence was responsible for the choosing of the midnight hour, are facts which the defense considers relevant and which they hope may be cleared up by calling the youthful prosecutor as their witness.

Three fingerprint experts will be called by the defense. One will be J. H. Taylor, expert of the Navy and War Departments, considered by many as the foremost authority in America on identification and fingerprints.

The defense will back its case with carefully prepared maps, not only of De Russey's Lane, Easton Avenue, the Phillips farm and environs, but also of New Brunswick. Surveyors from the officee of R. P. Wilson of New Brunswick took measurements today of the home of James Mills. They admitted that they were working for the defense, and said that they were "locating" the home of James Mills.

The maps will also show the location of the crabapple tree, the stumps where Mrs. Gibson has asserted she tied her mule, the cedar stump behind which she hid when, according to her story, she returned to the scene of the murder; her home on Hamilton Avenue, and the routes she declared she took to get to the Phillips farm.

Drawings of Dixon Home.

Drawings have also been prepared to show the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dixon in North Plainfield. The Dixons testified that a man whom they identified as Willie Stevens called at their home about 8:30 on the night of the murder and asked to be directed to the "Parker house." The Parker home in New Brunswick is on Easton Avenue, opposite the Phillips farm, and about fifty yards from the entrance to De Russey's Lane.

Members of the Carpender family were somewhat disturbed last night when they received early reports that Mrs. Gibson's condition might not warrant her appearance as a witness. They are, of course, frankly skeptical and believe that Mrs. Gibson as a witness will prove a boomerang to the prosecution. They say they cannot see how she can reconcile her identification of Willie Stevens and Henry Carpender as being in the lane with Mrs. Hall to her present story, which includes Henry Stevens as also there.

Mrs. Hall spent the day quietly at home except for a short motor ride to the home of her aged cousin, Mrs. David Murray, on Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick. Mrs. Murray, who is 94 years old, was at the home of Mrs. Hall on the night of her arrest. She is the widow of David Murray, the educator who introduced Western methods of education in Japan many years ago and is credited with being the pioneer in this field.

After a short call on her cousin Mrs. Hall returned to her home. She received a number of callers, among them Mrs. Bearman and Katherine and Alice Carpender, the two small daughters of Mrs. Edwin Carpender, who are daily visitors at the Hall home.

Trial Bores Henry Stevens.

In Somerville, it developed that Henry Stevens is "bored" with the trial. Stevens, an expert rifleman, conducted a trapshooting gallery for the Dupont Company on the Atlantic City Million Dollar Pier some years ago. He has chafed under his imprisonment while the fishing and hunting seasons are in full swing.

"Henry," said his wife yesterday, "is bored. He cannot see why there should be such interminable quibbling over irrelevant details. He can't see what many of the points that are brought out have to do with the case. In addition to that, he cannot hear what is going on half of the time."

Mrs. Stevens sits near her husband in the court room. Immediately in front of her are Mrs. Hall and next to the widow, Willie Stevens. They are on the far side of the room from the witness stand and the seats of the jury, and, she added, "all of us have difficulty in hearing the testimony."

Injury Keeps Hall Witness in Bed.

Peter Sommers, a fingerprint expert formerly employed by Felix De Martini, an investigator in the Hall-Mills case, was kept in bed yesterday at his home, 459 Pulaski Street, Brooklyn, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident a few hours after he had testified at Somerville. It was said he would not be able to go out for a fortnight.

DECLARE 'SLUSH FUND' A REPUBLICAN PROBLEM

Democrats Point Out That Only 12 of 46 Newberry Backers Remain in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP).—Incidentally calling attention to prospective contests over the seating of Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania as Republican members of the Senate, the Democratic National Committee sent out a statement today recording that only twelve of the forty-six Senators who voted to seat Truman H. Newberry of Michigan would remain in office after March 4 next.

"Vare of Pennsylvania and Smith of Illinois, whose campaigns present a new 'slush' fund problem, received small majorities in the recent election by comparison with past Republican figures," said the statement. "A contest is in prospect similar to that over the seating of Newberry. The G. O. P., which has the animal for an emblem, now has a white elephant on its haude."

PICKS FOUR AS SLAYERS.

Driver of Robbers' Car Points Out Alleged Gunmen in Court.

Testifying yesterday in Newark as the first witness in the trial of four men charged with the murder of George Condit, an aged payroll messenger for the Reid Ice Cream Company, in a hold-up in Newark on July 19, Robert Boudreau of Newark, confessed driver of the robbers' car, identified the four defendants as participants in the crime.

The men on trial are "Big Joe" Juliano, "Little Joe" Juliano, Louis Capozi and Christy Barone. Boudreau left the stand during his testimony to walk up to each defendant and point him out as a member of the murder band. He described the hold-up in detail.

It was brought out that Boudreau had previously served a jail sentence for robbery and counsel for the defense forced him to admit that he was giving evidence for the prosecution in the hope of escaping death in the electric chair as an accomplice.

The trial will go on today.

New Embassy for Spain Here.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Spanish Embassy is to be removed to "Embassy Row" in Sixteenth Street, in accordance with orders from the Foreign Minister at Madrid, it was announced here today. An appropriation of $230,000 has been allowed for the purchase of ground on which the new structure will be built.

MAJESTIC IN LATE; MET GALE AND SNOW

Has 524 First-Cabin Passengers, Including W. D. Burden, Captor of 'Dragon' Lizards.

SIR JOHN LAVERY ARRIVES

Will Show Portraits of Americans—The Rev. Dr. G. C. Morgan Home for Preaching Tour.

The White Star liner Majestic arrived yesterday from Southampton via Cherbourg, twenty-four hours late because of bad weather. It was the third time since she entered the New York service five years ago that she had been delayed.

Captain George R. Metcalfe, R. N. R., master of the ship, said there was a gale blowing when she left Cherbourg and that it increased so that on Saturday the ship's speed had to be reduced to ten knots. On Sunday, at church time, snow squalls made it impossible to see the crow's-nest from the bridge. The only fine day was last Tuesday, Captain Metcalfe said.

Among the 524 passengers in the first cabin of the Majestic were Mr. and Mrs. William Douglas Burden, who explored the island of Komodo in the Dutch East Indies and captured three "dragon" lizards, two of which were sent to the zoological park in the Bronx and one to Amsterdam. Mr. Burden said they left New York nine months ago and went first to Peking. With the valuable assistance of Mrs. Burden, he said, he had collected 3,000 specimens of birds, animals, insects, fish and plants, most of which had been shipped to the American Museum of Natural History.

The Rev. Dr. G. Campbell Morgan returned on the Majestic with his wife and their daughter, Kathleen, after spending four months in England and Wales. He said he was going to their home in Athens, Ga., and then to Nashville, Tenn., where he would start a preaching tour of the United States on next Sunday, remaining there a week.

Sir John Lavery, painter, arrived with Lady Lavery and fifteen portraits of noted Americans. He will exhibit the portraits in the Duveen Art Galleries next month. Among them are paintings of Mrs. Hamilton Rice, Edward Martyn of Chicago, Sir John's father-in-law, Mrs. Vance McCormick of Philadelphia and Mrs. Harold Pratt of New York. After spending six weeks at the Plaza Hotel Sir John and Lady Lavery will go to Palm Beach, to remain until March. "The atmosphere of New York is too exhilarating for a man of my age," Sir John explained. "I have only a certain amount of vitality, and I use more of it up in one month in New York than I would do in a year in quiet old England."

Richard Wyndham, one of the younger school of advanced British painters, also arrived. He brought fifteen water-color landscapes of scenes in Spain and Italy for exhibition in the Anderson Galleries. He was accompanied by Captain Oswald Sitwell, described as "poet, playwright and the wittiest writer in Great Britain." Captain Sitwell is here to write about the manners of Americans and their mode of living.

The Majestic brought a total of 1,150 passengers and 8,000 sacks of mail.

COL. FERRARA NAMED CUBAN AMBASSADOR

He Succeeds Dr. Aballi, Who Resigns—Senor Cespedes Quits as Secretary of State.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Nov. 17.—The resignation of Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, Secretary of State, and former Ambassador at Washington, was accepted by President Machado today. The Executive made the announcement at a Cabinet meeting, at the same time appointing Rafael Martinez Ortiz, Cuban Minister at Paris, to take the vacant portfolio. Señor Cespedes will take charge of the legation in Paris.

Doctor Antonio Sanchez Bustamente, a member of the Permanent Board of Arbitration at The Hague, will be Special Counselor of the State Department.

HAVANA, Nov. 17.—Colonel Orestes Ferrara was appointed Cuban Ambassador to the United States today. He succeeds Dr. Rafael Sanchez Aballi, who resigned.

President Machado authorized the announcement of Colonel Ferrara's appointment after he had accepted the resignation of Ambassador Aballi, who has held the post at Washington for nearly two years.

Colonel Orestes Ferrara, Liberal leader and former Speaker of the Cuban House of Representatives, has taken a leading part in Cuban affairs for the last twenty years. In the diplomatic break between Cuba and Uruguay, which has just been settled, it was he, representing his country as delegate to the League of Nations, that took Alfredo Guani, Uruguayan delegate, to task for remarks considered derogatory to Cuba's dignity. He is at present on a special mission to Brazil.

Colonel Ferrara has been in the United States on several missions at various times and spent some time in Washington in 1917 as the representative of a faction opposing the Menocal Government.

HUNT FOR PROBST GOES ON.

Searchers Fail to Find Elizebeth Men Lost in Catskills.

CATSKILL, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP).—Under-Sheriff Steenburgh and two State troopers returned here tonight without finding Edwin Probst, Elizabeth (N. J.) trapper, who has been lost in the Catskill Mountain preserve since Sunday.

The men completed a search of one part of the preserve and planned to cover another section tomorrow with helpers from Hensonville, where Probst had been living because of his health.

Probst had been following his trap line daily for many weeks, and it is not thought by his friends that he could have become lost on a well-known path.

The generally accepted theory is that he may have been seized with a sudden illness and fallen into a crevice or ravine.

Contract for Herding Memorial.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Nov. 17.—Contract for the construction of the memorial to President and Mrs. Warren G. Harding was let here today to E. Elford of Columbus, Ohio, and the Presby-Leiaud Compnny of New York, on a combined bid of $470,000. The contract calls for Georgia marble.

School for Soldiers' Children Opens on Governors Island

The first school on Governors Island was opened yesterday. The children of officers and enlisted men paraded in front of the building, while the flag was run up and the Sixteenth Infantry Band played "The Star-Spangled Banner, and then filed into their classes.

The establishment of the school ends the fight waged by army officers to persuade the Board of Education that Governors Island is within their jurisdiction. For many years the board has held that the island was a Government reservation and not within the bounds of the city. By agreement, the board will provide teachers, books and supplies, while the army will supply building, heat, light and janitor service.

Miss Nora O'Connor and Miss Arlene L. Lenie were assigned to the school, which is known as the Annex to Public School 29.

COURT IN CHICAGO ACTS IN BROADCAST CHAOS

Judge Orders WGES Not to Block WGN Pending Supreme Court Ruling on Air Rights.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP).—Radio Station WGES was directed yesterday by Circuit Judge Francis Wilson to broadcast on wave lengths which "will not materially interfere" with the broadcasting of WGN, pending a Supreme Court decision on radio air rights.

WGN, the station of The Chicago Tribune, sought to enjoin WGES from broadcasting on a wave within 40 meters of its own, claiming interference with its programs and asserting its priority in the use of that air zone.

The Court held that the Supreme Court must pass on the case before it finally could be established whether 40 meters is too small a divergence between broadcasting stations in the same locality to permit the clear reception of both.

Meanwhile, it decreed, WGES may broadcast, but not on waves which materially interfere with WGN. The Court did not define what constitutes material interference, and attorneys for WGES said they did not regard the decision as a victory for WGN, indicating that the station would continue to broadcast on its present wave of 315 meters. WGN's wave length is 302.8 meters.

Judge Wilson, in his opinion, expressed the belief that there should be a difference of at least 50 kilocycles between broadcasting stations in the same vicinity.

WGN obtained a temporary injunction against WGES soon after the latter station changed its wave length. The Department of Commerce originally assigned 250 meters to WGES.

The steady rise in the number of broadcasting stations in the Chicago area is making reception in that section increasingly difficult, and complaints from owners of receiving sets have been frequent and vigorous.

BUMPER COTTON FLOODS NEW ORLEANS STORAGE

Space Found for 150,000 Bales and Ships Sought to Avert an Embargo.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17 (AP).—No official embargo has been placed upon the movement of cotton into New Orleans, but the situation is serious, and railroads, shipping agencies and all affiliated interests have been called upon to cooperate in alleviating conditions.

Thus was the state of affairs summarized today by Edmond Gneydan, Chairman of a Committee of the Spot Cotton Merchants' Association and the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, which has been coordinating the cotton interests in an attempt to solve the problem of handling the tremendous influx of cotton resulting from the South's bumper crop. His statement to The Associated Press followed the publication today of a story by The New Orleans States that an embargo upon the movement of cotton into New Orleans was in effect.

"We have arranged for space for 150,000 bales," Mr. Gueydan said. "When that space is filled, we do not know what will be done. We hope, however, that additional ships will be available before that time and that the jam will be cleared. For weeks we have been working to prevent the necessity of an embargo. The Shipping Board has allotted forty-four additional ships to New Orleans and with the calling into use of other ships released by the British coal strike, warehouse space should be cleared to care for the incoming cotton."

It is estimated that approximately 600,000 bales of cotton are now in New Orleans warehouses.

Mayor Dever Flouts Indictments.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Mayor Dever, arising again "to defend Chicago's good name," for the second time tonight picked up the gauntlet tossed down by Federal District Attorney Olson and defied him to prove his charges made today against officials in connection with the return of the dry indictments.

Admitting there are a few crooked policeman and promising vigorous aid in ousting them, the Mayor said that Mr. Olson's attack on the city's officialdom is unfair and unwarranted.

"Dishonest police officials working hand in glove with the political representatives of the criminal underworld, aided and abetted by many who hold high positions of public trust and at times even the scales of justice in their hands—that's Chicago crime ring and crime cause," said Mr. Olson today.

The Mayor demanded an immediate showdown on the charges and declared that the Grand Jury action was a feeble rehash of a clean-up made in the South Chicago district—where most of the alleged overt acts were committed—six months ago by the city administration.

NOVELIST AND POET TAKE THEIR LIVES

Allen Upward Shoots Himself in Britain, Thinking Successful Book a Failure.

San Francisco Writer Is Found Dead in His Room in Club, His Papers Neatly Arranged.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Allen Upward, the famous novelist and philosopher, has been found shot through the heart in his rooms at Verwood, near Wimborne, in Dorset. This announcement is made this morning by The Daily Express, which adds that a grimly ironical story lies behind the tragedy. The paper says:

"Upward, for a reason which has never been publicly explained, disappeared for years from the public gaze. This year, however, he published a sensational novel 'The Domino Club,' dealing with psychoanalysis. It was an immediate success and the publishers called for another novel, 'The House of Sin,' which appeared a few weeks ago.

"'The Domino Club,' published in America as 'The Club of Masks,' was hailed by the New York reviewers as the best book of the season and demands came in for film and dramatic rights. Then for some unaccountable reason, with success again in his grasp, Upward decided he had failed.

"It is a tragic coincidence that at the very moment he took his life an American publisher was calling on his literary agent to ask for a series of books with the same central character as 'The Club of Masks.'

"Among the papers left by Upward was a letter to his agent wherein he said:

"'Personally I have the feeling that "The Domino Club" has not done well enough to encourage a publisher to take up my work very confidently and I have no knowledge as to the fate of "The House of Sin."'"

After recalling that in 1907 it was rumored that Upward was to receive the Nobel prize, The Daily Express proceeds:

"More than a year ago he wrote to a friend stating that the end had come and that by the time he received his letter he would be no longer living, and imploring him to see that justice was done to his memory. On that occasion he was picked up in a state of exhaustion by the roadside."

George Sterling Is Found Dead.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 17.—George Sterling, dramatic poet and one of the best known members of the Bohemian Club, is dead by his own hand. His body was found this noon by club attendants, an empty bottle of poison lying near the bed.

When the news of Sterling's death and its cause was flashed over the city, friends of the dead man immediately recalled that Sterling's divorced wife also committed suicide.

The couple separated in 1914 and in 1918 Mrs. Sterling had calmly arranged her affairs, left notes for friends as to her final wishes and then had taken poison.

George Sterling's passing was similar. Examination of his room revealed that he had burned many papers, arranged others in neat piles and attended to several personal details before taking the fatal draught.

Sterling's body was found about noon. William Graham, room valet at the Bohemian Club, reported to John E. Meddocks, club manager, that he was unable to arouse Sterling.

Maddocks entered the room with a pass key. Sterling at first appeared to be sleeping. Maddocks confirmed his suspicion and promptly notified the police and coroner.

That Sterling died probably about midnight, twelve hours before the body was found, was the belief of the doctor after an examination.

Sterling had been ill for several days and, while not consulting his regular physician, he had been visited from time to time by medical members of the club, where Sterlug had lived for several years. He had not left his room for three days.

Upward Served in Greece-Turkish War.

Besides being a well-known author, an exceptionaly keen barrister, Allen Upward served as a volunteer in the Greco-Turkish War in 1897 and was British Resident in Nigeria in 1901. He was 63 years of age and unmarried. At the Royal University of Ireland, where he was educated, he won the Brook Scholarship and the O'Hagan Medal for Oratory and numerous other prizes. He was headmaster of Inverness College at one time. His publications included "Secrets of the Courts of Europe" and "International Spy" series which ran in Pearson's Magazine, "A Day's Tragedy," "A Flash in the Pan," "Treason," "The New World," "The East End of Europe," "Secrets of the Past," "The Divine Mystery" and "Some Personalities."

George Sterling has been known for his poetical works for the last quarter of a century. He was educated at St. Charles College, Ellicott City, Md., and soon after his graduation moved to the Pacific Coast. Among his best known works are "The Testimony of the Suns and Other Poems," "A Wine of Wizardry," "The House of Orchids," "Beyond the Breakers," "Exposition Ode," "Yosemite," "The Caged Eagle," "The Binding of the Beast," "Rosamund," "Sails and Mirage," "Truth," and "Lilith." He married Miss Carrie Rand of Oakland, Cal.

NINE GEORGIANS PLEAD GUILTY OF LYNCHING

One Is Sentenced for Life and Others for Shorter Terms for Murder of Dave Wright.

DOUGLAS, Ga., Nov. 17 (AP).—Nine men, charged with the murder of Dave Wright in Coffee County on Aug. 27, pleaded guilty in the Superior Court here today and the special term convened to try the lynching cases was adjourned, subject to call.

Major Brown, regarded as the leader of the mob that took Wright from jail and killed him, was the first to admit his guilt, entering the plea after four jurors had been selected to try him.

Judge Reed sentenced Brown to life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

After a few preliminaries eight other defendants indicated that they wished to plead guilty. They were Archie Tanner, George Lott, Paul Cady, Willie Arnold, Willie Tanner, Joe Hutto, Alma Hester and Charlie Adams. As they were recognized as members of the mob, but not leaders, they received lighter sentences of from four to twenty years.

Three other defendants in the same case are in jail—Jack Lastinger, John Strickland and Tilden Smith. They declined to plead, and disposition of the charges against them will be made at a later date.

Robert Bullard, a youth who turned State's evidence and on whose information the other indictments were found, was not taken to the courthouse during the proceedings today.

TO HONOR GEN. SUMMERALL.

Troops Will Bid Farewell to Corps Commander Tomorrow.

Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall will formally relinquish command of the Second Corps Area when he steps aboard the army ferryboat at Governors Island tomorrow evening and crosses to Manhattan to attend a farewell dinner at the Hotel Astor and then entrain for Washington, where he will assume the duties of Chief of Staff.

An impressive farewell ceremony has been arranged for this officer, who thirty-four years ago as a Second Lieutenant just out of West Point began his army career in this city with his first assignment for duty at Fort Hamilton.

Every officer and every available enlisted man in the metropolitan area will participate in the farewell.

With bayonets fixed and rifles at "present arms" the men of the Sixteenth Infantry, First Division, will form a lane through which General Summerall will walk from his quarters to the Governors Island ferry dock. He will go to the farewell dinner at the Astor, where Major Gen. Robert L. Bullard (retired) will be the toastmaster. The principal speaker will be Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Taft.

BLEASE IN LYNCHING FIGHT.

Senator Offers Services to Oppose Demege Suits of Negroes' Heirs.

Special to The New York Times.

AIKEN, S. C., Nov. 17.—Cole L. Blease, junior Senator from South Carolinia, in a letter to Colonel David W. Gaston Sr., today, offers his legal services free to fight against Aiken County paying any damages to the heirs of Demon, Clarence and Bertha Lowman, the three negroes lynched on Oct. 6 near Aiken.

Letters of administration have been granted to Thomas L. Hahn, an attorney, on the estates of Demon and Bertha Lowman, and suit will be made against the county for damages, the minimum sum of which is $3,000, under an act of the General Assembly of 1925.

Building Nine Planes for Chile.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Nov. 17.—Nine airplanes are being constructed for the Chilean Government by the Curtiss Aeroplane and Engineering Company, it was announced here today. Following the delivery of the nine machines, work will be commenced on a greater number, also for Chile. The order for Curtiss planes, according to the statement, was obtained after Lieutenant James Doolittle, U. S. N., who recently flew over the Andes Mountains, demonstrated the superiority of American airplanes over those manufactured by European builders.

Short Circuit Ties Up Elevated.

An electric flash continuing for more than a minute frightened scores of passengers yesterday morning when a short circuit occurred on a northbound local Bronx Park-Third Avenue "L" train, as it pulled into the 166th Street station, the Bronx. Nobody was injured, but the accident tied up both north and south bound tracks from 6:34 to 7 o'clock, delaying hundreds of persons on their way to work.

ASK CITY NOT TO TAX MODEL TENEMENTS

I hope you will go back to your original plan."

"If Mr. Heckscher leads the way," Mayor Walker said, "150 years from now there will be a monument to him—the greatest monument in all the city—a monument of thousands of clean, happy, healthful homes."

Miss Sophie Irene Loeb, who has been associated with Mr. Heckscher in his housing projects, told of the interest his plan had aroused. She revealed that a cousin of Nathan Straus, whose name she declined to make known, had offered three-quarters of his entire fortune to aid housing relief. She also read a letter from Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, endorsing Mr. Heckscher's views and hinting that he might present a plan for housing relief to the New Jersey Legislature at its next session.

Miss Loeb's remarks provoked replies from the proponents of limited dividend corporations. Mr. Stabler complained that Miss Loeb and Mr. Heckscher had not mentioned a word about Governor Smith's measures for housing relief.

"We needn't wait for a constitutional amendment," he said. "We need only to get tax exemption and money for the limited dividend corporations to begin work at once. If the gentlemen anxious to improve conditions would subscribe one, two or three millions for limited dividend corporations, I am sure the rest could be borrowed. We cannot depend on the generosity, self-sacrifice and civic spirit of our rich people; we must make this a sound business proposition—so attractive that business will go into it."

Mr. Heckscher again insisted that philanthropy on a large scale was necessary.

"I don't believe there is a lot in the slum district with a house on it that can be bought for less than $30,000," he declared. "Unless the State and city step into the situation and compel sanitary conditions under pressure of condemnation, the slums cannot be eliminated and never will be."

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz declared that the limited dividend corporations were endowed with the power of condemnation.

Mr. James expressed confidence that the new limited dividend corporations were practicable.

"We are absolutely sure," he said, "that many of the very worst blocks can be razed, with the aid of tax exemption, condemnation and limited dividend corporations, and new apartments built with rooms renting at $12.50 a month. I hope that generous individuals like Mr. Heckscher will come in under existing laws, but I cannot conceive that under its debt limit the city can go into housing relief in a wholesale way."

Former Supreme Court Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, Chairman of the General Committee on City Planning and Survey, proposed a novel plan.

"Suppose the Housing Committee should recommend that from the City Hall straight on to Harlem Third Avenue should be widened by twenty feet," Mr. O'Brien suggested. "On the east side of Third Avenue you will find hardly a building that would not bear setting back by twenty feet and rebuilding. It would create a splendid thoroughfare, it would enhance values, and Third Avenue would become a Rue de la Paix."

ONE DEAD, SIX HURT IN TENEMENT BLAZE

Firemen Save Many at an Early Morning Fire at 116th Street and Madison Avenue.

A CIGARETTE IS BLAMED

Starts in Baby Carriage in Hall—Six Victims Are in One Family.

Thirty persons, most of them women and children, were carried down ladders and fire escapes early this morning from the second, third and fourth stories of a five-story tenement at 1,575 Madison Avenue (at 116th Street), where one man was burned to death and six persons, five of them members of the dead man's family, were burned or overcome by smoke.

The dead man was identified by tenants of the building as Hyman Bush. He, his wife and their four daughters, Dora, Pearl, Esther and Emma, who were known to children living in the house, were found unconscious in their apartment at the rear of the third floor and were carried to the street before it was learned that the man was dead.

The fire, it was said by Deputy Fire Chief Carlock, started in the ground floor hall in a baby carriage, probably from a cigarette tossed away by a person ascending the stairs. It spread to the staircase toward the upper floors and was fanned by the draft caused by the opening of doors by tenants awakened by the smoke. Egress by the steps was cut off, and while some tenants shouted for help from their windows, others of the ten families living in the building were descending by the fire-escapes when firemen from Hook and Ladder Companies 26 and 43 and Engine Company 53 arrived.

Some of the firemen put up ladders on the front of the building, while others climbed the fire-escapes at the rear to help down the women and children, who were now screaming for help.

Lieutenant Eichler of Hook and Ladder Company 26 and Lieutenant Berklein of Hook and Ladder Company 43 and Fireman Herlihy of Engine Company 53 and Fireman Donohue of Hook and Ladder 43 found the Bush family unconscious in their rooms. They took them down the fire-escape, Herlihy and Donohue carrying the body of the man after Mrs. Bush and the four girls had been carried to the street.

The other firemen helped down the others, among whom there was another woman unconscious from smoke. All save Bush were taken to Mount Sinai Hospital in taxicabs found in the neighborhood. Bush's body was taken to the West 126th Street Police Station.

The fire did not ascend to the fifth floor, probably, said Fire Chief Carlock, because the tenants there did not open their doors, but hurried to the street down the fire escape at the first alarm.

GIVE LUNCHEON TO WAGNER.

Friends Honor Him at Atlantic City Before Return Here Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 17.—A luncheon was given for Senator-elect Robert F. Wagner of New York at the Traymore Hotel today. A number of friends and well-wishers gathered to honor him before his return to New York tomorrow.

The Senator was in the party of Governor Smith, who is still at the Sea View Country Club. After attending to pressing matters in New York Senator Wagner is expected back at Atlantic City for another stay of a week.

Among those in the party were Michael Cosgrove, Dock Commissioner of New York, and his wife; Frank Brisily and Mrs. Brisily, Thomas E. Brown and Mrs. Brown.

Miller Divorce Action Withdrawn.

Special to The New York Times.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 17.—The divorce action brought by Mrs. Emma A. Miller against her 83-year-old husband, General Charles Miller, a wealthy oil man, was discontinued today. Attorneys for both parties would not discuss details, but a money and property settlement was agreed upon ten days ago. Mrs. Miller has gone to New York to resume her residence there.

Year after year it meets the increasing approval of the people of America—

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, November 18—Whoever declares that spats are "on their last legs" is off his footing with fashion. The vogue of the gaiter was never so marked in New York, London and Paris. Nothing except the spat confers elegance upon that inherently inelegant object, the masculine propeller.

Spats of sturdy English buff cloth with leather-piped edges, refreshingly new and spruce touch. Curved to fit the foot. Leather under-strap. Pearl-gray, medium gray or tan. Exclusive, but not expensive.

SIX DEAD, SIX HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Two Boys, Each 12, Are Killed by Truck in Montclair—Fell Under Wheels, Says Driver.

TRUCK OVERTURNS ON HILL

Two Occupants Dead, Five Hurt—Car Speeds On in Queens After Killing a Man.

Simeon Toby and his chum, Jack Lavarack, each 12 years old, were killed at noon yesterday by a motor truck in Montclair, N. J. The boys had just come out of the Nishuane School, in which they were pupils, for the luncheon recess. Simeon, who was the son of S. T. Toby, was on his way home at 118 Elm Street, and Jack, the son of F. G. Lavarack, was bound for his home at 104 Gates Avenue.

When they reached the intersection of Elm Street and Orange and Llewellyn Roads, a short distance from the school, there was considerable vehicular traffic on the thoroughfares. Impatient to get to their homes, however, they started to run across the Elm Street corner of the intersection. According to the story later told to the police by Harry Roest, a motor truck driver, of 207 Baldwin Street, Glen Ridge, both boys had almost reached the opposite curb when they stepped and fell under the wheels of his vehicle.

Roest said he jumped from his truck and picked up the Toby boy, who was dead. Young Lavarack was still alive when Roest started with him in an automobile for the Mountainside Hospital, but the boy died on the way. Roest, an employe of the Franklin Construction Company of Washington Street, Newark, then reported the accident to the police and was arrested on a technical manslaughter charge. Later he was released on bail.

Two Killed as Truck Overturns.

Two men were killed and five others injured early yesterday when the truck on which they were riding toppled over at Rapid Avenue and Dyckman Street, after the driver had averted a collision with an automobile which had shot across his path at the end of Fort George Hill. Frederick Fuchs, 40 years old, of 138 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, was dead when civilians ran to the aid of the victims of the accident. Leonard Saldora, 37 years old, of 228 East 109th Street, died several hours later in the Jewish Memorial Hospital.

Those of the injured who were taken to the same hospital were Peter Matas, 216 East 108th Street; Harold Meyer, 927 Pierce Avenue, the Bronx, and Edward Korndendorser, 4,430 Bronx Avenue, the Bronx. John Dimos of 214 East 108th Street and William Fisher of 313 East Ninety-third Street were attended at the scene for cuts and bruises.

Charles Redmond, driver of the truck, was arrested on a technical homicide charge after he and witnesses had been questioned by detectives at the Wadsworth Avenue Station. He said that he and the other occupants were employes of the General Outdoor Advertising Company of 1 Park Avenue, and they were enroute to a job with material for a large sign when the accident happened.

The driver said he was coming down the steep Fort George hill with the brakes sitting on the material for the sign when the other automobile shot in front of him. To avoid a collision, Redmond continued, he swerved the truck, but the vehicle grazed a subway elevated pillar and turned over.

Girl and Man Are Killed.

Maria Bellinger, 6 years old, of 209 Prospect Avenue, Asbury Park, was killed near her home by an automobile, the driver of which, Mario Esposito, 19 years old, of 922 Summerfield Avenue, Asbury Park, was arrested and held without bail.

Joseph Gambeskik, 57 years old, a farmer, while on his way to his home at Northern Boulevard and Seventh Street, Bayside, Queens, last evening, was struck and killed by an automobile, the driver of which did not stop after the accident. The car was traveling so fast, according to witnesses, that nobody had a chance to take its license number.

George Dougherty, 5 years old, of 321 West Nineteenth Street was removed in a critical condition to New York Hospital last evening, after he had been struck by a taxicab at Tenth Avenue and Nineteenth Street. The machine was being operated by Emanuel Domo of 16 Grove Street, Brooklyn.

PAYS $25 TO STUDY TRAFFIC

Motorist Charged by Magistrate for Taking Course in Speeding.

Martin Freese, 44 years, of 200 West Eighty-sixth Street, Manhattan, was charged a tuition fee yesterday by Magistrate James Conway for studying traffic in Long Island City. He was charged in the Magistrate's Court by Motorcycle Patrolman Van Cleef with speeding in Jackson Avenue.

"Your Honor, I am a student of traffic," said Freese to the Magistrate. "I know traffic is heavy at the approach to the bridge, and I was trying to relieve the congestion by hurrying through the district."

"I'll have to charge you a tuition fee for studying here," said Magistrate Conway. "Twenty-five dollars."

Freese paid.

Veteran Commuters to Ride In First Train Over Bridge

Among the guests who will be on the first passenger train to go over the new $14,000,000 Central Railroad bridge over Newark Bay Saturday afternoon will be twenty-two New Jersey veteran commuters of the New York Division of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Included will be C. S. Kiggins of Elizabeth, the oldest commuter who was present when the first bridge over Newark Bay was opened in 1864.

Officials of the Central and other railroads, Governor Moore and his staff and members of the Public Utility Commission also will be among the passengers.

SAYS SCANTY ATTIRE MAKES WOMEN HARDY

Prof. Hill, British Physiologist, Advises Them to Wear as Little as Possible.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—That women have been so successful in swimming the English Channel is partly because they have trained themselves to stand the cold better than men by wearing less clothing, was the dictum of Professor Leonard E. Hill, noted physiologist, in a lecture on dress to an audience of women in London today.

His advice to them was to wear as little as possible.

"I have no objection," he added, "to low necks and bare or silk-stockinged legs as long as they are reasonable. Talk of 'pneumonia blouses' is all nonsense. No girl ever caught pneumonia wearing a low blouse. It hardens her and helps her to resist such diseases.

"Silk stockings and short skirts are good things, especially artificial silk stockings, which allow ultraviolet rays to penetrate to the skin. Artificial silk is better than natural silk because you can get sunburnt through it.

"Men are more goddied than women. It would be a great advantage if men got rid of their collars and took to open necks. Things are drifting that way. If men would go about in knickerbockers or running shirts it would be to their good.

"With modern methods of education and constant exposure women seem to be becoming the hardier sex. Some day we may all be ruled by women."

Girl Asphyxiated in Sleep.

Evelyn Gibb, 17 years old, of 308 Willow Avenue, Hoboken, a telephone night operator, was asphyxiated by illuminating gas in her home yesterday. Dr. Cerillo of St. Mary's Hospital tried for an hour to resuscitate her with a pulmotor. The police were informed that employes of the gas company serving the house had turned off the gas on Tuesday to make repairs and had turned it on again yesterday when she was sleeping.

ZIZI BARES TRAGEDY OF LIFE WITH CAROL

His Letters Are Read in Paris Court to Show How He Pleaded for Her and Son.

QUEEN IGNORED HIS PLIGHT

Counsel for Ex-Wife Denounces Rumania and Its Royalty for Treatment of Her.

PARIS, Nov. 17 (AP).—The obligations of former Crown Prince Carol of Rumania to his former morganatic wife, Mme. Zizi Lambrino, and the status of their 6-year-old son Mircea, born of that union, will be the subjects of a judgment to be rendered a week hence by the first chamber of the Seine Department Tribunal.

This court, with Mme. Lambrino attending during her own lawyer's pleadings, this afternoon listened to the airing of Carol's marital woes, the reading of his love letters to Zizi and his beseechings to Queen Marie to allow him to retain Zizi as his wife. Carol was not present, being represented by the Socialist Deputy, M. Paul-Boncour.

Zizi, whom her lawyer, Albert Salmon, styled "Mme. J. Lambrino, former Princess Von Hohenzollern," clad in a velvet mantle and blue hat, acted nervously while her attorney went into the most intimate detail of her romance with the Crown Prince. He read letters from Carol to Queen Marie beginning "Dear Mama," and insisting "I cannot have Zizi left in this ridiculous and equivocal position, and never could I admit that the child to be born out of our marriage should be considered illegitimate."

Queen Did Not Reply, Counsel Says.

Queen Marie, the attorney declared, never replied. M. Salmon, in the course of his address to the Court, flayed the entire Rumanian governmental system, asserting that the Hohenzollerns had caused an insertion in the Constitution of a clause providing that no member should attempt to interest the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber in having the nullification decree set aside.

"The Rumanian parliament," he said, "is elected under the orders of the monarchy."

Mme. Lambrino, her counsel explained, received Carol's letter of rupture of Nov. 16, 1920. The Prince wrote:

"I am vanquished. Love of my country has forced my hand. I resisted to the last, but circumstances beyond my control compel the decision."

All Mme. Lambrino obtained in the way of legal papers for Mircea, continued M. Salmon, was his birth certificate, making him out an illegitimate child.

"She insists that he have the name of Hohenzollern from the beginning of his school career," M. Salmon exclaimed, summoning Carol thus to regularize the situation and pay the bursar of the Lycee Michelet, at the same time, granting Mme. Lambrino 10,000,000 francs, the amount of damages she claims for prejudice caused her.

Attacks Rumanian Monarchy.

Asserting emphatically that Mircea was born before the annulment decree was effective—which M. Paul-Boncour vigorously combatted—M. Salmon concluded with an attack on the Rumanian monarchy, comparing it with the French dynasty of the eighteenth century. The attorney did not cite any letters from Carol to King Ferdinand, but produced one from Carol to Zizi, in which he recounted that he had begged and pleaded with his mother to have the decree quashed, but unavailingly.

M. Paul-Boncour's defense is based, first, on the incompetency of the French court to settle a question between Rumanian subjects; second, the fact that Mme. Lambrino never appealed to the Rumanian courts to offset the annulment; third, that Mircea, according to the strict legal viewpoint, could not be considered born within 300 days from the issuance of the nullity decree, and therefore, born out of wedlock; fourth, relating to damages, that there was no breach of promise, inasmuch as their marriage at Odessa was legal until set aside, and, furthermore, that Zizi was receiving 110,000 French francs annually, which would go to Mircea in the event of her demise; and, finally, that the royal Hohenzollern house deliberately winked at her infraction of a signed convention with the Bank of Rumania, in which she solemnly engaged not to bother the royalties under penalty of losing her whole fortune of 2,200,000 francs.

Carol's legal domicile, his counsel declared, is Rumania, although he is now living in the Paris suburb of Neuilly, where Zizi Lambrino also resides.

PHONES POLICE, ENDS LIFE.

Retired Merchant Found Dead of Shots in Bathroom of Home.

Soon after a man telephoned Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon that there had been a shooting in an apartment at 610 West 110th Street, Detective Thomas Brady of the West 100th Street station went to the apartment and found the occupant, Edward Glueck, 58 years old, a retired dealer in women's goods, dead in the bathroom. He had committed suicide by shooting himself and the police believed that it was he who called headquarters.

His wife and daughter were shopping at the time and it was the belief of the police that he telephoned so policemen would go to the apartment and find him before the wife and daughter came home.

A note written by Glueck was found on a table in the living room. It directed that his body be cremated and that none of his relatives or friends wear mourning. No motive was advanced for the suicide.

HAVANA, Nov. 17.—Having lost his bet that Harvard would beat Princeton at football, Paul Rountree, a Harvard Law School undergraduate, arrived in Havana aboard the liner Ulua as a stowaway, with 8 cents in his pocket. He was taken to the detention camp, but was released through the efforts of the American Consul.

Rountree's wager was made with Samuel Cutter, a relative of a United Fruit Line official. If Harvard lost, he was to sail as a stowaway to Havana and back to New York with $1, returning with a bottle of Bacardi. He says, however, that he will ride back in a train as a first-class passenger.

("Casey") Jones, chief test pilot of the Curtiss Airplane Company here, wrote to Warren and invited him to fly with him over any part of Greater New York he desires, either this Sunday or whenever he wishes.

TELLS OF MARRIAGE TO LINK 2 THRONES

Budapest Paper Says Plan Is to Have Albrecht of Hungary Wed Ileana of Rumania.

ONE KINGDOM EVENTUALLY

Story, However, May Be Move to Force Statement on Ex-Foreign Minister's Visit to Bucharest.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 17.—The union of Hungary and Rumania through the marriage of Archduke Albrecht, a Hapsburg, to Princess Ileana, a Hohenzollern, is today's contribution to the throne and union questions which are increasingly agitating interested circles here.

It is made in a long article in the Legitimist-Monarchist organ Magyarsag, which professes to know that such a marriage was the real project which was so mysteriously occupying the former Foreign Minister, Count Banffy, in Rumania, whence he has just returned to confer secretly with Premier Bethlen.

The Magyarsag, which is decidedly opposed to both Albrecht and the union, says that Count Banffy, who is an intermediary between Count Bethlen and Premier Averescu, brought the negotiations to the following point: The marriage of Albrecht to Ileana is possible provided Count Bethlen guarantee that Albrecht will be elected King of Hungary and the Rumanians pledge that Ileana, on the death of King Ferdinand, will become Queen of Rumania or Regent, or that the Crown of Hungary and Rumania descend to an heir of Albrecht and Ileana.

Worried by Silence of Banffy.

It is probable that the Magyarsag's real aim is to force a denial of the story, or at least a statement from Count Banffy, whose continued silence and secrecy worry the Legitimists and other Hungarians.

They are convinced that something important is going on behind the scenes, and apparently are trying, by a process of elimination, to learn the truth.

Meanwhile, the atmosphere of romantic intrigue thickens. The moderate Pesti Naplo, under the headlines, "Sensational News," says that Count Banffy, before he arrived in Budapest, spent two days with the Regent, Admiral Horthy, at the royal hunting estate at Goedollo.

The press is also perturbed by the sudden arrival of Bela Barabas, one of the leaders of the Hungarian minority in Transylvania, to confer with Count Bethlen.

As Barabas's activities in Rumania led to his imprisonment by the Braliano régime, it is concluded that he could not come to Budapest without special permission from the Bucharest Government. None, however, can ascertain whether Barabas came to support or to oppose Count Banffy.

Some believe that Count Bethlen summoned him in order to learn the views of the Hungarian minority in Rumania.

Details Added to Story.

The Liberal Opposition organ, Esh Kurrir, this afternoon supports the Magyrsag's morning report that Count Banffy was arranging the marriage of Albrecht and Ileana. It announces that Albrecht, who had just left on a hunting trip, returned suddenly to Budapest after Count Banffy's arrival here.

The paper believes that the Queen of Rumania suggested this marriage as a possible means of uniting the two countries. Esh Kurrir also sees significance in Bucharest rumors that the Rumanian Parliament may transform itself into a "National Assembly" during the present session.

While it is true that both the legitimists and the radical Opposition genuinely fear that Count Bethlen is secretly preparing to solve the Hungarian throne question, it must be remembered in connection with the foregoing reports that the Hungarian election campaign has already begun.

PRINCESS IN CRASH IN INDIANA RACE

he demanded of the little crowd which had gathered around him.

"Do you know who that was you hit?" someone asked him. "That was the Princess Ileana."

"For the Lord's sake," said the driver, and climbed upon his seat and drove away toward Chicago.

The Princess tried to carry off the accident as an amusing incident. Prince Nicholas was reassured and started off toward Indianapolis. The narrow escape had shaken Ileana more than was apparent at first, however, and after driving a half mile slowly she surrendered the controls to a chauffeur accompanying her.

On the Verge of Hysteria.

The weather grew worse and worse. Damp snow pelted down on the tired girl, and after a few miles she and Miss Marr got out at a roadside café and had cheese and coffee.

A group of photographers followed her in and asked her to pose. She seemed to be controlling her nervousness with difficulty, but she laughed at them and posed. A blast of flashlights was set off in the little lunch room and the shock left her on the verge of hysteria. The press correspondents tried to induce her to exchange her open car for their closed one, but she insisted she never liked to ride in a closed car.

The journey was continued. It was halted once to wrap the shivering girl in blankets and later for her to get warm and take some medicine in a drug store at Rossville, Ind.

Miss Marr urged Prince Nicholas to go on ahead, telling him that his sister was all right, and he arrived here some time ahead of her and not knowing how cold and tired and shaken she was. On the way, however, he had trouble of his own. His motor went dead and he had to continue the journey in a State police car.

Apparently the Queen knew nothing of her daughter's difficulty, although it was blazoned in the headlines of newspapers here soon after the train arrived until she went to the Columbia Club to rest midway in her reception program here.

Queen Marie, on her arrival, was conducted first to the soldiers and sailors monument, where she deposited a wreath made by Rumanians of Indianapolis. At the City Library she was received by Mayor John L. Duvall and Mrs. Duvall, and autographed volumes of Indiana literary works were presented to her. At the State House she was received officially by Governor and Mrs. Ed Jackson and other officials. She was entertained at dinner late in the evening at the Columbia Club.

King's Illness Worries Queen.

Queen Marie is worried over the recent reports from Europe of the serious illness of her husband, it was learned today, and in the absence of definite information she has cabled Premier Avaresco for the facts.

If the report from the Premier is not favorable, it is entirely probable that the Queen will hurry back home before the recently set date of Dec. 11, which was decided on in Chicago in order that the Queen and her children might be home for Christmas.

The Queen's ignorance as to the actual condition of King Ferdinand, it was disclosed today, was due to an error in the sending of cable messages to her. The Queen had arranged before leaving Bucharest that important messages should be sent her in a particular cipher. Several days ago a cipher message came, hnt it did not fit the key with which the Queen was provided. She cabled home for a repetition of the message in the code whose key she possessed and a second message came, but it also was not in the code which she carried.

Yesterday, however, a cablegram came from the Queen's daughter, Queen Marie of Serbia, stating that she was with her father and that he was "getting on." The wording of the message indicated to the Queen that King Ferdinand had been suffering from a much more serious illness than she had supposed, for earlier messages directly from the King has been favorable. In this uncertainty Queen Marie cabled directly to the Premier today for exact news as to her husband's condition.

Controlling Her Fears.

It was stressed by members of the Queen's suite in close touch with her that, although the Queen was uneasy, she was not permitting herself to be deeply alarmed, and would finish the American tour as now scheduled unless she felt that the King's welfare demanded her presence at his side. She feels much relieved that her daughter, the Queen of Greece, a young woman whom the royal family call "Mignonne" and who has a gift for caring for the ill, is in close touch with her father. The Queen also is a skilled nurse, according to members of the royal household, and for this reason if for no other would be impelled to rush to her husband's side if he needed her.

Even if the Queen should suddenly abandon her tour, members of her suite said, it would not indicate that the King's condition was critical, but that the Queen, as his wife, desired to be by his side in his illness. The Queen is understood to have no information as to whether or not there is any basis for the report from Europe that the King is suffering from cancer. The King has been ill for more than a year and even before the Queen left Rumania for America he had suffered considerable loss in weight. Without being critically ill he suffered some internal discomfort and was distinctly below his normal condition.

1,000 GUARDS FOR MARIE.

Cleveland Authorities Fear Disorder by Hungarian Foes of Queen.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17.—When Queen Marie of Rumania visits Cleveland next Monday a thousand armed guards will protect her and her entourage from a threatened hostile demonstration. Safety Director Edwin D. Barry ordered the escort tonight at a special meeting of the Councilmanic Committee on Arrangements, which was attended by Mr. Barry, City Councilmen, Police Chief Jacob Graul and Fire Chief George W. Wallace.

Councilman Liston G. Schooley, Chairman of the committee, appealed to Mr. Barry for the guard, following reports that hostile elements were planning a demonstration. Hungarians, especially Transylvanians, have bitterly denounced any welcoming ceremony for the Rumanian ruler.

"The situation is serious, and unless every precaution is taken the city will be placed in an extremely embarrassing position because of failure to properly protect the Queen while she is our guest," Mr. Schooley said. Police Chief Graul agreed with the Councilman's view. Mr. Barry instructed him to use every available patrolman—600 or 700—as guards during the day, and told Fire Chief Wallace that 300 firemen also would be needed as guards.

The first of 200,000 "anti-Queen" petitions, which leaders of Hungarian societies announced would be scattered throughout the city, appeared on the streets tonight. Some of the circulators of the petitions were Communists who participated in the May Day riots here in 1918, when radicals staged a parade in the city, shooting several policemen and refusing to disband until a call for the State militia was issued.

QUEEN MARIE EXPLOITED.

How Paroled Convict Made $900 Out of Royal Visit Just Told.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17 (AP).—Queen Marie of Rumania was the unwitting guest of a paroled convict who posed as a Rumanian at a benefit theatrical performance in Seattle recently and the erstwhile prisoner made $900 through the venture after having borrowed $45 to finance the show and rent a dinner suit, The Chronicle says today.

Sint S. Millard, recently released from San Quentin Prison, after serving a term for embezzlement from a show troupe, obtained a permit to leave California to stage the event. He canvassed Seattle and found forty-three Rumanians. Then he persuaded the manager of a theatre there to turn over his playhouse for the occasion on the promise that the Queen would be brought there. He then arranged a "fifty-fifty" agreement—half the proceeds to go to Rumanian orphans and half to himself.

The Queen came to the crowded theatre at the appointed hour. Millard escorted her to a box and she and her children, Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas, accompanied by Mr. Hill and others of the royal train, remained for twenty minutes. When the royal party left Millard hastened to the box office and collected his half of the profits—$900—paid his incidental bills, returned the dinner suit and came back to California.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 17.—Declarations which Premier Averescu made in his program speech in Parliament hinting that the Government regards Prince Carol's renunciation of the right of succession to the throne as definite are mystifying the public by the obscurity of the language used. The Premier said:

"Adventurers believe the question is still open and a grave crisis yet possible. We regret the change made in January, which hurt us profoundly; but to say that the country is in danger is a great error. The country is not threatened with any danger, its guardians being able to remove any danger."

BUCHAREST, Nov. 17 (AP).—King Ferdinand of Rumania has been forbidden by his physicians to receive his Ministers or do any tiring work for the present. The physicians, who include the noted French expert, Dr. Raoul Bensaude, have signed a bulletin predicting satisfactory results from the treatment the King is undergoing for inflammation of the large intestine.

PLANS IDENTITY CARDS FOR TOURIST REVENUE

French Commission Estimates Americans and Others Would Pay 350,000,000 Francs Yearly.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—The army of several hundred thousand Americans who annually visit Paris will make a direct contribution of many millions of francs to the State finances if the recommendations made today by the Chamber Finance Commission are accepted by the Deputies.

It was decided to place an item in the budget calling for the issuance of an identity card to every foreigner after three weeks of residence in France in place of the present regulation permitting a stay of two months.

The cost of a card will be 375 francs and it will be renewable annually instead of every two years.

Such an arrangement would bring a total of 350,000,000 francs annually to the coffers of the Government.

While the amount involved would not prove embarrassing to most Americans, the inconvenience of applying for a card for so short a sojourn would certainly be annoying because of the red tape involved.

Supreme Lodge as Plaintiff Ends Case Against Seceding Body.

The Supreme Lodge of the Sons of Italy in America and others, as plaintiffs, completed their testimony yesterday in the case against the Sons of Italy Grand Lodge of the State body, which seceded from the order over a year ago. The case is being heard by Referee Charles B. Wheeler of Buffalo, at the rooms of the Bar Association, 42 West Forty-fourth Street.

Philip Bongiorno and former State Senator Clayton Lusk, counsel for the defense, started their case by calling to the witness stand Francis M. Testa, lawyer and former Supreme Venerable of the Order. He testified that there was no such organization as the Supreme Lodge, Order of Sons of Italy in America, and further contended that the Sons of Italy Grand Lodge, defendant in the case, was incorporated in February, 1911, as an autonomous body, governing its own moneys.

LEAGUE'S POWER LIMITED

Entire Matter May Become Part of Projected World Conference on Disarmament.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—It now appears likely that before the end of the month Germany will have nearly complied with all demands made by the Conference of Ambassadors as to disarmament, because she is convinced that it is to her better interest to do so. And it is quite probable that when the Interallied Control Commission is notified by the Conference of Ambassadors that its mission is complete and that German disarmament will henceforth be in the hands of the League of Nations, Germany will have escaped control of any sort.

Curiously enough, it was in Berlin that attention was first called to Article 213 of the Versailles Treaty which states:

"So long as the present treaty remains in force, Germany undertakes to give every facility for any investigation which the Council of the League of Nations, acting if need be by a majority vote, may consider necessary."

League Interpretation of Article.

The phrasing of this article seems to be fairly rigid toward Germany, but an interpretation of it made by the League Council on Sept. 28, 1924, which establishes the organization to be followed in making investigations of the armaments of Germany, Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria when the time comes to transfer arms control from the Interallied Board to the League of Nations, limits such investigations to the demilitarized zones mentioned in the Versailles and other treaties and to legislation, such as military laws and budgets, armed strength, material existing or under construction, naval, land or aerial, and all training for war.

The Secretariat of the Permanent Commission on Military and Air Matters of the League of Nations would receive and collate reports, documents, &c., and establish rules for discriminating between military and civil information. Investigations would be made by commissioners chosen for each separate instance where any State claims violation of disarmament by any of the four powers under control, from a list drawn up by States belonging to the Council or adjacent to the controlled powers, but excluding citizens of Germany or other affected powers.

According to the Council of the League there would be no permanent commission charged with control of German armaments, but only a temporary commission called into being upon complaint, justified by documentary evidence, made by some power. In each case the complaint would take on a decidedly controversial character, necessitate much red tape and be the subject of long discussions as to whether the alleged violation of disarmament rules were of military or civil character.

Not Ratified by League Assembly.

Even these provisions cannot be applied, should the Conference of Ambassadors declare itself satisfied with German disarmament, as they have never been ratified by the Assembly of the League of Nations. The next Assembly does not meet until September, 1927, and between now and then no doubt is felt here that Germany's diplomatic operations will have been bent toward destruction of the frail and almost forgotten attempt of the Council to contrive statutes in the spirit of Article 213.

One course remains open to French diplomacy between now and the League Council meeting on Dec. 6. This consists in negotiating with Germany to obtain her consent to form a League of Nations control that she is willing to accept in place of interallied military control. But even this course is difficult to pursue in view of the fact that the latest note by the Conference of Ambassadors limited its demands upon Germany to points at issue and not to acceptance of any hypothetical League of Nations system of control. It would be awkward for France to present additional demands as it learned the matter was not broached when the Ambassadors drew up their desiderata.

And it is likewise believed that the Allies have not yet considered this aspect of the situation and therefore have not adopted a joint line of conduct. The Conference of Ambassadors, it is argued, cannot fail to do justice to Germany's disarmament if she fully complies with its final demands.

Germany in Strong Position.

Hence the disarmament problem is about to be shorn of its present status unless the Germans fail to give satisfaction to the present Military Control Commission. In the circumstances this seems unlikely. Germany may then either accept League investigations into her military forces and as a member of the Council resurrect the problem of interpreting Article 213, or request the Permanent Court of International Justice to give a ruling on the meaning and scope of Article 213. Whether she acts within the Council or through the Permanent Court she will be in the position to throw all her prestige and influence into the balance.

Undoubtedly Germany hopes to oblige the Council to scrap its 1924 attempt to interpret Article 213. But should some fragments of this unfinished task remain in whatever replaces it Germany will be in the position to draw hairsplitting distinctions between the Reichswehr and patriotic societies with military training, between military and civil aviation.

It is generally forecast that the outcome of this new problem, due largely to the academic nature of the League of Nations procedure in building a new world, according to the 1919 Covenant, will be that Germany's disarmament and that of her Eastern war Allies will become part and parcel of the futnre conference for limitation of armaments under the auspices of the League of Nations with Germany on practically the same footing as the victorious Allies.

SARRE FRENCHMEN SCARED.

STRASBOURG, Nov. 17.—A feeling of consternation has been produced among the French population of the Sarre because of a carefully spread report, apparently of German origin, that the December meeting of the Council of the League of Nations will result in the evacuation of all French troops from the district of the Sarre, the abandonment of the long-discussed plebiscite and the sale of the Sarre mines to Germany.

Control of the Sarre mines for a long period of years was given to France under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, and the former German territory has been successfully settled by several thousand Frenchmen and their families.

So disturbed are the French inhabitants that delegations representing their entire number have been sent to Paris to ascertain from the Government if the report is true. Chambers of Commerce throughout Alsace-Lorraine and certain parts of Northern France share the feeling of the French in the Sarre, and resolutions have been passed strongly opposing any such move on the part of the Paris Government.

The report appears to be without foundation of any kind, but this has not served to quiet the fear of those concerned. The attitude of the business people can be understood when it is considered that a total of nearly 1,500,000,000 francs' worth of goods is now exported to the Sarre each year. It is explained here that the report was launched by an order from Berlin and in reality represents what Germany is now secretly striving for. Germany's chances of success, however, are of the slightest.

ARMS PARLEY SUCCESS PREDICTED BY CECIL

He Answers Hopefully Appeal by Asquith for Conference Next Year.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—An appeal for another disarmament conference in 1927 was made in the House of Lords tonight by Lord Oxford and Asquith, ex-leader of the Liberal Party.

The Powers both great and small which signed the Versailles Treaty seven years ago could not have altogether untroubled consciences with regard to their obligations, under the Covenant, to disarm, said Lord Oxford.

If a full conference were called before the end of 1927 he thought the agenda must be framed on certain broad principles, such as the abolition of chemical and submarine warfare, the necessity of beginning the reduction program with a decrease of peacetime armaments and the presentation of a concrete plan of disarmament by Britain. As earnest of Britain's sincerity, he urged an immediate reduction of her expenditure on armaments.

Lord Cecil of Chelwood, replying for the Government, thought the disappointments of the past were due in great part to the fact that the situation had never yet been ripe for disarmament. Since the Locarno Treaty had been signed and Germany's disarmament substantially completed, conditions had become much more favorable.

The French plan of a preparatory commission had proved right, he said, because it had forced experts in all countries to think out plans of disarmament. Of two sub-commissions on disarmament that dealing with naval and military issues had completed its report, giving full replies and in the case of divergent opinions alternative solutions to the questions put to it. The financial and economic sub-commission would shortly finish its unanimous report.

Lord Cecil testified that the discussions in both subcommissions had shown the presence of unqualified good-will and he paid a special tribute to the American delegation who had been most helpful in bringing the discussions to a successful conclusion.

The result, continned Lord Cecil, was that disarmament had now become a practical question prefixed no longer by whether but by how. It followed that it was useless to trouble now about the consequential problems or arbitration and control of armaments, for once a plan of disarmament was agreed to the rest would follow. There were three conditions of ultimate success—good faith, no hustle and the giving of an example by Britain. He could already say that every power would submit a concrete proposal to the eventual conference.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—Two flags captured by Federal troops when they defeated rebel followers of General Gallegos have been brought to Mexico City. One flag is made of silk and carries the inscription: "Long live the Virgin of Guadalupe. We believe in God."

Members of the band who were captured were also brought here, but they have been set free, as the authorities considered they were misled by Gallegos.

A group of rebels who appeared at Ocotlan is now being pursued by Mexican troops. The rebels were discovered eight kilometers from the railway, between Guadalajara and Mexico City.

Telegrams to the Universal from Tlaxcala report that Federal troops had two short combats with rebels at the foothills of La Malintzi volcano. The soldiers captured four horses. One soldier was wounded.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—The Princess Georges Ghika has filed a petition for divorce from her husband, member of a noted Rumanian family closely related to the royal house, after eighteen years of wedded life.

She is better known as Liane de Pougy, the famous beauty, foremost among the galaxy of beautiful French women whose elegance was a byword in the heyday of the Third Republic.

Half Gascon and half Spanish, married at the age of 16 to a French naval officer and divorced two years later, she came to Paris to seek her fortune on the stage. Upon being engaged by the Folies Bergere, she learned that the grandfather of the present Prince of Wales was in Paris. She had sufficient imagination and enterprise to write thus to him:

"Your Royal Highness:

"I am appearing for the first time in Paris. I shall become famous if you deign to come and applaud me."

The then Prince of Wales, intrigued, went to the Folies Bergere and had a stage box with a party including Lady de Grey, Lady Roxburgh and Lady Norris.

Liane, in a spectacular scene, buried them beneath a heap of flowers she was distributing from the stage.

Her success was complete. She was famous next morning, her name soon becoming known all over the world. A friend of Meilhac, Masseenet and many other foremost literary men and artists, she herself published several volumes of verse. As the undisputed leader of the "boulevard world" she was the recipient of princely gifts, admirers vying with each other in magnificence.

One would give a basket of cut flowers, the basket consisting of a Victoria carriage harnessed to a pair of fiery steeds, while another would send to the world's end to procure a priceless curio or art treasure.

One of the most famous episodes in Liane's history was when she appeared at an opera gala performance without a single jewel, but her maid, sitting in the box by her side, was literally smothered beneath a mass of diamonds, pearls, rings, necklaces and bracelets.

Eighteen years ago she suddenly married Prince Georges Ghika and since then has been living in complete retirement and away from the public.

It is rumored that the differences now are caused by the fact that the Prince paid too much attention to a cousin of his wife.

Must Face Ohio Mail Theft Charge.

Joseph Cameron, a man of many aliases, was ordered removed to Cincinnati by United States Commissioner O'Neill yesterday to answer to an indictment charging robbery of the mails in April, 1921. Postal Inspector Francis A. Butler swore in the complaint that Cameron, with others, held up a mail wagon there and escaped with several bags of valuable mail. "Parson" Herbert Wilson, who is serving a life term in the San Quentin prison in California for killing a guard, identified Cameron as one of the mail robbers. A delay was granted until next Monday.

SAYS SISTINE MADONNA IS NOT ALL RAPHAEL'S

German Savant Contends That Daubsters Later Painted in Details in Different Oils.

DRESDEN, Nov. 17 (AP).—Germany's most treasured work of art, the "Sistine Madonna" in the Dresden gallery, one of the world's greatest paintings, is as it hangs today not wholly the work of the great Raphael, says Dr. Moritz Stuebel, German art historian, who has probed the mysteries which for centuries have veiled the origin of the masterpiece.

Unidentified artists, Mr. Stuebel says, nearly ruined the painting after the master's death. The Virgin and Child, the aged man at the right and the young woman at the left are Raphael's work, but the two angels in the foreground, the drapes and the sky, Dr. Stuebel says, were painted in toward the end of the sixteenth century.

Dr. Stuebel asserts that the male figure is not St. Sixtus as commonly accepted, but Pope Julius II, who called Raphael to Rome under his patronage in 1508. Saint Barbara, the woman in the picture, Dr. Stnebel asserts, is the Pope's niece, the beautiful Leonora Gonzaga, Duchess of Urbino. From this the historian concludes that the Madonna was really intended as a sort of private family portrait.

After the Pope's death the painting was removed to the abbey at Piacenza, where it was wanted as a sort of middle window in the rear of the new choir. The sky, the angels and the curtains, Dr. Stuebel says, were painted in with entirely different oils from those Raphael used, to give the effect of the Madonna descending from Heaven amid the blaze of light that shot into the choir from the real windows on either side of the painting.

The canvas hung exposed more than 150 years until agents of King August III of Saxony in 1753 bought it from the monks for $30,000. But even so, Dr. Stuebel expresses amazement that the Madonna has survived the ravages of time more than four centuries. He substantiates legends that artists flocking to Dresden to copy the masterpiece, engaged in brawls and fought for advantageous positions to plant their stools. Easels were toppled over and crashed into the lower part of the canvas, puncturing it in several places. Others, he declares, rubbed the painting with saliva or oil to brighten up the faded portions so that they might better be copied. It was not until within the last century that the painting was hung in a room of its own and guarded day and night.

HONGKONG, Nov. 17.—The steamship Sunning, which was seized and set afire by pirates on the way from Shanghai was towed into Hongkong at noon today. She was almost gutted by fire. Her officers tell an exciting story of her adventure and the killing of ten pirates.

They say that when the vessel cleared at Amoy forty pirates came on board. On Monday afternoon the pirates surprised the officers, seized the bridge and engine room and compelled the officers to navigate the ship in the direction of Bias Bay, the notorious pirate haunt fifty miles north of Hongkong.

At the same time some of the pirates scuttled the vessel for booty, of which they collected many thousands of dollars worth.

One Chinese passenger who resisted was shot dead and four members of the Chinese Compradore's staff were thrown overboard when the pirates failed to find the Compradore's hiding place.

There were eighty Chinese third class passengers aft and only two Europeans in the first class, a Russian woman and H. W. Lapsley, a retired member of the Eastern Telegraph Extension staff in Shanghai.

With the exception of the officers and crew required to work the ship all others were locked in the saloon.

For eight hours the pirates maintained control of the vessel. Captain Pringle and the Second Officer, J. W. Hurst, who were on the bridge, and the Chief Engineer, in the engine room, were closely guarded.

At midnight the position changed dramatically. The pirate guards on the bridge asked where they were, and while the second officer was pointing out the landmarks, the captain seized the last two, stunned both guards and took possession of their two pistols and 100 rounds of ammunition.

The Captain and Second Officer Hurst then quickly released, through the skylight, their fellows imprisoned in the saloon.

Meanwhile the pirate alarm was given and they attempted to recapture the bridge, and the fight in the dark began.

Owing to the narrowness of the passages the officers were able to check all advances. The pirates then brought up G. Cirmack, the chief engineer, and using him as a screen, again advanced. The officers did not see the chief engineer and opened fire and seriously wounded him in killing the pirates. The remaining buccaneers retreated, and later the wounded officer was able to reach the bridge.

For three hours the pirates attempted to dislodge the officers, who continued to snipe at them. Finally, the pirates set fire to the vessel amidships in an attempt, apparently, to burn the officers out. When the fire got beyond control the pirates offered an exchange, which the officers refused.

Meanwhile the fire was threatening to destroy the bridge and its defenders. An unknown steamship passed close, but did not respond to the signals on the Sunning, whose wireless had been disabled.

All but one of the remaining boats were burned or were inaccessible. This boat was lowered with the woman passenger and some of the officers, but the painter caught fire and the boat drifted away. Afterward it was picked up by the steamship Ravensjell.

Mr. Lapsley, who was acting as interpreter, is missing.

The officers and crew fought the flames until morning, when help arrived.

Including the ten pirates killed in attacking the bridge, thirteen who were unable to get away and were arrested, and nine who were picked up in a boat, thirty-two of the pirates were accounted for. It is believed that some of the others were burned to death in the vessel.

Warships which had gone in search have returned. They report no further recoveries.

Drastic Measure to Check Disorder Reaches Second Reading.

DUBLIN, Nov. 17 (AP).—Wide powers are given the Free State Government under the Public Safety bill which was introduced in the Dail Eireann after the recent raids on police barracks and which reached its second reading today.

Upon proclamation by the Government of a state of national emergency, any executives or Ministers of the Government may arrest and detain without trial persons suspected of connection with any one of a number of specified offenses.

These include attempts to overthrow the established Government by violence, possession of arms or explosives, false assumption of military or police rank or uniform, robbery under arms or wrongful entry of property.

An appeal council is provided. If the council report against a Minister, the prisoner must either be released within a month or charged with a specific offense.

Crippled Italian in Tiny Boat Believed Lost Near New York After Lone Trip From Naples

ROME, Nov. 17.—Another tragedy of the high seas was revealed today through the disclosure of the ill-fated voyage of Captain Terezio Fava, who is thought to have perished when only a few miles from his goal in his attempt to reach New York from Torre del Greco, near Naples, alone in an open sailing boat. He started from Torre del Greco eight and a half months ago in the eighteen-foot cutter Stella Maris and was last seen ten weeks ago 200 miles from his journey's end.

Captain Fava lost both his feet through freezing during the war. Despite this handicap, attracted by a prize of $50,000 offered by a rich Italo-American, he set out alone in his little boat on March 3. Forty-five days later he was seen passing through the Straits of Gibraltar. He was again lost sight of till July, when the steamer Assunta met him in mid-ocean. In August the steamer Providence saw him off the coast of Newfoundland. Ten weeks ago the steamer Duillo sighted him 200 miles from New York. Since then he has not been seen.

Captain Fava started with four months' supplies and he has been gone eight and a half months. It is thought possible that he succumbed to hunger and fatigue or perished in a storm off the American coast. The Government has taken an interest in Captain Fava's case and has instructed its representatives abroad to make inquiries to ascertain his fate.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Arlington Street, off Piccadilly, can no longer boast that every house in it is owned by a peer. No. 21, the property of the late Lord Mitchelham, was today sold to Captain Jefferson Cohn, race horse owner, for £75,000. It is understood that he will resell it and that the house will eventually give way to an apartment building.

Lord Mitchelham is said to have spent £80,000 on the decorations alone. The mansion is now full of art treasures, which will be sold at auction, beginning next week.

Many distinguished people, including the Queen of Spain, Princess Beatrice and Lord Lascelles, and many Americans, have visited the famous art collection by invitation during the past few days.

MARLBOROUGH STAYS SECLUDED IN CASTLE

Isolated in Blenheim, He Sees No One Who Would Inquire About Annulment.

CANCELS TRIP TO MADEIRA

Canon Carnegie of Westminster Says He Agrees With Bishop Manning's Views.

WOODSTOCK, Oxon., England, Nov. 17 (AP).—The Duke of Marlborough, because of the light of publicity centred on him through the annulment of his marriage to Consuelo Vanderbilt, has isolated himself at Blenheim Castle, his ancestral home, and is seeing no one who could have any object in inquiring into his marital affairs.

His private secretary, I. Haynes, told The Associated Press today that the Duke had even canceled an engagement to accompany Lord and Lady Birkenhead to Madeira this Winter, so as to remain out of the public view.

The hamlet of Woodstock is getting a thrill of excitement out of the Duke's affair, which it probably has not experienced since those days of long ago when Queen Anne, after the victory at Blenheim, built imposing Blenheim Castle for John the first Duke of Marlborough.

In connection with the report that the Duke intends to enter the Catholic Church, the villagers say that he has been seen less and less frequently in the dncal pew of the Anglican Church of St. Mary Magdalene, which the Dukes of Marlborough have attended since the days of Queen Anne.

At the same time they say that he has been going with greater frequency to the nearby towns of Oxford and Begbroke to attend services in the Catholic churches there.

The Duke sees almost no one but his close personal friends these days and is devoting himself to the cultivation of his large estates on scientific lines.

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP).—The Rev. William Hartley Carnegie, rector of St. Margaret's Anglican Church and Canon of Westminster, said today he endorsed every word uttered by Bishop Manning of New York in protest against the annulment by the Catholic Church of the marriage of Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough.

Cannon Carnegie said that he was equally amazed at the action of the Catholic Church in annulling an Episcopal marriage which had endured for twenty-five years and from which two children were born.

"It is perfectly scandalous and incredible," he said. "If such action could stand, no one's marriage would be safe."

Canon Carnegie is one of the most influential divines in the Church of England and is popular at Court. In addition to being Canon of Westminster and rector of the fashionable St. Margaret's Church, adjoining Westminster Abbey, he is the chaplain of the House of Commons.

He has written voluminously on the Anglican creed and Christian doctrine. His wife was formerly Miss Mary Endicott of Boston, widow of Joseph Chamberlain.

"I am in entire agreement with what my friend, Dr. Manning, said, according to the reports published here," Canon Carnegie said. "Of course, I have not made a complete study of the case, which after all is no direct concern of ours, as we have our own problems."

This reference was to the Church Assembly at present sitting at Westminster to discuss Church questions.

"But I do not hesitate to say," he added, "that 999 out of 1,000 clergymen in the Church of England would fully endorse, as I do, Dr. Manning's pronouncement."

Catholic Procedure Criticised.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Comment on the decree of nullity granted by the Catholic Church to Consuelo Vanderbilt, former Duchess of Marlborough, continues. The London Times, which has received a large correspondence on the question, observes editorially.

"It would be impertinence for those who are not of the Roman communion to examine the theological arguments which justify the decisions of the Sacred Roman Rota. There is no sort of case for formal pronouncements on the subject which are being invited from other Christian Churches. But it is well that those who may have been tempted to extol the Church of Rome as the one consistent champion of indissoluble marriage, who realise the immense responsibility of the Church for moral guidance throughout the world, should realise in the future precisely where they stand.

"Divorce is still ruled out by Rome in any circumstances whatever. On the other hand, there is apparently nothing whatever to prevent any man or woman from discovering that his or her feelings thirty years ago rendered their so-called marriage untrue and of taking successful steps to have it wiped out in spite of the wishes or irreproachable conduct—at first, perhaps, even without the knowledge—of the other party. Long life together, an attempt to make the marriage a success, the birth of children and grandchildren are not to count in the balance.

"The distinction of the procedure remains obvious enough, but so is the matter-of-fact resemblance of its consequences to the more commonplace divorce."

Canon Lacey of Worcester, the English Church authority on marriage law, writes that while the Roman theory of divorce is excellent in practice it is less admirable. Impediments which invalidate marriage are numerous, he says, and unscrupulous persons can use them. He recalls a case in which an Italian married an American woman at Florence and afterward had the marriage annulled because he had given a false declaration of domicile.

Lady Susan Townley, daughter of the Earl of Albemarle, makes an interesting statement in a letter to The London Times on the subject that "no marriage ever did exist because one of the contracting parties refused her consent to it before the ceremony in New York, both in writing and by word of mouth—a fact to which her own mother bore witness before the Diocesan Court of Southwark and which was not challenged by the other party."

The court held that poker was unlawful, as it came within the meaning of the prohibitive gambling clause of the penal code.

SOVIET TO GIVE JEWS NATIONAL AUTONOMY

Kalinin Declares Their Plans Fit In With Government's Scheme of Brotherhood.

100,000 SETTLE IN CRIMEA

200,000 in Adjoining Azof Region, the Whole to Form a State Under the Russian Plan.

By WALTER DURANTY.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Nov. 17.—The wholehearted assistance of the Soviet Government to the Jewish land colonization scheme was pledged today by President Kalinin, in a speech to the Colonization Committee, a number of foreign delegates and the peasant representatives of the various colonies already established.

President Kalinin insisted strongly on the national character of the colonization movement and concluded:

"A Jewish territorial unit should be formed in Russia. Even without assistance from abroad the Soviet Government would cooperate and facilitate its formation."

The President began his speech by explanation of the Soviet federative system. The country is no longer one nation, but a union of free, brotherly peoples, each with its cultural, social and political autonomy, living in its own fatherland, he said.

If any national group fails to have its own fatherland, there can be no true brotherly union, he declared. This conference shows that the Jews are beginning to acquire the character of a nation. As a result of oppression the Jews have maintained their national traditions, but they have not been assimilated.

The Soviet Government does not want them assimilated. It wants to see them an autonomous nation in the Soviet Union.

President Kalinin admitted that the October revolution, while giving the Jews the same rights as the rest of the peoples formerly composing the Czar's empire, had struck them a blow by suppressing private trade in the cities and smaller towns and villages.

The Government wished to repair this by establishing the Jews on the land and developing the handicraft of their peasants and workers.

Some Classes Oppose the Jews.

He declared that there is little anti-Semitic feeling, but in the cities, among the small bourgeoisie and the intelligentsia, it is worse than under the Czar, because when these classes declined to cooperate with the Soviet Government the Jews were willing to do so.

While the prime object of the colonization scheme is economic, to provide work for workless Jews, the Government at the same time sympathizes with the national sentiment of the Jews and wishes to preserve the national character of the movement. It had been said that the Jews were obtaining the best land, but this was quite untrue, President Kalinin said. Crimean land was not available to Russian settlers, because irrigation was too expensive; Azov land was also unavailable because draining it is too expensive.

The Soviet Government was opposed to Jewish emigration or the Palestine settlement, because there the Jews have lived a thousand years, and here they should make a free fatherland by their own constructive labor.

The speech was received with great applause and the delegates were greatly impressed by M. Kalinin's straightforwardness and sincerity. They got the impression that the Soviet Government not only is anxious to help the Jewish colonization by every means within its power, but also is determined to eliminate as far as possible the Jewish fears that danger might result from an anti-Semitic feeling among any section of the population.

Government Can Stem Prejudice.

It may be taken for granted that the Soviet Government holds Russia in far too tight a rein for any popular sentiment, whether anti-Semetic or otherwise, to be translated into action without its approval.

At yesterday's session of the conference telegrams were read from the Central Executive Committee and the Communist Party Central Committee of the Ukraine wishing success to the colonization scheme and announcing that the first large Jewish administrative territorial unit in the Soviet Union is now being created in the region of Kherson, where the oldest Jewish colonies and several new ones are settled.

A prominent Communist, M. Larin, declared it was the intention of the Soviet Government to establish a national Jewish autonomous republic in Northern Crimea and the coterminous coast region bordering on the Sea of Azov. It planned, he said, to settle 100,000 Jews in Northern Crimea and 200,000 in the Azov region, where an extensive drainage project is now being undertaken, to occupy four years in construction, at an expense of 5,000,000 rubles.

Old Feeling Was Artificial.

Extraordinary as it may sound, many people here—belonging, it is true, to the former upper, or bourgeois, class—declare that anti-Semitic sentiment is stronger today than ever before. They argue that, in the old days, the Russian people, as a mass, felt little hostility toward the Jews and that "pogroms" were almost wholly artificial and fomented by the Czarist police and what now might be called the "Fascist Black Hundred," an organization for political purposes, to make Israel the scapegoat of all kinds of revolutionary activity and distract public attention from reforms which the Czar's Government declined to adopt.

This view has been taken even by a number of Communists; but the latter do not draw the conclusion which their adversaries now put forward, that today there is a general anti-Semitic feeling, due, first, to the echo of this old fictitious identification of the Jews with revolution, which holds them responsible for present hardships; second, to jealousy against the comparatively small number of Jews who profited by the "new" economic policy," and, third, the misunderstanding created among the Russian peasant population by reports "that Jewish settlers are receiving the best Russian land."

Prejudice Less Than Formerly.

Unjust as all three points are, the fact remains that there is a considerable amount of anti-semetic feeling at present in Russia; but such sentiment is less than in the pre-revolution period. It is also considerably diminished as compared with three or four years ago.

At that period there was a remarkable efflorescence of gambling rooms, smart restaurants, "thés dansants" and night cafés in Moscow and Petrograd, where Jewish "Nepmen" revelled in a luxury comparable to the old days before the revolution. In 1923 and 1924 all this was suppressed with an iron hand, and it is only within the last six months that a new note of anti-Semitism began to rise among the peasant population in response to what was called the "favoritism" shown the Jews in the matter of land colonization."

Some months ago these grievances found voice in a letter from a Communist schoolmaster living in the Crimea to Soviet President Kalinin, which Kalinin answered—with entire truth and frankness—that the land given to the Jews in the Crimea and other parts of South Russia was not only far smaller in comparison to the numbers of the population than that given to the Russians, but that it was land which was not available for settlement without irrigation, which the Russians were unable to undertake, and which was done by the Jews, thanks to foreign assistance, thus depriving no one and increasing the productivity of the Soviet State.

Nevertheless, the sentiment persists to a certain extent, despite the fact that the "Agrogoint" and other Jewish colonies have done their utmost to conciliate their Russian neighbors by putting at their disposal tractors, well-diggers, wells and technical instructors.

Indeed there is every ground for believing a report of the "Agrogoint" and the Soviet Jewish Committee that the Russian peasants neighboring their colonies are on the friendliest terms with them. There remains a certain hostility in villages that do not profit by the close association and yet hear reports of the sudden progress and—comparatively—superior standard of living of the new Jewish peasant groups.

On such trifling and faulty bases is public sentiment often founded. That it exists is clearly evident from an article in the Soviet press, two or three days ago, by one of the leaders of the Soviet-Jewish colonization committee, deprecating and replying to the unfair anti-Semitic sentiment.

Yesterday Isvestia contained an appeal on similar lines by the well-known poet Mayakofski, who says:

"You see Jews doing a good business in Moscow and hear that they are getting the best land in the Crimea; but do you realize the horrors and misery they suffered—the whips of Cossacks, the Poles' bullets, the ravishment of partisan leaders? From what floods of tears, what bitter agony, they emerged to try to take a place on land when stark hunger cried, 'Land or death.' Barren steppes and encampment huts, then furious, unremitting toil, toil. Now you see them, like our peasants, winning a way to prosperity by the sweat of their brows. Soon you will not know them from Russians in a State where there are no nations and no war."

BASRA, Mesopotamia, Nov. 17.—The Kajar Prince, Abdul Fath Mirza, the Salar-ed-Dowlah, who started an insurrection in Persian Afghanistan with the hope of seizing the throne of Persia, has been arrested by Iraq authorities at Erbil and taken to Bagdad.

The arrest is regarded here as proof of the incorrectness of Persian newspaper assertions that the British were supporting the Kajar pretender.

RED WAR ON OPPOSITION CARRIED TO PROVINCES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

RIGA, Nov. 17.—The recent declaration of repentance by Trotsky, Zinovieff, Kameneff and other Opposition leaders seems not to have appeased the ruling clique of the Russian Communist Party, who are continuing their attacks on the Opposition. Under the pretext of "rendering reports on decisions of the conference," the Stalin group is calling meetings in all centres and the chief subject of these meetings is the fight to restore party unity.

Such an assembly has been held in Leningrad. At this one, Stalin's chief champion, Kiroff, addressed 4,000 Communists, and they afterward passed a resolution urging a merciless war against the Opposition, who, they declared, should be compelled to renounce their mistaken views entirely and to withdraw their charges against the Soviet Government.

Communists of the Leningrad garrison held a still more imposing meeting, which was attended by 5,000 Red officers, commissars, soldiers and sailors. A member of the Revolutionary Military Council, Bubnoff, led the attack here. A resolution was passed urging ruthless eradication of Opposition elements.

There was a characteristic episode in Leningrad at the celebration of the fifth anniversary of Zinovieff University, which was founded by Zinovieff. Kiroff also spoke there. After him came a student named Pavioff, who speaking for the student body, proposed that the name of Zinovieff University be changed, on the ground that Zinovieff had wantonly and systematically shaken the party unity for which the university stood.

When the proposal was put to the meeting the voting proved unsatisfactory, but a resolution to rename the university the Leningrad Communist University was carried.

SAYS COAL AND WOOD ASSURE US FOOD

Dr. L. C. Jones Tells Scientists at Bituminous Meeting Both Will Make Fertilizer.

SMOKELESS FUEL SOUGHT

GAS HEATING IS PREDICTED

Pittsburgh Manufacturer Says It, Not Electricity, Will Be Used In Houses.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—Scientists attending the International Conference on Bituminous Coal at the Carnegie Institute of Technology here today peered into the future and saw the vision of a world fed with products obtained from coal and wood, with automobiles and engines propelled by cheap synthetic oil and with cities free from smoke as the result of the introduction of a prepared smokeless coal.

Due to man's ability to make artificial fertilisers in unlimited quantities, the world can supply four times the present population with food, it was declared. Even the modern coke oven, blast furnace and steel plant will no longer be a menace to pure air, health and beauty, according to speakers.

House heating by gas is more efficient than heating by electricity, it was asserted, and in the future heating homes by coal and coke will have to give way to the use of gas. These were among the contributions made today at the conference by chemical engineers, nitrogen engineers, heating authorities, fertilizer experts and others.

Find Householders Backward.

Speakers who discussed the problem of eliminating the smoke nuisance admitted that so far all efforts to educate the householder in the proper method of firing or to induce him to change his installations had failed. The small home owner has made no advance in his methods of burning coal in the last hundred years, it was said, while industrial plants have made enormous progress.

The solution now being sought by combustion engineers was not in the passing of laws against the smoke nuisance, the policing of chimneys or the "education" of the public to use new devices but in the furnishing of the public with a "fool-proof" prepared smokeless fuel at a price no higher or but little higher than the price of coal today.

It was Dr. Louis C. Jones of the Nitrogen Engineering Corporation, New York, who assured this audience that there was no danger of a world shortage of food for an indefinite period, if ever, and if it should come some time in the dim future, the average man would not starve, he said, adding:

"And when we want, we shall make food from coal or wood. Our Sunday newspaper may furnish the family's Sunday dinner."

"There is sufficient evidence to show that the world is not now hungry for food, but for luxuries, and fertilizer is not needed to produce more food but to produce it with less labor and more cheaply," continued Mr. Jones.

Food Supply Assured Now.

"The invention of machines supplanting human and animal labor for manufacture and transportation, and along with it only a little later the development of modern sanitation limiting disease and pestilence, have on the whole given the world a food supply that has never since failed.

"When the crisis of saturation comes—if it does—from increased population—and it is increasing—we can use much land now untilled; we can save much food now wasted; we can use millions of square miles of additional grazing lands; we can irrigate more; we can replace all horses, mules and dogs with tractors; we may stop using arable land for production of wines and liquors; we may, with new strains of grain, grow two crops per year instead of one; we can fill the subarctic with reindeer and we can, of course, practically double the yield per acre by application of fertilizers."

O. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the United States Bureau of Mines, discussing smokeless coal, pointed out that "smokeless" was a relative term, meaning to the layman a fuel burning without smoke, and to the coal dealer a trade name applied to semi-bituminous coals which smoke little because of their relatively low volatile content.

Mr. Hood declared that every kind of coal could be made to burn without smoke. The fact that it is not being done he ascribed to the reluctance of the consumer to pay the price for the elimination of smoke.

Osborne Monnett, consulting engineer, of Chicago, in a paper asserted that in the country as a whole the smoke nuisance is increasing alarmingly. Even in Eastern cities, which use cheap "smokeless" coal and anthracite, there has been a noticeable increase in smoke in the last few years, he said.

Hope for smoke abatement rests with the large plants where fuel is burned under the supervision of a few skilled men working with well planned furnace instalments, according to Mr. Monnett. He said that as far as the great mass of small household heating plants was concerned, there has been no advance in methods of burning coal in a hundred years.

The obvious solution of the problem, added Mr. Monnett, was to avoid the human element and the replacement of existing equipment, and for fuel engineers to find a prepared fuel which will meet the competition of raw fuel.

Horace C. Porter, a consulting engineer, of Philadelphia, agreed with Mr. Monnett that pre-treatment of coal for making smokeless fuel was the solution of the smoke nuisance problem. He described several such methods and said that in order to make a locality 100 per cent smokeless it was necessary merely to devise a process that will give a low priced prepared fuel to compete with bituminous coal on a close margin of price and of such quality as to meet the demands for steaming capacities and other firing qualities of bituminous coal.

E. A. Brassert, consulting engineer of Chicago, said that at most American iron and steel plants the opportunity existed for substantial fuel savings, especially by more efficient and more complete use of surplus gases and waste heat.

C. J. Ramsburg, Vice President of the Koppers Company, Pittsburgh, discussing modern methods of gas manufacture, sought to dispel the idea, largely accepted, that electricity would be used for heat and dust gas in a short time. He said that it could easily be demonstrated that by modern methods heat is delivered in the form of gas with much greater efficiency than in the form of electricity.

"As modern life is built on comfort, the heating of houses by gas, with thermostat control," said Mr. Ramsburg, "is largely and inevitably going to supplant the coal and coke furnace with its constant necessity for attention and with its accompanying space occupation, dirt and other discomforts. Even though the cost of such heating is going to be greater, the demand for comfort is insistent."

Geoffrey M. Gill, a consulting engineer, of London, agreed with Mr. Brassert that there were no signs that electricity would take the place of gas. Where electricity has been strenuously pushed, there gas also is making satisfactory progress, he said. Both were essential services and will continue to be so, he remarked, adding, "both have a great future ahead of them."

Dr. Franz Fischer, director of the Institute of Coal Research, Mulheim-am-Ruhr, Germany, told of his method of producing synthetic oils from coal. Obtaining carbon monoxide, a poisonous gas, from coal, he said, he was able, by adding hydrogen, to get a large number of artificial oils, including gasoline, lubricating oils and paraffine.

The convention will continue tomorrow.

PLAN AIR MAIL TO ATLANTA.

Department Will Select One of Three Routes From New York.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—With a view to establishing a contract air mail route between New York City and Atlanta in the near future, the Postoffice Department is considering various tentative air routes along the Atlantic seaboard.

Three routes are under consideration. Second Assistant Postmaster General Glover said today that as soon as one of these is chosen bids will be invited.

There is no question about the location of the northern end of the line. New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore to Washington is the only logical route, and Richmond appears to be the next probable stop, but beyond that point there is considerable divergence of opinion.

The most favored route from the business standpoint is the one paralleling the Southern Railroad through Greensboro, Winston-Salem, High Point, Charlotte and Greenville.

On the other hand, a route west of the mountains via Roanoke, Knoxville and Chattanooga is characterized as ideal for flying, with frequent places for emergency landings. The third route suggested runs down the coast line through Raleigh, Columbia and Augusta.

Pier Fisherman Drowned by Fall.

Tumbling off the United States Naval Reserve pier, Ninety-sixth Street and North River, from which he and Louis Pecola of 78 State Street, Long Island City, were fishing yesterday morning, John Kerrigan, 36, of 8 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, was drowned. Pecola threw a rope, but Kerrigan did not come to the surface.

SAYS AMERICAN SHIP SOLD LIQUOR AT SEA

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 17 (AP).—Charges that an American ship opened a bar outside the twelve-mile limit and sold intoxicating liquors to passengers formed the basis of a resolution which the Committee on Resolutions of the National Grange had before it tonight.

The resolution, one of three introduced today dealing with the use of liquor, seeks an investigation by the National Grange Executive Committee and formal complaint to the proper Federal authorities if evidence to support the accusations can be found.

This action by the Grange was sought by George R. Harrison of California, following the statement on the convention floor by another delegate that he had seen liquor sold on an American vessel bound from New York to the Pacific Coast. The latter, whose name was not disclosed, declared that the bar was opened when the ship had passed the twelve-mile limit and continued to sell intoxicating beverages until the ship neared the Canal Zone. After leaving the canal, he reported, the bar was again opened and continued to do business until the vessel approached the California coast.

Federal Agents Arrest One Man In Union City Raid.

A large modern bottling plant and a quantity of alleged needle-beer, needle-ale and paraphernalia for stepping up near-beer with alcohol, was seized yesterday afternoon by three prohibition agents in a raid on 707 Thirtieth Street, Union City, N. J.

Seven truck loads of equipment was carried away and two officers were left to guard the rest of the equipment and beverages. According to the authorities, the haul is valued at between $300,000 and $400,000.

The agents arrested John Cordelle, 365 Commercial Avenue, Cliffside, N. J., and charged him with possessing beverages of illegal alcoholic content. Cordelle was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edward R. Stanton in Hoboken last night and held in $1,000 bail for the action of the Federal Grand Jury.

The police are searching for the owner of the plant. It is believed that at least twelve men were employed in the plant. These, it is thought, were let out by a side entrance while the Federal officers were waiting to be admitted to the building.

FRANCQUI LEAVES GUIDE FOR BELGIUM

Abandoning Finance Ministry Because of Ill Health, He Tells How to Guard Franc.

WARNS AGAINST INFLATION

Financier Outlines Projects for Nation Which Will Assure Sound Currency.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 17.—M. Francqui, Belgian financier, to whose efforts is largely attributed the stabilization of Belgian currency, in leaving the service of his Government in the Finance Ministry today, prepared a "financial testament" for the guidance of his colleagues which has caused a profound impression in the country.

After reminding the Belgians what has been accomplished, M. Francqui warns them that they must have no illusions about the situation.

"The effect of the measures which we have taken will not be consolidated or definitive until after a lapse of time, the length of which must be inverse to the rigor with which the measures are executed," writes the banker. "In the interval the Government and the Bank of Belgium must take the most minute precautions to prevent the results which we have brought about from being again placed in the balance. The political policy to be followed must also be that which we have inaugurated. Only by this ccurse can Belgium avoid another financial crisis."

Recalls Critical Financial State.

M. Francqui began his testament by briefly referring to the critical state of Belgian finances when the Jaspar-Francqui Government took control, and then went on to state the outstanding changes which can be observed:

"Metallic reserve is now at 190,000,000 francs, finances of both the State and the State Bank have been placed on a sound basis and the franc stabilized at 175 to the pound.

"The stabilization loan has risen on the Bourse from 55 to 73, while the money due from the State to the Bank of Belgium has been brought down to 2,000,000,000 francs."

The financier then warned that under no condition must Belgium consent to inflation.

"An insurmountable barrier must separate State credits from those of the State Bank, for there must be a complete end to all further inflation to meet budgetary deficiencies," he declared.

Lists Things to Be Done.

Finally, M. Francqui, whose whole testament is in reality a warning to the people of Belgium to remain in a sort of state of financial mobilization until all danger of a setback has disappeared, gives the following list of things which he feels must be done on the economic side if stabilization is to become absolutely assured:

Extension of the work of opening new coal fields, development of the Port of Antwerp, more extensive use of the national wealth in development of public utilities, increased development of Belgian colonies, improvement in the efficiency of Belgian production and encouragement of Belgian exportation.

The Government today gave its approval to M. Francqui's plan and will begin immediately to put it into effect as the resources and opportunities of the State permit. For example, it was in response to M. Francqui's suggestion that the National Bank of Belgium bought in New York today a new lot of $1,250,000 in gold with which to augment the metallic reserve.

"I leave the Government because of my health," said M. Francqui in conclusion, "but my services always will remain at the disposition of the King. I have had the satisfaction of accomplishing what I believed to be my solemn duty."

Immigration Inspector Dismissed.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Nov. 17 (AP).—Edward H. Twohey, one of the oldest immigration inspectors in length of service in the first district, master of several languages and authority on immigration matters, in charge of the local office since 1920, has been dismissed on charges of misconduct by the Secretary of Labor.

FRANCE STILL LOSES IN WORKING POWER

Geneva Economic Analysis Discloses an Increase in Six Other Nations.

GERMANY GROWS FASTEST

By 1941 Her Population Will Be 12,000,000 Greater Than in 1910.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 17.—Among the papers prepared for the Preparatory Economic Committee is a document indicating an anticipated increase in the working populations—between 15 and 70 years—of various countries in 1931 and 1941, with statistics showing a decreased birth rate, to some extent offset by a decreased death rate.

Despite the fact that France is the only important nation showing an increase in excedent births over deaths during the past decade, France's working population—which is now 500,000 under the 1910 figures will, in 1931 still show a loss of 333,000 workers. In 1941 the loss will be increased to 800,000. The figures naturally do not take into account migration.

Germany's working population in 1931 will be increased by 10,000,000, and in 1941 by 12,000,000, over the figures for 1910.

Great Britain's working population will be increased 5,000,000 and 7,000,000; Italy's, 6,000,000 and 9,000,000; the United States, 21,000,000 and 29,000,000; Australia's, 1,000,000 and 1,500,000; Japan's, 7,000,000 and 10,500,000.

The percentages show that France has lost 2 per cent., Great Britain gained 26½, Germany gained 34, Italy 32, the United States 50, Australia 61, and Japan 32 per cent.

The figures show that France and Japan were the only nations to increase their birth rate in 1923 over 1910. The increase in France was from 19.1 to 19.4 per thousand. In Japan the increase was from 33.8 to 34.5. But the death rate in Japan has increased from 20.4 to 22 per thousand, bringing down the excedent from 13.4 to 12.5, whereas in France the death rate decreased from 18.3 to 1.9, increasing the excedent of 1923 over 1910 from 0.8 to 1.9.

Japan, however, was the only country with an increased death rate. All other important countries showed a substantial decrease in the death rate, hut not sufficient to prevent a decrease in the excedent of population.

In Great Britain, during the period from 1910 to 1923, the birth rate decreased from 24.7 per thousand to 19.3; Germany decreased from 28.9 to 20.7, Italy from 32.4 to 28.3, Australia from 27.5 to 23.5.

In Great Britain the death rate decreased from 14 to 12.2, in Germany from 16.4 to 12.7, in Italy from 19.8 to 16.6, in Australia from 10.8 to 9.7.

Statistics for the United States are not available, because birth registration is not compulsory in all the American States.

$3,000 FOR AUTO DEATH.

Father of Victim Gets Verdict Against a Policeman.

A sealed jury verdict opened yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Leander B. Faber in a suit by Walkyl Orysczyn to recover $25,000 each from First Deputy Police Commissioner John A. Leach and his chauffeur, Policeman Frederick Cordes, awarded $3,000 damages against Cordes only for the death of the plaintiff's son by a police automobile. The boy, Stephen Orysczyn, 8 years old, was killed in 1924 while roller-coasting on the street in front of his home at 868 Lorimer Street, Brooklyn.

At the trial both the Deputy Commissioner and Cordes denied negligence and testified that the auto was moving at fifteen miles or less at the time of the accident. The car was equipped with four-wheel brakes, it was said, which enabled the chauffeur to stop it almost instantly. Mr. Leach was seated in the rear of the car and did not see the boy.

LADY YARBOROUGH DIES OF SLEEPING SICKNESS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Countess of Yarborough, who was in the remarkable position of holding three titles of the nobility, died today at her Lincolnshire home of sleeping sickness.

In addition to being Lady Yarborough she also was Baroness Conyers and Baroness Fauconberg. Greatly interested in politics she spent much time working for the Conservative Party. She also did much to revive English folk dancing.

Marcia Amelia Mary Pelham was the eldest co-heir of two great Generals, the Duke of Schomberg and the Duke of Marlborough. She became Baroness Conyers when her father, the twelfth Lord Conyers, died in 1892. Her title as Countess of Yarborough was acquired by her marriage to the fourth Earl of Yarborough in 1886. She became Baroness Fauconberg in her own right in 1903 when letters patent to the title were issued by the King. This latter title had been held in abeyance since 1491 when the Baroness of Fauconberg died. Her heirs were her grandsons, Sir James Strangways and William, the first Lord Conyers, through whose line the succession devolved upon the Countess of Yarborough. She was an officer in the Order of the British Empire and a Lady of Justice of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. Her estates were in the North and West Riding of Yorkshire.

HARRIS SEEKS A LAW TO VACCINATE DOGS

Increase in Cases of Rabies Here Prompts Commissioner's Plan to End the Menace.

ASKS AID OF ALL DOCTORS

Cites Death of Boy in Warning That Any One Bitten Be Treated With Anti-Rabic Serum.

Alarmed by the increase in the number of dogs suffering from rabies, Health Commissioner Harris announced yesterday that he would call a conference of physicians and veterinarians soon to consider establishing stations where dogs can be immunized. Dr. Harris plans to present an ordinance to the Board of Health that will require owners to have their dogs vaccinated against rabies as a condition of licensing.

Figures given out by Dr. Harris show that in the first six months this year 200 cases of positive rabies were found in an examination of 395 dogs. In the same period in 1925 twenty-five cases were found among 152 dogs. The records were compiled by the Commissioner's department from reports made by policemen and hospitals. They show that in the first six months this year 7,000 persons were bitten, as compared with 4,077 in the corresponding period last year.

The recent death from rabies of John Millbrandt, 10 years old, of 80 Merrick Road, Jamaica, was one reason that decided Dr. Harris to call a conference to consider the spread of the disease. The Millbrandt boy died in the Kingsbridge Avenue Hospital on Oct. 28 from rabies. He was bitten by a stray chow dog on Aug. 14 while playing with other boys in the back yard of his home.

Dr. Harris said that the attention of the medical profession and the public should be called to the importance of treating those bitten by rabid or suspected dogs with anti-rabic vaccine. While rabies in dogs is at present widespread and the number of dog bites more than 100 per cent. greater than they were last year, Dr. Harris pointed out, the Millbrandt case was the first one of human rabies recorded in New York in more than three years.

TURKS INSURE THE GOEBEN.

Get Lloyds Policy on Cruiser Being Repaired by Germans.

LONDON, Nov. 17 (AP).—There is a flavor of irony in the fact, says The Daily Mail, that insurance of about $1,600,000 has been placed with Lloyds, London, against risks of damage to the Turkish cruiser Sultan Yawuz Selim, formerly the German Goeben, which is being lifted into dock at Goldjuk, near Constantinople, for repairs by German engineers.

Early in the World War the Goeben, then belonging to the German Navy, arrived in Constantinople after a spectacular escape from British pursuers in the Mediterranean. The arrival of the Goeben through the Dardanelles was one of the factors leading Turkey to join Germany instead of the Allies in the World War.

WANTS YALE RID OF STREET.

College Paper Suggests Two-Block Tunnel to Insure Quiet.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17 (AP).—To obtain "peace and seclusion" for Yale men, The Yale Daily News today suggests that Elm Street, one of the city's principal highways, be eliminated for two blocks where it runs through the heart of the university. A tunnel from below College Street to York Street, sending the traffic below the surface and leaving Yale "free from the discomforts of New Haven's noisiest and most congested avenue," is the method offered.

By the tunnel, The News says, "Yale would benefit more than by gift of the lecture hall, library, hockey rink, theatre and all the new dormitories."

HARVARD MEN TO TALK OVER PRINCETON BREAK

Matter Will Be Discussed Here at Meeting of Associated Clubs Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—One of the discussions to come before the regular meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs in New York on Friday evening, will deal with the "dropping" of Harvard from the Princeton schedules, it was learned here today. President A. Lawrence Lowell will attend the meeting.

John W. Hallowell, President of the organization, said that scores of letters, telegrams and resolutions relative to the severance of relations between the Tigers and the Crimson, had been received.

"I feel that when the heat blows over," he said, "and the Harvard and Princeton graduates have been apprised of the facts, that there will be an understanding, and that with time as the great healer, the two colleges will reach some sane basis. The situation is muddled, but it is inconceivable that the graduates and undergraduates of two great universities should not get together.

"The Lampoon incident is regretted by all Harvard men because it does not do justice to the manners and customs of the rest of the Harvard student body. The Associated Harvard Clubs' attitude has been to 'back up Bingham,' and we fully expect to continue. It is my firm belief that he deserves unqualified backing, and I believe that Harvard alumni will agree when they are in possession of a sound idea of his policies and aims."

$75,000 Awarded in Sea Injury.

A verdict of $50,000 damages was returned yesterday by a Federal Court jury in Newark for Mrs. Madeline Carter of Hoboken, in her suit against the United States Shipping Board for compensation for a permanent injury to her knee cap which she received on the liner President Harding. The jury also awarded $25,000 to her husband, Jesse J. Carter. Mrs. Carter alleged that she slipped on an orange peel and fell down a companionway. She charged negligence.

menced to crowd out the residences in King and Queen Streets, and the names were changed to Pine Street and Cedar Street after the defeated British army evacuated New York during the Revolution; but as late as 1817 only a queer little two-story structure known as the New York Galleries stood on the site of the present American Surety Building at 100 Broadway."

Francis D. Gallatin, Park Commissioner, said he always had a warm feeling for Broadway because he lived near it as a boy, and because he dropped a valuable package on it one day.

"I had been sent by mother with a bottle of whisky, I believe it was Rock and Rye, to my grandmother, who had a bad cold," he said. "I was standing in front of a shop window when it slipped out of my hand and splashed on the sidewalk, making a big spot. So Broadway is a very dear street to me," he added amid the laughter of the guests.

Mr. Gallatin said he was not very proud of the condition of the parks on Broadway, because so little could be done for them, due to lack of money. The fences were continually being broken down, and there was not enough money to employ men to keep them in repair, he asserted. He also said he thought the old "sparrow cops," as the park squad used to be called, should be revived, as the average policemen used to chasing burglars was not very much excited about a small boy climbing a tree.

Other speakers were F. W. Lafrentz, Chairman of the Board of the American Surety Company, Lee J. Eastman and Colonel George Vidmer who is organizing the parade which will march down Broadway on Friday.

Jamaica Port Ceases to Be Free.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 17 (AP).—The Legislative Council today repealed the law making Kingston a free port of call. All vessels calling at this port hereafter must pay 2 cents a ton. The money thus raised will be spent on improvement of the harbor and for extra navigation lights.

DEFENDS BARNETT IN GIFT TO BAPTISTS

Counsel Opposes Move to Bar $550,000 Trust Fund of Wealthy Indian.

CREEK'S WILL REVEALED

Lawyer Alleges Federal Attorney Drew Papers Bequeathing Fortune to Mission Society.

The action instituted to prevent Jackson Barnett, the Creek Indian, from turning over $550,000 for a trust fund for the benefit of the American Baptist Home Mission Society was continued yesterday before Federal Judge Knox. On Tuesday Carroll G. Walters of counsel for Elmer S. Bailey, Barnett's guardian, opposed the establishment of the fund, now in the custody of the Equitable Trust Company, and ended his presentation yesterday. Charles B. Rogers, counsel for the mission society, then began the presentation of the case for the society.

Barnett's money came from royalties paid for the marketing of oil found on land in Oklahoma which was allotted to him by the Government.

Mr. Rogers asserted that Barnett never had an opportunity to testify as to his competency; that Carl J. O'Hornett, Barnett's first guardian, had tried to induce Barnett to lease to one Cornelius of Tulsa, Okla., sixty-eight acres of his oil land, and that attempts were made to induce Mrs. Barnett to leave her husband by offering her $150,000 for the desertion. Mr. Rogers defended the honesty of M. L. Mott, once counsel for the Creek Nation, who had taken a leading part in the negotiations attending the establishment of the trust fund.

He intimated that Mr. Mott had aroused the enmity of politicians because of his attack on "land grafters" and that Charles H. Burke, the Creek Nation counsel, and others had been instrumental in bringing about the establishment of the fund. The endorsement of the actions of Mr. Burke was in reply to statements made by Mr. Walters reflecting upon the actions of certain men interested in the creation of the trust.

It was also alleged by Mr. Walters that Edwin C. Booth, a special assistant United States Attorney in Oklahoma, had drawn for Barnett a will in which he bequeathed to his wife and to the mission society his fortune of more than $1,000,000 in the event that the fund established for the society should prove to be illegal.

Mr. Rogers, in presenting the other side of the case, attacked the county court of Okmulgee County, Okla., and asserted that the court permitted Barnett, although a millionaire, to live in a squalid four-room shack.

Mr. Rogers charged that some of the counsel for the plaintiff were interested in the case only so far as contingent fees were involved by an apportionment of the property of Barnett among relatives. The trial will be continued today.

THOMAS SCOFFS AT POLITICS

Socialist Calls It "Bunk" and "Ideal for Big Business."

A political situation in which the politicians' motto is "the public be fooled" rather than "the public de damned" was characterized as "ideal for big business" by Norman Thomas in an address yesterday afternoon in the McMillin Academic Theatre at Columbia University.

A debate, Socialism versus Capitalism, had originally been planned for yesterday afternoon by the Social Problems Club, with Mr. Thomas speaking for the Socialists and Ivy Lee, public relations counsel, opposing him. It was announced that Mr. Lee was unable to attend and that Mr. Thomas would speak on "Politics and Bunk."

"I wanted very much to stage this debate with the 'Prince of press-agents'," said Mr. Thomas, "for I feel if any one in the United States can defend capitalism, he is the man."

Mr. Thomas said there was little difference between the leading parties and went on:

"The reason for this political situation is that it is best for the business men. As long as politicians never discuss fundamental issues, they will never bring about fundamental reform and change the course of business. As long as you can fool the people with this sort of bunk, so long business interests will go their way."

TO FIX BROWNING ALIMONY.

Justice Morschauser Will Hand Down Decision Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 17.—It was definitely learned today that Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser will hand down a decision at Poughkeepsie on Saturday, and fix the alimony and counsel fees to be allowed to Mrs. Frances "Peaches" Browning, to enable her to fight the separation suit brought by her husband, Edward W. Browning.

Browning charges cruelty and abandonment and in a reply affidavit submitted today she admits the separation but declares she was forced to leave her husband because of his conduct toward her which affected her "physical condition and health."

When the alimony application is decided, the case may be tried before Justice A. S. Tompkins, who presides in the Supreme Court at Poughkeepsie during January.

Boston University Enrolls 11,744.

BOSTON, Nov. 17 (AP).—Boston University today reported the largest registration in its history, a total for the current academic year of 11,744. This figure exceeds the record mark of last year by 702. The growth has been in all departments except in the School of Medicine, where registration is limited. Exclusive of extra-mural students, the total enrolment is 10,341 as compared with 9,057 at the same time last year.

$112,574 ADDED TO JEWISH FUND

Total Subscriptions to Date Are $3,317,607, Federation Announces.

DRIVE MEETINGS CALLED

P. S. Straus Says Rest of the Sum Sought Will Have to Be Given Mostly by New Subscribers.

Additional subscriptions of $112,574 toward the $4,720,000 goal of the tenth anniversary campaign of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies were announced yesterday by Frederick Brown, General Chairman of the campaign, at headquarters in the Hotel Pennsylvania. This brings the total to date to $3,317,607.

Henry Morgenthau, Chairman of the Special Prospects Committee, and Eli H. Bernheim, Associate Chairman, will meet at noon today at the Uptown Club with William Goldman, Samuel D. Leidesdorf, Arthur Mayer, Samuel Mundheim, David Tishman, G. Richard Davis and I. Edwin Goldwasser. This committee to date has raised $175,000 for the federation, and the meeting today is for further reports and to make plans for continued work.

Percy S. Straus, Chairman of the Business Men's Council of the federation, has called a special dinner meeting of the councilors and division heads representing the 134 trades and professions participating in the campaign for next Monday night. Plans will be made for the final spurt in the campaign and reports will be submitted of the money raised this week.

Mr. Straus said yesterday that the first $3,000,000 reported represented for the most part sums which the federation could rely on from year to year as regular subscriptions, but that the balance of the $4,720,000 sought was comparatively difficult to get, as it had to be obtained through new accounts and from increased amounts from subscribers already on the federation rolls.

Commissioner of Plant and Structures Albert Goldman reported yesterday that the workers in the Bronx division of the federation were obtaining hundreds of new members, and that the Bronx expected to exceed $150,000, the amount raised last year. The Bronx executive committee will meet tonight at the Concourse Plaza Hotel to make final plans for the testimonial dinner to be given on Sunday night, Nov. 28, to Benjamin Benenson, leading worker of the Bronx and real estate divisions.

The restaurant committee will hold a luncheon meeting today and the printers and stationers also will meet at noon at the Hotel Pennsylvania to discuss the situation in that field.

Fourteen Naval Dentists Promoted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Coolidge today approved the promotion of fourteen officers in the naval dental corps to the rank of commander. The officers are Lieut. Commanders Emory A. Bryant, Harry S. Harvey, James L. Brown, Eugene H. Tennent, Joseph A. Mahoney, Leon Martin, Anson F. McCreary, John W. Crandall, Marion E. Harrison, Ernest W. Lacy, Lucian C. Williams, Harry W. Blaisdell, Paul G. White and Cornelius H. Mack.

WORKERS VOTE, 4 TO 1, TO END CLOAK STRIKE

Will Return to Shops Today, but Continue Fight Against the Jobbers, Union Says.

The strike in the garment industry came officially to an end yesterday, as the result of a ballot cast by the strikers, who voted to accept the peace terms already agreed upon by their leaders and the manufacturers. The vote was 9,945 for acceptance, and 2,533 against. The strike lasted twenty weeks.

The new contract will remain in effect until June, 1929. It grants slightly higher wages, as recommended by the Governor's Commission, but allows the manufacturers to reorganize their shops once a year with the right, where a certain number of workers are employed, to discharge 10 per cent. of the working force.

The strikers will report for work today, and it is expected work will be fully resumed by Monday so far as the inside shop manufacturers are concerned.

Union officials said last night that the strike against the jobbers and sub-manufacturers would continue. The jobbers, they said, were responsible for the strike.

Bethany Air-Mail Tower Ready.

BETHANY, Conn., Nov. 17 (AP).—A steel tower on which will be mounted a mammoth searchlight to guide night flying by aviators has been completed by the Department of Commerce on Bethany flying field, over which air-mail planes pass daily. This tower is one of a number which the department is installing between Boston and New York.

PATROLMAN SAVES NEGRO FROM CROWD

ROW STARTS OVER JOSTLING

Six Are Injured by Flying Glass—Offender Gets Six Months in Prison.

Joseph Williams, 24 years old, a negro of 165 West 133d Street, was held at the West 100th Street Police Station last night on a disorderly conduct charge after he had been rescued from a crowd that was kicking and beating him at the Ninety-sixth Street and Broadway station of the Interborough subway. In an attempt to enter a subway car in pursuit of a man and woman who had accidently jostled him, Williams crashed his fist through the glass of a door. A number of persons were standing on the car platform and six of them were cut by the broken glass.

Several others on the station platform attacked the negro and he was being worsted when arrested by Patrolman Michael Cummins of the traffic squad. The injured passengers were treated by Dr. Brown of Knickerbocker Hospital and then left for their homes.

Leo Sugar, 24 years old, of 68 West 117th Street, and André Romides, 23, of 39 West 117th Street, were the two passengers most seriously hurt. Some were knocked off their feet and trampled in the confusion. Cummins had some difficulty in rescuing Williams from the crowd.

Williams received a sentence of six months in the workhouse when arraigned before Magistrate Oberwager in the Night Court. In finding him guilty, the Magistrate said:

"Williams, you might have caused a serious panic by your actions."

FILLING COMMUNITY CHESTS

Several Suburbs Complete Campaigns—30,000 Contributors.

Nearly 30,000 individuals in fifteen suburbs of New York have contributed to simultaneous community chest drives in their communities, giving up to last night $1,146,000.

Successful completion of their drives was announced by the Oranges, Montclair, Bloomfield, Bronxville and Glen Ridge. Morristown will end its campaign tonight with $149,692 in hand out of a desired $175,000. White Plains last night needed $19,000 to reach its $90,000. Mount Vernon reported receipts of $42,000. Plainfield $44,215 and Newark $464,923.

MAN 85 AND WOMAN 69 GET LICENSE TO WED

Then Their Expected Marriage Is Put Off, It Is Said, to Await Relatives.

Nelson S. Easton, a widower, 85 years old, and Mrs. Anna Gregory Allen, a widow, 69, journeyed down to the Marriage License Bureau of the Municipal Building yesterday morning and traced shaky signatures at the bottom of a marriage license. Then they disappeared uptown, ostensibly to be married in the afternoon at the Church of the Ascension, Fifth Avenue and Tenth Street.

They were not married, however, and, according to Mr. Easton, who lives at 13 Bank Street, they will not be for several days. At the church it was said the couple awaited the arrival of friends or relatives returning from Europe.

Mr. Easton, who is a retired business man, lives in an apartment filled with reminders of the past. On his walls are pictures of persons in the attire of the '90s. Mrs. Allen, who gave her address at the Hotel Brevoort, could not be reached there. According to the marriage license, she has been a widow since 1916. Mr. Easton has been a widower two years.

A Statement From The

E. A. WHITE ORGANIZATION, Inc.

We have been receiving numerous applications for executive positions from executives engaged in lines of business other than our own. They have approached us thinking that their running start in business should give them preference over our own enormous force of salesmen and that they may become one of our sales directors. This message goes forth hoping that it will attract the attention of men in our line of business as to the policy which this company now pursues.

It is imperative that promotions in our company should be made from the ranks of the sales force. To fill an executive position the applicant must at some time have been in the employ of the White Organization and have received his training under our direction. Our executives are promoted from the ranks and we are broadcasting this information.

We know this policy will interest our own salesmen. It bespeaks an opportunity for every salesman and sales manager who is or was in the employ of the White Organization.

We will be interested in granting an interview to former E. A. White Organization employees and to present E. A. White employees who seek promotion.

Our plans for 1927, now being formulated, are very extensive. They call for the opening of branch offices in several of the very large cities, and the carrying out of our plans will lead us thru 1927 with the largest amount of lot sales in the history of our company. For comparison, allow us to state that in the past thirty months the E. A. White Organization sales amount to in excess of $40,000,000—53 subdivisions in Greater New York properties.

Our Mr. Frank A. Samuels, who has gained his position thru promotion from salesman to sales manager, sales director, and is now our general sales director, is available at all times to give open consideration to your qualifications.

IT IS OUR INTENTION TO INCREASE OUR PRESENT SALES FORCE OF OVER 1,000 MEN TO 2,000 MEN. GET WITH, AND GROW WITH US. COMMISSION BASIS.

We will receive applications at our home office, 225 W. 34th St., New York City, or at our Main Brooklyn Office, 144 Pierrepont St., Boro Hall, from sales directors, sales managers and salesmen for the following offices:

GRADE ELIMINATION PLANS ARE PUSHED

Engineers Confer With the Transit Board—To Report Within Sixty Days.

FLASHING SIGNALS URGED

Suggestion Is Made to Protect Crossings Pending the Removal of Hazards.

Acting under a call by Mayor Walker, a conference of engineers representing the Long Island Railroad and the city boards and departments directly concerned was held yesterday in the rooms of the Transit Commission, 270 Madison Avenue, preliminary to formulating plans for the elimination of the Long Island Railroad's grade crossings in Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn and Queens.

The conference was executive in character and, while no conclusions were reached, there was a general discussion of the problem in all its aspects. At the end of the meeting Commissioner Godley issued the following statement:

"I told the committee of engineers that we wanted their plans for eliminating the grade crossings, in connection with any plan for city improvements or any extensions that the Long Island Railroad desired to make, if any, and particularly a report as to the four possible plans that had been suggested and the cost of each:

"(1) The elimination by depression from Atkins Avenue to Jamaica with a roadway over the depression.

"(2) The removal from Atlantic Avenue of all elevated structures from Flatbush Avenue to Jamaica to provide a 130-foot street all the way out.

"(3) Elimination by elevation.

"(4) The consideration of the use of the Atlantic Avenue division in connection with any subway plans.

"And, in addition, their opinion as engineers as to the best plan for the elimination, taking into consideration the future development of the city.

Committee to Meet Again.

"There was informal discussion as to details of the various plans proposed. The chief engineer of the Long Island Railroad is to send to the other engineers detailed drawings which were prepared some time ago, showing the different methods for the proposed elimination. The committee is to meet Wednesday, Nov. 24, for its next session. It hopes to be able to complete its report within sixty days, and upon the completion of the report the matter will be taken up with the proper city authorities and the officials of the Long Island Railroad.

"The Transit Commission is prohibited by law from ordering an elevated structure without the consent of the city authorities, so that unless the city consents, the only thing we can do is to order the depression of tracks."

Those present in addition to Commissioner Godley, who presided, were Colonel William C. Lanesater, Chief Engineer of the Transit Commission; L. V. Morris, Consulting Engineer of the Long Island Railroad; Arthur S. Tuttle, Chief Engineer of the Board of Estimate; Robert Ridgway, Chief Engineer of the Board of Transportation; Charles U. Powell, representing Borough President Maurice E. Connolly of Queens; Philip P. Farley, representing Borough President James J. Byrne, Brooklyn, and Robert E. McIntyre, representing Controller Charles W. Berry.

After the conference the Transit Commission held a public hearing to elicit information concerning such safety devices as might be adopted, pending elimination of the Atlantic Avenue grade crossings, at one of which five lives were lost recently, to render them less dangerous in the meantime.

Flashing light signals to supplement the gates at the hazardous crossings were recommended as an immediate expedient by Mr. Lancaster. A feature of Colonel Lancaster's testimony was his statement that in fifty-eight accidents of which the commission had a record, twenty-five, or 43 per cent occurred when the crossing gates were up.

He also cited figures on the number of accidents at the nineteen grade crossings between East New York, Brooklyn and Jamaica, Queens, from Aug. 7, 1907, until Nov. 6, 1926. In that period, he said, there have been eighty-one accidents at these crossings in which forty-two persons have been injured and forty-nine killed. The last five years have shown a marked increase in the number of accidents, he added.

Automatic flashing signal lights heralding the approach of a train thirty seconds before it crosses the roadway would be the most logical safety device, he said, until the crossings themselves are eliminated.

Lights Work Independently.

The lights would work independently of the operation of the gates, he explained, and would merely supplement the gates now in use. They have been adopted as standard equipment by the State Public Service Commission, he testified, and are at present in use on Staten Island and on the Putnam Division of the New York Central. The maximum cost of installation on all nineteen crossings, he said, would be about $114,000.

Another witness, Kenneth Youel, a reporter for The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, testified that he had seen a boy of fifteen operate the gates at the 102d Street crossing of the line.

Other witnesses included signal engineers and train commuters of the Long Island road, many of the latter telling of sleeping watchmen and open gates.

Commissioners Charles C. Lockwood and Leon G. Godley presided at the hearing which was conducted by Clarence M. Lewis, chief counsel.

GIVES $50,000 FUND FOR NURSES' PENSIONS

Harmon Foundation Makes the Donation—Plans for Retirement at Age of 60.

A gift of $50,000 by the Harmon Foundation toward the organization of a pension fund for registered nurses was announced yesterday. The current issue of The Survey, which carries an account of the pension plan, estimates that there are 100,000 graduate nurses in the United States, of whom 10,000 are salaried employes of boards of health, factories or tubercular associations.

If an income of a nurse were plotted, says the article, it would probably show a declining curve through her working life. The pension plan will be based on regular payments to a fund by both the nurse and her patients, so that at 60 years of age she may retire with a pension of $1,100 or $1,200 a year.

The Nurses Alumnae of the Polyclinic Hospital has made the first contribution to the $500,000 campaign with which to erect a new nurses' home and training school. Miss Grace Lieurance, directress of nurses, sent the entire contents of the association treasury, $1,000, to the Institution yesterday.

Father Ryan Made a Monsignor.

Bishop John J. O'Connor of the Newark diocese invested Father John F. Ryan, pastor of St. Bridget's Roman Catholic Church, in Jersey City, yesterday with the robes of a monsignor at a ceremony in St. Bridget's Church. The ceremony began with a procession from the rectory to the church, which was crowded to capacity.

PLANT NOW.

From now on to December 1st is the time to plant Darwin Tulips, Daffodils, Hyacinths, Crocuses and Scillas outdoors. All bulbs are splendid for indoor culture as well.

Our stock of Dutch and American grown Bulbs is of the highest quality and the most complete in New York City. We display in our store, as well as offer in our catalogue, 400 of the choicest varieties.

Ten Distinct Darwin Tulips
The finest of all the tulip family for outdoor planting. Unusually large blooms borne on stems 2 to 3 feet tall. Excellent for garden decoration or for cutting. Blooms during May.
Giant Rose — Giant Mauve — Giant Black — Giant Salmon — Giant Crimson — Giant Lilac — Giant White — Giant Purple — Giant Lavender — Giant Scarlet
60c per doz., $4.00 per 100, $35.00 per 1,000

Daffodils
Hardy Long Island Grown
There is no more useful bulbous plant than the Daffodil for planting around the home grounds. They are equally at home in the shady location of your shrubbery border or planted in clumps in your flower border, and are not subject to any particular rodent or pest.
Giant Trumpet Mixed
$7.00 per 100, $60.00 per 1,000

Matchless Hyacinths
Few flowers in April give greater charm to the garden border or are prettier for your indoor gardening than Hyacinths. The bulbs offered are unusually large, of full size, and if simple cultural directions are followed should give excellent results.
Pink — White — Yellow — Light Blue — Dark Blue
$2.00 per doz., $15.00 per 100

Giant Flowering Crocuses
One of the earliest of spring flowering bulbs. Splendid for planting in drifts in your lawn. Scatter the bulbs freely on your lawn and plant them in the spot that they fall. Excellent for indoor culture as well.

CHILD DELINQUENCY LAID TO THE HOME.

Dr. Wile, Psychiatrist, Tells Buffalo Charities Meeting Ill Training Is Largely to Blame.

FOR PARENTHOOD SCHOOLS

University Degrees in Social Work Are Advocated by Dr. Carpenter of Buffalo.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, Nov. 17.—Addressing the State Conference of Charities and Corrections here tonight, Dr. Ira S. Wile, psychiatrist at Mount Sinai Hospital of New York City, blamed society for the misbehavior of children and declared that the so-called "revolt of youth" might yet have the effect of improving social standards. He also charged society with the responsibility for the disappearance from the home of its character building and educative resources.

While expressing the opinion that various causes had contributed to the prevalence of juvenile delinquency, Dr. Wile nevertheless advocated schools for the teaching of courses in parenthood. He said that the problems of children were incident to the behavior of society and that if this was a jazz age children had not made it so. Both children and adults of today, according to the psychiatrist, are in a state of social transition.

"Whether behavior is esteemed good or bad," Dr. Wile continued, "depends upon the standards obtaining in a community, the home or the mind of an individual. The social variant is always viewed with suspicion, whether he voices views contrary to existent governmental standards, advocates pacifism during a state of war, attempts sabotage, violates speed laws, obeys the prohibition amendment, or commits burglary or homicide.

"The nature of children has not changed, nor has their behavior altered much more than that of their elders. If this be a jazz age, it was not made by children. It represents, however, a distinct era, possibly of transition, wherein the old appear younger and the young older, and neither generation understands itself or the other. It is natural that a new type of behavior should arise under such conditions, but it is exceedingly doubtful whether there has been an actual increase in juvenile delinquency."

"No one gainsays," Dr. Wile went on, "that the home has changed materially and spiritually. Its educative character building resources have largely disappeared. The home resists the modifications of social principles, standards and ideals. There can be little doubt that only a small proportion of actual delinquents come from fit and adequate homes.

"Society is, in the last analysis, responsible for the present status of the home. If a large proportion of behavior problems arise in broken homes, the social responsibilities are found bound up with our problems of divorce, desertion and death. These are social problems from which children suffer, but for which they cannot be held responsible. There is great need for study of the social causes that occasion broken homes.

"Unwise speech, undesirable patterns of action, disregard for law, tempers, impatience and a lack of faith in their children are profound factors in lessening parental control.

"The school and the Church may become more effective through humanizing their attitudes toward children, thus eliminating many of the misunderstandings which disadvantageously affect the attitudes of the young.

"The frankness and honesty of the present generation must not be regarded as evidence of hypersexuality, immorality or indecency. There has been a general decrease in social rigidity concerning sex. The alleged revolt of youth is no greater than the revolt of adults against traditional views concerning marriage.

"A frank consideration of the behavior difficulties of children indicates that the difficulties and the children are in harmony with the general social alterations of this era. The children are in a state of social transition as is the adult population."

Dr. Niles Carpenter of the Department of Sociology of the University of Buffalo, advocated a four-year course at universities leading to a bachelor degree for students preparing for social work.

Estimating that the salary of a social worker in Buffalo was about $2,700 a year, Dr. Carpenter said that low salaries and limited resources of universities and colleges made elaborate preparation for social work out of the question. His address was discussed by Dr. Neva Deardorff, President of the American Association of Social Workers and Executive Secretary of the Children's Commission, Philadelphia.

Louis Farrington, Secretary of the New York State Hospital Commission, told the conference that the Eighteenth Amendment had been disappointing in that alcoholic insanity had shown a steady increase from the low point it had reached at the time the amendment went into effect.

THIEF CUTS PIANIST'S HAND.

American Woman in Shanghai May Be Permanently Disabled.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 17 (AP).—Miss Frieda Frommel, directress of the musical department of the Shanghai American School and one of the leading pianists of the Far East, was wounded so that she may not be able to play again, by a former houseboy, in an attempt to rob her.

Miss Frommel, who directed music in a school in Washington before coming to Shanghai, was alone in her house about midnight Tuesday when a former houseboy whom she had dismissed a fortnight ago entered. He demanded $200. She told him to get her purse, and while he was doing so she rang for the servants.

Seeing her press the button, the invader attacked her with a knife, which she caught in her bare hand to defend herself. It was pulled from her grasp, seriously slashing her fingers.

Before the arrival of servants, whose approach frightened away her assailant, Miss Frommel received a cut at the base of her neck, two in the back, one across the wrist, one on her chest and still another across her knee.

She was taken to a hospital for treatment. There is no danger that she will not recover, it is said, but the injury to her hand may permanently handicap her in her musical career.

WATER-POWER LEASES.

State Commissioners Meet at Albany, but Heed Governor's Warning.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 17.—There is little likelihood that the State Water Power Commission will grant a lease of power in the St. Lawrence River either to the Frontier Corporation of America or the Super-Power Corporation, both of which are now seeking leases. Four of the five members of the commission had an informal session at the Capitol this afternoon. No action on the leases was taken, although the discussion lasted a long time.

Alexander MacDonald of the State Conservation Commission, to whom Governor Smith sent a telegram immediately after election, protesting against any action by the commission in view of the forthcoming reorganization of the State Government, was not present.

Members of the commission who met today included the State Engineer, Roy G. Finch; Attorney General Ottinger, Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the Assembly and Senator John Knight.

It was learned that State Engineer Finch is the only member of the commission who believes that the commission should grant a lease for private development.

SEES RELIGION FLOUTED.

Church Council Speaker Says Youth Lacks "Sense of Sin."

Special to The New York Times.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 17.—More than 1,500 religious workers attended this afternoon and evening the annual convention of the New Jersey Council of Religious Education at Linden Baptist Church.

"While the older people are wringing their hands over the so-called problem of youth, the latter is trying to determine new standards of sex relationship and religion," said Milton Stauffer, Secretary of the Student Voluntary Movement for Foreign Missions. "If the older generation will lend the younger and more sincere men and women its experience, the problem will be solved."

Mr. Stauffer said that the college students who have stopped going to church and who seem to have lost interest in religion have no sense of sin, believing that the standards set by the churches are not authoritative.

"Petting is dangerous," said Professor T. W. Galloway of the American Social Hygiene Association, "for it lessens the self-respect of the participants." He said that the "double standard" was doomed, and that unless the character of man be bettered, women would be "as loose as men are and always have been" in a quarter of a century.

WHITNEY ATTACKS KEAN AND STOKES

Says New Jersey Republicans Are Split by Rival Leaders Seeking Senate Nomination.

BLAMES THE ORGANIZATION

In His First Political Utterance Since Defeat Last Year He Opposes Direct Primary Repeal.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 17.—Republican National Committeeman Hamilton F. Kean and State Chairman Edward C. Stokes, both looked upon as aspirants for the Senatorial nomination in 1928, today drew the fire of former State Senator Arthur Whitney of Morris County. It was the first political utterance of Mr. Whitney since his defeat for the Governorship last year.

"At present our party in New Jersey is badly organized," his statement said. "How can it function efficiently or be united when our National Committeeman and Chairman of the State Committee are candidates, and, worst of all, rival candidates for the nomination for United States Senator. Under these circumstances it is impossible for either of them to give the Republican Party disinterested and stimulating leadership."

Mr. Whitney also opposed the proposal to abolish the direct primary for nomination of major candidates.

"The people have no confidence in the motive for this move," he said. "They know that it is conceived for personal or partisan advantage rather than in the interest of good government and party unity. They know that if the right to select their candidates is once taken from them, they will have no escape from one-man control. They know that the direct primary is a powerful weapon which they can and do use to when they need it. They will not placidly submit to the removal of this potential power."

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 17 (AP).—Answering reports that he was instrumental in the selection of the officers of the Legislature for 1927, E. C. Stokes, one-time Governor, today made the following statement:

"The reputed conflict between some of the party leaders over the organization of the Legislature is entirely a myth so far as I am concerned. I am not engaged in any personal contest with any party leader, nor do I think the Legislature should be the arena of individual rivalry, if such it be. As a former member of the Legislature, I think the members thereof are perfectly competent to select their own officers without interference from the outside."

FINO BODY UNCLAIMED.

Victim of Girl Slayer in Morgue—Mrs. Denino May See Child.

Still unclaimed yesterday morning, the body of Luigi Fino, 24 years old, of 607 Concord Avenue, the Bronx, who was shot to death last Saturday by Mrs. Catherine Denino, 16 years old, lay in the Fordham morgue. The Bronx District Attorney's office issued a release to the Medical Examiner permitting burial. Fino had relatives here and leaves a wife and two children in Italy. He was a first cousin of the mother of his slayer.

The same lack of interest was evidenced by four boarders who occupy the dead man's apartment. When informed of the tragedy and the motive they wanted to throw Fino's clothing to the street, but were prevented by policemen.

Mrs. Denino's child by Fino when she was 12 years old will be brought to the District Attorney's office today, according to Samuel Goldstein, her attorney.

DA GAMA'S AFRICAN QUEST.

Objectives of the Explorer Now in the Congo on a Year's Trip.

Count Vasco da Gama, whose arrival at Matadi, West Africa, and departure for Stanley Port were reported in a dispatch to THE TIMES from Matadi, is a Portuguese explorer descended from the famous navigator of that name. He is making a year's trip across equatorial Africa. He plans to explore the Congo Lakes and the Sudan and to learn something of the slavery and cannibalism in that little known part of the world. He will tell the story of his trip in a series of articles in THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CANDIDATES' EXPENSES FILED IN WESTCHESTER

Largest Outlay, $1,318, Made by T. V. Underhill—Suffolk Republicans Spent $16,872.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Candidates for county offices at the recent election have filed their expense accounts with the Bureau of Elections here. The largest expenditure is reported by Thomas V. Underhill, Republican candidate for Sheriff, who was elected. His expenses were $1,318.31; of this amount, $1,000 was contributed to the White Plains Republican City Committee. His only personal receipt was $25 from a friend. Charles M. Miller of Mount Vernon, Republican candidate for County Treasurer, who was elected, expended $1,173.54, of which $1,000 was contributed to the Mount Vernon Republican City Committee.

The only Democratic expense account filed is that of Robert A. Osborne of New Rochelle, who spent $100 while campaigning against Franklin Montross for County Registrar.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 17.—The Republican County Committee of Suffolk County received $19,057 in the last campaign, according to the statement filed with the Secretary of State today. The expenses of the committee were $16,872. The principal contributors were the Republican State Committee, Marshall Fields, Robert L. Bacon, Mrs. Payne Whitney and Otto Kahn, each $2,000, and Mrs. Pauline Sabin, $500.

The money was used for clerk hire, broadcasting, office expenses, rent and for watchers at the polls.

ASSAILS WALKER'S RECORD.

Hofstadter Says 'Ready Hand Shake' Has Failed to Hold Throttle.

Assemblyman Samuel H. Hofstadter addressed the monthly meeting of the Republican Committee of One Hundred yesterday at the home of Mrs. Frank C. Munson, 13 East Sixty-Seventh Street, giving a report of the activities of the Republican Legislature of 1926 and comparing it with the City Administration of the same period. He criticized Mayor Walker, saying:

"He cannot plead inexperience in extenuation of eleven months of non-administration. Since November, 1925, the voice with the smile, the ready handshake and the man about town has given genial promise of a much advertised bigger, better and newer age. But the man about town has failed to solve any municipal problem, the ready handshake has failed to grip and hold the throttle of government, and the voice with the smile has failed to articulate a simple remedy for any abuse either in reorganization, housing, transit or education."

HELEN KELLER AT SALE.

She Goes to the Biltmore, Where Work of Blind Is Being Offered.

Miss Helen Keller visited yesterday the sale for the blind which is being held in the Italian Gardens at the Biltmore. She arrived shortly after 4 o'clock with Miss Polly Thompson, one of her teachers and had tea with the members of the committee in charge for the day. It was designated as Presbyterian Day and Mrs. Frank S. Mathews was in charge.

Others on her committee were Mrs. Henry R. Jessup, Mrs. J. Godfrey Wells, Mrs. John Douglas, Mrs. Minot Morgan, Mrs. G. Mason Janney, Mrs. Lewis Harder, Mrs. Edward Truesdell, Mrs. Henry Sutphen, Mrs. Charles Farr, Miss Winifred Howard and Mrs. E. B. Bruch.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO ASSAULTING GIRL

R. E. Thorne's Bail of $2,500 Is Continued by Westchester Court —Trial Due in December.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 17.—In a proceeding that lasted less than two minutes in court Richard E. Thorne of New York, one of two youths charged by Violet Anderson, New York show girl, with assault in the woods of Harrison last June, was arraigned before County Judge William F. Bleakley this morning. Thorne pleaded not guilty to second degree assault and a statutory charge, after which he was finger printed and was allowed to leave, his bond of $2,500, furnished by James R. Murphy, New York City real estate man, having been continued.

Thorne's arraignment like his surrender to District Attorney Arthur Rowland on Oct. 4 was not announced, and it developed later that although his pedigree had been taken by Deputy Sheriff Ray Hill, finger print expert, that he was not photographed, nor was his address taken.

As Thorne left the court, District Attorney Rowland denied reports that Miss Anderson had fled from the State rather than testify against Thorne. He said he had been in communication with her at her home in Ohio, and had received word that she was preparing to appear against Thorne.

No date for the trial was assigned, but the case will go on the December court calendar.

Since last June when Miss Anderson appeared before the Grand Jury to testify against Thorne and Philip C. Elliott, another New Yorker, who fled to England and who is wanted on the same charges as those made against Thorne, an air of secrecy has surrounded the case at the office of District Attorney Rowland. When indictments were returned against Thorne and Elliott it was learned that the pair had fled to Canada. When Thorne surrendered the fact was kept secret until the surrender leaked out. District Attorney Rowland said then that Thorne, in the hope of clemency, had agreed to try to lure Elliott back to this country from England where he had gone, so that he could be brought to trial. This morning Mr. Rowland said that he had given up hopes of getting Elliott back, and had decided to bring Thorne to plead.

DEMAND FEDERAL FARM AID.

St. Louis Conferees Call for the Fostering of Cooperatives.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 17 (AP).—Legislation to "enable the farmers to control and manage excess supplies of crops at their own expense so as to secure cost of production with a reasonable profit" was demanded of Congress in a declaration of principles adopted at the closing session here today of the Corn and Cotton States' Conference.

"We assert our conviction," the statement said, "that such legislation must function through the fostering of cooperative marketing."

The outstanding points of the declaration were:

Endorsement of the Federal farm board plan, similar in principle to the McNary-Haugen bill of last Winter, to create a board with power to withhold surpluses and pro-rate the cost among the producers.

Criticism of both political parties in Congress for failure in the past to provide adequate farm relief.

A defense of the "bloc system" in Congress and a request that Senators and Representatives from agricultural regions "organize themselves into an aggressive and effective unit, regardless of party, to express and work for the economic interests of agriculture."

TWIN SOCIETY GIRLS MANNEQUINS IN LONDON

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Two of the best known London society girls have become mannequins. They are Margaret and Alison Mary Ruthven, the twin daughters of Lord Ruthven, both of whom are noted for their beauty.

Although both are mannequins they have only one job. One works mornings and the other afternoons. As they look and dress exactly alike, their employer is never able to tell which is at work and which is off.

Lord Ruthven's twin daughters visited the United States last Winter, spending some time in New York, Washington and the South. They are the great-granddaughters through their mother of Sir Curtis Lampson of New York, who was the agent of the original John Jacob Astor in London and after many years there took out British citizenship and was knighted.

Votes Aid to Engineering Education.

In announcing yesterday that the Engineering Foundation of 29 West Thirty-ninth Street had voted to give financial aid to the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, Alfred D. Flinn, director of the foundation, said that the failure of the nation's engineering colleges to keep pace with advances in science, engineering and industry had created a demand for "drastic reforms in the field of education." Deans and administrative officers of 164 engineering colleges in the United States and Canada will meet tomorrow at the National Academy of Sciences in Washington.

OLD NORSE PALACE FOUND IN GREENLAND

BISHOP'S TOMB IN CHAPEL

Discoveries Show Prosperity of Colony on Island When 4,000 Farms Were There.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 17.—Last year Inspector Norlund of the National Museum in Copenhagen carried out excavations on the sites of old Norse settlements in Greenland. He had already written a book on the old Norse culture, based on their remains, particularly the clothing, which showed these settlements enjoyed a comparatively high degree of civilization and quickly adopted the latest European fashions of those times.

This Summer Inspector Norlund revisited the ruins, particularly those of the old episcopal palace, which was the second largest building in Greenland. Only the residence of the founder of the colony, Eric the Red, was larger. His excavations laid bare the large foundations of the main building, which, with the outhouses, covered about four acres. The front of the main building was 163 feet long and the banquet hall was as large as the largest mentioned in Icelandic Sagas. There was a barn with accommodation for 100 cows, a stable for horses, a smithy pigsty and sheepfolds, all identified as being on a scale far more elaborate than the present buildings in Greenland.

The Cathedral is close to the Bishop's palace and a row of large flagstones leads to the choir door. The Cathedral is 98 feet long, the same size as the oldest cathedral at Trondhjem. There are various chapels attached to the Cathedral. One contained the well-preserved remains of a bishop buried in full pontificals, which now are decayed. In his hand was a pastoral staff with a crook of walrus tusk. The gold episcopal ring was on his finger. All these remains were brought to Copenhagen after having been photographed where they were found.

The bishop had only one foot, although shoes for two feet were found in the tomb. This bishop probably lived about 1200 A. D.

The Cathedral was built of sandstone quarried near the settlement. It split easily and proved to be excellent building material. Unfortunately the modern natives carried away almost all the stones of the building. Beyond any doubt, the old Norsemen in Greenland were more prosperous than has been generally thought and there seem to have been settlers on about 4,000 scattered farms. They had fifteen churches, eight of which were used as law courts.

Near Brattohlid Inspector Norlund found a runic inscription on a stone over a tomb, which he brought back. Professor Finnur Jonsen will try to read it.

MEDICINAL WHISKY FOUND TO BE WATERED

The greater part of the medicinal whisky given to patients in Brooklyn hospitals and sold by druggists on doctors' prescriptions contains only one-fifth real whisky, with the other four-fifths alcohol, water and coloring matter, according to an analysis of twenty-four samples taken by Federal enforcement agents. Testimony yesterday before Federal Judge Inch in Brooklyn revealed this situation, when Dr. J. M. Doran of the Prohibition Administrator's office said that only fourteen of twenty-four samples taken at random from the Keap Warehouse, Inc., were genuine.

The warehouse firm, which maintains the only authorized concentration warehouse in the borough, applied for a permanent injunction to remove Federal agents from its premises. Testimony revealed that Federal agents had forcibly opened the warehouse safe when members of the firm refused to surrender their records without a conrt order. Major Mills, Prohibition Administrator for the district, said that the warehouse had never submitted the required monthly reports showing entry and distribution of liquor until Nov. 4, although it has been operating for four years.

Chief Prohibition Counsel Britt tried to fix the blame for the adulteration on warehouse officials, but counsel defending them defeated this plan by showing that Federal men were required at the premises at all times.

TRIES SUICIDE AT THEATRE.

Man Leaps From Emergency Exit After Stabbing Himself.

While the audience at the Liberty Theatre, 234 West Forty-second Street, were leaving their seats last night at the close of a performance of the musical comedy "Twinkle, Twinkle," Dr. Joseph Crochiola, 46 years old, of 265 West Forty-second Street, went to an emergency exit on the fourth floor, stabbed himself over the heart, cut his throat and leaped down to the courtyard.

His act was seen by William Campios, engineer of the theatre, but few persons who had attended the performance knew what had happened. Campios called a patrolman and Crochiola was rushed to Bellevue unconscious. There it was discovered that in addition to the knife wounds he was suffering internal injuries. In a pocket a slip was found which said, "I am Dr. Crochiola of 265 West Forty-second Street." At a hotel for men at this address it was said that Crochiola's first name was known to them as Guiseppe, and that he was not known to be a doctor. He had been staying at the hotel for two months and had shown signs of despondency. His occupation was unknown.

DIAZ ASKS OUR AID AGAINST MEXICO

Government, since it originated in a coup d'état. When General Chamorro withdrew from power this left the way open for the election by Congress of one of its own members to assume the executive power as provided for by the Nicaraguan Constitution under certain circumstances.

"The members of the Congress, which was chosen at a popular election in 1924 were called to meet in an extraordinary session for this purpose and elected Señor Adolfo Diaz. Changes which had been made in the membership of this Congress during the régime of General Chamorro were nullified and members who had been expelled were invited to resume their seats, thus restoring the Congress to its original complexion.

"The entire Congress in joint session has a membership of sixty-four. Fifty-three members voted in the election of Diaz, and he received forty-five votes, or an absolute majority of the total membership of Congress. The last Constitutional President of Nicaragua, Carlos Solorzano, resigned in January, 1926, and the Vice President elected with him has been out of the country since November, 1925. In the absence of these two the duty devolved upon Congress of naming a designate from one of its own members to fill out the unexpired term of President Solorzano.

Diaz's Majority Absolute.

"The department has been informed that President Diaz intends to make overtures of peace and general amnesty to his political opponents and that he will offer the Liberal Party participation in the new Government, including certain Cabinet posts.

"I sincerely hope that this offer if made will be accepted by the Liberals, since only by cooperation between all factions can peace and tranquillity be restored to that country now so unhappily torn by revolution, a condition which has invited interference from outside sources; a state of affairs which must cause concern to every friend of stability in Central America.

"It must be in the best interests not only of Nicaragua but of Central America as a whole and all countries interested in its welfare that normal conditions should soon be restored permitting a return to that prosperity and economic development which have been so marked in Nicaragua during the last decade and a half."

Nicaraguan President's Appeal.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 17 (AP).—Adolfo Diaz, newly inaugurated President of Nicaragua, has requested the American Legation for American intervention to put his country, which is now struggling with a revolution, on a peace basis.

The President, in his request, stated that a small weak nation such as Nicaragua could not quell a revolution aided by Mexico.

A commission appointed from among the Liberal revolutionists has left Blusfields for Guatemala to request former Vice President Sacasa to return to Nicaragua and to establish a Liberal Government on the east coast.

STOCK EXCHANGE PAGE IS HELD AS A BURGLAR

Herbert Cedar, who was graduated from DeWitt Clinton High School last January, and has been a page on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange since last March, was held without bail yesterday on a charge of burglary in Flatbush Court, Brooklyn. He was arrested with a cousin, Herbert Cedarstrom, and, according to the police, both boys admitted trying to get money to "keep a date" last night.

Stock Exchange pages, according to officials of the personnel department there, are picked high school graduates who want to learn about Wall Street with a view to becoming brokers. They usually serve there for about two years after which they are placed in brokers' offices.

Cedar, who is 17 years old, and lives at 351 Forty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, was found by Patrolman Walter Evans as he was loitering near an automobile repair shop at 1,428 Coney Island Avenue, Brooklyn, at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. In response to a question, he told the policeman he was waiting for a girl. The officer became suspicious, and placing Cedar under the guard of a passing taxi driver, proceeded to investigate. He found a broken rear window in the repair shop and Cedarstrom crouching inside. Cedarstrom is 15 years old and lives at 1,921 Avenue I, Brooklyn.

Both boys were taken to the station house and later arraigned before Magistrate Louis H. Reynolds. Cedarstrom was sent to the Children's Society.

Lions Honor Mrs. Schommell.

Mrs. Charlotte Moore Schommell, who recently swam from Albany to New York, received a silver cup, donated by the Locality Mayors and Mr. Spero, "Mayor" of Washington Heights, at a luncheon given in her honor by the Lions' Club of the Bronx at the Concourse Plaza yesterday. Mrs. Schommell announced that she is to swim in competition from Charleston Harbor to Boston Light this Saturday. She was voted an honorary member of the Lions' Club of the Bronx.

IOWA CORNHUSKER WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Working in Snow and Mud, Fred Stanek Beats Illinois 'Praying Husker' and All Others.

FREMONT, Neb., Nov. 17 (AP).—On the snow-swept cornfield of the Joe Roberts' farm, Fred Stanek, Iowa's champion cornhusker, won today the national championship cornhusking title by husking 28.2 bushels in eighty minutes. He and his rivals were watched by 5,000 persons.

Working like a machine, despite the handicap of snow and mud that robbed the cornstalks of their crispness, and the men of full speed, Stanek defeated his nearest opponent by 2.9 bushels.

The Iowa champion not only had the largest gross poundage, but he had the least deduction for cleanings; that is, corn that missed the wagon as the huskers walked along the rows and threw the ears into the vehicle.

Joe Sudik, Nebraska champion, was second, with 25.3 bushels, while Carl Sellers, Illinois runner-up, was next with 25.2 bushels.

The new champion probably was the least spectacular of all contestants today. Almost every ear that he tossed hit the buckboard of the wagon that followed him, and the cleaners, who followed the wagon to pick up all corn that missed the box, had little to do.

Charles Budd, Indiana titleholder, who holds several records, could not do better than 21.6 bushels today.

BALTIMORE & OHIO MOTOR COACH TRAIN CONNECTION SERVICE

A New Travel Convenience for BROOKLYN Through Railroad Service to the South or West

On November 24, the Baltimore & Ohio will inaugurate a Train Connection Motor Coach Service, from the "Heart of Brooklyn" direct to station platform alongside the train in Jersey City—no additional charge.

WITHOUT the usual hurry, annoyance and frequent changes, you will be able to make your train by simply stepping aboard a Baltimore & Ohio Motor Coach at the Coach Station at 191 Joralemon St., or at the St. George Hotel, right in the Heart of Brooklyn.

Those who have had disconcerting experiences and who have lost valuable time in getting to their trains, will appreciate this new transportation feature. The coach will take you (and your hand-baggage) safely and comfortably, right to the trainside—

Even your hand-baggage is cared for—checked with the Coach Attendant, it is delivered right to your seat in the train. It goes on the coach with you.

Completely equipped coach station will be located at 191 Joralemon St., in the center of the business section of Brooklyn, convenient to the residential and shopping districts, subway and surface lines. At this station will be ticket offices, parcel checking facilities, women's rest room with maid, and porter service.

Over a fixed route, arriving and leaving on schedule time, Baltimore & Ohio Motor Coaches will extend the courtesy and dependability of Baltimore & Ohio service to the very center of activities in Brooklyn.

Motor Coaches will also meet all incoming trains, right on the station platform alongside of the train, ready to convey you direct, and without delay or changes, to the "Heart of Brooklyn."

This new service is similar to the Baltimore & Ohio Train Connection Service recently inaugurated in New York City (Manhattan) and which has been so heartily approved by the traveling public.

RENEWS OBJECTION TO QUOTING TAFT

Guthrie Again Urges Deletion of Attack on Courts From Harvard School Booklet.

ALSO REBUKES STIMSON

Quotes Letter From Latter Which Scores Practice of Criminal Law in New York.

William D. Guthrie, President of the Association of the Bar of New York City, reiterated yesterday in a letter to Wilson M. Powell, Chairman of the Endowment Fund Committee of the Harvard Law School, his disagreement with statements made by William Howard Taft prior to his appointment to the Supreme Court of the United States that "the administration of criminal law in the United States is a disgrace to civilization." Mr. Guthrie repeated that he thought it was a mistake for the committee to print the statement in pamphlets to advertise the campaign because it gave the impression, he added, that Chief Justice Taft had made such a statement since sitting in the Supreme Court.

He quoted from a letter written by Mr. Taft to Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier protesting against the use of an alleged quotation by him on the ground that it gave the impression that he had made such a statement since becoming Chief Justice. This letter, printed in the newspapers last week, referred to remarks attributed to the Chief Justice on the Eighteenth Amendment and was printed by the National Temperance Society. In it Chief Justice Taft said that while he might have said he was opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment before its adoption, he had not done so since becoming a member of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Guthrie in his letter also referred to a communication received by him from Henry L. Stimson, a member of the Endowment Fund Committee, in which Mr. Stimson was said to have declared that the practice of criminal law in New York was a disgrace to civilization and that "he thinks that he could convince me in ten minutes by things that are going on in our Criminal Courts Building in this city every day."

Mr. Guthrie's letter, written in reply to one by Mr. Powell refusing to delete from the booklet the alleged statement of Mr. Taft, said that Mr. Guthrie was "profoundly stirred" by the communications from Mr. Powell and Mr. Stimson."

"As to Mr. Stimson's statement that he could convince me in ten minutes by things going on daily in the criminal courts of New York City," he wrote, "I can only reply that even if he could so convince me as to the criminal courts in New York City, and that justice is there being dispensefully conducted, I would reply that that would not be proof that all the criminal courts in this city are a disgrace to civilization, and would not prove that the same conditions existed everywhere or even generally throughout the United States so as to justify quoting as a saying of a Chief Justice of the United States, that 'the administration of criminal law in the United States is a disgrace to civilization.'"

JEWELERS EXONERATED BY ORDER OF COURT

L. Halpert and P. Ziner Cleared on Thief's Confession of Receiving Stolen Gems.

Louis Halpert and Philip Ziner, jewelers at 152 West Forty-second Street, on order of Judge Collins in General Sessions yesterday, were acquitted by a jury of a charge of having criminally received part of $3,000 worth of jewelry stolen from the home of Mrs. C. F. Coons in 1925. Their exoneration followed the admission of the thief, on the witness stand, that he had accused them because he believed it was through them that he was arrested for the theft.

Walter B. Carney, the man who stole the jewels, has a police record of several convictions. The jewelers, who were arrested on his statement last February, protested their innocence, and referred to their business reputation of twenty-five years.

Carney, on the witness stand, said that he was a butler and that he made it a practice to rob those who employed him. He said he hid the articles he stole until their value would be about $100,000, when he would dispose of them. Among the robberies he admitted were those in the homes of Edward F. Hutton, a stock broker, at Roslyn, L. I.; Michael Regan, at 80 West 120th Street; Samuel De H. Atkins at 82 West 120th Street, and Julius Ruff at 82 West 120th Street.

Carney said he was a spy for the Navy during the World War, and that on his return to this country from London he fell in with a band of crooks, and was committed to the Reformatory on Hart's Island. He said he escaped by swimming Hell Gate, and then travelled the world as a steward on steamships. He will be sentenced next Monday.

Nicolay and Hay Biography of Lincoln Brings $1,075.

A first edition of the extra-illustrated Nicolay and Hay biography of Abraham Lincoln brought $1,075 yesterday afternoon at the sale of the library of Mrs. Julius Chein of this city at the American Art Galleries. The library brought a total of $40,702.50.

The volumes are extra-illustrated by the insertion of more than 250 engraved portraits, photographs and other data, including fifty autographed letters and documents of Lincoln, members of his War Cabinet, and other distinguished contemporaries. The buyer was W. H. Wilkinson.

W. E. Clarkson Jr. paid $1,010 for a set of the works of Charles Lever, nearly all first editions. A set of the first edition, extra-illustrated, of William M. Sloane's "Napoleon I" was bought by H. F. Fletcher for $925. A complete set of the first edition of the works of Sir Walter Scott was bought by William Pearson for $825. W. E. Clarkson Jr. paid $750 for a set of the first edition of the works of Leigh Hunt. A copy of the Kelmscott Press edition of Chaucer was bought by A. J. Scheuer for $780.

Asks Aid for Centre in Palestine.

Five hundred members of the Keren Hayesod Women's League attended the annual luncheon meeting yesterday at the Hotel Astor. Mrs. Richard Gottheil, President, urged support for the bazaar, which is to be given at the Waldorf on Dec. 18, to raise funds for a women's centre in Palestine. Chaim Arlasaroff, labor leader in Palestine; Dr. Maurice Eisenberg, and Dr. Israel H. Levinthal, rabbi of the Brooklyn Jewish Centre, also spoke.

Broadway & Gas Service

Triumphs of Concentration

[An Editorial Advertisement]

IN all the great cities of Europe, from London to Prague, there is no counterpart of Broadway. There is no other street or avenue on which can be found the focus of so many and so varied departments of a city's life.

Within the radius of a few steps, north or south, east or west, the native and the stranger alike have at their command the entertainments of the world, the shopping centers of the nation, the hotels and dining places whose service and cuisine are the wonder and envy of others across the seas.

In Broadway, Americans have learned the lessons of concentration. Your Gas Company, which has grown up with her during more than a century of proud and uninterrupted history, has done its part by concentrating, where they are instantly available, all the sources of heat and fuel. As the flashing signs of Broadway are like the pulsations of the city's heart, so is the Gas Holder the symbol and triumph of concentrated Public Service.

If you think.....

—"oil burners are too expensive"
—"oil burners are not yet perfected"
—"it's too late this year to put one in"

read this—

IF you had been making oil burners successfully for 8 years, (as we have), you'd be amazed to hear people say "Well, I'd buy an oil burner, I think they're a great idea, but they're not perfected yet."

In the strict sense of this term "perfected" a Caloroil Burner is not perfected. Neither is an automobile. But no one ever speaks of a motor car as "not being perfected"—and no one will of the Caloroil Oil Burner, if they know what Caloroil owners know.

Mr. A. L. Deane, Vice President of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation writes:—

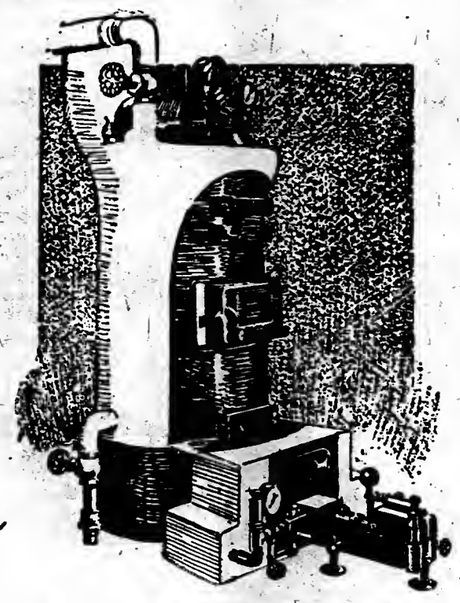
"Since Caloroil was installed (3 years ago) my house has been kept within one degree of seventy every minute of the time except at night when I turn the thermostat down to sixty. When we rise in the morning the house is seventy degrees. This heating satisfaction has been accomplished at a saving in cost over coal of about 10%. This figure probably under-estimates the saving because we always leave the burner on and it burns whenever necessary in the evening or early morning in order to keep the house at seventy degrees."

Why Caloroil is safe and reliable

CALOROIL feeds oil to the boiler or furnace by a vacuum. This eliminates gravity or pressure.

Safety is absolute. The oil level in a Caloroil is below the burner nozzle. It gets into the boiler only by a vacuum created by compressed air passing over the oil nozzle. If ignition stops, oil stops.

Caloroil is reliable because of this same vacuum principle. The simplicity of it eliminates complicated mechanism and requires no parts inside the boiler.



Caloroil Burner in operation. Silent, smokeless and odorless. Fed by vacuum—not gravity or pressure. Hence no complicated parts to wear out or get out of order. Keeps living room always within one degree of any given temperature. Works only when needed—thinks for you.

Why Caloroil is not expensive

(1) Thanks to its vacuum principle, air pulls oil up and blows it into the boiler in a cloud-like mist (not coarse spray), insuring instant, complete combustion. There is no smoke or soot—proof that every drop gives up all its heat.

(2) This same vacuum principle enables a Caloroil to use 28° Baume Oil, the heaviest and cheapest oil which flows in cold weather. This, alone, saves 2¢ or 3¢ on every gallon of oil.

(3) Caloroil (installed complete ready to use) costs from $650 up—depending on size of equipment. You pay for it as for your motor car—outright or on time.

You are only going to live about a hundred years. Why spend one more of them opening and shutting windows...smothering one hour, shivering the next? Life's too short.

Only 5 hours to install Caloroil —we buy back your coal

IT is not too late to install Caloroil this season, just because your coal bins are full and your furnace is going.

Your furnace or boiler need be shut down only 5 hours to change from coal to Caloroil.

As for the coal you have on hand, we will buy it from you at the price you paid—and sell it on the open market.

INSTALMENT BUYING SEEN AS PERMANENT

Speakers at Political Science Conference Call It Aid to Thrift and Production.

DEFECTS ARE POINTED OUT

Care in Applying the Principle Is Called Necessary—Problems of Farmers Discussed.

Instalment buying is here to stay, according to the views expressed by speakers yesterday at the national conference on business and business policy of the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor. They were generally agreed that while purchasing on the instalment plan might have its defects, it stimulated thrift as well as production when properly applied. Other speakers discussed the farmers' need for stabilization of the prices of farm products. The discussion was held at morning and afternoon sessions and at a dinner in the evening.

Discussing instalment purchasing of automobiles, John J. Raskob, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the General Motors Corporation, said:

"The records show that they (automobiles) have not been acquired at the expense of home savings, life insurance or other factors in economic welfare. The desire for automobiles is sufficiently great to inspire people to work, provided through working this desire can be satisfied; and this desire provides an incentive to work which results in converting idle hours into the energy necessary to produce our motor cars."

John Maurice Clark, Professor of Economics at Columbia University, said that while the dangers of instalment buying were obvious, such as overpersuading the customer to buy and stimulating overconfidence in the seller, it had its good effects.

Professor E. R. A. Seligman of the Department of Political Economy at Columbia University said the instalment sales volume annually was estimated at from $5,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000 of a total of some $40,000,000,000. He then said:

"Does instalment selling increase production? In the paint business it has been a failure. In the automobile business it has been a notable success. Instalment selling has undoubtedly come to stay. It has given rise to many abuses and to not a few dangers, but there is every likelihood that we shall find repeated here the history of credit in general."

John E. Rovensky, First Vice President of the Bank of America, said:

"Instalment sales unquestionably are here to stay and the whole question resolves itself to this: Are we proceeding along the right lines? Since the method has not passed through a complete cycle and since only experience can furnish the answer, we will be in a better position to judge the matter when we have passed through the next period of business depression and unemployment."

Benjamin A. Javitz, counsel to a number of trade organizations, said instalment buying was here to stay, and advocated an Instalment Council of America to "undertake to study and advise with all those interested in the practice of instalment sales."

Discussing the difficulties of the farmers, George N. Peek, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the North Central Agricultural Conference, said that within the last fifteen years the farm debt had trebled or quadrupled, and actual farm land values had declined one-fifth. Within teh last five years, he said, the dollar value of farm investment had decreased $20,000,000,000 while industrial and urban wealth had increased by more than that amount.

"The time has come to define a national policy for agriculture," he said. "The development of the American protective system keeps farm costs high. This inequality is crucifying agriculture."

Congressman L. J. Dickinson of Iowa appealed for the enactment of farm legislation for the stabilization of prices of farm products.

EXPLAINS DESTRUCTION OF MORSE RECORDS

Former Treasurer Testifies Books Were Merely Taking Up Valuable Space.

Contracts for the shipment of coal with the French and Italian Governments obtained by the Morse companies were read into the record at the trial in the Federal Court yesterday of three sons of Charles W. Morse and seven others for conspiracy to use the mails in the fraudulent promotion of stock sales.

Nehemiah H. Campbell, former Treasurer of the United States Steamship Company, was the only witness. Under cross-examination he said the indictment of C. W. Morse in 1920 had a serious effect on the company finances. He said the indictment grew out of the sale to the French Government of the steamship James E. McCullough.

Campbell said that when he testified last Monday to the destruction of records by Harry F. Morse and his secretary, W. J. Lackas, that he did not intend to intimate that there was anything wrong with the act. He said the records destroyed were taking up space in the office and that it was natural to do, since the concern was moving to new offices.

Campbell was questioned on income and profit tax reports in which losses were shown. Counsel attempted to have him declare that it was proper for the officials of the company to ignore certain profits, thereby creating apparent losses. Judge Thacher sustained an objection to the admission of this testimony.

Campbell said he had purchased for himself and secretary about 2,000 shares of stock in the steamship company and that he had made other purchases for employes, but that he had never recommended it as a good investment, although he thought personally it was good.

The trial will be continued this morning.

VASSAR GIVES UP THE BOB.

It Is "Too Common," Girls Assert as Hairdressers Lament.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP).—Vassar College girls are abandoning bobbed hair in all its forms and returning to long tresses as fast as nature permits. The change in hair dressing style amounts almost to a stampede, according to the beauty shops catering to the college trade.

While there are some who declare they always will cling to the mannish cut, the swing back to braids is sweeping at Vassar.

Hairdressers are lamenting this trend, too. Bobs require frequent trimming and business has been exceptionally good. They attribute the sudden shift to the impression among the girls that the bob is too "common," as the girls express it.

IOWA CRUSADER COMING TO 'DRY UP' NEW YORK

Hammond Says He Is 'Loaded for Bear and Will Let Them Have Both Barrels.'

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 17 (AP).—John B. Hammond, foe of every vice and arch enemy of liquor, has quit Iowa, scene of his activities for forty years, to try his hand at making New York dry. The veteran crusader will greet New York "loaded for bear and will let them have both barrels," he said as he boarded an eastbound train.

Mr. Hammond will be associated with the New York Civic League, a temperance organization, which, he said, is planning to enlist all enforcement agencies in New York to wipe out the liquor traffic. He will stop over on his way East at his boyhood home, Columbus, Ohio.

The head offices of the New York Civic League are in Albany and O. R. Miller is director of the organization. Until Oct. 1 the Rev. Harry Fisher was the New York City superintendent. He resigned and, according to Canon William Sheafe Chase, who is President of the league, Mr. Hammond is to take his place. The arrangements with Mr. Hammond, Canon Chase said, were made by Mr. Miller. The local headquarters of the league are at 154 Nassau Street.

Canon Chase referred to Mr. Hammond as one of the "most successful workers in the West" in the cause of law enforcement. In 1922 Mr. Hammond was Chief of Police of Des Moines and at that time inaugurated a system of photographing every drunken man brought into headquarters, while he was intoxicated, expressing the hope that the "picture cure" would prove an effective weapon.

JENKS SEEKS LEADERSHIP.

Announces Candidacy for Republican Assembly Post.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks announced today that he would be a candidate for floor leader of the majority in the Assembly.

"Yes, I will be a candidate for majority leader. I have no particular plans," Mr. Jenks said. "I have not made a campaign for the place nor have I solicited support. I do not know what the line-up of the Republicans in the coming Legislature will be.

"I do not know whether I will sponsor any dry legislation at the coming session, but I will be dry, you may depend on that."

AID FOR SMALL COAL BUYERS

Burns Brothers and Ruhel to Sell at 80 Cents Per 100 Pounds.

Attorney General Ottinger announced yesterday that, following his investigation into coal conditions in this city, Burns Brothers of Manhattan and the Rubel Coal and Ice Company of Brooklyn had volunteered to open stations where coal will be sold in lots of 25, 40 and 100 pounds to those who cannot afford to buy by the ton. The companies agree to sell at the rate of 80 cents per 100 pounds.

Their action, Mr. Ottinger said, will place them in the small-quantity market in competition with peddlers, who have had a monopoly and have been selling coal for $1.20 per 100 pounds.

WALLIS IS ASSAILED AS MAN RESPONSIBLE

sumption that he was employed on Welfare Island. Turning upon Deputy Commissioner Tudor, Mr. McCue said:

"I charge your department and your Commissioner now with being as guilty of the murder of these two men as were the men who shot them down.

"You know it was to make room for a favorite, and you know that the result of all that connivery to make room for a favorite, was that two men lie dead in their graves today, and if your Commissioner had done his full duty these men would probably have been alive today.

"Every opportunity that I have I am going to take advantage of, and this is my opportunity, everything that I can do to get rid of an incompetent and a loafer out of public office."

"Everything that Mr McCue states is not entirely true," retorted Mr. Tudor.

Mr. McCne referred to Commissioner Wallis as "former Commissioner Wallis," and added that he used the word "former" advisedly.

Magistrate August Dreyer adjourned until Nov. 27 the examinations of Oscar Amberg and Robert Weiner, cused of aiding the jailbreak, in spite of violent objections from their lawyers.

Habeas Corpus Denied Amberg.

Oscar Amberg of 2,620 Beverly Road, Brooklyn, held without bail in connection with the attempted break, and brother of Hyman Amberg, appeared with counsel yesterday for the fourth time in the Supreme Court in Queens and applied for a writ of habeas corpus from Justice Humphrey. The application was adjourned until Tuesday.

Mrs. Rose Amberg, mother of the prisoner, was in court when her son appeared. She was in heavy mourning for Hyman. She told newspaper men that she keenly felt the scorn with which the public regards her sons. Mrs. Amberg lived at the Brooklyn address with her sons.

Keepers Endorse Wallis.

Council 28, Civil Service Forum, held a meeting at Babb's Hall, Third Avenue and Eighty-sixth Street, on Tuesday night, and after discussing the Tombs outbreak adopted a resolution, made public last night, which read:

"Be it Resolved, That Council 28, Civil Service Forum, bring to the attention of the Mayor, the efficient and humane administration of Commissioner Wallis, in putting the institutions in his department on an eight-hour a day basis, which has resulted in cutting down the escapes of prisoners to a minimum; his constant endeavor to upbuild the morals and efficiency of the department by urging, and placing, as far as possible, the uniformed force of the department on the same basis as the Police Department; his campaign against petty graft and departmental irregularities; his close touch with every institution under his charge, through frequent visits at any hour of the day or night; and his plans for the reorganization of the department which would undoubtedly result in further increased efficiency.

"At the time Commissioner Wallis become Commissioner of Correction the uniformed force of the department was in a very low state of morale, the men were discouraged and disgusted, and felt that no one had an interest in their welfare, in the welfare of any of the institutions, or of the department itself. This has all been changed under Commissioner Wallis, and we, the uniformed force of the Department of Correction, and Council 28, condemn the attitude of the part of the press which devotes its time chiefly to petty fault finding instead of lauding the bravery, courage and determination of the men who thwarted the recent jail break, at the cost of the lives of two of their number, Warden Peter A. Mallon and Keeper Jeremiah Murphy."

SAY CONDEMNED MAN HAS LONG VISITING LIST

Sing Sing Guards Assert Paretti Has 17 Callers—Judge Says Visits Are Perfectly Legal.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 17.—It was learned today from guards in the State Prison here that Anthony Paretti of Brooklyn, in the death house awaiting execution for the murder of Charles Umbriacco at John and Navy Streets, Brooklyn, is being permitted to see seventeen visitors other than close relatives, despite provisions of the law that a murderer be kept in solitary confinement.

Paretti's visiting list, which guards say is the largest ever permitted a condemned man in the thirty-seven years the electric chair has been in use in this State, is declared to be the result of Supreme Court orders obtained by his friends directing the Prison Warden to permit them to see Paretti.

The fifth of these orders, some of which carried the names of as many as four visitors, was signed by Supreme Court Justice John MacCrate of Brooklyn, prison officials say, and was made out in the name of Charles Dominica of Jamaica, L. I.

In view of the recent attempted jailbreak at the Tombs, in which three prisoners, a warden and a guard were killed, after pistols had been smuggled into the prison, Paretti's case is attracting considerable attention.

At his home in Brooklyn last night Supreme Court Justice MacCrate said that there was nothing unusual about the issuance of orders admitting friends of the condemned man to the death house. "The matter is at all times in control of the prison authorities," the Justice said. "I recall issuing one order. I do not remember off hand for what reason, but I know that the reason was a valid one. These orders are ex parte, meaning that they are signed without notice to anybody. If the prison warden feels that they should not be honored, he has only to telephone to the Justice who issued the order to have it vacated."

District Attorney Charles J. Dodd of Brooklyn yesterday was in Albany, where an appeal of Paretti's case is being heard before the Court of Appeals.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 17.—District Attorney Dodd of Kings and his assistant, James I. Cuff, expressed themselves tonight as being surprised to learn that Tony Paretti, Brooklyn murderer now in the Sing Sing death house, was having more than the usual number of visitors. The District Attorney said he did not wish to make any comment, but would ascertain the facts and communicate with Warden Lawes.

Mr. Dodd came to Albany to argue against the appeal of Paretti in the Court of Appeals. The case was on today's calendar but was not reached and will be the first one argued tomorrow.

LOST HUNTER IS FOUND.

Charles Henson Suffered Little After Wandering 2 Days in Adirondacks.

CHAZY LAKE, N. Y., Nov. 17 (AP).—Charles Henson, the New York hunter who had been lost in the woods around Ellenburgh Mountain since Monday, was found today by the posse which had been seeking him.

Henson was near Ellenburgh when the searchers located him. He was in good physical condition and had suffered little from exposure to the storm which swept the Adirondacks yesterday.

Almour Divorce Action Begins.

The trial of the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Ralph Almour, a former vaudeville dancer, of 50 West Ninety-sixth Street, against Dr. Ralph Almour, a physician with offices at 51 West Seventy-third Street, opened yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Gibbs with testimony concerning a raiding party on the night of June 6.

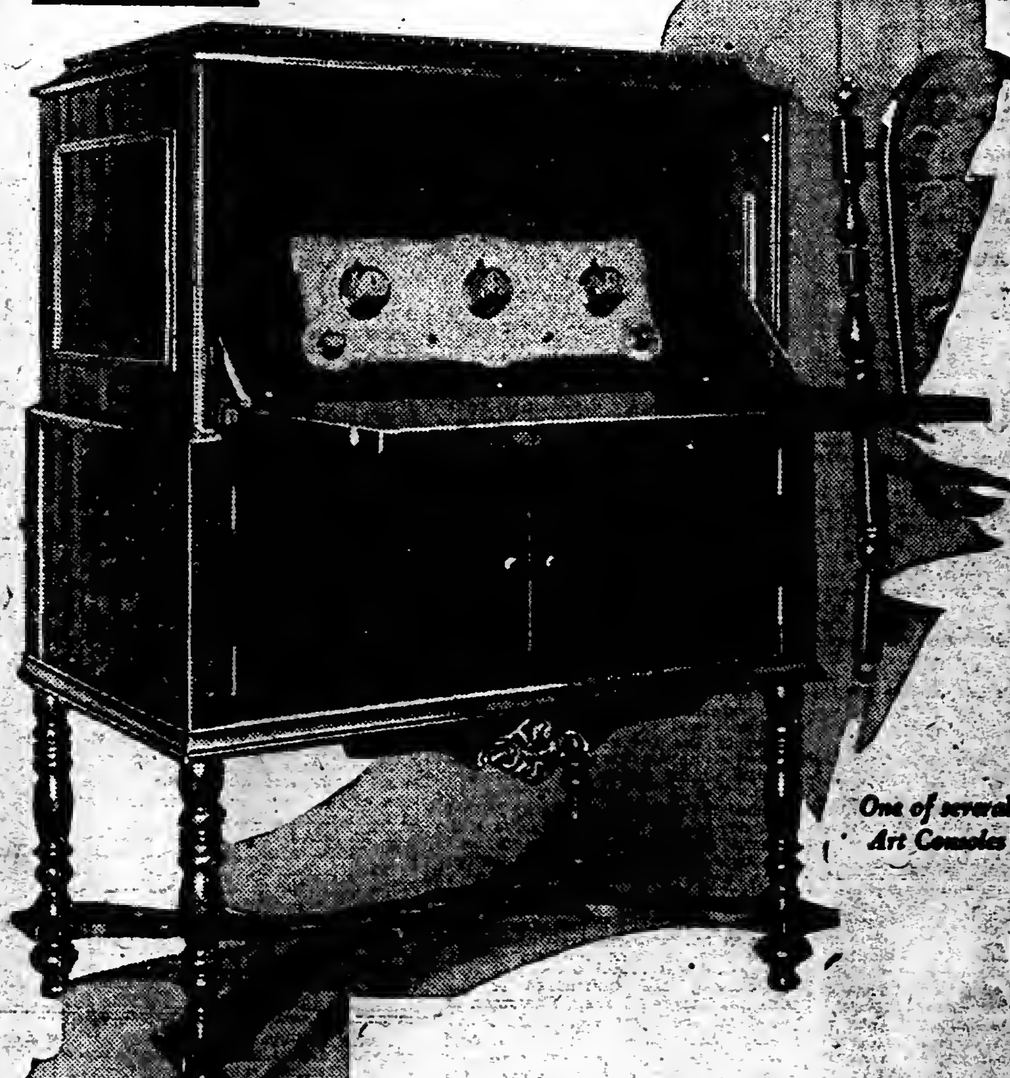
COLONIAL

Direct from Factory ~ at Factory Price ~ with Factory Service



One of several Art Consoles

Isn't it logical —

that every claim made for Radio—quality, tone, selectivity and other performance features—would be embodied in any radio receiver designed by a pioneer in the commercial development of Radio and one of the foremost Radio engineers of the world—Dr. Fulton Cutting? Everything about Colonial Radio IS quality.

Isn't it logical —

that if you buy your Radio direct from a strong manufacturer with advance engineering resources—at the Factory Price, with Factory Service—you will be buying advantageously? The Colonial method of merchandising does cut final costs to less than half by eliminating duplication of distribution costs.

Isn't it logical —

that, regardless of competitive misstatements concerning Colonial's Direct-from-Factory plan, your purchase will carry with it far greater assurance of enduring satisfaction than can be realized through any other form of transaction and service? But one evidence of the soundness of this policy is the satisfaction of more than 7,000 people who bought Colonial Radio during the past year.

DR. FULTON CUTTING

Colonial Radio is designed by Dr. Fulton Cutting. He is the Chief Engineer of the Colonial Radio Corporation. His scientific achievements, including the design of U.S. Navy wireless apparatus, have won him international acclaim. The production and final tests of the Colonial you buy will have same under Dr. Cutting's personal supervision.

Come in-Hear this Wonder Instrument of Radio

NO ORDINARY description of Radio can possibly convey the wonderful reception qualities of the Colonial Power Receiver. Here is REALISM—but it is so very real that you will not believe you are listening to Radio at all. Each of its EIGHT TUBES, operating on the light socket, functions to the nth degree. Please remember that there are no batteries or separate eliminators in this set. There are no acids, no chemicals—it is a perfect mechanism, employing house current exclusively, and employing it for perfect reception. There is never any "let-down" to your power—never any batteries to charge. It has an automatic ONE-KNOB control, with a simple adjustment for three-knob tuning accuracy. It costs less than one cent an hour to operate. It is the embodiment of everything that is perfect in design, construction and performance. But until you see it and hear it, you will never realize how completely it dwarfs all previous conceptions of what Radio has to offer. Come in today or tonight; judge for yourself.

A. A. U. WINS BATTLE FOR OLYMPIC CONTROL

Elects Prout to the Presidency After Sharp Fight With N. C. A. A. Allies.

BRECKINRIDGE IN REVOLT

RESULT LEAVES WIDE SPLIT

But Organizations Represented by Beaten Minority Delegates Will Not Withdraw.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The long-awaited and oft-indicated fight between the Amateur Athletic Union and its allied bodies on the one side and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, National Amateur Athletic Federation, Y. M. C. A. and allied bodies on the other, for control in America's amateur sport activities, came to a head here this afternoon and as a consequence the country's athletic activities, both administrative and advisory, are split wide open.

The climax in a struggle which, veterans say, started twenty years ago, but reached its greatest intensity in the past six years, came this afternoon at the quadrennial meeting of the American Olympic Association held at the headquarters of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Against the opposition represented by General Palmer H. Pierce of the N. C. A. A., and Colonel Henry Breckinridge of the N. A. A. F., William C. Prout, former President of the Amateur Athletic Union, was elected President of the American Olympic Association and then a few minutes later of the American Olympic Committee, superseding the association and formed today to organize the work attendant upon America's participation in the Ninth Olympic Games of 1928 at Amsterdam.

Breckinridge Bolts.

The feeling of dissatisfaction this election caused among the opposition group was clearly reflected by Colonel Breckinridge. In response to a recommendation that Prout and the other officers of the A. A. U. and allied bodies nominated with him be unanimously elected to the leadership of the committee on a single ballot by the Secretary, Colonel Breckinridge jumped to his feet with a decisive emphatic "No," which was echoed by General Pierce.

To emphasize and widen the breach, Breckinridge and Pierce severed all relations with the executive and administrative end of Olympic affairs as they were constituted today, resigning from the committees to which they had been elected. This lead was followed, too, by Major John L. Griffith, Commissioner of the Western Conference, and J. Brooks Parker, Philadelphia, regional delegate from one of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts for which representation was appointed by President Coolidge.

The American Olympic Association is the body which looks after America's Olympic affairs in the interim between renewals of the classic games. The committee is the body which undertakes the active directorship. One succeeds the other, although their objective is the same—to marshal America's athletic forces for Olympic competition.

A. A. U. Scores Heavily.

The election of Prout was the initial step in a veritable A. A. U. landslide, under which the N. C. A. A., the Federation and Y. M. C. A. factions were smothered. In the Olympic Association the following officers were elected by unanimous vote of a Nominating Committee, consisting of Avery Brundage, Central A. A. U.; Dr. John Brown, Y. M. C. A.; Joseph A. Reilly, Adirondack A. A. U.; Dr. Allen W. Rowe, New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association, and Harry W. Maloney, Intercollegiate Rugby Association:

First Vice President, Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, Amatenr Fencers' League of America; Second Vice President, R. Tait Mackenzie, University of Pennsylvania; Third Vice President, Major William Rose, United States Army, Governors Island; Secretary, Frederick W. Rubien, Amateur Athletic Union; Treasurer, Julius H. Barnes, National Association of Amateur Oarsmen; Auditor, A. J. H. McGrath, I. C. A. A. A.

Following the election of six committees, the delegates from the different sport bodies were elected to constitute a temporary American Olympic Committee and President Prout and Secretary Rubien were chosen Temporary Chairman and Secretary, respectively. Then, in rapid-fire order, following the election by acclamation of Prout as President of the American Olympic Committee, the following officers of the committee were elected:

First Vice President, Henry G. Lapham, Boston, to succeed himself; Second Vice President, William F. Humphrey, San Francisco; Third Vice President, Robert S. Weaver, Los Angeles; Fourth Vice President, Federal Judge Rufus E. Foster, New Orleans; Fifth Vice President, Sheldon Clark, Chicago; Secretary, Frederick W. Rubien, New York; Treasurer, Julius H. Barnes, New York.

The following were elected to the Executive Committee: President Murray Hulbert of the A. A. U.; Joseph B. MacCabe, New England A. A. U.; Julian S. Myrick, United States Lawn Tennis Association; Dr. J. R. Manning, United States Football Association; Dr. H. McCurdy, American Physical Education Association; William F. Humphrey, Olympic Club, San Francisco; Charles L. Ornstein, South Atlantic A. A. U., and Dr. George J. Fisher, Boy Scouts of America.

Army-Navy on Executive Body.

In addition all officers of the American Olympic Committee and a representative of the army and the navy each were elected to the Executive Committee.

Just what effect this wide open split will have on the nation's athletic activities cannot be determined right now. Colonel Breckinridge left the meeting declaring he had nothing whatever to say.

General Pierce stated that while he and the representatives of the allied bodies which supported him would have nothing to do personally with the country's participation in the next Olympic games, they would not withdraw as organizations.

The fact that Dr. Brown of the Y. M. C. A. group was a member of a nominating committee which voted unanimously to elect officers, which gave the balance of power to the A. A. U., precipitated speculation on the question of whether the Y. M. C. A. and A. A. U. had effected an alliance. But Dr. Brown dispelled this when he said:

"When a minority is overwhelmed in committee by a majority, the only alternative is to recognize this fact and accede. Our attitude, however, is for, and our sympathies shall remain with, the National Amateur Athletic Federation."

In accepting the presidency, Prout expressed his satisfaction in no unmistakable terms.

"It is indeed an honor to be selected to the post to which you have just elected me," said Prout. "I want everybody here to know that I appreciate the honor, too, and that I will strive to the best of my ability to emulate the example of James E. Sullivan, our late leader, who, practically single-handed and without outside help or influence, managed America's Olympic affairs in years past.

"In my own behalf I wish to remind you that Olympic activity is not new to me. I wore the American shield in the games of 1908, and hope that my experience will enable me to discharge the duties of the important office, to which you have elected me, with complete satisfaction to everybody."

The swing of dictatorial power to the A. A. U. side came after a day which started with the N. C. A. A.-Federation-Y. M. C. A. faction in the ascendancy. The morning session was given over to consideration of amendments to the constitution and by-laws. The first clash came on an amendment which would deprive the representatives, of the twelve Federal Reserve districts, appointed by the President of the United States, of the power to vote. The N. C. A. A. faction accomplished the rejection of this by 35 to 32.

Early in the afternoon session the second test of strength came on a proposed amendment under which only duly certified delegates would be elected to office. This measure was rejected when the A. A. U. faction, though it obtained a majority vote of 31 to 22, failed to marshal the required two-thirds vote and conceded defeat.

On the third vote, in which the A. A. U. faction supported a majority vote in preference to a two-thirds vote for the election of successors to the vacated berths of officers or committeemen in the event of elimination through death, disability or resignation, the A. A. U. faction snowed under its rivals, 42 to 26. Shortly after this followed the climax with the selection and election of officers.

Prout Opens Meeting.

President Prout occupied the chair at the opening of the meeting in the absence of Colonel Robert M. Thompson, former President of the committee and the association, who because of illness is now on the Pacific Coast.

After their session of the morning the delegates recessed at noon for a visit to the White House, where President Coolidge greeted each member of the delegation. Following the reception the President posed for a picture with the group.

Julius H. Barnes wrote the convention of a desire to resign as Treasurer because of additional business responsibilities, but in view of the fact that in his communication he offered to serve until the Olympic authorities found it convenient to select his successor he was re-elected.

The following committees of the American Olympic Association were elected:

Executive Committee—General Palmer E. Pierce, N. C. A. A. (resigned); Colonel Henry Breckinridge, N. A. A. F. (resigned); Murray Hulbert, A. A. U.; Joseph B. MacCabe, New England A. A. U.; Major John L. Griffith, Western Conference (resigned); Julian S. Myrick U. S. L. T. A.; Dr. J. Randolph Manning, U. S. Football Association; Dr. J. H. McCurdy, American Physical Education Association; Charles L. Ornstein, South Atlantic A. A. U., and William F. Humphrey, Olympic Club, San Francisco.

Credentials Committee—Karl K. Frederick, United States Revolver Association; Commander William Richardson, United States Navy; Joseph A. Reilly, Adirondacks A. A. U.; Dr. Allen W. Rowe, New England Intercollegiate A. A., and Frederick W. Rubien, A. A. U.

Olympic Games Committee—Gustavus T. Kirby, I. C. A. A. A. A.; Louis Di Benedatto, Southern A. A. U.; Robert S. Weaver, Southern Pacific A. A. U.; Dr. John Brown Jr., Y. M. C. A.; Harry W. Maloney, Intercollegiate Rugby Association; A. A. Stagg, Western Conference; Dr. George Meylan, N. C. A. A.; Mrs. E. Fullard Lee, Hawaiian A. A. U.; Captain C. R. Train, N. A. A. F.

Finance Committee — Julius H. Barnes, National Association of Amateur Oarsmen; Ogden Reid of New York, Federal Reserve District delegate; J. Brooks Parker of Philadelphia, Federal Reserve District delegate (resigned); Joseph Patterson, Colonel Douglas McCaskey, U. S. Army.

Legislation Committee—Colonel Henry Breckinridge, N. A. A. F. (resigned); Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, N. C. A. A.; Avery Brundage, Central A. A. U.; Major P. J. Walsh, Metropolitan A. A. U.; Captain W. B. Puleston, U. S. Navy.

INJURED BY KNOCKOUT.

Webber Revived With Pulmotor—Is Taken to Hospital.

DETROIT, Nov. 17 (AP).—A pulmotor was required to revive Johnny Webber of Detroit, bantamweight, who was knocked out tonight by Jackie Nichols of St. Paul in the last round of a scheduled ten-round fight. Webber was removed to a hospital where his condition is considered serious.

George Smith of Toronto, won a decision over Bill Strob of Detroit. They are welterweights.

Ackerman Loses to Cosgrove.

Joseph Cosgrove defeated Sam Ackerman in an Eastern States three-cushion tournament game last night at Kreuter's Billiard Academy by 40 to 29 in fifty-nine innings. The high runs were Cosgrove 4, Ackerman 5.

Germans Cheered by French At Official Boxing Renewal

PARIS, Nov. 17 (AP).—Five German boxers met with an enthusiastic welcome from a big crowd of spectators during the official resumption of boxing bouts between Germans and Frenchmen at the Cirque Paris last night. Only one of the Germans was victorious. He was Doemgoergen, Germany's best middleweight, who defeated Romerio. Barrick, a French heavyweight, won on a foul from Roseman, Germany, in the second round. Charles Raymond, featherweight, defeated Stamms, and Nitram, middleweight, won from Hammer. France's promising flyweight, Pladner, knocked out his fellow Frenchman, Minow, in the sixth round. Figured on the current rate of exchange, the Germans received exactly double the amount paid the French.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Ralph Greenleaf, former world's pocket billiard champion, tonight regained his crown when he defeated Erwin Rudolph of Chicago, 125 to 52, in the final match of the tournament at the Elks Club, giving him a record of eight victories and one defeat. This is the seventh time he has won the crown.

Playing in his usual steady fashion, Greenleaf overcame an early lead of the Chicagoan to gain his triumph. He wins more than $1,200 in cash along with the $1,000 trophy as the title winner. He also will receive a salary of $3,000.

Greenleaf scored in only six innings of the contest, but completed his string with an unfinished run of 19. This latter mark was just one better than the best run of Rudolph, while Greenleaf's high mark for the match was 49, made in the sixth inning.

Rudolph Next Challenger.

The new title holder, who succeeds Frank Taberski, will be called upon to defend his title within sixty days. Rudolph, by finishing second, with a record of 7 victories and 2 defeats, becomes the first challenger, and the match will be staged in Washington on Jan. 12. Taberski, who won the title from Greenleaf in the National League last season, finished in a tie with Tom Hueston for fourth place. In addition Taberski takes the high run prize with his string of 70.

Greenleaf, shooting first, played safe, and Rudolph made five before scratching. After Ralph had scored twice, Rudolph increased his lead with his best run of the match, 18. Greenleaf made 4 in his third inning, then played safe.

There was no more scoring until Greenleaf's sixth inning, when he chalked up his run of 49 and took the lead. Rudolph made 12 in his eighth turn at the table, while Ralph made 9 in the ninth inning.

In the next five innings only a single point was made, this by Greenleaf in the thirteenth. In the fifteenth, Ralph passed the century mark by making 45, while Rudolph followed with 10. Greenleaf played safe in the sixteenth, but Rudolph clicked off a dozen points. Then Greenleaf won the match and title with an unfinished string of 19.

Rudolph and Hueston will divide the best game award, as each completed a match in nine innings.

A long drawn out battle took place in the afternoon when Harry Oswald, Pittsburgh, and Frank Taberski, Schenectady, dethroned champion, crossed cues. After three hours and forty minutes of play, Oswald emerged triumphant, 125 to 119. Forty innings were played.

Oswald, by his victory, clinched third place. Taberski, due to his defeat, is forced to share the fourth prize with Tom Hneston, both finishing with records of five victories and four defeats.

Harmon Rallies to Win.

Rallying in brilliant fashion to turn in an unfinished run of 14, Charles Harmon of New York scored his first victory of the tournament in the other afternoon match. Harmon defeated Andrew Ponzi of this city in 33 innings by a score of 125 to 112.

Both cuelists turned in brilliant performances. Harmon had a high run of 21 and his opponent a string of 20. Throughout the contest, the lead was constantly changing. Ponzi hopped off first with eight balls in the second inning and it was not until the fourth that Harmon, with a run of 9, forged ahead. From that point on, the lead varied. Harmon, strong in the final innings, turned in runs of 19, 7 and 14 to clinch his victory.

The score by innings:

General Sherrill Says Yale Will Prepare Its Crew of 1928 for the Olympic Games

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP).—The Yale Athletic Association has decided to train its 1928 varsity crew for the Olympic Games, which will be held at Amsterdam that year, General Charles H. Sherrill, American member of the International Olympic Committee, told the meeting of the American Olympic Association today. Yale's crew carried the American colors to victory in the 1924 Olympic championship at Paris.

General Sherrill also told the association it had been decided to hold the Olympic track and field program at Amsterdam over a two weeks' period, beginning July 14. The rowing events are scheduled to start July 17.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17 (AP).—Participation of a Yale crew in the Olympic Games in 1928 is a matter for future decision and a question which has not come before the Yale Athletic Association, it was stated at the university today. Professor G. H. Nettleton, Chairman of the Board of Athletic Control of the association, said he knew nothing of the matter.

BRITISH OPEN GOLF SAME WEEK AS U. S.

P. G. A. Expected to Ratify June 23, 24 and 25 Today—Battle Looms Between Countries.

BOTH BODIES ARE ADAMANT

Americans Feel Britons Should Select a Week Early in June, but Change Is Improbable.

A conflict in dates which threatens international competition on the links between America and Great Britain next year loomed last night on the eve of a meeting of United States Golf Association executives to arrange 1927 title fixtures, the Associated Press reports.

For the first time in several years, the American open at Oakmont tentatively has been fixed for June 23, 24 and 25, a period which falls within the week already chosen for the British open. Submission of these dates by the U. S. G. A. to the Professional Golfers Association for approval has indicated that they are likely to be accepted today, thus forcing a showdown in the long controversy over dates with the Royal and Ancient Club of Great Britain.

Effort has been made for several years to have the British open moved forward to an early June date to avoid a conflict. The possibility of oppressive heat and the claim that American courses are at their best in June have been among the arguments for avoidance of July.

British officials apparently have been reluctant to change, although American professionals maintain that the overseas courses are in best condition much earlier than those in this country. It was only after the U. S. G. A. had failed last year to have the British event played early in June that July dates were accepted under some objection by American players.

The playing of the event in the Fall is out of consideration, golfers point out, because the champion, if the honor fell to a professional, would be unable to reap the full benefit of his victory through the inevitable round of exhibition matches which follows.

Conflicting dates next year would prevent another performance such as that recorded last Summer by Bobby Jones, who won both championships. It also will threaten the contemplated invasion of America by a team of British professionals, who had announced their desire to participate in the American open.

BOXING SHOW TO AID CRIME CURB MOVEMENT

Textile Trades Sponsor Amateur Bouts Dec. 8 for the Marshall Stillman Organization.

The campaign to make the amateur boxing exhibition and dinner to be given by the textile trades of New York on Dec. 8 at the Hotel Commodore for the benefit of the Marshall Stillman Movement, one of the greatest events of its kind, was launched yesterday afternoon by Alpheus Geer, founder of the movement, at luncheon held at the New York Athletic Club.

Boxing, according to Mr. Geer, a former boxer and a devotee of the sport for forty years, has come to be accepted as the greatest medium the Marshall Stillman Movement has yet found effectively to combat crime. A club recently established by the organization at 290 East Third Street has made boxing one of its leading forms of entertainment, he said.

More than 2,000 are expected to attend the dinner to be given at the Commodore, including many men and women prominent in social and professional life who also have become interested in Mr. Geer's theory and methods for curbing criminal tendencies. William Muldoon, member of the New York State Athletic Commission, will be the toastmaster.

BALDOCK WINS VERDICT.

Defeats Billy Reynolds in 6 Rounds at New Manhattan.

Teddy Baldock, 118½, of England, used his left hand to advantage in the closing round of his six-round bout with Billy Reynolds, 118, of Jersey City, at the opening show of the indoor season at the New Manhattan Sporting Club last night and gained the decision. The bout, the feature of the card was fast from the start. In the semi-final, also of six rounds, Al (Rube) Goldberg, 123½, of Harlem, boxed a draw with Murray Fuchs, 124½, of the east side. In the other two six-round affairs Joe Marino, 149, of the Bronx, boxed a draw with Joey Knapp, 146, of Harlem, and Bob Nelson, 131, of Harlem, knocked out Willie Singer of the east side in the third round. Charlie Sewell of the east side was the victor over Charlie Fleischman of the Bronx and Mickey Polo of Harlem won from Eddie Vartas of the east side in four-round contests.

RIVERETTE DEFEATS DYETT.

Victor in Return Amateur Bout at Bronx Lyceum—Levy Triumphs.

Tommy Riverette was the winner in the 118-pound class over Jim Dyett in a return bout at the Bronx Lyceum in the feature clash on the amateur card held under the auspices of the Starlight A. C. last night. Riverette was the aggressor throughout.

CRUICKSHANK WINS MID-SOUTH TOURNEY

WALKER AND BLUE SECOND

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 17.—Bobby Cruickshank, professional at the Progress Country Club, Purchase, N. Y., paired with George Voight, an amateur from Washington, D. C., accounted for the annual Mid-South amateur-professional best ball championship here today by one stroke margin. Scoring 35—36—71 in the morning, the pair finished strong in the afternoon, getting 35—32—67 for a total of 138.

Walker and Blue led in the morning with 68, and in the afternoon Walker played his irons masterfully, but he had three putts on the twelfth and then missed a six-footer.

Cruickshank and Voight worked efficiently, going out this afternoon in 35 with an eagle at the sixth. Cruickshank sank a long 3 at the tenth, Voight got an eagle 3 at the fourteenth and added another birdie 3 at the fifteenth.

COPULOS INCREASES LEAD.

Wins in Afternoon From St. Jean, 50-38, and in Evening, 50-25.

Gus Copulos increased his lead over Andrew St. Jean in their special 600-point, three-cushion match at the Strand Billiard Academy by winning both of yesterday's blocks. In the afternoon Copulos won, 50 to 38, in sixty-four innings. His high run was 5, against two of 6 for St. Jean. Last night Copulos won, 50 to 25, in thirty-six innings. Copulos had a high run of 6, and St. Jean one of 2.

At the end of the sixth block Copulos leads St. Jean, 300 to 193, in the 283 innings of play.

TUNNEY NOT BOUND TO ANY PROMOTER

Corrects General Impression That He Is Obligated to Fight Under Rickard.

CONFERS WITH FUGAZY

Latter Hopeful That He Will Stage Heavyweight Title Event Next Year.

That the staging of the next world's heavyweight championship bout will witness another spirited skirmish between promoters Tex Rickard and Humbert Fugazy such as characterized the Delaney-Berlenbach light heavyweight title fight last year in which Fugazy came ont on top, was forecast yesterday when Gene Tunney, the titleholder, engaged in a lengthy conference with Fugazy at the Hotel Breslin. The meeting also was attended by Bill McCabe and Jimmy Eagleton.

The most important thing to transpire at the session was a statement by Tunney in which the new heavyweight king declared emphatically that he was not bound by contract or agreement to any promoter and that Fugazy had as good a chance to land a championship fight for 1927 as any other.

"I am not bound to any one," said Tunney. "I intend to fight next Summer and I am ready to meet any man that Fugazy or any other promoter selects for me, providing the terms are satisfactory. In other words, my services will go to the highest bidder and the man who makes me the best inducements will be the one to land the fight."

Fugazy left the conference appearing well satisfied and highly optimistic over his chances on promoting the big pugilistic plum for 1927.

"Tunney impressed me very much today," said the promoter. "He looked to me straightforward and sincere when he told me he was not bound at this time to any promoter. He assured me I had as good a chance as any one to land the bout, and this makes me feel pretty certain that I will land it. Although I am not ready to disclose all my plans, I will say that I will have an arena right here in New York next Summer to accommodate a world's heavyweight championship fight better than any other place and, with Tunney free to negotiate with me, I feel confident that when the time comes the champion will close terms with me."

Later, in the day, Rickard, when told of the conference between Tunney and Fugazy, admitted that he had no contract signed with Tunney at the present.

"I never did say," declared Rickard, "that I had Tunney tied up. Tunney and I had a long talk after he won the championship and Gene told me that when he was ready to talk business for his next fight he would drop in and see me. Nothing has developed since and to me it seems a bit early to be talking about what is to take place next Fall. All I will say now is that I'll be in the field for the next championship fight and, knowing exactly where Tunney stands, I'm not worrying. Right now I'm busy arranging elimination heavyweight fights to produce the outstanding challenger, so that when the time comes to talk business with Tunney I will have a man ready to meet him."

Horween Accepts Harvard Bid To Remain as Football Coach

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Coach Arnold Horween of Harvard announced from the platform of the Harvard Union tonight at the annual mass meeting before the Yale game he would accept the contract offered to him to coach another year. When the Crimson coach accepted the offer he received one of the greatest ovations ever accorded any speaker at the Union.

Where Winter Wasn't

A MAN came in for an overcoat. Was going to Canada. Wanted something real heavy. We told him nothing to it. Heavy coat a nuisance to lug around. Lighter woolens plenty warm enough, without being burdensome. We convinced him and he bought one of our Recent Row double-breasteds.

That was two weeks ago Saturday. Day before yesterday a note came from Montreal—

"Cold as blazes my first week up here, but your blankety-blank overcoat kept me warm. Thursday the weather went crazy—Indian summer Canadians call it—but the blankety-blank Brokaw coat still light enough to be comfortable. You were right and I was wrong. First time in eighteen years!"

In a climate like ours, where winter days alternate with warm ones, the Brokaw overcoat is at its best. Always comfortable, always handsome, always typical of the finest that can be had in men's overcoats.

Joy Smoke Beats Willie K Easily by Two Lengths in Century Handicap at Bowie

CENTURY HANDICAP GOES TO JOY SMOKE

Bowie Feature Is Won in Romp as Willie K. Is Beaten Two Lengths at Wire.

HILDRETH, FATOR TRIUMPH

Score for Rancocas Stable With Sankari and Celidon in Boulevard and Capital City.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 17.—With Indian summer weather on tap once more, there was a big turnout for the third day of the Autumn meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association. The sun poured down from a cloudless sky and there was just enough of a southerly breeze to make it comfortable without heavy wraps.

The card did not offer much, the featured number being the Century Handicap for all ages over the course of a mile and a sixteenth. With H. G. Bedwell's Cudgeller scratched, only four were left to take the journey over the heavy course. E. F. Whitney's Joy Smoke loves the Bowie going and the race was just a nice preparation for the race of Sir Martin and Sweet Briar for the Thanksgiving Handicap. Joy Smoke won that race last year, as well as the Washington Handicap, and is a right fit horse just now, having won his last start at Pimlico.

Joy Smoke just romped all the way with his ears pricked. Butwell coasted him into the lead and had a nice ride with nothing to fear from anything in back of him. W. Keating's two-year-old Willie K. came charging down the homestretch at the end, but he wasn't threatening the winner, which had two lengths at the wire, racing. P. F. Joyce's Harry Baker and Frank Brown's Cloudland tagged along far back. Joy Smoke packed top weight of 123 pounds and ran the race in 1:52 2-5. He was the 11-to-20 favorite.

Hildreth Scores Two.

Sam Hildreth had led his second winner of the afternoon and Laverne Fator made his double when the Rancocas Stable's three-year-old gelding Celidon came home in front of three others in the Capital City Purse, a gallop of a mile and seventy yards restricted to the three-year-olds. This son of Negofol and Adana also was an 11-to-20 shot, paying $3.10 in the mutuels.

Fator rode a confident race on the gelding, taking him into the lead with the rise of the barrier and rating him in front all the way. He had no opposition and at the winning post was galloping well in front of the Xalapa Farm's Forever and Ever. The others were not in the picture at the finish. The winner had up top weight of 111 pounds and ran the distance in 1:51.

Hildreth scored with Sankari in the Boulevard Purse over the six-furlong route, snatching out Sweepster. The brown son of the Finn and Cadeau beat four other juveniles with ease. Fator, who had the leg up, waited on the pace, sent his mount up on the turn and came home the easiest kind of a winner. Sankari was the 3 to 5 favorite, paying $3.20 in the mutuels. H. P. Whitney's Afterglow, after Abel rated him off the pace, came on to take the place from J. P. Smith's Sun Forward, the second choice. The race was run in 1:16, the winner taking up top weight of 113 pounds.

Outsider Triumphs.

The opening number, a dash of six furlongs for the juveniles, under claiming conditions, was a victory for an outsider, the Capital Stable's High Time gelding Bobby Jones, grouped in the mutuel field and paying $23.90. Philpot had the leg up and brought his mount home a winner by a length and a half in a driving finish with R. W. Carter's Vortex. Bobby Jones was in light under 102 pounds and ran the distance in 1:17 flat.

Another field horse won in the claiming event for three-year-olds and upward over the six-furlong route when R. T. Barker's veteran Mormon stepped down in front to pay his backers $36.70 for each $2 ticket. This old maiden-bred gelding has been racing up on the Canadian circuit and wasn't considered a possibility, but he had plenty to spare on the other twelve. S. H. Dudley's Lady Glassen, heavily played, finished a length and a half back. E. K. Bryson's Wellfinder made the early pace, but the old Broomstick gelding died away to nothing. The winner had a lot on the others in the matter of weight, packing only 105 pounds.

Garrison Signs for Six-Day Race.

Leroy Garrison, winner of the amateur all-around cycling title of America last Summer, was signed yesterday to make his first professional appearance in the coming six-day bicycle race, which will start in Madison Square Garden on Dec. 5.

Scratched—Sweepster, Witchmount and Festiva.

Sankari, much the best, was bumped at the far turn, but overcame interference and drew away to a long lead and won easily. Afterglow came around the field on the turn and slipped through on the inside. He finished fast. Sun Forward followed the pace closely and had no excuse. Danthonia had speed for a half mile, but then stopped. Chairman was outrun.

Owners—1, Rancocas Stable; 2, H. P. Whitney; 3, J. P. Smith; 4, J. M. Bowman; 5, H. G. Bedwell.

1650 FOURTH RACE—The Century Handicap; all ages; $2,000 added; one mile and a sixteenth. Start good; won easily; place same. Winner, ch. g., 5, by Sir Martin—Sweet Briar. Trainer, W. Irvine. Time—0:24⅘, 0:50⅘, 1:15⅘, 1:45⅘, 1:52⅘.

AMERICANS-MAROONS AT GARDEN TONIGHT

Last Year's Line-Up to Take Ice Again—Game on Tuesday Drew $29,991 Gate.

The second pro hockey game of the National League season will be played tonight at Madison Square Garden when the New York Americans meet the champion Montreal Maroons. The Maroons opened the local season here with the Rangers, New York's new pro team, on Tuesday night, and were beaten by the newcomers in a bristling battle by a 1-0 score.

The local sextet, which defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates in the opening game at Pittsburgh on Tuesday night, are said to be moving fast for this stage of the season and will appear with practically the same line-up as last year.

While tonight's game will not be attended by as much ceremony as characterized Tuesday night's opening, there will be a band concert, Mayor Walker will throw in the disk and Miss Katie Schmidt's Berlin ice ballet will perform.

Figures given out yesterday at Madison Square Garden showed that Tuesday night's paid attendance was 11,398, with gate receipts of $29,991, 50 per cent. of which goes to the Grosnevor Neighborhood House.

AMERICANS.		MAROONS.
Forbes	Goal	Benedict
Langlois	Defense	Munro
Simpson	Defense	Noble
Burch	Centre	Stewart
McKinnon	Wing	Broadbent
Red Green	Wing	Siebert

N. Y. U. QUINTET PRACTICES.

Forty-one, Including Five Veterans, Take Part in First Drill.

Forty-one candidates reported to Coach Howard Cann yesterday afternoon for the initial basketball practice of the season for the N. Y. U. team. The workout was held on the U. S. Training Ship Illinois, anchored off Ninty-sixth Street and Riverside Drive. Practice was held on the ship because of the tearing down of the N. Y. U. gymnasium, as a result of new building plans at the University.

Five letter men were among those who answered the call, headed by Captain William Werner. The other veterans were Gerald McCarthy, Thomas Reddy, Russell Hawkins and Jack Trupin.

BONAIRE SUCCUMBS TO AREGAL AT WIRE

DENT SMITH RIDES WINNER

Sends His Mount to the Leader in the Closing Strides—Peacemaker Is a Poor Third.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 17.—The silks of C. E. Durnell were again carried to victory in the feature race here, when Aregal nipped Bonaire at the wire in the Georgetown Handicap for two-year-olds at a mile today. Bonaire supplanted Henry Sommers as leader at the last turn, but under vigorous riding by Jockey Dent Smith Aregal drew up to even terms with him in the closing strides and in a furious finish won by a head. Peacemaker was well beaten off for third.

Spugs Scores 42d Victory Under Frank Kearns's Silks

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 17.—Frank Kearns smiled a little today, perhaps, when old Spugs came slipping under the wire a victor in the claiming race at a mile and a sixteenth. The victory was worth more than a smile, for it was Spugs's forty-second for Kearns. He was ridden by Allen and in the stretch, where Spugs usually makes his spurt, Allen let the veteran out and he earned brackets. He paid $7.40 for each $2 ticket and there were quite a few Spugs followers who cashed.

SARAZEN'S IMPOST TOPS BRYAN FIELD

To Carry 126 Pounds in Memorial Race at Bowie, Conceding 4 Pounds to Macaw.

YALE CLUB BEATEN IN CLASS A SQUASH

Bows to Crescent A. C., 4 to 3, for Second Defeat in as Many Matches.

HARVARD CLUB IS ON TOP

League Champions Down Columbia Club by 6 to 1—Coward Triumphs After Close Struggle.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Harvard	2	0	Columbia	1	2
Crescent	2	0	Princeton	0	1
N. Y. A. C.	1	1	Yale	0	2

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Yale squash has fallen upon evil days. For the second successive week the Blue went down in defeat in the metropolitan Class A squash tennis championship, losing to the Crescent A. C. on the Eli courts, 4 to 3.

The downfall of Yale was brought about in spite of the fact that its No. 1 man, Thomas R. Coward, former national champion, was rushed from the Majestic, on which he arrived, to play in the line-up and defeated George G. Davidson. It required three games for a decision, and after a whirlwind match in which Coward seemed to be badly spent in the second game, the Yale man came through with a fine exhibition of grit in the final game to win at 15—10, 11—15, 15—10.

In the other match played last night, the Harvard Club men, league champions, won their second victory, defeating the Columbia University Club on the Crimson courts, 6 to 1. Fillmore Hyde, the national champion, again was missing from the Harvard line-up and William Rand Jr., former champion, took his place at No. 1. His opponent was Rowland B. Haines, the Columbia pile-driver.

Haines in the Lead.

Haines came close to taking the first game, lost it by a narrow margin, rushed through the second at 15—2 and lost in the third at 18—16, 2—15, 15—10. Rand's service was a big factor in the victory, accounting for a third of his points in both the first and third games.

Harvard and the Crescents are now tied for first place, each having won two matches and lost none. The New York A. C., which did not play last night, is in third place with one match won and one lost, while Columbia, Princeton and Yale follow in order. The matches won by default from the Montclair A. C., which has dropped out of the league, have been thrown out of the standing of the teams.

Aside from the match between Coward and Davidson, the feature of the play at the Yale Club was the victory of E. R. Larigan of the Crescents over Otis Guernsey. Guernsey has rated among the top notchers for a number of years and two years ago defeated Coward in the national championship. Larigan, on the other hand, was in class C two seasons ago and won the B championship last Winter.

Guernsey played on even terms with the Crescent star for the first game, only to lose after a game of five had been set at 13-all. In the second game however, Larigan was much too steady and his backhand was irresistible, with the result that the Yale man got only five points.

Bull Gains a Point.

Charles M. Bull, former veterans' champion, gained another point for the Brooklynites when he defeated Auguste Cordier, former national title holder, in a bitterly fought three-game match. Bull pulled up from 7-12 to win in the final game 10-15, 15-2, 18-13.

The summaries:

Crescent A. C. 4, Yale Club 3.

Thomas R. Coward, Yale, defeated George G. Davidson, 15—10, 11—15, 15—10; E. R. Larigan, Crescent, defeated Otis L. Guernsey, 18—13, 15—5; Charles M. Bull, Crescent, defeated Auguste J. Cordier, 10—15, 15—2, 18—13; B. H. O'Connor, Crescent, defeated Francis Day, 15—13, 15—3; J. C. Tredwell, Crescent, defeated Charles J. MacGuire, 9—15, 15—3, 15—3; Arthur Goldburg, Yale, defeated E. W. Kleintert, 15—8, 15—18, 18—16; L. H. Sonneborn, Yale, defeated J. W. Ivins, 11—15, 15—4, 15—7.

Harvard Club 6, Columbia U. C. 1.

William Rand Jr., Harvard, defeated Rowland B. Haines, 18—16, 2—15, 15—10; Hewitt Morgan, Harvard, defeated Frank Kidde, 15—12, 18—14; G. M. Bushmore, Harvard, defeated J. D. Kennedy, 15—9, 15—8; J. D. Kennedy, Columbia, defeated Murray Taylor, 15—7, 15—11; Morris Phinney, Harvard, defeated R. H. Reutter, 15—6, 15—5; C. F. Fuller, Harvard, defeated D. W. Haines, 8—15, 17—14, 15—6; G. B. Woods, Harvard, defeated Gardner Hirons, 15—12, 15—11.

CROSS BEATEN AT SQUASH.

Brackenridge's Conqueror Bows to Mixsell in N. Y. A. C. Play.

The onward rush of Harry K. Cross in squash tennis was brought to an abrupt halt last night. The Yale Club Class C player, who defeated Gavin Brackenridge, a member of the first ten, was decisively defeated by Brackenridge's team-mate, Harold Mixsell of Princeton, last night in the annual Fall scratch tournament at the New York A. C. Cross got only 7 points in the match, losing at 15—4, 15—3.

Three other matches were played, in which Frank Loughman of the New York A. C. defeated C. W. Button of the home club at 15—9, 15—5; W. E. Chambers, also of the Winged Foot, triumphed over H. D. Chaplin of Princeton at 15—10, 15—6, and E. L. Maxwell of Princeton eliminated G. N. Rothschild of Princeton at 15—10, 18—16. One other player advanced by default, Norman F. Torrance of the Crescents failing to appear against J. C. Rochester of the New York A. C.

London Wins Met. Cue Tourney.

J. London was the winner of the Metropolitan Handicap Pocket Billiard tournament which ended at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy last night. London defeated G. Dad, 75 to 27, in the final game in 33 innings. London's high run was 18, Dad's 8. In the afternoon William Thornton defeated W. B. Smith, 95 to 58, in 30 innings. The high runs were Thornton 21, Smith 12.

THIRTY IN WORKOUT ON COLUMBIA COURT

Captain Lorch Is Only Regular on Hand as Basketball Drills Are Begun.

Thirty candidates for the Columbia basketball team reported to Coaches Dan Meenan and Paul Mooney yesterday afternoon for the first indoor work of the season. Several members of last year's Eastern Intercollegiate League championship five are members of the football team, so the court squad will not be at its full strength until these players report.

The practice yesterday consisted of handling the ball, passing and trying field goals. Daily sessions will be held hereafter for varsity aspirants, but candidates for the freshman team are not expected to report until about the middle of December. Led by Captain Jack Lorch, several men have been running at least two miles daily the past few weeks on the South Field track as part of their training for the court season.

Coach Meenan probably will allow football men who intend to play basketball a two weeks' rest at the close of the gridiron season before reporting for the indoor sport. Mount Norris, Bill Madden, Dutch Rieger and Hick Brady, who now hold forth with the football men, were members of the championship Lion court squad last year, while Dulin, a forward and a member of this year's freshman football team, will become eligible for varsity basketball in February.

Captain Lorch was the only regular from last year's team to report yesterday. Among the other candidates were Potter, Fox, Watson and Meyers of the 1925-26 reserves.

Rival Camps Plan Strategy for Yale-Harvard Football Game

YALE TEAM PLUNGES AHEAD FOR HARVARD

STUDENTS STAGE A PARADE

Coaches Also Show Confidence as Plans Are Made—Veterans Ready for Action.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17.—Yale today began to come away from the Princeton defeat and gather impetus for the invasion of the Harvard squad here Saturday. The loss of the Princeton game was a big blow to the Blue forces. The team and the coaches had planned on these last two games to lift the gloom of a bad season and to have come so close to doing it at Princeton only served to heap coals on the fire of defeat.

The team, out on old Yale Field in the shadow of the bulking walls of the Bowl, went through its last real workout this evening with Tad Jones and his assistants sending his men through dummy scrimmage and long kicking, passing and signal drills.

This evening, starting with a torchlight parade behind the Yale band through the streets of New Haven, a huge mass meeting gave the students a chance to tell the coaches and the players that they are still very much with them.

Coaches Are Confident.

Among the coaches and the players there is evident the feeling that pervades the whole campus this evening. A certainty that more hangs to this Harvard game than has been connected with one in a great many years.

Yale wants this game and wants it almost desperately. Mistakes were made in the Princeton game, so were mistakes made on the other side, but Princeton won and lit bonfires. Yale lost and remembers and those mistakes will not be made again.

The coaches this week have been working at lifting the team over the depression that that game threw over it. It is not breaking any state secrets to say that the defeat—the manner of it, more than the defeat itself—hurt. It gave them another barrier at the end of a season which has seemed to be just one tall one after another.

How well the coaches will succeed in the task of lifting the players above this remains to be seen. Tad Jones is not saying anything. Anything that he could say would be obvious. There is very little talking being done by anybody up here. Instead, there is a certain grimness which, if turned in the right direction, may make things decidedly hot for the Crimson.

The players taken from the Princeton game with injuries are in shape again. Jones will have more of a full front to present for this contest than any that he has had this year. Bill Kline will be ready and Larry Noble can start, if the coaches so decide.

Hoben Ready for Action.

Hoben, who intercepted the pass which led to Yale's score in the Princeton battle and a moment or so later was taken from the game, will be able to play. It is even possible that Bruce Caldwell, who broke an ankle in early season practice, can play for a while if called upon. But he has been out of practice so long it is doubtful that he would be of much value now.

The Yale and Harvard coaching staffs have had no non-scouting agreement this year, so the Elis have been coached in Harvard plays and plans, so far as the Yale scouts have been able to outline them. And it is safe to assume that Harvard took away several vivid impressions from Princeton last Saturday night.

Jones still is undecided on his starting line-up, though it is pretty much of a certainty that the same line which opened against the Tigers will face Harvard at the opening kick-off.

The work of this line pleased the coaches at Princeton, particularly so in the case of Sturhahn, who played such a brilliant game, and of Duke Richards at tackle.

It is the back field which is the more uncertain. Yale really started the Princeton game with a scrub back field. Bill Holabird, though a senior, won his letter for football for the first time that day and Cox never had been considered of varsity calibre until recent weeks up here.

Reserves Are Weak.

In the back field there is not much in the way of reserve material. The reserves for the line are better, in the main; not so much for individual ability, but because injuries and other things have made it necessary to juggle backs until none of them have played more than a few days as a combination.

It may be that Jones will decide to start with Noble and Kline instead of the two who opened against the Tigers. On the other hand, he may hold these two men out and open with the men who first faced Princeton, saving the two veterans for later in the game.

There has been no scrimmaging this week and there was none last week. This is something of a record for Yale teams, though they have never scrimmaged so much as has been reported in certain quarters.

It has been impossible to scrimmage them, for coaches cannot take chances with material that has been banged up as has Yale this year.

Morale Is High.

This week, then, has been devoted to morale. Not that the boys who fought so hard against Princeton have lost their nerve. There is no evidence of that. Jones, all through the period of defeat—and again today—praised unstintedly the spirit and courage of the players.

It is, perhaps, more physical than mental, for the Princeton game, while clean enough, was as hard a game as any gridiron has seen in years. Players on both sides were pretty well exhausted when it was through. The Yale players today just began to come back again, began to don their shoes with something of a relish when practice started in the afternoon, and it will be during the next few days that the Elis rise to the occasion.

Yale, then, goes into the Harvard game wanting it more than any game Yale has prepared for in years and with a better front to start than it has had since early season. Whether the reserves, if needed, can hold up their end remains to be seen.

Ninety-two Specials to Carry Yale-Harvard Game Spectators

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17 (AP).—Preliminary plans for the transportation of the throng of football fans which will attend the Yale-Harvard game here Saturday include the addition of ninety-two special trains to the schedule, fifty-one of which will be from New York and Boston, according to an announcement made at the general offices of the New Haven Railroad here today. Twenty-three specials will be run from Boston on Saturday and will return to Boston as soon as possible after the game. From New York the road is planning to run twenty-eight specials with 220 extra coaches.

THREE NEW ELEVENS BOOKED BY AMHERST

Haverford, Alfred and Vermont Added—Miller Is Captain—Basketball Dates Set.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 17.—Haverford, Alfred and the University of Vermont appear on the 1927 Amherst football schedule announced today, replacing Bowdoin, Union and the University of Rochester. Randolph V. L. Miller of Homer, N. Y., has been elected to captain the 1927 team.

For the fourth consecutive year the Purple eleven will open the Princeton season. Haverford and Alfred have never before appeared on an Amherst gridiron card, while the last of four meetings with Vermont occurred in 1908.

Miller, three-sport athlete whose election took place today, has played two seasons with the Little Three champions, winning his letters at guard, and is one of the best forwards ever developed at Amherst. He has also won two letters in basketball and is a letter man in weight events in track.

Miller prepared for Amherst at Phillips Andover and Deerfield Academy. He is the first lineman to lead an Amherst eleven since 1922. The 1927 team will be managed by John Grant of Fairfield, Conn.

Amherst today also announced its 1927 basketball schedule, comprising twelve games, with three new opponents, Syracuse, St. Stephen's and Union listed. In the meeting with Brown Amherst will face the pupils of Tuss McLaughry, former Amherst mentor. McLaughry is succeeded here by Emery Grayson, former Massachusetts Aggie star, who is also head baseball coach.

The 1927 team is captained by E. E. Richardson, forward, of Littleton, N. H. Three first-string regulars remain from the last quintet.

The schedules:

Football.

Sept. 24, Alfred.
Oct. 1, Princeton at Princeton; 8, Haverford; 15, Hamilton at Clinton, N. Y.; 22, Wesleyan; 29, Massachusetts Aggies.
Nov. 5, Vermont; 12, Williams at Williamstown.

Basketball.

Jan. 12, St. Stephen's; 15, Wesleyan at Middletown, Conn.; 22, Boston University; 29, Holy Cross.
Feb. 2, Springfield; 5, Syracuse at Syracuse; 12, Williams; 18, Brown at Providence; 19, Clark University at Worcester, Mass; 22, Union; 26, Williams at Williamstown.
March 5, Wesleyan.

YALE CHEERS TEAM AT MASS MEETING

Students Also Hear Bunnell Tell of Plans—Coaching System Is Defended.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17.—This evening Yale's biggest and most enthusiastic football mass meeting of the season was held in the Woolsey Hall Auditorium. Stuart Nash Scott, chief cheer leader, presided, and the football cheers and songs were rehearsed for Saturday's game.

Jack Cates, head coach at Bowdoin and former Yale end, said that Yale's 1926 eleven was proving itself one of the best fighting teams which have worn the Blue and that it had no superior in its possibilities.

Captain Phil Bunnell thanked the undergraduates for their loyalty and predicted that the team would give its fellow students something to cheer for on Saturday. Rex Root, tackle last year and present Freshman coach, said the team had shown wonderful ability to come back to its best form the past two weeks.

Yale's coaching system and Head Coach Tad Jones in particular were defended tonight in an interview by Ralph Bloomer, former All-American Yale tackle, who has been one of the visiting coaches at Yale Field all the Fall. "No other coach, not even Knute Rockne, could have got out of the Yale squad this Fall what Jones has produced," he said.

PEDDIE AND BLAIR DRAW.

Battle to Scoreless Tie in Game on Blairstown Field.

Special to The New York Times.

BLAIRSTOWN, N. J., Nov. 17.—Blair Academy and Peddie Institute played to a scoreless tie here today in the twenty-fourth annual football game between the schools. The game was keenly contested from the start, and although much of the play was confined to Peddie's territory there was no serious threat of a score. Blair made six first downs to five by Peddie, while yardage by plunging and overhead was fairly evenly balanced.

Bianchi made the longest run, one of 36 yards, carrying the ball to Peddie's 6-yard marker, but he fumbled the ball when he was tackled and Peddie recovered, and the big chance of a score was averted. The game ended with the ball in Blair's possession in the centre of the field.

The line-up:

BLAIR (0).		PEDDIE (0).
Bartells	L.E.	Elgin
Devlin	L.T.	Vandeveer
Nelson	L.G.	Meeks
Drews	C.	Frye
Babcock	R.G.	Bradley
Thompson	R.T.	Kanewski
Baxton	R.E.	Sawyer
Bianchi	Q.B.	McKeown
Bodi	L.H.	Levinsohn
Dall	R.H.	Hollingsworth
Crowell	F.B.	Rodgers

Substitutions—Peddie: Austin for Levinsohn, Williams for Bradley, Walsh for Hollingsworth. Blair: Grube for Baxton, L'Hommedieu for Drews, Saiber for Babcock, Marlin for Thompson.

HARVARD BUILDING A STURDY DEFENSE

LINE-UP STILL IN DOUBT

Coady, Pratt, Simonds, Gamache and Sayles Only Ones Reasonably Sure of Their Positions.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Harvard's football team put in another hard day today, continuing to work out against the strongest of the scrub team combinations in dummy scrimmage. There has been no real scrimmaging since the Brown game and there will be none tomorrow.

Once again special attention was paid to the defense against the Yale plays and to what may be expected to develop from what the Blue has been showing in its games this season. The offensive drill, which was a snappy one, also was conducted against the coaches and ineligible seconds, but with a constant change and shift being made in the first team line-up. After the day's workout Head Coach Horween again declined to give any information as to the team he expects will start the game at New Haven.

Meadows Has Experience.

It is known, of course, that there are still several places in doubt. However, there appears to be no reason for any plan that would exclude Tackles Coady and Pratt from the kick-off line-up in the Bowl or the presence of Simonds, left guard, Gamache, centre, and Sayles, full back. This means that the positions on which the coaches still are working are the ends, one guard, quarterback and two halfbacks. Rudman played very well in the Brown game, but he has not had Meadows's experience. Strong is aggressive but inexperienced. He may give way to Rudman. Saltonstall has been regarded as the best reserve end of the season. Still there is a chance that he will start the Yale game.

The coaches are non-committal on the status of Quarterback Putnam, who did well in the early year, but did not look so good against Princeton, and made no special comeback against Brown. Stafford, the alternate, played in the Yale game last Fall.

Miller's recent play has fallen off so much that failure to start him in the Yale game is anticipated by many. Several figure that Harvard is striving to get together its best backfield for a passing game. E. Clark and Guarnaccia would be included in this, if it is decided not to have Coady do the early punting. Chauncey may be at halfback.

The Harvard Union was crowded tonight for the students' mass meeting which was held in spite of the fact that no meeting was held before the Princeton game. Coach Horween, Coach Carney, Captain Coady and Scout Blake all spoke, urging the students to support the team and offering assurance that the Crimson would play by far its best game at New Haven Saturday.

Eighteen on Platform.

There were eighteen players on the platform at the Union, whereas there usually has appeared only the team as the coaches have decided to start it against Yale. Coach Horween, not being ready to make his announcement of the New Haven line-up, placed in the honor row four end rushers, three tackles, one centre, Gamache; three guards, two quarterbacks and five half backs. The list included Saltonstall, Strong, Meadows, Rudman, Coady, Lindner, Pratt, Simonds, Kilgour, Stewart, Gamache, Putnam, Stafford, Chauncey, E. Clark, Miller, Sayles and Guarnaccia.

MANHATTAN PREP WINS.

Runs Away From Horace Mann Harriers for 15-40 Triumph.

The Manhattan Prep cross-country team defeated the Horace Mann School harriers by a 15 to 40 score over the two-and-a-half mile course at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday. Three Manhattan runners finished in a tie for first place, the time being 14:05. The Manhattan team will compete in the private schools' cross-country meet at Van Cortlandt Park, Saturday.

The order of finish:

Pos.	Name and School.	Time.
1	V. McArdle, Manhattan	14:05
2	John Ryan, Manhattan	14:05
3	Donald McHale, Manhattan	14:05
4	V. Murtha, Manhattan	14:06
5	John O'Neil, Manhattan	14:13
6	Charles Cook, Horace Mann	14:25
7	John Dorsey, Manhattan	14:35

Harvard Turns Back $25,000 Sent for Yale Game Tickets

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17 (AP).—Twenty-five thousand dollars' worth of checks for Harvard-Yale game tickets have been returned to senders, the Harvard Athletic Association announced tonight. The Crimson allotment of tickets was exhausted a week ago.

SNOW FAILS TO STOP CONFERENCE TEAMS

Chicago Views With Alarm the Prospect of Closing Season Without a Victory.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17 (AP).—The University of Chicago has had its ups and downs in football for more than thirty years, but never before have the Maroons faced the danger, as the season ended, of playing a full Conference schedule without a victory.

That, however, is what Coach Stagg and his men face this week, for in four successive Saturdays Chicago has fallen before four successive Big Ten teams, and only Wisconsin remains. Moreover, Wisconsin, despite a bad year, has recorded victories over Iowa and Indiana and is improving steadily.

Purdue is a decided favorite against Indiana as the teams prepare for their twenty-ninth meeting. But despite its superior record, the scouts who saw Indiana down Mississippi A. and M. reported that the Hoosiers finally have perfected an aerial attack that may be a winner Saturday.

Snow swept today across many Big Ten gridirons, but did not dim the players' spirits. Illinois worked out strenuously for Ohio State. A victory would enable Illinois to finish with a single loss. Minnesota fans are at the highest pitch of the season, as the team works to avenge an early season loss to Michigan. The Wolverines come to the Gopher stadium for a return game Saturday.

PRINCETON FRESHMEN OFFER VARSITY STARS

Several Players Expected to Shine With First Eleven on Field Next Year.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 17.—Many of the holes left in the Princeton varsity football team after graduation next June will be filled by members of this year's freshmen eleven. During the past season the yearling team won five out of six contests. Shad Davis, Freshman coach, believes that there are more men on this year's squad of varsity calibre than ever before.

The Tiger cubs' backfield, made up of Red Owen, Bill Scarlett, Dick Vogt and Dave Lowry, having an average weight of 172 pounds, carried the team through a highly successful season, losing only to the Yale freshmen, 10 to 7. In the opinion of the Princeton coaches these men will be making football history for the varsity next year. The yearling line, with an average weight greater than this year's forward wall, contains five men of noteworthy ability.

Captain Bill Barfield at guard was the most outstanding player on the freshmen team. He has the faculty of analyzing the opponents' plays. Red Moore is considered one of the most finished tackles ever to be sent up to the varsity. Moore's mate at tackle was Sam Lavine of Brooklyn, N. Y., weighing 200 pounds. There are two promising candidates for the centre position. Jerry Jenny, who played at Gilman last year, and Bill Caldwell of New Rochelle N. Y., have been alternating at the pivot post.

Argentines Ban 2 French Boxers.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 17 (AP).—Kid Francis and Guy Bonaugurio, French boxers, have been suspended for six months by the Argentine Boxing Federation for alleged failure to comply with contracts to appear in contests at a local club. The manager of Francis also was suspended.

WASCOLONIS SCORES IN PENN SCRIMMAGE

Runs 15 Yards on Hidden Ball Play Against Combined Freshman-Scrub Team.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Pennsylvania's varsity squad went through a long scrimmage against the combined freshman and scrub teams this afternoon on a muddy field. Preparations for Cornell are on in earnest, and Coach Lou Young is driving the team at top speed.

All of the regulars played except Paul Scull, who followed the play but did not get into action, Pastor Fields taking his place in the line-up. The varsity first scored a safety when Pat Duncan broke through and blocked a kick behind the goal line.

Charley Rogers got free several times only to be brought down by Martin Brill, star freshman back, who did most of the tackling in the scrub back field. Wascolonis scored once on a 15-yard run from a hidden ball play. The scrube could not gain against the regulars' defense. Before the workout was finished every one of the thirty-five men on the squad had been in the scrimmage.

According to present plans there will in all likelihood be another scrimmage tomorrow afternoon, concluding the hard work for Saturday. The squad will spend the days before the game at the Seaview Golf Club at Absecon.

LAFAYETTE SQUAD READY.

Return of Thompson Gives Coach McCracken Full Strength for Lehigh

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 17.—Lafayette will be at full strength for the sixtieth gridiron battle with Lehigh here Saturday from indications this afternoon. The return of Thompson, sophomore guard, to his position on the varsity means that Coach McCracken is without a cripple on the squad and every man will be available for service against the arch enemy of the Maroon. Warren, the other guard, is also back in shape and will probably face Lehigh at the start. Both were on the varsity this afternoon.

ANDERSON REPLACED BY PYLE AT ITHACA

Hoekelman Also Calls Signals in Place of Butterfield in Cornell's Practice for Penn.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The pace of Cornell's football practice was measurably faster today, as the regulars reported after their rest period refreshed and invigorated. After a passing and kicking drill outdoors, Coach Dobie took the team into the baseball cage to drill it in plays to use against Penn.

Schoales and Wickham, sophomores, who started on the wings, were given a painstaking drill. A shift was made at left tackle, Pyle replacing Anderson. The latter failed to come through against Dartmouth as had been hoped and it is likely that he will lose his place to Pyle, a big towering chap who is a little awkward, but aggressive. Carey, Rapuano and Munns were in the centre of the line.

The interesting back-field development was that of Hoekelman, who called signals most of the time. Butterfield, Isaly, Balderston and Molinet started in the back field with Butterfield directing the plays, but shortly after the start, Hoekelman, who did fine work against the green, was called into action by Dobie.

The new quarter attracted a good deal of attention last Saturday by his fine rushing and his selection of plays. He slumped during mid-season but is going nicely now. He probably will be one of the mainstays against Penn.

LEHIGH BACKS ALTERNATED.

Coach Wendell Tries Out Two Sets in Thirty-Minute Scrimmage.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 17.—A brisk thirty-minute scrimmage, in which Coach Percy Wendell used two sets of backs on the varsity, concluded the heavy work for the Lehigh University football team in preparation for the Lafayette game on Saturday.

For the remainder of the afternoon three squads were sent through an exhaustive signal drill. Changes were few on the varsity line, but the backfield combination alternated, and it is apparent that one or the other will start. Hand was calling signals with Zahnow, Simes and Ford, while the other back field comprised Hayes, O'Callahan, Donald Burke and Jack Lavitt, Hayes calling signals.

Fish Threatens to Put Army-Navy Ticket Situation Before House Committee

...Y-NAVY TICKET ...QUIRY IS HINTED

...presentative Fish Protests Alleged Sale by Aides of Some Congressmen.

TO GO BEFORE COMMITTEE

...low Yorker Threatens to Take Matter Up With Military and Naval Affairs Body.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—What he considers an outrage and scandal in connection with the annual football ...ames of the West Point and Annapolis academies—the Army-Navy game ...ill be brought to the attention of the House Committee on Military and Naval Affairs by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., member of Congress from the New York district in which West Point is situated.

The particular aspect of the matter ...etching Mr. Fish, who is himself a ...ormer football player, having been ...aptain of the Harvard team of 1908 ...nd 1909, referred to is the sale of ...ickets by secretaries of certain members of Congress.

Each member of Congress is allotted ...our complimentary tickets by West Point. Until this year each member had the privilege of purchasing from the Navy six tickets for the Army-Navy games at $3.80 each, but the demand for the coming game at Chicago is so great that each member has been cut down to the right to purchase only four tickets.

Consequently each member this year will have the right of access to four tickets—two complimentaries from West Point and the right to purchase two tickets from the Navy. In other words, he would be able to obtain for the price of $7—which is the cost at the gate of the tickets he is allowed to buy from the Navy—four tickets, and any secretary of a Congressman willing to do so can easily sell each of these tickets for $20 or more.

Known Seats Are Sold.

Representative Fish said tonight he had definitely established as a fact the sale of such tickets by secretaries of members of Congress in at least two instances.

"How extensive is this practice, I do not know," he declared, "but any sale of these tickets is altogether too extensive, even if it existed in only a single instance, and the practice should be stopped. I consider this a gross abuse of the privilege granted to members of Congress.

"I am not aware that any of these tickets have been sold by Congressional secretaries with the knowledge and consent of members of Congress, but I consider it an improper practice for any secretary of a member to sell either the two tickets which the member has never in free by West Point, and equally improper to sell at an advanced price any of the four tickets which a member this year is allowed the privilege of purchasing from the Navy.

"I dislike investigations, and am certainly not desirous of publicity. There always are plenty of investigations. I have not yet decided to ask Congress to investigate, but have fully made up my mind to lay this particular phase of the matter before the House Military Committee, or both—probably before both committees. I certainly hope that some action will be taken."

Wrong to Sell Seats.

He continued, "In the first place it is wrong to sell either the complimentary tickets that are allotted free to Congressmen by West Point, or the tickets a Congressman may buy from the Navy. It also does an injustice to members of Congress, who are not responsible if they do not know the facts with respect to what their Secretaries do.

"I have been told that this practice on the part of some secretaries has been quite extensive. I have talked with a number of persons and know of two instances in which such tickets have been sold at an advanced price by secretaries. The persons who bought the tickets told me they purchased them from private secretaries of members."

"The practice that obtains at Harvard and Yale," he said, "is far superior. As a Harvard man I am entitled to purchase tickets for the games at Cambridge. Harvard and Yale do not issue complimentary tickets."

Chicago Makes Explanation.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Despite the agitation in the East, particularly in Washington, over the scarcity of Army-Navy game tickets, Chicago has resigned itself philosophically to the fact that where there were 500,000 applications for 28,000 seats, somebody had to be disappointed.

In defense of the South Park Board, which handled the ticket sale, President Edward Kelly offered figures today to disprove allegations of manipulation leading to extravagant prices by scalpers and of playing of favorites.

The general impression is that the Park Board had 100,000 tickets at its disposal. Instead, after making allowances for Congress and the two service schools and then buying back 20,000 of the latter, the board had 28,000 tickets to sell to applicants throughout the Middle West.

"We set aside a few less than 12,000 tickets for members of Congress," said Mr. Kelly. "Some Congressmen made individual requests for huge blocks and the requests were denied. The Army and Navy Athletic Associations each got 40,000 tickets. The Park Board then bought back at $3.50 per ticket 16,000 from each school. This gave the board a grand total of 28,000 for public sale. The 28,000 include the boxes for which a public auction was conducted prior to the receipt of mail orders.

Mr. Kelly admits that scalpers are in possession of many tickets that the board sold, but he insists they gathered these from persons who were lucky in the draw and who considered a few dollars profit worth more than a view of the game. He pointed out that the Park Commissioners cannot be held responsible for any of the tickets originally allotted to the service schools or members of Congress.

Prices are being advanced almost daily by scalpers. Last week boxes were sold at $50 per seat, or $300 a box. Today the price for six box reservations equally as good had advanced to $450. Single admission tickets at the north end of the field, which is considerably removed from the gridiron, commanded $30.

The Park Commissioners have estimated that the entire expense of the game, which includes transportation and housing of the cadet and middie corps, printing, erecting of temporary seats at the Stadium and incidentals will cost $530,000. The ticket sale has brought in $600,000, leaving a $30,000 deficit.

Ingram Answers Complaint.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 17.—Harassed by numerous letters of complaint from members of Congress who are honorary members of the Navy Athletic Association because they received four tickets to the Army-Navy football game instead of six, Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics and secretary of the association, issued a statement today.

Some members of Congress expressed indignation because they did not receive the larger number, some threatening a Congressional investigation and other acts of retaliation or charging breach of contract or profiteering by officials with the tickets.

Commander Ingram's statement called attention to the fact that members of the association were promised only two tickets with the privilege of buying four more, "subject to demand," the number to be diminished if the supply made it necessary. This statement was contained in a circular sent out to members on Aug. 25.

It is pointed out in the statement that the distance of Chicago from the Atlantic seaboard had given reason to believe that the demand for the Navy tickets would not be as great as usual, yet as a matter of fact the demand had been the heaviest in the history of the association.

Checks covering the charge for two tickets will be sent, as Commander Ingram states, back to the sender as promptly as practicable.

It is further stated that everything possible was done to give the members the larger number of tickets, but that it was found impossible on account of the tremendous demand. This announcement was made just as soon as the requests could be counted and an estimate of the number of tickets to be distributed could be made.

Navy Is to Broadcast Play-by-Play Story Of Army Game to U. S. Fleet the World Over

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The American fleet in its many ramifications around the world will tune in for the first time in history on Nov. 27 for a play-by-play description of the Army-Navy football game at Chicago. This will be made possible through use of the powerful naval radio station at Annapolis under an arrangement disclosed by the Navy Department today.

News of the game, which will start at 3 o'clock, Eastern Standard Time, will be received at the Navy Department direct from the field and be transmitted to the Annapolis station known as NSS for broadcasting a wave length of 17.5 kilocycles. As an experiment the Naval Research Laboratory at Bellevue, D. C., will also broadcast the game on high frequency on 8,590 kilocycles and 12,585 kilocycles for ships or stations which may for any reason be unable to pick up the other broadcast.

It is expected the broadcast from Annapolis will be picked up by naval detachments in European waters, naval vessels in the Atlantic, the Panama Canal Zone and Carribean Sea as well as by naval radio stations and vessels along the Pacific Coast of the United States. The naval radio station at San Francisco will relay bulletins to Cavite, P. I., to ships of the Asiatic fleet and naval stations at Guam and Samoa.

Besides the play-by-play story, summaries of the play will be sent out at the end of each quarter.

NAVY DRILLS LINE IN COVERING KICKS

Coaches Devote Scrimmage Chiefly to Wiping Out Weakness for Army Game.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 17.—Directing their efforts toward smoothing the rough places on the team so that it will be at its best for the Army game in Chicago, the Naval Academy coaches put their charges through a scrimmage this afternoon, drilling the line in getting down field under kicks, a point in which weakness has been shown this year.

Hamilton and Woerner were doing the punting for the varsity and second teams, and most of the scrimmage period was devoted to this type of work. With Hamilton in the varsity back field were Hannegan, Caldwell and Schuber.

The back-field combination which was used this afternoon is the one which will probably start against the Army. Goudge may lose his chance to start, as he is still limping on account of a leg injury received in the Georgetown game. Schuber is working in his place. They are players of much the same sort, light but alert and active, and fine defense players, particularly against the forward pass.

A strong second team back field this afternoon was made up of Ransford, Shapley, Parish and Coffman. Shapley and Parish are almost certain of getting into the game at some stage.

Osborn started at centre this afternoon, but has keen competition from Hoerner and Warren. It is the last year at the academy for all three and they are of such equal ability that the choice among them is uncertain even at this period of the season.

SCRUBS SCRIMMAGE IN ARMY WORKOUT

Coaches Plan to Rely on Them Against Ursinus—Elias Likely to Play Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Today brought the first opportunity the Army men have had to work outdoors since the Notre Dame game and the field swarmed with players, though the gridiron was soggy. Head Coach Biff Jones had all of his varsity men in the line-up, but they were worked very sparingly, as the reserves have been assigned to the task of bearing the greatest part of the burden in the final home engagement, that with Ursinus on Saturday.

The coaches did not care to risk injury to the regulars in the scrimmage today and the action was chiefly between the second eleven and the B team. The regulars had no part in this feature of the drill. They were drilled in several plays and also participated in forward-passing and kicking stunts.

Trapnell was out and ran through several formations, also taking part in the kicking. Murrell and Hewitt were the other punters. Hewitt was scrimmaged in the reserve back field. Elias, it is thought, will be able to play against Ursinus. He was out taking light work today.

The reserves lined up with Davidson and Brentnall, ends; Connor and Perry, tackles; Waldrop and Lynch, guards; Hall, centre; Meehan, quarterback, O'Donnell and Gilbreth, halfbacks, and Hewitt, fullback. This combination also went through a long signal drill. Jones plans to use his regulars against Ursinus for only a brief period.

RUTGERS DRILLS BACKS.

Stressee Running Attack for Saturday's Game—Scrimmage Held.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 17.—The Rutgers varsity reached the climax of its preparation for the closing game here Saturday by a long drill at Neilson Field today. Most of the afternoon was spent in perfecting the running attack of the backs, special attention being given to Hibbs, who is to fill the fullback berth left vacant by the loss of Preiets. A scrub combination furnished scrimmage material for part of the session, while the remainder of the period was devoted to a signal drill.

Smith and Lord were used as guards during part of the session, but were later replaced by Geshocker and Burkhardt, who are expected to start Saturday.

ST. JOHN'S SCHEDULE OUT.

Brooklyn Quintet Will Oppose City College Five in Opening Game.

Ray Lynch, football coach and director of athletics at St. John's College, Brooklyn, released the basketball schednle yesterday and according to the list of games to be played the quintet is in for a hard year. All of the metropolitan fives will be met, with the exception of N. Y. U. The first game to be played is against Nat Holman's C. C. N. Y. representatives on the latter's court. The schedule:

Dec. 4, C. C. N. Y., away; 7, Cooper Union, home; 9, Brooklyn Law, home; 11, Columbia, away; 18, Army, away; 20, Middlebury, home; 22, St. Francis, home; 30, Niagara, home.

Feb. 1, Canisius, home; 4, Atlas Club, away; 5, Holy Cross, away; 11 Mount St. Mary's, home; 16, Manhattan, away; 19, Loyola, home; 25, Providence, home.

N. Y. U. STARTS TRIP TO FACE NEBRASKA

Party, Including 27 Players, Entrains for West After Drill on Ohio Field.

WORKOUT IN CHICAGO TODAY

Eleven Will Practice on Stagg Field and Reach Lincoln Tomorrow to Strive to Keep Slate Clean.

The undefeated New York University football team left for Lincoln, Neb., yesterday afternoon, after receiving a rousing send-off from almost the entire student body, to meet the University of Nebraska in its final game of the year.

The party, including twenty-seven players, left the Highbridge station at 5:15, after the greater part of the squad marched from the campus on University Heights to the station to meet Chick Meehan and the rest of the team. The Wolverine made a special stop at Highbridge to pick up the team.

Before departing, the N. Y. U. warriors held a light practice at Ohio Field, where a signal practice and dummy scrimmage took place. At 4:15 the students swarmed onto the campus and began their march to the station.

List of Men in Squad.

The men making the trip were Coach Meehan, his aides, Bill McCarthy and Marty Starobin, Graduate Manager Al Nixon, Dr. Michael Tetelman, team physician; four team managers, the trainer and the following players: Backs—Captain Frank Briante, Kenneth Strong, Jack Connor, Archie Roberts, Bill Wexler, Charles Roselle, Edward Buckley, Edward Orloff, Ed Fisher and Arthur Norton; ends—Charles Riordan, Otto Lose, Earl Ashton, Frank Cestari, Bob Barabee and Ralph White; tackles—Al Lassman, John Miller, Miguel Bliss and Ed Weiner; guards—John Bunyan, Dave Skudin, Dave Sdtenstein and Dave Weiner; centres—Boh Dunn, Al Higgins and Charles Vye.

The squad will detrain at Chicago at 1:42 this afternoon, and will hasten to Stagg Field, where it will engage in a light workout. Joe Schwarzer, Meehan's chief aide, will meet the team at Chicago, and will accompany it on the rest of the journey. The squad will leave Chicago at 5:03 o'clock and will arrive at Lincoln at 9:40 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Nebraska Has Strong Team.

The Nebraska eleven is regarded by many as the strongest team that N. Y. U. will be called upon to face this season. The Violet has gone through the present season with eight consecutive victories and has one of the strongest defensive lines in the country, attested to by the fact that only one touchdown has been scored against N. Y. U. all season.

Play-by-play reproductions of the game will be shown in two places here Saturday. Alumni of both N. Y. U. and Nebraska will have an opportunity to learn of the game's progress at the Grand Ball Room of the Waldorf Astoria, while the students at N. Y. U. will see the game reproduced at University Heights.

SYRACUSE RESERVES EXCEL

Jones and Whitney, Backs, Lead Offense—Carr in Signal Drill.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Ray Jones and Bob Whitney, second-string backs, featured today's Syracuse football practice. Both bored through the Blue team for two touchdowns, showing great form in the muddy going.

The Blue squad has been strengthened by the addition of all the stars from the freshman team, which closed its season last week. It also includes Tommy Manning, quarterback; Hal Baysinger, fullback; Bob Wittman, guard, and Stan Richtmeyer, takle. These ineligibles were first-string players before falling under the faculty ban.

Whippet Carr was out for a half hour of signal drill and then switched to punting for twenty minutes, getting off six spirals in a row for better than sixty yards. Carr wanted to scrimmage, but Coach Reynolds wouldn't grant his wish.

ST. JOHN'S DRILL LONG.

Coach Lynch Drives Squad for Its First Game in Three Weeks.

Coach Lynch sent the St. John's squad through an extended workout yesterday. He started the practice session by having the team gather in forward passes and run down punts. In the ensuing scrimmage the varsity manifested a spirited attack, humbling the scrubs by 21-0.

After the scrimmage Lynch sent his warriors around the field a few laps. The coming game with Canisius will be the first game in three weeks that the Brooklyn college has engaged in.

PRO GOLF MATCHES TODAY.

Bernee and Farrell Paired for Mid-South Four-Ball Play.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 17.—Principal pairings for tomorrow in the big event of the Mid-South golf championships here, the all-professional four ball matches are as follows: Jim Barnes and Johnny Farrell, Tommy and Alex Armour, Al and Henry Ciuci, Bobby Cruickshank and Pat Doyle, Pat Denofrio and Fairley Clark, Arthur De Mane and Jack O'Connor, Joe Turnesa and Johnny Golden, Herbert Lagerblade and Donald Vinton, Freddie McLeod and Emmet French. The teams will play thirty-six holes for $1,150 in cash.

HOPPE TO PLAY DE ORO.

Accepts Terms for Handicap Three-Cushion Match to Open Monday.

Willie Hoppe has come to terms with Alfredo De Oro for a three-cushion handicap match, which is scheduled to open at the Strand Academy on Monday afternoon. Under the conditions announced by Charles S. Kline, promoter of the match, Hoppe will concede fifteen points in each block of sixty, playing for 60 against De Oro's 45, over a stretch of twelve blocks.

City College Pays Tribute To Success of Its Eleven

City College's gratification over the success of its football season which closed Saturday was expressed yesterday in a tribute to the team which appeared in The Campus, the undergraduate organ. The Campus said:

"The football team of this year can boast of having compiled the best record made by any team since the revival of the sport in 1922, and was perhaps the strongest aggregation that ever represented the Lavender on the gridiron. In addition to winning the majority of their games they outscored their seven opponents 91 points to 50."

BUCKLEY, IMPROVED, BOLSTERS FORDHAM

Star Halfback Gives Maroon Full Strength to Start Against Georgetown.

Prospects for a Fordham victory over Georgetown at the Polo Grounds on Saturday brightened yesterday when it was learned definitely that Ralph Buckley, the Maroon halfback, would be ready to play. One of the fleetest players of the entire squad, Buckley has been able to play in only one game, playing the first half against Washington and Jefferson a month ago. The injury which has bothered him all season is now much improved.

Buckley's addition to the back field will give the Maroon a set of hall carriers which represents Fordham's full strength, and the Georgetown game will be the first time that Coach Gargan has been able to use them as a unit. Zev Graham will be at quarter, Jim DeLany will be in his usual place at halfback as Buckley's runningmate, while Zakszewski will be at full. Gargan will then have Grip, O'Connor, Conboy, McClellan, Ryan and Baut in reserve.

COLUMBIA LAUNCHES DRIVE ON SYRACUSE

The first intensive practice in preparation for the Syracuse game at the Polo Grounds Thanksgiving Day was on tap for the Columbia squad at Baker Field yesterday, the feature being a 40-minute scrimmage between Team A and the junior varsity.

Although Mike Sesit, veteran halfback, was in uniform, he was not allowed to take part in the scrimmage, as the Blue and White coaches wish to take no chances on having his shoulder hurt again. Sesit was injured a few weeks ago and was kept out of the William and Mary game, but played against Penn at Philadelphia last Saturday. Reports from Syracuse hint that Whippet Carr, fleet Orange back, may get into the game against Columbia and Sesit's defensive ability will be needed.

In the scrimmage yesterday, Head Coach Charley Crowley stressed offensive work, especially in the line. Team A was on the offense throughout the session and two touchdowns were scored, one by Kaplan and the other by Kumpf. Kaplan tallied on a 25-yard run, while Kumpf, who replaced him, scored on a play identical to his predecessor's. The back field also came in for a lengthy session on the correct way to interfere for the runner.

The offensive charging of the line has been slowing up the Columbia attack practically all season and Coach Crowley recently stated that, with a little better work by the linemen, Columbia would probably have been placed in a scoring position in the Penn game. However, at the close of yesterday's practice, Crowley said he noticed an improvement in the line work since the game with the Quakers.

The varsity starting line-up in the scrimmage against the Jayvees was Brady and Furey, ends; Cornell and Kerrigan, tackles; Cuneo and Adler, guards; French, centre; Kaplan, quarterback; Madden and Green, halfbacks and Rieger, fullback. Cornell has been a reserve tackle all season, but the Lion coaches believe he has improved sufficiently to merit his being tried on the first eleven.

At the start of the season, Cornell was a candidate for an end position, but the Columbia camp had an abundance of wingmen, so he was converted into a tackle. He is a tall and rangy player and very aggressive and is now regarded as a capable performer.

Previous to the scrimmage, the linemen worked out on the dummy and took part in a line scrimmage and also went through drills in fundamentals.

BROWN PERFECTS SIGNALS.

Full Varsity Squad Out Prepering for New Hempshire.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 17.—Brown's entire varsity squad reported today for the first time this week and was put through a long signal drill and a fifteen-minute dummy scrimmage against the scrubs, who were equipped with the New Hampshire plays. The scheduled practice game for the varsity was canceled, as Coach McLaughry believes that the team is in the best possible shape and will endeavor only to keep it up to present form.

TEN-GAME SCHEDULE FOR SYRACUSE ELEVEN

Georgetown, Penn State, Colgate, Nebraska and Columbia Among Opponents in 1927.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 17.—A ten-game football schedule, one of the hardest the University of Syracuse has ever undertaken, has been arranged for next Fall. Beginning on Oct. 15, Georgetown, Penn State, Nebraska, Ohio Wesleyan, which held Syracuse to a 3-to-3 tie in 1924, and Colgate will be met on successive Saturdays and the team will journey to New York for the fourth annual battle with Columbia Thanksgiving Day.

The schedule:

Sept. 24, Hobart.

Oct. 1, William and Mary; 8, Johns Hopkins; 15, Georgetown; 22, Penn State; 29, Nebraska at Lincoln.

Nov. 5, Ohio Wesleyan; 12, Colgate; 19, Niagara; 24, Columbia at New York.

ENDS AND BACKS ON ALL-ARMY TEAM

Coaches Select Eleven Which Would Have Defeated Navy, Says Ingram.

Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics at the Naval Academy, has selected an All-Army football team which he says would have defeated the Navy. Ingram's selections:

Ends, Gaston, Harvard, and Hinkle, Army; tackles, Hubbard, Yale, and Hall, Army; guards, Hogan, Yale, and Hyatt, Harvard; centre, Gilbert, Yale; quarterback, Mahan, Princeton; halfbacks, Wilson, Princeton, and Friedman, Michigan; fullback, Hoyt, Army.

RIGHT AT WRONG TIMES.

Senator BORAH could hardly resent being compared to a great English statesman of whom it was said that he was powerful for the right, but unfortunately was too often right at the wrong time. The sentiments about China which Mr. BORAH expressed on Tuesday with so much eloquence and feeling are unexceptionable. But they seem to have only a slight relation to the facts. And they are delivered at a time when both in China and in other countries they are apt to do more harm than good. The Senator represents the foreign Powers having dealings with China as so many greedy exploiters, eager to pounce upon her, to dismember her, and to destroy every vestige of Chinese sovereignty and self-government. This is a gross travesty of the actual situation. Mr. BORAH foresees forcible intervention in China. But all the evidence is that no nation dreams of attempting anything of the kind. The Idaho Senator fears that there will be bloodshed in China. There is already too much of it, but it is due to the endless and confusing civil strife with which China is afflicted, and which nobody is more anxious to see brought to a close than those very foreign nations which Senator BORAH attacks with so much vehemence. Far from wishing to impose their will upon China, they are hoping and praying for some form of native government—any form—which will bring order and national unity out of the Chinese chaos.

There is such an engaging quality of earnestness and lofty feeling in Senator BORAH that it is ungracious to criticize him. It is so easy for him to make noble gestures when they are ill-timed. No one can surpass him in moving and heartfelt tributes to liberty, national self-determination and international justice—except when he is asked to support some powerful agency fitted to carry his ideals to realization. Then he is always of the contrary mind. He is tremendously interested in justice, but is against the court established to administer it. He grows fairly dithyrambic about the need of permitting nations to choose their own governments, and of protecting them from foreign aggression, but when the practical organization to promote or effect all these blessings is laid before him he covers it with scorn and fights it to the death.

It is in his character of the most malapropos public man of his time that he comes forward with his rhetorical protests and demands concerning China. The particular dangers which he pictures so luridly do not exist. Of the actual difficulties confronting China and the nations seeking to help her, he appears to have but the slightest grasp. Yet he goes on thundering in melodious wrath against figments of his own imagination. It is really a melancholy case of great natural ability and a deep moral sense habitually misapplied.

SINGING ANOTHER TUNE.

Before the election the masters of the Anti-Saloon League ordered the faithful not to vote on the liquor referendums in the eight States that treated themselves to those enormities. After the election they proclaimed a great Dry victory. But now they are so impressed by the size of the Wet vote that they are planning a campaign of education and organization. They must "arouse" the non-voter whom a little while ago they were encouraging in his sloth. The good must gird up their loins lest iniquity triumph in 1928. Perhaps collections are slow and need to be stimulated; but the change of tune indicates an unexpected approach to something like honesty. The League was hard hit, even in some regions that might have been thought friendly.

New York, Wisconsin and Illinois are notorious sinners, but they have a not uninteresting bagful of votes. Perhaps it is worth noticing that the Drys were trebly beaten in Illinois. Not only did Wet BRENNAN get a big vote. They lost the liquor referendum. Their certificated candidate for Senator, Colonel SMITH, is an opportunist, not a purist. He "pledged" himself to abide by the decision of the people. The people of his State have shown him what they want. If he keeps his word, he will be a modificationist in the Senate, provided he is allowed to become a member of it. Nevada and Montana, which should be States of innocence, joined the reprobates. The Missouri referendum was disowned by both political parties and by the national Wet association. The Democratic Senator-elect and his Republican opponent were both Wet.

In California and Colorado the Dry pluralities were small enough not to dishearten the Wets. Prohibition is a great friend of the grape industry in California. Colorado was supposed to be hopelessly Dry. The candidates were consequently deeply Dry. The result of the referendum showed that there was a strong public sentiment of which they had been ignorant. The Anti-Saloon League counts its Congressmen, but the number is slowly diminishing. The disgust with prohibition, evident in eight States, some of which have no common denominator with the others, will presumably reveal itself in other States. Politicians will not be hog-tied to the League any longer than they have to be. Some Republican candidates complained in the last campaign that they found the people cold to prosperity and the tariff, interested first and mainly in prohibition.

Some time, perhaps, forgetting the old tradition of evasion and cowardice, a political party will go to the people upon the issue which most stirs the public. Our Mr. KOENIG bows humbly before the Anti-Saloon League and finds in Senator WADSWORTH'S defeat its lesson of warning to any Republican Congressman who dares to be Wet. Content with a 400,000 Democratic majority in this town, he cheerfully abandons the Republican Party of New York to disaster, joins the up-State ruralists and lets the tail wag the dog. The time when prohibition is the cardinal issue of a Presidential campaign may be distant; but in a number of great and some small States submission to the Anti-Saloon League may be the political road to ruin. Meanwhile, the more that discredited concern tries to bulldoze parties and the Government, the worse for prohibition.

RIOTS IN THE INDIES.

The so-called "Communist" uprising in West Java, resulting in the death of numerous persons, mostly natives, was not wholly unexpected. Unrest in the province of Bantam was acute a year ago. This was due to local jealousness between various high-caste native families, religious animosity fostered by fanatical Mohammedan "hadjis" or returned pilgrims from Mecca, and anti-foreign agitation inspired by Chinese residents. The Government of the Dutch East Indies had transferred some of the ringleaders among the trouble-makers to other portions of the islands. One of them, a high-caste native of much local influence, who had held the position of local Governor, was given an important post in Batavia itself. It had not been realized, however, that the agitators had succeeded in disaffecting groups of natives elsewhere in Java. The unrest was thought to be localized.

This is not the first time that there have been signs of a distinct anti-European movement in Java. In 1919 the nativist party became threatening, and the so-called "Sarikat Islam," or union of Mohammedan students and agitators, attempted to defy the Dutch Government by holding meetings which had been banned. The Dutch acted with great severity, and the threatened disorder was avoided. The Sarikat Islam lost its political influence and disunion among the various Javanese leaders weakened the anti-European party. Shortly thereafter Communist agitators among the half million Chinese scattered throughout Java endeavored to turn the Chinese against the Dutch, and even went so far as to buy up native language papers and try to spread "anti-imperialist" propaganda among them. To this the Dutch countered by removing the principal Chinese agitators to other islands and by preventing the spread of printed propaganda. They realized that behind the Chinese were Bolshevist theorists who hoped that a native uprising in Java might kindle a similar fire in India.

Until the movement in 1919, the Dutch were particularly happy in their relations with the natives. So far as possible, they governed through native princes, and took special pains not to interfere with local customs, traditions or superstitions. Their colonial officials are, for the most part, highly trained and sympathetic, and speak the native languages. Not a few of the lower officials have native blood in them, for the Dutch have intermarried with the higher caste Javanese nobility. But in spite of the tolerance and kindliness of the Dutch rule, nativist sentiment has been steadily growing in recent years. To a former Governor of Bantam is attributed the remark about Dutch rule in Java: "Our guests have outstayed their welcome!" The Dutch, however, think otherwise.

THE ALDERMEN AND THE BUDGET.

The Board of Aldermen held its annual Bear Baiting and Budget Barbecue yesterday. WILLIAM H. ALLEN was the bear and the city's $474,000,000 budget was done to a turn and ready to be swallowed whole. "Code 1, line 13," Mr. ALLEN begins, "salary increase for the sergeant-at-arms of the Board of Aldermen, $164. In the name of the Municipal Economy Committee——" A bold hear is Mr. ALLEN, clawing at the very vitals of Aldermanic prerogative. Mr. CUNNINGHAM and his associates of the Finance Committee rise up and claim that this particular item wasn't really an increase at all. Well, then, why five new inspectors of electric signs at $11,000 and why a court house investigator at $4,500 when all the court house investigating was done long ago? Why $100,000 for vacuum cleaners rejected by the Board of Estimate engineers? Why a million dollars for telephone service, with an increase over last year of $19,000 in the Brooklyn Borough offices alone?

The Aldermen treat these suggestions with scorn. Doesn't Mr. ALLEN know, doesn't Mr. METZ know, doesn't Mr. MCANENY know, that the city is growing and that its needs must be served by more sign inspectors, vacuum cleaners and telephone calls, particularly in Brooklyn? All this talk about a great popular demand for budget reduction at the hands of the Aldermen is poppycock. If it were real, this hearing would be well attended, instead of attracting only a dozen spectators. "Give us some indication that it isn't a waste of time for us to come here and appeal to you gentlemen," Mr. ALLEN retorts, "and next year you'll see those galleries packed with people." Rancous laughter.

FULL DINNER PAILS FOR GIRLS.

At the annual conference of the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls, to be held next week, experts are to make an attempt to solve a baffling problem. How do the working girls who earn $15 a week stretch that sum to cover room, board, clothing and recreation? Many of them, of course, live at home, and their division of the budget is a little easier to understand. They contribute to the family expenses, but they do not have to pay so much for room and board as the girls who are not living at home. The purpose of this year's conference is to discover how the latter make both ends meet and to help them to make the meeting easier.

While it is announced that Mrs. HENRY MOSKOWITZ, who will preside, intends to present authorities who will discuss food in all its economic, nutritious and appetizing phases, it is also stated that consultations with the young financial experts themselves will be held. This is sound sense. The girls are somehow squeezing enough out of their salaries to buy food, though the item they consider of least importance appears to be three meals a day. Room rent is a fixed charge. Decent clothing is not only important as a means of getting and keeping a job, but is of enormous consequence to their happiness. They set their young hearts much more steadfastly on a pretty hat than on a handsome steak. Consequently, they have no difficulty in wearing the slim clothes of present fashion, and some suffer in health from malnutrition. It is a risk they all run willingly but ignorantly, and it is hoped that the association in joining ideas with them will be able to enlighten them.

At this year's meeting there will also be discussion of housing and recreation. The establishment of more self-supporting rooming and boarding houses is planned. The two clubs which now try to meet the demand for board and rooms at reasonable rates are nowhere near sufficient. Ten representatives of as many girls' clubs will give their opinion what recreation is and where it may best be had. Such a free interchange of views between the girls and the women who have their interests deeply at heart must make for the sort of relations from which spring both pleasure and advancement.

A WAIT-AND-SEE EMPIRE.

On the part of the British Dominions, represented in the Imperial Conference, the decision not to ratify the Locarno treaty involves no criticism of it. Article IX of the treaty declares: "The present treaty shall impose no obligation upon any of the British Dominions, or upon India, unless the Government of such Dominion, or of India, signifies its acceptance thereof." None of the signatories at Locarno in October, 1925, was unaware of the unsolved problem of Dominion status within the British Empire in the field of foreign affairs. That problem, to all appearances, will remain unsolved when the Imperial Conference adjourns. The principal reason for Dominion abstention from Locarno is in all probability the desire to leave the Imperial situation in its present fluid state. Canada, South Africa and Ireland, in refusing to sign, are not afraid of specific involvement on the Rhine. They hesitate to prejudice the present debate within the British Commonwealth.

The results of full Dominion self-determination in foreign affairs have been the subject of picturesque speculation. If Great Britain should become involved in hostilities because of the Locarno compact, the anomaly is foreseen of a part of the British Empire at war, a part neutral. A neutral South Africa might refuse to permit a British war fleet to coal at Cape Town, or might indifferently permit British and enemy fleets to coal, or might insist on its neutral rights to provision the enemy of Great Britain, with complications unlimited. In the face of such possibilities the answer of British statesmanship and British public opinion would undoubtedly be the historic "Wait and see." When Sir AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN signed at Locarno he was content with the unstipulated "obligations" in which most Englishmen now find the guarantee for Imperial integrity—the sense of kinship and of common welfare. To visualize South Africa holding off when Great Britain was hard pressed is difficult. To foresee South Africa actually turning against Great Britain is still harder. Good relations with South Africa today are of greater importance than such "possibilities" in the future.

It is a view that would be shared by other nations. Superficially, it would seem that Germany or France in an emergency would find a good enough ally in Great Britain even without the Dominions. Actually, a Great Britain entering war with a crumbling empire behind her would be of doubtful value. If France and Germany thought the British guarantee at Locarno sufficient without specific inclusion of the Dominions, the reason is that they took for granted Dominion participation in a British emergency.

NICARAGUA AGAIN.

President DIAZ, inaugurated as President of Nicaragua last Sunday, made two significant utterances in his address to Congress. He asked the good offices of the United States to bring about order in his country and deplored attempts "to force on Nicaragua Mexican influences." Yesterday President DIAZ requested the American Legation to aid him in quelling an insurrection, declaring that the rebels were supported by Mexico. In September, when President CHAMORRO was in power, although the United States had refused to recognize him, he also had to cope with revolutionary forces. CHAMORRO finally had to retire in favor of DIAZ. During CHAMORRO'S turbulent Administration the same complaint was made that Mexican interference with the domestic affairs of Nicaragua prevented pacification. The League of Nations was asked to do something about it. Sir ERIC DRUMMOND, Secretary-General, brought to the attention of the Mexican Government the charge that Nicaraguan rebels had been supported by an auxiliary Mexican warship in an expedition to overthrow the Government. The Mexican Foreign Minister replied: "I have the honor to inform you that Mexico has not any connection whatever with the League of Nations and to thank you for your attention."

The State Department is periodically concerned about the protection of American interests in Nicaragua, and in August sent the marines back to Bluefields when insurgents seized the town. The marines retired when order was restored. But to take the Mexican Government to task for meddling in Nicaragua would be a delicate matter. There seems to be no doubt that insurgent expeditions are organized and equipped across the border. Probably the Mexican Government is not involved. We have had our own difficulties in heading off expeditions like that of ESTRADA that were bent on campaigning against President CALLES. The Nicaraguan problem is unusually complicated. With the other four Central American republics, the United States declined to recognize CHAMORRO, who is a born revolutionist. He had seized the Government by force. Three cruisers were dispatched to Nicaragua when insurrections were started on both the east and west coasts. Peace conferences were held on board the Tulsa, and finally CHAMORRO yielded, making way for DIAZ. Now the latter admits his inability to restore peace and throws himself into the arms of the United States. Intervention to protect American citizens is one thing. Intervention to pacify Nicaragua and assist in setting up a responsible government is quite another. It could not be entered upon lightly.

AT THE PIT'S MOUTH.

The conference on coal which economists have gathered from many countries to discuss is not so much concerned for the future of coal itself as for the future of what nature in her alchemy has produced—oil. The opening prophecy of the conference was of the artificial liquefaction of coal at the mouth of the pit, so that when the supply from nature's retorts ran low it could be replenished by the miracle of science. Those who stand at the pit's mouth are like men with the philosopher's stone in their hands, who have but to use it to convert the stored-up solid into a liquid that may be used as a substitute for oils.

Erection of large stations on the coal fields in some regions of the earth has made it possible to use fuel regarded as not fit for transportation and also to effect economies through the converting of coal into electricity for transmission over a wide area. That is one prophecy in which the scientist and engineer unite to give promise of cheaper power and greater convenience to manufacturer, householder and traveler.

"In less than a generation," said President THOMAS S. BAKER of the Carnegie Technical Institute, "the present methods of shipping coal to be burned in its raw state under boilers hundreds of miles from the mines will appear to have been primitive." It will be a great economic advance to burn the raw coal where it is produced and distribute it in electrical power. That is largely an engineering undertaking and seems to have no serious obstacles. But for the replenishing of nature's cruse of oil, the Elijah must be the "coal chemist." Liquefaction of coal is an accomplished fact. It remains to make it profitable and on such a scale as to give relief from anxiety as to the morrow of mobility and industry. It is significant that these prophets are gathered around the mouth of the pit in which so much of the future weal of man is stored. Perhaps the very fate of mankind is written there. Research is to be carried on, which will find the true import of the leaves of the oracle arranged in the carboniferous age before the coming of man, and as if designed for his comfort and very existence. As predicted in one of the papers read before the conference on Tuesday, the world may look forward with confidence to "a new age of coal."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Apartments and Hospital Beds.

Being happy in a compact modern apartment is not difficult provided one keeps well. But all the conveniences of the New Housekeeping break down when sickness enters. The associated physicians and surgeons who have just announced a new hospital with hotel accommodations for the relatives of patients strive to meet a new problem. "No provision is made for the care of the sick in apartment houses in which New York lives today." With a doctor and nurse in the house compactness becomes intolerable congestion.

Steam laundries have taken the place of the obsolete domestic washtubs. Restaurants and cafeterias have rushed in to perform the function of the kitchen that has dwindled into a kitchenette or has altogether disappeared. Hospitals have apparently failed to fill the place of the vanished sick-room. Within two years, according to the promoters of the new institution, the demand for private rooms in hospitals has risen to perhaps 30 per cent. of all hospital patients. It is a void that will ultimately be filled in the case of patients who can afford to pay.

Harder is the case of the modern apartment dweller of limited means who is the victim of limited housing facilities, but who cannot afford to pay the charges connected with modern hospital treatment. To cope with this problem the medical profession has been urged to simplify its over-elaborate methods of diagnosis and the need has been stressed of lowering the cost of nursing service. The revolution in the Home involves constantly new adaptations outside.

A Beggar Held in Honor.

Some time ago a large check was sent to the London Hospital made out to the order of "The Champion Beggar." It was endorsed by Lord KNUTSFORD, and was accepted by the bank without protest or even inquiry. In fact, he had become so well known as the most keen and successful promoter of charitable funds of all kinds that his right to wear the title of champion was questioned by no one.

Lord KNUTSFORD has recently published a volume of reminiscences, "In Black and White," which contains, according to the English reviewers, a great many entertaining anecdotes about his experiences as a beggar for public causes, and as an inventor of ingenious schemes to win attention to the charities which he was seeking to aid. One of the latter schemes was sending out a million counterfeit half-crowns in cardboard, each bearing the words, "Thank you for a real one." This brought him a demand from the Public Prosecutor to explain his "illegal possession of dies for coin-making." He was told that he would either have to withdraw his counterfeits or face a trial in the Old Bailey. But he replied to the officials that if he could only be tried and imprisoned for his offense it would be such a splendid advertisement for his charitable appeal that he would be delighted.

He used to deal with the poor and the dependent as individuals as well as wholesale. One of the persons whom he tried to help was an ex-convict. The man's wife told him that her husband was going to start a jeweler's shop. But wouldn't that take a lot of money? "No," was her reply, "only eighteen pence for a jimmy."

Manitoba's Precious Red Pine.

The Canadian Forestry Department is always on the lookout for the Norway or red pine. In the Northwestern Provinces it is almost as scarce as the buffalo. A tract was known to be southeast of Sprague, in Manitoba. There have been rumors that Pinus resinosa was growing elsewhere. In the early days T. A. BURROWS, the lumber king of the North, had cut red pine in Manitoba, but he could not remember where.

It seems strange that in so well forested a country as Canada it became necessary to make an "intensive" search for this lot of red pine. Finally an Indian guide, who knew Black Island, which lies opposite the Hole River Indian reserve, undertook to point out the stand of trees. It was not very large, but its value was almost incalculable, "due principally," says a Canadian dispatch, "to the fact that the tract must be hardier than any other extant in Manitoba."

The new find will be sedulously guarded. Every year the cones will be gathered and planted in seedbeds. The suitable soil is sandy. In the course of thirty years the Canadians should have many stands of red pine.

Little Opera as Well as Little Theatre.

A project similar in its aims to the little theatre has been mapped out in New Orleans. Instead of the drama, it is concerned with music. A group of music lovers has organized Le Petit Opera Louisianais, headed by Dr. J. W. NEWMAN. The plan is to give the city good music and to develop home talent.

Dr. NEWMAN, who has spent every Summer for a number of years abroad attending opera, has great faith in the scheme. The Music Teachers' Association is assisting in the selection of performers, and already so many have been found that there were more than were needed to produce "Bohème," the first offering of the new society.

From the crowd of candidates for major roles a half dozen will be chosen as a nucleus around which a company will be built. In this respect Le Petit Opera differs from the little theatre. In the latter the prominent parts are distributed from time to time, so that every one has a chance at the spotlight; but in opera, even a tiny one, the best voices must have the lead.

In addition to creating an operatic cast, the members are working for a symphony orchestra. All persons in the entire organization are to be citizens of New Orleans, and after the local ambition and appetite for music are satisfied the rest of the country is to hear what has been accomplished.

AMERICAN FILMS IN INDIA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice in today's NEW YORK TIMES an article headed "India Sends Protest on American Films." This article, it seems, originated in India, and is along the same line as other articles which have appeared in The Times of India.

Such statements as these could only emanate from one whose interests are closely allied with the attempt to replace American films in India with those of British production. Any one in the least conversant with social conditions in India is perfectly aware that the Government would not for one moment, acting through its Board of Censors, permit the exhibition of any film that would in any way reflect upon the white race or lower British prestige. The British illustrated weeklies, which circulate freely in India, give very much more vivid pictures of the night life both in society and in bohemian circles in the large centres of the Western world than do the American motion pictures, and the censors, taking cognizance of all such things, use good common sense in the examination of films to be presented to the Indian public.

The American films have earned their place in the esteem of the Indian public through their outstanding superiority over the productions of other countries and by presenting the kind of pictures that have the greatest appeal and bring the fullest enjoyment. The Indian public is not patronizing American pictures to the exclusion of those of other countries because of any partiality for Americans or things American, but solely because it gets more value for its money, and that is what controls the Indian in all his dealings, whether in buying merchandise or pleasure, in which respect he is very little different from those of other nationalities.

The so-called European population in Bombay, which is almost entirely British, approximates only about 15,000, as against more than a million and a quarter of natives. This European population contributes very little to the make-up of the average audience in the motion-picture theatres, owing to this disparity in numbers, but certainly no complaint is heard from them with respect to the immorality of the American pictures shown.

"All criticism in the world against American pictures by the British press will not influence their business in India in any way, and the fact that very few American pictures are banned by the Censor Boards in India goes to prove that American pictures are not immoral in their tone, even as judged by the Government, and no criticism has ever appeared in the Indian press about their being immoral.

"Very few English and German and rarely French or Italian pictures adorn the screen in Bombay, and there are no chances, except by legislation, of their proving formidable competitors to American films."

The only adverse criticism of American pictures that has appeared in the Bombay press has been in The Times of India, but such criticism is only in accord with the general policy of the paper with respect to everything American. J. L. HERRON.

Surely No Disrespect Is Intended.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I see that the newspapers have already begun their annual attack on the name of poor old Santa Claus, and are again beginning to call him Santa, which, as every one knows, or should know, is simply his title as Saint, an honor which he shares with many others. To speak of the dear old gentleman simply as Santa is, of course, exactly like speaking of any American citizen as "Mister." C. E. S.

SUNDOWN.

Gravely the spendthrift Warmer
Sinks to his oozy bed:
Midway the live gnat-curtain
Muddies the streaks of red.

Sharper the lace of the hedges,
Deeper the ruts in the lane:
The evening notes come booming
Clean as the edge of pain.

Higher the hills are holeted
Into the crystalline:
Wide-winged travelers homing
Climb to the far, blue line.

ANALYZING THE DRY VOTE.

Wadsworth's Defeat Seen Even If Cristman Had Not Run.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Anti-Saloon League claims a victory in the defeat of Senator Wadsworth. Let us consider just what this means. In New York three men were nominated for United States Senator, two avowedly wet and one avowedly dry. The wet candidates received approximately 92 per cent. of the vote cast. This surely cannot be considered a dry victory. What, then, can they mean by a dry victory here?

The dry candidate was nominated as an Independent Republican, and the votes he filched from the regular Republican nominee were sufficient to swing the plurality from the wet Republican to the wet Democrat, and this is what they claim as a dry victory. Let us analyze the paradox.

The Anti-Saloon League has striven to control by the principle of fear; it has claimed to have control of a sufficient voting strength to swing the election to the opposing major party when the measures that it advances are not supported by the party it is attempting to influence. It has in this section of the country directed its energies principally toward gaining the support of the Republican Party. In defeating Senator Wadsworth it hopes to have prevented the Republican Party here from nominating wet candidates in the future, and believes it has demonstrated to the country at large its power to defeat candidates. Hence it claims the defeat of Wadsworth as its victory.

Consider what it is that the Anti-Saloon League prides itself on. It glories in its power to force a party to act against the majority opinion. Such a point of view should meet with contempt. It is in a worse position than the Pharisees of old whom Christ condemned, for, though like them in its vainglory in imagining itself better than other men, it is attempting to force others to live as it lives, and this the Pharisees never did.

Against this power of a minority to force its measures on the country we should fight with all our might, as it is a blow aimed at the fundamentals of a republican form of government. There is but one way to overcome this impasse, and that is for the party leaders, in office and out, to stand openly and honestly for their personal opinions and preferences, come what may. It would be far better to lose a few elections to a major party fighting in the open than to win for the moment by the sacrificing of honor for the few votes necessary to carry an election.

Senator Wadsworth has won the respect of all right-minded people for standing out boldly for what he considered the right; nevertheless, let us look at his case from the other side. Would Wadsworth have won had he favored the dry cause? The probability is that he would have lost by a much greater number of votes. He would undoubtedly have polled all the votes cast for Cristman, but, to compensate for this, many hundreds of thousands of the votes he received from wet Republican and independent voters would have been transferred to Wagner.

I defend the above assumption statistically, based on the returns (with a few scattering election districts missing) as follows: It is reasonable to assume that all of the 1,685,499 who voted "yes" on the referendum voted for either Wagner or Wadsworth. Assuming that all of the 1,320,633 who voted for Wagner voted "yes" (which is very excessive), there would remain 364,856 who voted "yes" and also voted for Wadsworth. Assuming that only one-half of this last group, or 182,428, would have transferred their votes from Wadsworth to Wagner had Wadsworth run as a dry, and assuming that Wadsworth as a dry would have received the 223,914 votes cast for Cristman, his net gain would have been but 41,486, whereas Wagner's gain would have been 182,428. I believe this to be an ultra-conservative estimate from the wet point of view.

Now I want to emphasize the fact that prohibition is not fundamentally a liquor question; it is the question of the right of a part of the people to force the rest of the people to live as they live willy-nilly. It is almost, if not quite, as easy to get liquor today as before prohibition, and we sometimes have it thrust upon us as never before, so the matter of a desire for liquor is evidently not the question.

The whole question of prohibition is this: Has a group of citizens the moral right to say "Thou shalt not" to the rest of the people and enforce obedience to their mandate by law?

The Rude Male Sex.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The very least that men can do for the weaker sex is to show them consideration and respect. The notoriously impolite business men have in general degenerated to the point where lack of courtesy toward women is the rule. They do not give women the opportunity to choose a seat in public conveyances, much less to offer one to a tired, possibly ill, woman. And now an organized attempt is being made to encourage rudeness and to do away with that last symbol of regard and thoughtfulness, the removal of the hat in the presence of a woman.

All over the United States we can note the growing lack of feeling for one another expressing itself in brusqueness and impoliteness. If we keep on sliding down this slippery plank, we shall slide from impoliteness to rudeness, from rudeness to lawlessness, and from lawlessness to packs of wild animals; the last stage is already in sight in the subways.

ILLO HEIN.

New York, Nov. 13, 1926.

Full Value Assessment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Last year I had occasion to ask for a small reduction in my tax assessment, with the usual results.

I own several apartment houses and I was assessed not only on the land but on the buildings as well. Nothing has been spent for improvements to the buildings. I did not ask for an allowance on land value, but no sane person could see how a building had enhanced in value when no money had been spent on it. This year I have had the same kind of assessments, only more so.

I would like to know why a property valued at $70,000 is assessed for that amount when according to positive information a property was sold a few days ago for $11,500,000 and assessed for less than $75,000?

J. F. KEMP, GEOLOGIST, DIES SUDDENLY AT 67

Columbia Professor, Ex-Member of Federal, State Geologic Surveys, Has Heart Attack.

ADVISED ON CITY AQUEDUCT

James Furman Kemp, Professor of Geology at Columbia University since 1891 and one of the foremost geologists in this country, both in the industrial and academic fields, died of a heart attack as he was leaving his home in Great Neck, L. I., on his way to the university yesterday morning.

Professor Kemp, who had been known as "Uncle Jimmie" on the Columbia campus for many years, met his classes Tuesday and worked until late in the afternoon. The night before he had delivered an address to an audience including many former pupils and associates at the New York Section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. Yesterday morning he was apparently in good health when he had his breakfast and prepared to leave for his day's work.

Professor Kemp was associated with many important geological undertakings, both in this country and abroad. He was formerly a member of the United States and the New York State Geological Surveys. He was widely consulted on mining questions and matters of industrial geology, and was frequently called upon for expert testimony in these fields. In addition he had engaged in geological explorations in the West Indies, South America, and the Orient, and was well known in Europe, especially Sweden and Norway, where he did work in connection with iron deposits.

Professor Kemp was closely associated with the work on the New York water supply system, notably for his advice on the location and structure of the aqueduct which brings the water from the Ashokan Reservoir. As a member of the Board of Managers and Board of Scientific Directors he was active for many years in building up the New York Botanical Gardens.

At Columbia Professor Kemp was unusually popular among the students. For many years when he lived on the campus it was usual for his home to be full of students on Sunday afternoons. He had a remarkable facility for keeping in close touch with a large number of pupils, and through this inspired much research work. His lectures, too, were noted for a keen humor which illuminated even the driest phases of his subject. At the university he is credited with the creation of the present geology department, which is one of the foremost in the country.

Professor Kemp was a graduate of Amherst in the class of 1881, taking his Master's degree at Columbia in 1884. He studied in Munich and Leipsic, and taught at Cornell for five years before coming to Columbia. He was a past President and honorary member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and of the Mining and Metallurgical Society of America, former President of the Geological Society of America, past President of the New York Academy of Science and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, member of the National Academy of Science, the American Philosophic Society, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the Century Club, and a corresponding member of the Stockholm Geologic Society and the Christiania Academy of Science. He was 67 years old.

Surviving Professor Kemp are his widow and three children—Mrs. Chase Davidson of Manhasset, L. I.; James F. Kemp of this city, and Philip K. Kemp of California. The funeral will be in St. Paul's Chapel, Columbia University, tomorrow at 3:30 o'clock.

RED CROSS GIFTS $102,531.

H. J. Rogers Explains That Workers Get No Part of Donations.

A total of $102,531 was reported last night toward the goal of $375,000 needed this year to carry on the work of the Red Cross in Manhattan and the Bronx after setting aside a fund from which the national disaster relief work of the Red Cross is financed.

With the passing of the first $100,000 mark, the Roll Call is beginning its second week. More than 1,000 women and girls, who are volunteering their services as membership solicitors, are at work in office buildings, theatres, hotels, restaurants, clubs and banks.

In connection with this volunteer work, Howard J. Rogers, Executive Director of the Red Cross in New York County and the Bronx, said last night that there had been some misunderstanding on the part of some contributors. It was the impression that workers in theatres and office buildings received a percentage of money contributed by way of payment for their services.

"Not one cent of money contributed to any solicitor for the Red Cross Roll Call goes other than direct to the Red Cross," said Mr. Rogers. "These workers are under the direction of Mrs. Edward J. Cornelis, a volunteer, and they not only give their time and effort, but they pay out of their own pockets any expenses they may incur in the course of their work."

AMHERST DEFERS CHOICE.

Trustee Denies Morrow Is Considered to Succeed Olds as President.

The Board of Trustees of Amherst College will not meet "for some time," according to a statement made yesterday by its Chairman, George A. Plimpton, publisher, of 70 Fifth Avenue, indicating there was no probability of an early announcement of the choice of a successor to Dr. George Daniel Olds, retiring President of the college. Mr. Plimpton said also there was nothing to rumors that Dwight W. Morrow, Vice President of J. P. Morgan & Co., or Professor Frederick J. Woodbridge of the Department of Political Science of Columbia University were probable choices for the position.

No formal statement was made yesterday at the Morgan office regarding published reports that Mr. Morrow might leave the firm to take Dr. Olds's place, but business associates expressed the opinion that he would not accept if the offer were made. Mr. Morrow was not in the city and was not reached. He has been mentioned several times in recent years as a possible selection for high offices of various natures.

Nathalia Crane Gets Indian Banner.

Nathalia Crane, the girl poet of Brooklyn, received yesterday a decorative banner sent from Adyar Madras, India, by Dr. James H. Cousins. A letter accompanying the gift described how Dr. Cousins and his wife obtained the banner from a Tibetan lama who was carrying it in a festival in the Himalaya Mountains. Neither Dr. Cousins nor his wife has ever met the young poet, but said they had enjoyed reading her poems.

BIDS EDUCATION BOARD INVESTIGATE MANDEL

Teachers' Union Calls Citing of Court Rulings in Lefkowitz Case 'Incorrect and Unfair.'

Henry R. Linville, President of the Teachers' Union, sent yesterday to Joseph Miller Jr., Secretary of the Board of Education, a letter demanding that the Board of Education investigate the official conduct of Associate Superintendent Edward Mandel. In it he took up the court decisions cited by Superintendent Mandel in his report submitted to the Board of Education on Nov. 10 regarding the reasons of the Board of Superintendents for refusing to promote Dr. Abraham Lefkowitz, alleged radical high school teacher.

After saying that Superintendent Mandel "is also a lawyer," Mr. Linville declared:

"The Teachers' Union replied at once to the general published charges against Dr. Lefkowitz. But we required more time to study the legal citations referred to. We have secured competent advice, and are now prepared to say that in his incorrect and unfair use of the court decisions Mr. Mandel has committed an unprofessional offense as a lawyer and has degraded the position of Associate Superintendent. We reiterate our demand that the Board of Education inquire into the conduct of this official."

Superintendent Mandel yesterday wrote a letter to THE NEW YORK TIMES denying that in his report to the Board of Education he had misquoted Dr. Lefkowitz. He said the data for his report had been taken from:

"An official report from Superintendent Tildsley; an official communication to Mr. Lefkowitz by Superintendent Ettinger; the official minutes of the Cooper Union meeting; the minutes of the statements made by Mr. Lefkowitz before the Board of Superintendents; letters concededly written by Mr. Lefkowitz."

W. L. (DUTCH) ALEXANDER.

Chattanooga Man Dies After Stroke—Had Wealth, Lived in Penury.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 17.—W. L. (Dutch) Alexander died in a local hospital this afternoon after a stroke of apoplexy he suffered four days ago. He had been picked up on the street and placed in a charity ward in a hospital, although he possessed a fortune estimated at several hundred thousand dollars. "Dutch" Alexander, with all his wealth, lived a life of penury.

Relatives live in various parts of the country. Some years ago Alexander erected on a residential street corner, on the lot of one of his rental places, a monument to the memory of Woodrow Wilson and William Gibbs McAdoo. He was 79 years old.

W. H. Alexander's Funeral Today.

Funeral services for William Homer Alexander, mining engineer, who died on Monday, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Funeral Church, Sixty-sixth Street and Broadway. Mr. Alexander was born at Albany, Ore., in 1873. His father had been one of the pioneers in the Northwest and Mr. Alexander was brought up under conditions of frontier life. He started work as a boy with the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and early became interested in mining. He was a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and President of the Lane Rincon Mines, Inc.

Charles A. Reynolds.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 17.—Word has been received here of the death of Charles A. Reynolds, President of the First State Bank of Swink, Col., and pioneer business man in La Junta, Col. Mr. Reynolds was head of the Columbia Land and Cattle Company and had extensive property holdings in the southern part of the State. He was President of the Board of Education for twenty-three years, was a thirty-third degree Mason, a Shriner and a Knight Templar. He was born in Greenwich in 1861.

Judge Jere R. Kane.

SPENCER, Mass., Nov. 17 (AP).—Judge Jere R. Kane, 71, of the East Brookfield District Court, died here tonight at the home of a daughter. Judge Kane had been Town Counsel for twenty years. He also was Chairman of the Town Finance Committee, of which he had been a member since it was organized fourteen years ago. Judge Kane was widely known throughout the State as an orator. He was born in North Brookfield and was a graduate of the Boston University Law School.

T. Frank Cullinan.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 17.—T. Frank Cullinan, for forty-two years in the service of the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad and for many years freight agent of the road, is dead at his home in Middletown, N. Y., at the age of 61 years. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus. Besides his widow, he is survived by a daughter and two sons.

Mrs. Jane J. Underwood.

NICE, France, Nov. 17 (AP).—Mrs. Jane J. Underwood, widow of General A. B. Underwood of Boston, died here yesterday.

Mrs. Houston Talks on Adoptions.

Mrs. David F. Houston, wife of the former Secretary of Agriculture and a member of the Child Placing Committee of the State Charities Aid Association, declared in a talk from WEAF yesterday that the reasons persons give for adopting children, and not the amount of money the foster parents have, determine whether or not the adoption will be successful. "If people wish to adopt a child because they have been married several years and have no child of their own or because they really desire to do something for an unfortunate youngster," she said, "it is likely that the plan will work."

Obituary Notes.

Miss ELIZABETH McDEVITT, who celebrated her ninety-ninth birthday last July, died on Tuesday at her home, 890 Park Place, Brooklyn. Miss McDevitt was born in Ireland and had lived in Brooklyn for seventy-five years.

WILLIAM A. WARES, a veteran of the World War and a member of Lyons Lodge, No. 776, F. and A. M.; De Long Council, R. A., and the American Legion, died in his thirty-fifth year on Tuesday at his home, 59 Adelphi Street, Brooklyn. He was in the trucking business, and left a widow and a daughter.

JOHN A. MONAHAN, 43 years old, for more than seventeen years cashier in the office of County Clerk William T. Collins, died at the Lutheran Hospital early yesterday morning of an attack of acute appendicitis. He lived at 505 West 164th Street. He is survived by his widow and two children.

GEN. B. D. SPILLMAN DIES.

Veteran of Indian and Spanish-American Wars Was 73.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—General Baldwin D. Spillman, 73 years old, of Warrenton, Va., veteran of the Spanish-American and Indian wars, died of angina pectoris in the Washington Sanitarium today.

After graduation from West Point and service in the West he severed his connection with the army, but was commissioned to command West Virginia volunteers during the Spanish-American War, after which he again retired. He had since resided at Warrenton.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Annie Camden Spillman, daughter of the late Senator J. N. Camden of West Virginia; three daughters, Mrs. R. R. Barrett, Mrs. John Chauncey Williams and Mrs. Paul D. Bowden; a son, Baldwin D. Spillman Jr.; one brother and six sisters, all of Warrenton.

Funeral services will be conducted in St. James's Episcopal Church, Warrenton, Friday, with interment at that place.

HAROLD VOSBURGH DEAD.

Prominent Actor Found Lifeless in a New Orleans Hotel.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17 (AP).—Harold Vosburgh, 56, well-known actor, was found dead in his room at a local hotel today. Death was attributed to natural causes. He had made his home in New York for many years.

Harold Vosburgh's last New York appearance took place at the Provincetown Playhouse last season in "The Man Who Died Twice." Other plays in which he appeared included "Kempy," "The Fool," "The Man Who Stayed at Home," "Watch Your Neighbor," "Kick In," "The Confession" and "The Rainbow Girl." He also acted for a time in films, and toured recently with Walker Whiteside in "The Arabian" and "The Hindu." He made one of his chief successes in Belasco's production of "The Woman."

The actor was born in Penetanguishene, Ontario, Canada.

PROF. JOHN S. PHILLIMORE.

SHEDFIELD, Hampshire, England, Nov. 17 (AP).—Professor John Swinnerton Phillimore, one of the world's foremost scholars of Greek and Latin, died yesterday aged 53.

He was the fourth son of the late Admiral Sir Augustus Phillimore and was educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford. The University of California appointed him to the Sather Professorship of Classics for the year 1914-1915.

Since 1906 he had been Professor of Humanity in Glasgow University. He published several books on Greek and Latin subjects.

Ronald Taylor.

Ronald Taylor, former President of the Ronald Taylor Paving Company and widely known in trade union circles in this city, died on Tuesday at his home, 275 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn. He was in his sixty-third year. The funeral services will be held in the Greenwood Cemetery chapel tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Taylor was born in Brooklyn and in his youth entered business with his father as treasurer of the Matt Taylor Paving Company. He was an organizer of the Building Trades Employers Association and was its President during the World War period. Mr. Taylor is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sadie J. Wood Taylor; a son, Major Roy Taylor; a brother, Matt Taylor, and a sister, Mrs. W. L. Mellon.

NEW BOOKS

Three journals of highest critical standards, each chary of its praise, have reviewed this book with warmest enthusiasm—

The Sun Also Rises
By Ernest Hemingway

The New York Times Book Review:
"An absorbing, beautifully and tenderly absurd, heart-breaking narrative. . . . No amount of analysis can convey the quality of 'The Sun Also Rises.' It is a truly gripping story, told in a lean, hard, athletic narrative prose that puts more literary English to shame. . . . It is magnificent writing, filled with that organic action which gives a compelling picture of character. This novel is unquestionably one of the events of an unusually rich year in literature."

The New York Herald-Tribune "Books":
"'The Sun Also Rises' makes it possible for me to say of him, with entire conviction, that he is in many respects the most exciting of contemporary American writers of fiction. . . . If there is better dialogue being written today, I do not know where to find it." (Review signed by Conrad Aiken)

The Boston Transcript:
"A poignant and aching beauty. The love affair between Brett and Jake has a sordid and futile loveliness, unlike that in any recent novel unless it be the love affair of Leora and Arrowsmith in Sinclair Lewis's novel. Mr. Hemingway has wrought a beautiful and searching novel. If this review has erred on the side of too great praise, it is only because the book has called it forth." (Review signed by E. J. W.)

From the Founder's Writings

"Face the Other Way, Boys!"

General Sheridan once met his troops retreating in great disorder from the enemy who had attacked them in his absence. He rode in hot haste amongst the panic-stricken men, swinging his hat and shouting, "Face the other way, boys; face the other way!"

Hundreds of the men turned at once and followed him with cheers. The scattered soldiers, recognizing their general, took up the cry, passed it along from one to another, and it swept like a wave of the sea, reaching men who returned in crowds and fell into the ranks—Sheridan leading them into the panic-stricken enemy, who fled before them, while Sheridan's men covered themselves with glory.

Every one of the sections and its hundreds of divisions of our Store army needs a leader. Each day gives opportunity for distinguishing service.

The daily visitors have no applause for laggards.

...K SAYS GERMANY SHOULD PAY CLAIMS

Former Solicitor General Asks Why United States Should Assume the Burden.

ADVOCATES WILSON POLICY

Urges Adherence to President's 'Strict Accountability' Plan to Protect Our Rights.

TWO WITNESSES IN CLASH

Criticism of North German Lloyd as 'Hostile' Causes Dispute at Committee Hearing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—James M. Beck, former Solicitor General, took issue before the Ways and Means Committee today with those who would have the Federal Government finance the "settlement" of American claims against Germany. One of these was Under Secretary Winston of the Treasury, who has recommended an appropriation of $100,000,000 to that end.

Declaring that the "strict accountability" policy laid down by Woodrow Wilson early in the war should be adhered to for the protection of the rights of American citizens, Mr. Beck said today this country should assume the position of the German Government at the present time.

"Why should the American taxpayer pay it?" he asked, referring to pending proposals for Congress, through appropriations, to advance some of the money. "The public treasury is not concerned in the adjustment of this matter."

Mr. Beck pointed to the time-honored policy of the United States in regarding private property as sacred. He stated that President Wilson declared the country had no quarrel with the German people. He emphasized the spirit in which the United States entered the war, and said that what had happened was in keeping with the thought that individual Germans were not to be punished for acts of their government. The Berlin treaty of 1921 specifically declaring peace between the United States and that country carried out that thought, Mr. Beck added.

Spoke for Insurance Companies.

Mr. Beck appeared before the committee in behalf of insurance companies that wrote marine insurance during the war, and was followed by several witnesses for those companies. Describing the great difficulties and hazards of writing insurance on ships during the era of U-boat warfare, he spoke on Germany's success in that field:

"If Germany had not been afraid of the United States and had used her submarine forces to the full extent she was able, she would have starved England out. I was in England in 1918 and knew it was awful hard to get anything to eat."

The former Solicitor General said the insurance companies had really contributed to the success of this country's shipping during the war, in that the average premium was only 2 per cent, while profits were smaller than in ordinary times of peace.

Mr. Beck declared he had been told there was no disposition by the Allies to permit any preferred treatment of American claims, and added that they were saying the United States "got into it out of the war."

"I do not think economy plays any part in it," he said. "It is all passion and feeling."

Other witnesses today were Alfred E. Beet and William H. McGee of New York, on various phases of the matters affecting insurance companies; William T. Sidley of Chicago, Chairman of the Association of American War Claimants; E. A. Whitman of Boston, representing liquidators of the Austro-Hungarian Bank, and George Whitefield Betts Jr. of Englewood, N. J., representing several claims arising out of sinking of the Lusitania.

Two Witnesses Clash.

Two witnesses clashed over the attitude of the North German Lloyd Line toward the United States.

William C. Armstrong, appearing for some American claimants against Germany, referred to some of the companies he regarded as hostile. The Government, he asserted, should keep the property of those concerns that were hostile for satisfaction of claims but should return the property of the others.

When Mr. Armstrong mentioned the North German Lloyd as one of the hostile concerns Edgar W. Hunt, saying he was general counsel for that company, expressed resentment that his line was included in the "hostile" group, asserting that the company was "as clean as a hound's tooth" after this country got into the war.

Mr. Armstrong replied that he had made no reference to the conduct of companies after the United States entered into the war, but before that period. He said he meant such acts as tended to prevent this country from being in position to defend itself in the event of the emergency arising.

FRENCH HEARING PUT OFF.

Man Accused of Passing Bad Check Breaks Camera Men's Plate.

When Magistrate George W. Simpson in the Tombs Court yesterday had postponed until next Wednesday the hearing in the case of William Barton French as a fugitive from France, French, who is a member of a wealthy family in this city, declared that the French Government had no case against him. Then he added: "Tell the French Government they ought to pay their own debts before they bother other people. The French people just like to make suckers ont of Americans who visit their country."

French was arrested on board the liner Paris on her arrival here a month ago. It was alleged that Thomas Cook & Son, the tourist agency, had reported to the French authorities that French had cashed a check for $2,000 which was not backed up by sufficient funds in the bank. French had been released in $5,000 bail on his first arraignment, and there was no opposition on the part of the District Attorney's office yesterday when his lawyer, Outerbridge Horsey, asked for the postponement.

Before the hearing a newspaper photographer took a flashlight picture of French in the corridor. French snatched the plate from the camera and destroyed it.

Cobham Sails for New York; To Fly With Times Pictures

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Sir Alan Cobham, the famous English aviator, sailed for New York today on the Homeric, taking with him a package of photographs for THE NEW YORK TIMES which he expects to deliver ten hours earlier than they would be if taken by ordinary courier.

Cobham expects to fly from the Homeric to New York in a swift tiny Moth plane when the liner is about ten hours from Quarantine.

SAYS EX-MAHARAJAH CAME AS HER GUEST

But Seattle Woman Denies Rumors of Possible Romance With Daughter.

PARTY ENTRAINS FOR COAST

Former Ruler of Indore Will Visit Pacific Cities and Washington, Returning to New York Dec. 23.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 17 (AP).—There is no possibility of a romance between Miss Nancy Anne Miller of Seattle, Wash., and the former Maharajah of Indore, Central India, Mrs. Jennie Miller, the young woman's mother, declared before the party entrained for San Francisco today.

Emphatically denying rumors and speculation as to the possibility of a marriage between the American girl and the former Indian ruler, Mrs. Miller said:

"My daughter and I have merely been guests or his Highness on this trip across the United States. I have known him for many years, as I have many friends in Bombay and have visited there often. I spend practically all of my time in Europe, where I was born. I met his Highness several months ago and invited him to come to the United States to see the country and be my guest in Seattle.

"We are now en route there, although the dates of his Highness' visit in Seattle are not yet definite."

Miss Miller is a tall, slender girl of about 20 years, gracious in manner and exceptionally attractive. She attended a motion picture theatre last evening with the former Maharajah and they attracted considerable attention.

The intended visit to Seattle mentioned by Mrs. Miller is not included in the present itinerary, William Ewart, personal conductor of a national tourist bureau in charge of the party, said.

This itinerary provides for the former Maharajah and his party spending several days in San Francisco following their arrival there tomorrow afternoon. Del Monte and Santa Barbara will also be visited, and if the present schedule is followed out he will arrive in Los Angeles Nov. 27 and remain there until Dec. 4, when the journey eastward over the southern route will be started. Stops will be made at the Grand Canyon, Ariz.; Albuquerque and New Orleans.

This schedule provides for his arrival at Washington, D. C., Dec. 16, where he will remain three days. The following three days will be spent at Philadelphia, and Dec. 23 will find them back in New York City.

SPAIN REINSTATES OUSTED ARTILLERISTS

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Nov. 17.—Final amnesty for the artillery officers who were convicted of sedition and expelled from the Corps in September was extended today, according to a note issued to the press by the Government.

The conditions are that all officers wishing to re-enter the Corps must make application within ten days, recognize the authority of the Government in all disciplinary matters and give up the old idea of promotion by the old seniority rule. No officer can be placed on the reserve list without first making application. Applying officer may indicate three choices for assignment, the Government reserving all its liberty of action.

Another decree today creates a new Supply Control Officer and transfers all munition works and other supply depots from the control of the Artillery Corps to officers made directly responsible to the Ministry of War.

Thus the Government is relieved of a possible embarrassment should it be threatened as it was on Sept. 5.

Under the new provisions the number of divisions of the Artillery Corps are reduced about one-third.

All those who accept all the foregoing conditions may, in the words of the official communiqué, "return with heads erect and conscious that they have recognized the error of their ways."

The Government has tried its best to save the feelings of the officers concerned. It is made clear that once the officers are reinstated no distinction will be made between them and the officers who remained loyal to the Government.

In other words, the Government asks that the artillerists who were involved in the September revolt openly recognise their fault by accepting the new conditions—and then all will be forgiven and a start will be made anew on a better basis.

This is the first step back to normalcy in the army, the Government feels, and it is believed that all officers having the interest of the nation at heart will welcome it.

INJURED MAN ABANDONED.

Burns Laid to Still Explosion—He Refuses to Talk, Though Near Death

Seriously burned, probably in a still explosion, police believe, a man who described himself as Angelo Bacelo, 32 years old, was left on the steps of the Seventh Avenue entrance of St. Vincent's Hospital at 6 o'clock yesterday morning by an unidentified man.

Bacelo was unconscious when a hospital attendant found him. Later he regained consciousness and gave his name and the address 172 West Houston Street. A patrolman found no one at the address who knew the man and no sign of damage by fire in the building.

Even after physicians and detectives informed Bacelo that his condition was critical, he would not tell how he received the burns.

ONLY MINOR CUTS ASKED IN BUDGET

Few Protest at Hearing Despite $37,000,000 Increase in Next Year's Figures.

ECONOMY BODY IS HEARD

Members of the Finance Committee of the Board of Aldermen listened patiently yesterday to arguments for reduction on the 1927 city budget of $474,893,300, which were offered at a public hearing in the Aldermanic Chamber. Although the tentative budget represents an increase of $37,893,300 over the current year's, there was no outpouring of protesting taxpayers. Two or three professional workers of civic and commercial organizations which already had filed their objections with the Board of Estimate represented the entire spoken and written protest.

The budget will be reported out to the next regular session of the Board of Alderman and in all probability it will be unchanged.

Among those who argued for reductions was Dr. William H. Allen. He spoke for the Municipal Economy Committee. Another speaker was Stewart Browne, President of the Real Estate Owners' Association.

"The Municipal Economy Committee asks you to make fourteen reductions in the budget for the Aldermen and City Clerk, totaling $37,014," said Dr. Allen. "While the two salary increases of $164 and $360 are not large, they are exceptions which conflict with the purpose of this budget to have $1,000,000 distributed after a study has been made. At a time when hard working employes throughout other city departments are being denied salary increases, we submit that it is not fair for Aldermen to make even two exceptions in their own budget.

Wants Greater Efficiency.

"The new positions are opposed on the ground that more benefit will come from getting additional work out of present employes than out of adding new employes at this time. Even a new automobile engineman is clearly unjustifiable, in view of the service organized through the motor repair shop and central taxi service.

"Nothing new has developed to warrant the employment of a new executive secretary or a secretary to the City Clerk. There is no reason whatever for adding inspectors of electric signs to this office. Apparently a clerical error has been made here, anyway, because the line reads only two inspectors at $2,200, whereas, the total carried out is $11,000, which would mean five unnecessary inspectors.

"As to the Court House engineer at $4,800 and the Court House investigator at $4,500, this total of $9,300 was put in the budget to help a former President of the Board of Aldermen do his part as a member of the Court House Board. That service is ended. Those two salaries belong to taxpayers. Those two employes should not be held for a service absolutely different from that for which they were hired.

"Thus, in personal service alone there is a total of $34,664 which has never been publicly defended on the ground of any needed public service.

"On all other than personal service items surely no member of this committee believes that there will be any hardship or any loss of service for supplies and telephone if the Board of Aldermen and City Clerk budget is kept within the total for 1926." Dr. Allen also protested against the increase in the item for telephone service.

MALE M. P. A DRESSMAKER.

Scot Advocates Commons Be Taught to Mend Own Socks.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The House of Commons today learned that one of its men members is an expert needleworker. This nimble-fingered politician advocated that the members be taught to make their own clothing and mend their own socks. He keeps his identity secret, but it is known that he is a Scot.

He has told intimates that he could make a suit of clothes, but does not say he would wear it. The fact that a member of Parliament is handy with a needle became known as the result of his making a dress for his niece. She sent it to a fashionable modiste to be copied.

The modiste was so impressed by the creation that she sought the maker's address. His name was refused, but his address was given as the House of Commons.

REDS IN JAVA STILL ACTIVE.

More Arrests Are Made—Europeans Are Considered Safe.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 17.—The Colonial Office of the Netherlands today received a cable from Java stating that the Red situation gives further cause for anxiety. Large numbers of Communists have been arrested, including the entire committee of the Party Communists of India in Bandoeng, where the population still supports the movement.

Troops have been sent to the district and no doubt is felt that the rising will be suppressed.

According to the Amsterdam Telegraaf's Batavia correspondent, the greater part of the inhabitants in the affected regions refused to have anything to do with the uprising.

As to Europeans, they can be considered safe, even on plantations in the interior.

THEFTS OF $15,000 CHARGED

Importer's Cashier, Arrested, Reports Costs of Living High.

The expense of "keeping up his end" as a member of a golf club, the purchase of a new home and an accumulation of $5,000 in doctors' bills were advanced yesterday by Charles L. Ringe, a cashier, as excuses for his alleged thefts amounting to about $15,000 in two years from his employer, Philip S. Arthur, an importer at 2 Broadway. Ringe, who gave his address as 7 Holt Street, Yonkers, waived examination before Magistrate George W. Simpson in the Tombs Court and was released in $3,500 bail pending action by the Grand Jury.

The specific charge against Ringe was the theft of $722, but an affidavit made by Detective Pierce J. Fleming of the Old Slip Station said he admitted having taken the larger sum in small amounts by appropriating checks which he ostensibly had drawn to pay creditors of his employer.

Row Looms Over Democratic Club Presidency; Smith-McAdoo Rivalry as Factor Is Denied

Thomas E. Rush, President of the National Democratic Club, was renominated for the position last night by the Nominating Committee of the club, but a warm fight for the place was expected before the annual election early in December.

The committee also renominated Colonel Herbert H. Lehman for First Vice President and substituted the name of Kenneth O'Brien, now Corresponding Secretary, for that of Frank L. Polk for Second Vice President.

Mr. Rush, at one time Tammany leader of the old Twenty-ninth Assembly District, has been President of the club for the last four years and, according to his friends, is anxious to be continued in that position. Scores of club members, however, were said to desire a change and plans are under way by the anti-Rush element to nominate an opposition ticket, headed by George J. Atwell, a wealthy contractor and stanch Tammany man. Mr. Rush, while a Tammany district leader, became known chiefly for his clashes with Charles F. Murphy.

The Nominating Committee, headed by former Assistant Corporation Counsel Louis M. Hahlo, labored long yesterday to complete the slate which had to be filed before midnight.

It is understood that some time ago opponents of Mr. Rush approached County Clerk William T. Collins and urged him to assume the leadership in the fight as their candidate for President. Mr. Collins would not agree, but since then has been active in backing Mr. Atwell.

Suggestions that the fight on Mr. Rush was due to the fact that as Surveyor of the Port during the Wilson Administration he had been an appointee of William G. McAdoo, who may be expected again to clash with Governor Smith as a candidate for the Presidential nomination at the 1928 Democratic National Convention, and, under the circumstances, probably would be a McAdoo supporter, were not taken seriously by members of the club. They declared the club as a unit was strong for Governor Smith and that the Smith-McAdoo contention did not enter into the contest. Nor was this to be regarded as an attempt on the part of Tammany Hall to enhance its influence within the club, according to members.

"It is merely a question of Mr. Atwell wanting the Presidency and Mr. Rush wanting to continue in that position," was the explanation given by one prominent member. It was recalled last night that during an earlier administration Mr. Rush had taken steps to have Mr. Atwell ousted from the Chairmanship of the House Committee "for the good of the club," and it was admitted that this might have caused some personal bitterness between them.

Under the constitution of the club a group of twenty-five members in good standing can sponsor an opposition ticket and will get five days after the regular nominations have been posted to determine on a line of action and a set of candidates.

RICHARD CROKER JR. VICTOR ON APPEAL

High Court Affirms Judgment Awarding Him $178,311 From Father's Estate.

HE LOSES CERTAIN STOCK

Twenty Shares Must Be Delivered to Defendant Administrator—Years of Litigation Ended.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 17.—Under a decision by the Court of Appeals today Richard Croker Jr. will receive $178,311.31, but must turn over to the New York Trust Company twenty shares of preferred stock of the Benedict Stone Company. This is the net result of the third action brought by Richard Croker Jr. involving the estate of his father, the late Richard Croker.

The Court of Appeals affirmed a judgment of the Appellate Division, First Department, in the action of Richard Croker Jr. against the New York Trust Company. Both plaintiff and defendant, the latter temporary administrator of the estate of Richard Croker, had appealed. No opinion was written either in the Appellate Division or in the Court of Appeals. The latest decision is without costs and all the Judges concurred except Judge Lehman, who did not vote.

The Appellate Division had modified the judgment of Justice O'Malley at Special Term, which confirmed in part and disapproved in part the report of Ashbel P. Fitch as referee. The defendant appealed from every part of the judgment, which awarded to Richard Croker Jr. $178,311.31 and other relief, except from that part of the decision which decreed that Richard Croker Jr. should deliver to the defendant the twenty shares of Benedict Stone stock held for the account of his father.

The plaintiff's appeal was as to the limitation to the recovery of $178,311.31, the delivery of the shares of stock and the refusal of the Court to allow him compensation for his services in connection with a certain warehouse property at 535 East Seventy-ninth Street, Manhattan, which belonged to the defendant, title to which was taken and held by the plaintiff in his own name.

On April 29, 1922, Richard Croker died and the New York Trust Company as temporary administrator was substituted in his place as defendant in the litigation. Trial of the action before the referee had been begun on Dec. 22, 1921. Richard Croker resided abroad from 1905 to the time of his death. Up to Oct. 31, 1917, plaintiff was the agent of the defendant and handled his moneys. From 1907 he had a general power of attorney, which was revoked in 1917.

It was alleged that Croker Jr. had lent money to his father from time to time, which the latter used in investments in Ireland, Palm Beach, Fla., and elsewhere with great profit. In November, 1914, the elder Croker remarried. In December, 1916, he withdrew his securities and bank accounts from his son and took over all his personal property in New York. At that time the father and son discussed the indebtedness and it was alleged that it was agreed that the plaintiff should retain the warehouse property, which stood in the plaintiff's name, to secure him for the loans. On March 14, 1917, Croker asked his son for $10,000 to invest in Florida lands and the son replied that he could not make the loan. In November, 1917, the father demanded a conveyance of the warehouse. For a year and a half efforts were made to adjust matters amicably, but they were barren of results. This litigation followed.

The referee found in favor of Croker Jr. on all the issues involved. At Special Term Justice McAvoy found substantially the same, except that he ruled Croker Jr.'s demand for compensation for managing the warehouse property, reduced the interest on loans to $48,520.02 and directed the delivery of the stock of the Benedict Stone Company to the defendant before the payment of the judgment.

CHALLENGES CHARGE OF UNION SHORTAGE

Painters' Council Secretary Attributes Accusation to Communistic Boring.

ADMITS AUDIT OF BOOKS

But Says No One Can Tell Until Inquiry Is Ended Whether Fees Have Been Taken.

The rift in the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers is the visible evidence of a communistic boring from within, according to officials of the District Council of the union, as expressed yesterday by Philip Zausner, Secretary of the council, the governing body of the organization in this city. He challenged the charge made by Local 905 and endorsed by Local 1,611 that a shortage of possibly $200,000 existed in the funds handled by the District Council. He branded as false the statement that evidence existed that initiation fees had been misappropriated. He did not deny, however, that an examination of the books of the District Council was being made by the International officers. This examination, he said, was being conducted at the request of the council and not, as had been stated, by the dissatisfied locals.

The charge that a shortage existed in the union funds was voiced on Tuesday by Thomas Wright, Secretary of Local 905, one of the nineteen in this city represented on the New York District Council. He declared that a preliminary audit covering nineteen months had shown that $30,000 was not properly accounted for. Mr. Zausner said that Wright had no authority to make such a statement.

"Mr. Wright not only had no right to make such a statement, but he was not justified in so doing by the facts of the case," said Mr. Zausner. "Nothing has been established. All of the books of the District Council are now in the possession of the International officers and a careful audit is being made under their supervision. Neither we nor they can say that there is a shortage in the funds. Such a statement is ridiculous. It was the District Council that, in order to have the matter straightened out, took the responsibility for having the books examined. It does not seek to deny that an audit of the books is in progress, but it should be known that it was the District Council that asked for that audit, and emphasized that it is unfair to state that a shortage exists."

The audit alleged to have been made by Local 905, Mr. Zausner said, could not be taken seriously because neither Mr. Wright nor the auditors he had engaged had ever seen the books kept by the District Council. Then, based their charges on an examination of the typewritten minutes of the Council and with this meagre information, he insisted, no shortage or misappropriation of the funds could be established.

He charged that the whole trouble was caused by a communistic group that was attempting to throw the odium of a possible shortage upon the officers of the District Council and create a situation that would make possible the capture of that body. "Their methods are generally known and they are trying to get control of this union just as they have gained control of other unions," Mr. Zausner said.

This attack came, he said, on the eve of an election of a day secretary for the Council and four walking delegates, and added that the treasurer and financial secretary were elected by the forty-five delegates from the various locals that made up the Council. Back of the present attack Mr. Zausner charged was the desire of the active minority to capture these offices.

"The international officers have undertaken to get at the bottom of this whole matter and the auditors here are now at work," he continued. "The District Council is also interested in learning whether funds have been mishandled."

DE BERNARDI SETS ANOTHER RECORD

AVERAGE NEARLY 259 MILES

NORFOLK Va., Nov. 17 (AP).—America's last hold on air racing supremacy was wiped out today by the spectacular flying of Major Mario de Bernardi, the Italian army officer, who piloted his little red monoplane over a straightaway three-kilometer course at the average rate for four laps of 258.873 miles an hour.

His speed bettered the world seaplane record for the distance, made in 1925 by Lieutenant James H. Doolittle of the United States Army by more than thirteen miles an hour. Lieutenant Doolittle's record was 245.713 miles an hour. The land plane record is 278.48 miles, held by Adjutant Bonnet of France.

Major de Bernardi, in winning the Schneider Cup race last Saturday, established a new speed mark of 246.496 miles an hour for the 350-kilometer course, and checked America's opportunity to gain permanent possession of the trophy. He also set up records for the 100-kilometer closed circuit at 248.189 miles an hour and the 200-kilometer closed course at 248.00025 miles.

Although the Italian bettered Lieutenant Doolittle's three-kilometer record in the flight Saturday, his new mark was not recognized officially at that time. His best speed for the three-kilometer course today was 272.132 miles with the wind, and his slowest 243.222 miles against the wind.

The test was made over a measured route off Willoughby Beach and was timed by the same devices and officials who acted in the Schneider race. It was on his personal order that the Macchi-Fiat racers were built and through him the building and test costs were financed.

When they reach home the Italians plan to equip the planes with land gears and endeavor to win the remaining world record, held by the Frenchman.

The Italian officer, dubbed in aviation circles here "the Flying Fascist," flew the same machine, a Macchi-Fiat, in which he won the Schneider trophy.

After his flight today he left his plane, changed his clothing in a racing automobile and caught the steamer for Washington, which had awaited his belated departure. Tomorrow he will be congratulated on his Schneider victory by President Coolidge. He did not learn of his new record until after he had boarded the steamer.

Major de Bernardi was late in making the flight because of delay in mapping off the course, but when he finally was informed that army engineers had completed the survey it did not take him more than ten minutes to set the record. As he was pressed for time, he made only four flights over the course. The minimum allowed under the rules of the International Aeronautical Federation, although he could have flown as he wished with the fourbest consecutive marks benig taken for his average.

Members of the Italian cup team will remain in Washington for several days and then proceed to New York to embark for Italy on Dec. 4. The Schneider trophy already has been packed and started on its way to Italy and the mechanics are now crating the planes. The plane in which Major de Bernardi made all his records will be exhibited in Paris.

Members of the Italian team and the designers and makers of the little racing machines give credit to Premier Mussolini for making it possible for Italy to win the Schneider Cup.

DENIES MISS FETZER'S CHARGES OF SLANDER

His Speech to Adventists Garbled, the Rev. A. J. Clark Testifies in Defending Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 17.—Testifying in his own defense in the Supreme Court today, the Rev. A. James Clark of this city, President of the New Jersey Conference of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, denied that he ever had accused Miss Theresa Fetzer of being too intimate with Dr. J. H. Miller, an evangelist for the Reformed Seventh Day Adventist Church. Miss Fetzer is suing him for $100,000 damages for slander.

Mr. Clark said disconnected portions of a speech which he had made to Adventists in Akron, Ohio, two years ago were put together to make the charge against him.

Miss Fetzer was also on the stand this afternoon. She denied emphatically that Dr. Miller ever had been in her room incompletely dressed when they had naturopathic offices in a building in Pittsburgh, Pa. She also denied that she had told the janitress of the building that Dr. Miller had "wrecked and ruined" her life or that she had changed the lock on her office door.

Mr. Clark was questioned about his speech in Akron after a split in the denomination had occurred, with Dr. Miller and Miss Fetzer joining the reform movement. He admitted that he had referred to Dr. Miller when he said "a certain man was leading people away."

"What did you have him on the carpet for?" he was asked.

"I had him on the carpet for soliciting funds in an unauthorized way and for teaching and fostering heresy," was the reply.

"Did you say Dr. Miller took Miss Fetzer to Detroit?"

"I said Miller had been transferred to the East Michigan Conference and would not accept unless his Bible worker went along."

Mr. Clark added that he understood Mrs. Miller got her divorce for that reason.

"Did you know he had his Bible worker in his home in Detroit?" he was asked.

"I did not know of my own knowledge," he answered.

"Did you know whether he had his worker with him in Pittsburgh."

"I did not know of my own knowledge."

Mr. Clark denied that he "had Dr. Miller on the carpet" for alleged intimacy with his Bible worker.

Y. W. C. A. Fund Now $183,957.

Gifts of $2,000 from Edwin Gould and $1,000 from Jeremiah Milbank toward the 1927 budget of the Y. W. C. A., were reported yesterday at the campaign luncheon held at the Central Branch of the Y. W. C. A., 610 Lexington Avenue. Reports of the various teams made at the luncheon showed $183,957 raised thus far toward the $265,000 goal.

Suggestion From Mr. Rogers On War and Conscription

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Co.
To the Editor of The New York Times:

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 17.—Mr. Coolidge said in the next war we would draft wealth as well as men. Now everybody is arguing if it's practical. Why not postpone having the next war till the cause for it is so popular that you won't have to conscript either of them? If you will wait till we are invaded and everybody knows what they are fighting for, you won't need conscription.

Yours from Kansas, the comedy relief of the United States.

10,000 UNIONISTS IN SACCO PROTEST

CALL FOR FIGHT AT POLLS

More than 10,000 trade unionists met in Madison Square Garden last night to demand a new trial for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals, now under sentence of death in Boston for murder. The meeting was called by the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee of New York.

Resolutions were adopted demanding a Congressional investigation of the activities of the Department of Justice in connection with the Sacco and Vanzetti case and urging Senators and Congressmen from New York State to do all in their power to further such an investigation.

In another resolution the mass meeting protested "the recent denial of a new trial to Sacco and Vanzetti, pledge ourselves to carry on, without ceasing, the battle for the lives of our class-conscious brothers;" and resolved,

"That we call on the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee to arrange, within one month, a mass delegation of trade unionists to wait upon Governor Fuller of Massachusetts to demand a new trial;

"That we endorse the plan for a national congress in New York City within two months to continue this demand for a new trial;

"That we broadcast a call to all workers of the country to send representatives to this congress and by their support help to gain a new trial and freedom for Sacco and Vanzetti."

Many Leaders Speak.

William Z. Foster, representing the Workers' Party; Judge Jacob Panken, representing the Socialist Party; Arthur Garfield Hays, Norman Thomas and eight other speakers urged the mass meeting not to cease its efforts until the two prisoners were freed.

"Sacco and Vanzetti," said Mr. Foster, who was received enthusiastically, "have not been sentenced to the electric chair because of any murder. They are symbols of the resistance of the working class to capitalism, and capital has decided to make an example of them."

"In a country where rich criminals notoriously escape," said Mr. Thomas, "where political corruptionists like Fall and Daugherty have so long gone unwhipped by justice, it emphasizes the fact that the administration of criminal justice is not only, as Chief Justice Taft has said, a disgrace, but may of itself be a crime."

"These men were tried at a time when the country was in a state of hysteria," said Judge Panken, "and any person charged with being a radical was immediately conceived to be not only a radical but a criminal in every sense and in every respect."

Other speakers were Leonard Abbott, writer; Pietro Allegra, Secretary of the anti-Fascisti Alliance; Arturo Di Pietie, one of the editors of the Italian newspaper Il Nuovo Mondo; Richard Brazier and Ena Sormenty, an Italian editor. Miss Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Secretary of the Sacco-Vanzetti Emergency Committee of New York, presided.

A letter was received from Clarence Darrow expressing the opinion that Sacco and Vanzetti should have a new trial and that he would do "everything in my power in their behalf." A telegram of endorsement was also received from Congressman F. H. LaGuardia.

SACCO DEFENDERS SEEK TALK WITH GOV. FULLER

French Lawyers Endeavor Vainly to Present Manifesto on Behalf of Murderers.

PARIS, Nov. 17 (AP).—Governor Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, who is visiting in Paris, was sought today by a group of French lawyers anxious to meet him so that they might intervene on behalf of Nicolo Sacco and Bartholomeo Vanzetti, convicted of murder in the Bay State.

The lawyers, among whom was Jean Longuet, a grandson of the noted Socialist writer Karl Marx, had signed a manifesto asking for the liberation of the convicted radicals. When they were unable to discover the Governor's whereabouts they decided to draft a petition and to send it to the United States Embassy with a request that it be forwarded to Governor Fuller.

The Governor spent a busy day shopping with his family and was not molested by any Sacco-Vanzetti sympathizers. He is being closely guarded by the French authorities to prevent any possible untoward incidents.

PICK CAPITAL SITES FOR NEW BUILDINGS

Public Buildings Commissioners Approve Plans for Beautification of Washington.

TO USE 24 CITY BLOCKS

WILL HOUSE 9 DEPARTMENTS

Project Will Be Financed Under $50,000,000 Omnibus Building Appropriation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The greatest step taken in more than a quarter of a century toward the beautification of Washington became known today when the Public Buildings Commission approved a general plan for the use of the south front of Pennsylvania Avenue from the Botanic Gardens to the Treasury Department for new public buildings.

The project contemplates the use of twenty-four city blocks, some already owned by the Government, for new homes for the Departments of Commerce and Justice and other important structures embraced in the $50,000,000 omnibus building program that Congress approved last winter.

After the commission's session, which was attended by Secretary Mellon, Senator Smoot, Chairman of the commission, announced that the following locations had been designated for various departments:

Department of Justice, facing Pennsylvania Avenue between Fifteenth and Fourteenth Streets, and extending not quite to D Street.

Department of Commerce in the rear from Fifteenth to Fourteenth, and south to B Street.

General Supply Building, Fourteenth to Thirteenth Street, south from D Street, not quite to C Street.

New Supreme Court Home.

Independent Offices Building, Thirteenth to Twelfth, and from C to B Streets.

Department of Labor, Fourteenth to Thirteenth, C to B Street.

Internal Revenue, Twelfth to Tenth, C to B Street.

General Accounting Office, Tenth to Ninth, C to B Street.

The commission also decided to proceed with the acquisition of land in the square north of the Congressional Library as a site for the United States Supreme Court Building. At the present time the Supreme Court is crowded into the Capitol Building, with inadequate space for the Justices and for the proper handling of the business of the highest tribunal.

The erection of a new Supreme Court Building there would wipe out the building once known as the "Old Brick Capitol," where John C. Calhoun died, now used as headquarters of the National Women's Party.

Senator Smoot said the Commerce and Archives Buildings would be among the first of the group in the Pennsylvania Avenue triangle to be erected.

In making known the commission's intention to work for the acquisition and improvement of the entire Mall-Pennsylvania Avenue triangle, Senator Smoot said he would ask Congress for authority to carry it out. The commission's plan is to go as far as possible with the initial appropriation in beginning the $50,000,000 program.

Huge Commerce Building.

The commission also settled the future of the Patent Office, deciding that it should be centralized with all other branches of the Commerce Department in the new structure planned for that department respect."

The historic old Patent Office, however, will not be disturbed, Senator Smoot stated. He would not go further than to say it would be used for some Government agency. One suggestion was that the Interstate Commerce Commission might be housed there.

The new Commerce Building will contain 1,000,000 feet of floor space, and near by will be a large court to accommodate 1,800 parked automobiles.

Announcement that the huge Commerce Building would be placed between Fourteenth and Fifteenth Streets, north of B Street, means that the Mall is to be saved from the encroachment which would have resulted had an earlier suggestion that the Commerce Building be placed south of B Street been accepted.

GUILTY AS SLAYER OF NEWSPAPER MAN

Dwyer's Manslaughter Plea Accepted—Victim's Wife Admits Men Were Rivals.

A plea of guilty to manslaughter in the first degree was entered yesterday by Gerald Dwyer, 27 years old, formerly a newspaper man in Washington and Brooklyn, before Judge Koenig in General Sessions. He shot and killed Joseph Ruffner, 34 years old, also a newspaper man, in front of Ruffner's home at 209 West Ninety-seventh Street on Oct. 3. Judge Koenig remanded Dwyer for sentence next Wednesday. Dwyer may receive from ten to twenty years.

Dwyer had been indicted for murder in the first degree. His plea to the lesser offense was offered by Maurice Mock and Harry Schulman, who had been assigned by the court to defend him. In recommending the acceptance of the plea, Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers said:

"The deceased's wife, 21 years old, as a joke was induced by her husband to telephone the defendant while all were in Washington, and make an engagement with him, the purpose being later to invite the defendant to his home and enjoy a laugh at his expense. The wife did as her husband requested, and this led to such a degree of intimacy between the defendant and the wife of the deceased that in June, when her husband came to New York to take a position on The Bronx Home News, she did not come with him but traveled to various cities in company of the defendant.

"Dwyer and the woman came to New York later, and she left him and went to live with her husband, who was boarding at 209 West Ninety-seventh Street. There is reason to believe that the deceased was fully aware of the intimacy between his wife and the defendant."

ASKS SUPPORT HERE FOR AVON THEATRE

Head of Shakespeare Memorial Explains the Project at Wall Street Luncheon.

$1,000,000 TO BE RAISED

Cutting From Old Mulberry Tree Planted by Poet Will Be Offered to Central Park.

Archibald Flower, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon, England, was guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday that brought financiers, clerics, Shakespearean scholars, lawyers, publishers and persons connected with the stage together at the Bankers' Club. The luncheon was held under auspices of the American Shakespeare Committee, which is cooperating with the British committee in raising $1,000,000 for replacing the old memorial theatre which was destroyed by fire last March. Otto Kahn, honorary treasurer of the American committee, who presided at the luncheon, welcomed Mr. Flower "in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Shakespeare."

Mr. Flower, who described himself as a "plain business man who was drawn to Shakespeare originally because he was such an extraordinary sportsman," explained the necessity for a new memorial threatre at the birthplace of the poet and declared that Shakespeare was a "more potent influence than many leagues of nations."

Architect Not Yet Named.

It was Mr. Flower's uncle who built the original theatre in Stratford forty-eight years ago. The new theatre, Mr. Flower said, would be placed so that it could be seen from four sides, from the Kenilworth approach to Stratford, from the River Avon, from the church where rest Shakespeare's bones, and from the direction of the cottage of Anne Hathaway. The architect is still to be selected "from a list of English-speaking architects." Cass Gilbert, President of the National Academy of Design, is an American representative on the jury to select the designs for the theatre.

Mr. Flower, who was for six years Mayor of Stratford-on-Avon, came to America at the invitation of the American Shakespeare Committee.

Dr. Appleton Morgan, President of the New York Shakespeare Society, expressed his gratitude to Mr. Flower for the gift of a cutting from the old mulberry tree planted by Shakespeare in Stratford. Dr. Morgan said he would offer the young tree to Mayor Walker for planting in Central Park.

Among those at the luncheon were Sir Harry Armstrong, George P. Baker, Julius Bache, Barron Collier, John W. Davis, John Drew, Dr. James H. Darlington, Bishop of Harrisburg, Pa.; Dr. Horace Howard Furness Jr., Cass Gilbert, Brock Pemberton, Major George Haven Putnam, Elihu Root, Augustus Thomas, Lady Armstrong, Mrs. Baker, Julia Marlowe, and Mrs. Putnam.

Frank Sheridan, Pianist, Plays.

Frank Sheridan, pianist, returned to the Town Hall last evening, as he will again in mid-December, in a series of recitals of an ambitious order. In Beethoven's "Appassionata" sonata, which he preceded with the C-major rondo last night, he made a showing of serious musicianship that conveyed measurably the character of Beethoven's brooding and fateful mood as an artist of broad stroke and larger canvases. Mr. Sheridan added a Chopin and Brahms group, another of Ravel, Debussy and Rachmaninoff, and a polonaise of Liszt.

Marguerite Valentine Plays in Dark.

Marguerite Valentine, playing on a darkened stage at Aeolian Hall last evening, made a central feature of her piano recital the B minor sonata of Liszt. Miss Valentine gave a graceful charm to old works of Mozart, Veracini, Scarlatti, and a Schumann novelette, while in conclusion there were pieces by Chopin, Grieg, Leschetizky and Cyril Scott. A performance technically accomplished, personally pleasing, treated Trojan and Tyrian justly, without forcing a note of profundity such as the chief selection demanded least of all.

Recitation of "Peer Gynt" Tonight.

Marie Collins Rooney will give a recitation of William Archer's translation of Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" at the School of Irish Studies, 6 East Twelfth Street, tonight at 8:30 P. M. She will be accompanied by Jane Kavanagh, who will play illustrative Grieg music.

"The Constant Nymph" Here Dec. 9.

The opening of "The Constant Nymph" in New York is announced for Thursday night, Dec. 9, at the Selwyn Theatre. The play is a dramatization of Margaret Kennedy's novel, by Miss Kennedy and Basil Dean, and is being produced here by Mr. Dean and George C. Tyler.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Leon Errol will be the star of "Yours Truly," the musical comedy which Gene Buck will produce.

Bela Lugosi will appear in "The Devil in the Cheese," which Charles Hopkins is producing.

"The Witch," with Alice Brady as its star, will open tonight at the Greenwich Village Theatre.

Rehearsals of the new Sam Bernard musical show will begin next week. William B. Friedlaender is the producer.

Willie Howard has returned to the "Scandals" after an absence due to illness. George White acted his roles during his absence.

"The Desert Song" will open at the Casino on Tuesday, Nov. 30, instead of the 29th.

The Phil Werner Producing Company, a new producing firm of which Philip Winorsky and Michael Goldreyer are the managing directors, plans the early production of a play by Martin Brown.

Performances of "The Little Clay Cart" will be resumed at the Neighborhood Playhouse, and will be continued without interruption until Dec. 12.

The Intimate Playhouse, at 2,135 Boston Road will stage a revue on Wednesday night of next week.

Gilbert's "The Palace of Truth," which the Threshold Matinee Theatre is presenting at the Princess, will be acted on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons for the remainder of the month.

"The Hero and the Nymph," a Hindu play, will be produced by the Union of East and West at the International House, 500 Riverside Drive, on Friday, Nov. 26.

Edgar McGregor has returned from London, where he went to produce "Queen High." He brought back a French play entitled "Lord and Master," and a new play for Bertha Kalich.

A play entitled "Meek-Mose," whose author is unannounced, will be produced soon by Jack Goldberg. It calls for a negro cast.

Jacques Copeau will give ten lectures and dramatic readings at the American Laboratory Theatre during January. The lectures, which will be in English, will be given on Sunday afternoons, and the readings, in French, on Wednesdays and Fridays.

The first "Andrea Chenier" of the New York Metropolitan season was given last night in the Broadway lyric theatre. The performance was brilliantly effective. This is an opera secure in the affections of the public, and it is produced with special competency by the company that mounted it last night. The elaborate scenic investure, the melodrama treatment of the subject and scenes of the French Revolution by the composer find ample and excellent representation at the Metropolitan.

The cast included Florence Easton, the Madeleine, and Beniamino Gigli, Chenier. Giuseppe Danise was the Gerard; Adamo Didur, Mathieu; Angelo Bada, the Spy; Grace Anthony, Bersi; Ina Bourskaya, the Countess; George Cehanovsky, Fleville; Giordano Paltrinieri, the Abbe. Mr. Serafin conducted. All of the leading parts were taken with authority, and some of them with exceptional capacity. Mr. Gigli, of course, aroused unlimited enthusiasm, and applause more than once interrupted his performance. He was in excellent voice and made the most of his opportunities in song, even though the part of Chenier is not best suited for a voice of Mr. Gigli's quality.

Miss Easton, excellent as a vocalist and musicianly interpreter, did ample justice to Giordano's music. Mr. Danise's Gerard reached its climax in the third act. He sang it with unction and with prevailingly good tone quality.

The chorus's part in this opera is vital, and in its performance the Metropolitan chorus acquitted itself with familiarity and mastery of its music. There was, finally, Mr. Serafin, making the most of Giordano's telling orchestral effects, amalgamating the tone of the instruments and the voices, and in various ways demonstrating his knowledge of his business and his musicianly temperament.

The theatre was packed. The enthusiasm of the audience resulted in many curtain calls for the singers.

MRS. PAT CAMPBELL HERE TO ACT A PLAY

English Actress, on Her First Visit to America Since 1915, Seeks Manager for Comedy.

SIR ALFRED BUTT ARRIVES

British Producer Comes to See "Oh Key" and Other Musical Shows He Might Stage in London.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the English actress, who in private life is Mrs. Cornwallis-West, arrived yesterday on the Majestic, from England after an absence of eleven years. Her last appearance in New York was in 1915 at Wallack's Theatre in Shaw's "Pygmalion," now being played at the Guild Theatre.

Mrs. Campbell said she had brought over a comedy by Fred Whitney, a young English playwright, and hopes to find some manager here to produce it and give her a leading rôle. She added that her friends, Mrs. Fiske and Margaret Anglin, would be consulted by her about the play.

In England, she said, there was very little money to be made and that was why she and so many others in the theatrical business were coming here where they were told $1,500 a week is not regarded as a large salary for an actor or actress.

"I have been told there are two or more theatres in a single block in New York," she continued. "That is because all the English gold comes here. It is wondsrful. I hope I can get one of those jobs."

Sir Alfred Butt Here.

Sir Alfred Butt, managing director of the Theatre Royal, Drury Lane and several other theatres and cinema houses in London, arrived yesterday on the Majestic with Lady Butt to see "Oh, Kay," and any other musical comedy that might be worth while taking back to England with him. He said that "Rose Marie" had been packing Drury Lane Theatre for two years and was still going strong. Two other American plays, "Queen High," and "Lady Be Good," were also big successes.

"The old Empire Theatre in Leicester Square is being pulled down," said Sir Alfred Butt, "and on its site we intend to construct the finest moving picture playhouse in the world. It will be ready to open before the end of March, 1928. Theatrical business is doing well in London and the cinema houses are also making money."

FLORA COLLINS IN DEBUT.

Attractive Personality Adds to Sweet, Tuneful Mezzo Voice.

Flora Collins, accompanied by her mother, Lillie Sang Collins, made her New York début in a recital at Town Hall yesterday afternoon. An attractive personality enhanced the charm of a sweet and tuneful mezzo-soprano. It could be deduced that Miss Collins had enjoyed the advantages of good tuition, her production (except in a few higher tones) was natural and unforced, and she sang with taste and feeling. The quality of cheerfulness in her tones, added to excellent diction, gave the right interpretative color to her old English songs, while the aria from Boito's "Mefistofele" assured the audience of the flexibility of the singer's voice.

The same sweetness of character and vocal purity could be felt and appreciated in Schubert's "Au dem Wasser zu Singen"; in the more emotional, therefore heavier, number, "Inder Ferne," by the same composer, and Gretchamnoff's "Over the Steppe," made demands a little too exacting for the natural texture of the young singer's voice. A very beautiful and difficult group of Fauré songs displayed the keen sense of pitch possessed by Miss Collins.

Miss Collins has a special gift for the lyric, and is at her best when she does not try songs that seem to overburden her forces.

GIVE AMERICAN CONCERT.

Spelding, Powell, Tibbett, Anne Case in Benefit Which Nets $4,000.

An all-American concert for the benefit of the Maternity Centre Association of New York netted $4,000 for that charity last evening at Carnegie Hall. A speaker prefaced the long program with a request that, since each of the four artists who furnished the music had several appearances in turn, there should be no requests for encores.

Albert Spalding played three groups for violin, John Powell two for piano, and there were airs from "Otello" for Lawrence Tibbett and from "La Bohème" for Anna Case, the two singers closing with a duet from "Don Giovanni."

LASKY OFFER OF $75,000 TEMPTS G. B. SHAW

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—George Bernard Shaw recently received an offer of $75,000 from Jesse Lasky for the screen rights of "Cashel Byron's Profession," according to The Daily Express. Lasky, it is stated, conceived the idea of starring Gene Tunney in a pugilistic film play and thought Shaw's early boxing novel would serve as the champion's vehicle.

Shaw replied that he would like to think the matter over. He thought the novel worth $350,000, but admitted that he might change his mind. Later he instructed his New York lawyers to ask Lasky for $100,000 coupled with the suggestion, so it is said, that Dempsey should appear as the villain of the story.

Lasky refused to pay $100,000, but repeated his offer of $75,000.

TO GREET CECILE SOREL.

Welcome Committee Is Headed by the French Consul General.

Cecile Sorel, the noted French dramatic actress of the Comédie Français, Paris, will arrive Saturday forenoon on the Cunarder Berengaria to appear under the Shubert management and will make her début in the "Maitresse de Roi" at the Cosmopolitan Theatre on Tuesday, Nov. 29.

The distinguished actress will be met at the Cunard pier, foot of West Fourteenth Street, by a welcome committee headed by M. Mongendre, Consul General for France in New York, and among those invited by him to take part are former United States Ambassador to Spain Alexander P. Moore, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Daniel Frohman, Elisabeth Marbury, MacDougall Hawkes, President of the French Institute in the United States; Anita Loos, Charles Wagner, Eva Le Gallienne and others.

For a half hour before the doors opened for the first performance in the new Yiddish Art Theatre last evening, at Twelfth Street and Second Avenue, sufficient drama and conflict of purpose occurred in the street. At 8 o'clock, the hour set for the curtain-rising, preparations inside were not quite complete, and no one could be admitted. Impetuous theatregoers, clutching tickets for the invitation performance, increased in numbers, jostled one another good-naturedly and surged down in scattered formation upon the closed doors. Policemen struggled to arrange the crowd in line; but if any one was slightly bewildered, no one appeared to be much upset. It was an amiable throng of friendly theatregoers, eager to assist at the opening of a new playhouse in the heart of the Jewish East Side—an amiable throng and a picturesque one, too.

By 8:30 the uneasy gathering, augmented by late comers, was not to be denied. With three policemen at the door, who seemed to enjoy the spectacle, and a police lieutenant, who obviously enjoyed it less, the audience began to squeeze through one door. Additional confusion was caused by duplication of some tickets. For the opening of the new theatre had been postponed and some tickets for the second public performance, originally scheduled for last evening, were presented in good faith at the door, all of which required additional explanation. In the meantime many of the dignitaries of the town cooled their heels outside or squeezed their stiffness in the mob. Otto Kahn, Daniel Frohman, Owen Davis, Robert Milton, Fannie Hurst and others had more difficulty entering a theatre than they are likely to have again.

The new Yiddish Art Theatre, built by Louis N. Jaffe, is, as Maurice Schwartz, the enterprising director, says in the program, "the culmination of a lifelong dream." It is a pleasing and commodious playhouse, compact in architecture, and decorated inside with Oriental orders. Without being in the least ostentatious, it is strikingly beautiful in its design and realization.

One paragraph in Mr. Jaffe's program note sets forth the ideal of his institution: "Of the many reasons which prompted my building the Yiddish Art Theatre, one strikes me as the most significant. It had occurred to me that a certain phase of Jewish life in America was disintegrating. Every one admits that the intimate contact between the Old World and the New as seen in the United States is gradually disappearing. Those Jews who immigrated to this country find themselves vastly separated from their sons and daughters and their grandchildren. The theatre, usually recognized as a bond in the community, has certainly not been a factor in establishing contact between father and son, mother and daughter. It is my hope that the Yiddish Art Theatre will in a certain sense reconcile the new and the old generation."

For his first performance in the new theatre Mr. Schwartz has chosen "The Tenth Commandment," a fantasy set to music, written in the early '80s by Abraham Goldfaden, originally produced in New York in 1887 under the direction of the author, who died in 1908. The version used in the present production is a free adaptation of the original. For American monolinguists and other subnormals an extended program note in English recounts the tortuous course of this piece through three acts and sixteen scenes. Based upon the theology of the orthodox Jew, it revolves about the evil impulse and the good, represented in the play by the devil and the angel. These two struggle for the mastery of Peretz, a wealthy and religious Hassid of Nemirov.

Peretz, it seems, is married to a fabulously pious wife, whose kisses favor the prayerbook more than her husband. On the other hand, Ludwig in Berlin is married to a voluptuous and imperious woman. Naturally, each one believes the other to be better off; and the devil, in his low manner, contrives to bring an exchange about. Engaged in such supernatural affairs, the play wanders through the earth, over hill and dale, and finally drags through hell and up to Heaven, where all wrongs are righted and conjugal bliss is firmly established.

Like the theatre, the performance obviously is not thoroughly finished. Mr. Schwartz has embellished it with eerie masks, chants, dances, tableaux, comic bits, pieces of buffoonery and several elaborate settings. Treated freely, the performance is animated; the costuming and make-ups are broad and fantastic. None of the rigidity of the Anglo-Saxon theatre cramps Mr. Schwartz's style as a director. Sometimes he sets the scenery ingeniously before the audience. Although the performance as a whole seems now, in its unfinished state, rather too loose for continuous enjoyment, the individual parts are played with spirit. The gestures are free, the voice intonations are varied and flexible, and the moods swing quickly from sombre to farce or burlesque.

In sum, these Yiddish actors reveal the true theatrical quality. Every now and then those who are accustomed to the English-speaking theatre suddenly discover the magic gift of life on the Yiddish stage. In the temperament of his players Mr. Schwartz has the genuine dramatic substance at his disposal.

Hartman Quartet Plays at Hunter.

The Hartman Quartet played last night at Hunter College before a large audience. Mozart and Grieg quartets were performed with interest and vitality. The members of the quartet are: Arthur Hartman, first violin; Walter Edelstein, second violin; Mitya Stillman, viola, and Naoum Benditzky, 'cello. The usual interpretive remarks were made by Dr. Henry T. Fleck.

Moritz Rosenthal, Pianist, Arrives.

Professor Moritz Rosenthal, Polish pianist, arrived yesterday on the Majestic from Warsaw, where he spent a portion of the Summer. He will make a six-months concert tour in this country.

DOROTHY MACKAILL WEDS LOTHAR MENDES

Because Lowell Sherman had a matinee engagement to fulfill, Dorothy Mackaill, English motion picture actress, and Lothar Mendes, German director, were able to get married yesterday afternoon at the leisurely hour of 4 instead of during a short noon interlude as they had planned. The ceremony was performed in the Municipal Building, where a concatenation of camera clicks took the place of a wedding march.

Throughout the morning hours Miss Mackaill, Mr. Mendes and Mr. Sherman were busy with the making of a new picture. According to original plans the two were to be married in lieu of eating lunch. They had planned to spend the first afternoon of their married life "on location," but the picture suddenly and obligingly reached a stage where Mr. Sherman's presence was absolutely required. And as that actor could not be present, the actress and director decided to call off work altogether and devote the whole afternoon to the matter of marriage.

At 4 o'clock, then, City Clerk Michael J. Cruise pronounced them one. The official witnesses were Richard A. Rowland, President of First National Pictures Corporation, and Louella O. Parsons, screen critic, of 50 West Forty-fourth Street, but many others were present, ranging from friends to the merely curious. The bride wore a velvet cornflower blue dress with steel beads, a hat to match and a beaver coat. The bridegroom was attired in dark clothes.

After the ceremony the two went to the Hotel Marguery on Park Avenue, where they will stay until their picture is completed, some weeks from now. They will resume work this morning.

Miss Mackaill gave her age as 21 and her birthplace as Hull, England. She landed in America in 1920 and her first job was in the "Ziegfeld Follies." Later she went into the movies. Mr. Mendes, who is 33 years old, gave his birthplace as Berlin, Germany. He has directed pictures for UFA in Germany and came to this country last Summer to direct for Robert Kane. Last Monday night he asked Miss Mackaill to marry him. On the same Monday night she said "Yes."

Ethel Barrymore in New Role Nov. 29

Ethel Barrymore, in "The Constant Wife," is announced to open at the Maxine Elliott Theatre on Monday night, Nov. 29. The play is a comedy by Somerset Maugham, and is being produced by the Charles Frohman company. Miss Barrymore's company will include Mabel Terry-Lewis, Cora Witherspoon, Veree Teasdale, Jeanette Sherwin, C. Aubrey Smith, Frank Conroy, Walter Kingsford and Thomas A. Braiden.

LYCEUM THEATRE West 45th St.—Eves. 8:30. Mats. Today and Sat., 2:30. FIRST MAT. TODAY

The play is rich in entertainment value; the story is of a woman who cannot choose between two men. In rapid, vivid scenes the life she has lived in other ages flashes before you. First we find her in Norman England, accused of murdering a husband to favor a lover, condemned to burn at the stake; next she is a famous actress of the time of Charles II., beloved of London, sought by the King; then she is a quiet, sweet lady of early New York shaping the lives of men. The drama is full of romance, beauty and exciting scenes. Primarily it is thrillingly entertaining; and when you leave the theatre you take away with you something to think about. "The Ladder" was produced by Brock Pemberton. It was written by J. Frank Davis. It is acted by an excellent company of players. It is at the Chanin-Mansfield Theatre, West 47th St. Next Matinee Saturday.
MOVES NEXT MONDAY TO WALDORF THEATRE.

$1,250,000 IN PENSIONS FROM CARNEGIE FUND

Distributions During Last Year Bring Total to $15,000,000—Board Elects Officers.

During the year just ended the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching distributed $1,250,000 in retiring allowances and pensions, bringing the total of distributions of that kind up to $15,000,000, according to a report made yesterday at the twenty-first annual meeting of the trustees, held in the offices of the Foundation at 522 Fifth Avenue. In addition to its permanent endowment of $16,250,000 the Foundation now has reserve funds totaling $12,750,000.

There was general discussion concerning the income, expenditure, accumulation and investment of the funds of the Foundation as these were presented in the annual reports of the President and the Treasurer.

Other subjects discussed were the Foundation's studies of pensions, studies of a plan of retiring allowances for officers and teachers in the public schools of Virginia issued this year and the undertaking of similar studies for Delaware and Colorado.

The trustees authorized the publication of studies of dental education and present-day law schools and of games and sports in British schools and universities and discussed studies of comparative educational opportunities and conceptions in Europe and the United States, which are in progress.

For the fourth time in its history the board assembled without a vacancy in its membership.

President Henry Suzzallo of the University of Washington was elected Chairman of the Board, President Rush Rhees of the University of Rochester, Vice Chairman, and President Frank Aydelotte of Swarthmore College, Secretary. Sir Robert Falconer, President of the University of Toronto, and President Frederick Ferry of Hamilton College were elected members of the Executive Committee.

Dr. Henry A. Tupper Stricken.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (AP).—The Rev. Dr. Henry Allen Tupper, former pastor of First Baptist Church, now a resident of Philadelphia, suffered a stroke of paralysis while at the Merchants Bank and Trust Company today.

He was in a semiconscious condition when taken to Emergency Hospital in the ambulance. Dr. F. Ernest Mitchell was summoned to attend him. At the hospital tonight it was stated that his condition was much improved.

Emperor Yoshihito Much Better.

TOKIO, Nov. 17 (AP).—The condition of Emperor Yoshihito was reported much improved today. He recently contracted bronchitis but had been in ill health for some time prior to that, following attacks of cerebral anemia.

HOLD LITTLE HOPE FOR TRAPPED MINERS

Lehigh Officials Begin Pumping Out Flooded Tomhicken Colliery Where 6 Were Caught.

Special to The New York Times.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 17.—With the gap in the raging Black Creek closed up and further rush of water into the workings shut off, officials of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company tonight began pumping out the No. 8 slope at its Tomhicken colliery, where six men were entombed late yesterday afternoon by a flood.

Small hope is held out that the men are still alive. Their only chance was to escape from the inner slope to a chamber in a higher level which was not reached by the water. The entire workings are inundated and it will take from three days to a week to reach the spot where the men were trapped.

Henry Kirchdorfer, the foreman, who was one of the six, was thoroughly familiar with every avenue of escape possible and if he and the others had time to avoid the heavy flow of water when the break came, they may be safe. This, however, is only a remote possibility.

The section where the men were caught is known as an inside slope, located below the level of the shaft at the bottom of the plane reaching from the surface. They were engaged in trying to plug up sections where water began to come in during yesterday's storm. The other workers had gone home because of the danger of flood.

The accident recalled a similar one occurring on Dec. 4, 1891, at Jeanesville, near here, when an old mine was tapped and the workings were flooded, catching seventeen men. Four were taken out alive after nineteen days, during which time they subsisted on the flesh of drowned mine mules and drank sulphur water.

SHOPS WEIGH NIGHT PLAN.

Macy Proposal for Deliveries Aimed to Cut Traffic Congestion.

A suggestion made by R. H. Macy & Co. to reduce daytime traffic congestion by making merchandise deliveries at night, has been put in questionnaire form by the Merchants Association and is being distributed among its membership. The suggestion is that all deliveries of business houses between Fourteenth and Fifty-ninth Streets be effected during the night and early morning.

The questionnaire points out that this proposal would require that receiving departments of all firms in the area be kept open at night; that shipping departments of firms sending merchandise into that area be kept open at night; that night shifts of freight handlers and clerks be maintained at railroad stations and steamship piers to handle the forwarding of merchandise, and that trucking service be reorganized to meet the demand for night and day service.

EVELINA P. GLEAVES TO WED A. M. COHEN

Rear Admiral's Daughter Is Engaged to Former Commander in U. S. Navy.

FIANCE HONORED BY FRANCE

Miss Katherine Hosking of Pelham Manor Is Betrothed to Charles Jowett Parsons.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Rear Admiral and Mrs. Albert Gleaves today announced the engagement of their daughter, Evelina Porter Gleaves, and Albert Morris Cohen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Cohen of Philadelphia.

Mr. Cohen is a former Commander in the United States Navy and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1907. He served on the staff of Admiral Badger, who was Commander-in-Chief of the United States Atlantic Fleet during the Mexican campaign. In the World War he served on the George Washington in the cruiser and transport force under Vice Admiral Gleaves and later in aviation forces in France, for which service he received the Cross of the Legion of Honor from the French Government.

He is now in civil life in Philadelphia and is a member of the Rittenhouse, Philadelphia Country and Army and Navy Clubs.

MANY CALL ON COOLIDGE.

Society, Agriculture, Sports and Other Activities Represented.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—English society, American agriculture, international sports and other activities were represented by more than 100 visitors who called at the White House today to pay their respects to President Coolidge.

The Duchess of Hamilton, Lady Marguerite Hamilton and Miss Lyade Hageby of Londoa were presented to Mr. Coolidge by Henry G. Chilton, British Chargé d'Affaires in Washington. Secretary Jardine introduced 100 Deans and Presidents of agricultural colleges who are here to discuss with Government officials questions pertaining to the farm and farm life.

The Olympic Committee, headed by General Charles H. Sherrill, its American representative, called in a body and each received a handshake from the President.

SIX YEARS HE MET STORMS.

Hotel Man Encounters His Ninth on Trip From Havana.

When the Panama-Pacific liner Manchuria docked yesterday two weary passengers from Havana, Walter Rogers, hotel manager, and his wife, Vera, were told that New York had just gone through a bad wind and rain storm.

"That confirms my prediction," Mr. Rogers said. "I was wondering seriously whether I would have a hurricane follow me to New York."

For six years Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have been harassed by storms along the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea. When they boarded the Manchuria at Havana Mr. Rogers told the Captain that he feared another storm. Sure enough, his ninth experience came soon afterward, when the ship ran head on into a hurricane off Cape Hatteras which smashed windows, tore off parts of the ship's railing and carried away some of the Rogers's clothing from their stateroom.

They lived through six storms in Bermuda. Then Mr. Rogers took over a hotel in Miami, and was just in time for the great hurricane. They finally moved to Havana, where they encountered the recent storm.

"Now we are in New York," Mrs Rogers said, "and we hope we have found refuge from any more similar experiences."

BRONX SCHOOL STONE LAID.

Building and Site for Roosevelt High to Cost $3,000,000.

The cornerstone of the Theodore Roosevelt High School, the first high school to be started under the Walker Administration, was laid yesterday morning. It is to be ready for occupancy next September, and will be at Fordham Road, opposite Fordham University. The building and site will cost more than $3,000,000.

William J. Weber of the Board of Education laid the cornerstone and brief addresses were made by President of the Board of Education George J. Ryan, Superintendent of Schools Dr. William J. O'Shea and William R. Hayward, Principal of the Theodore Roosevelt High School, which was organized eight years ago and has been housed in parts of four elementary schools in the Bronx.

Thanksgiving Hospitality Suggests
Furniture from Hathaway's

When good marksmanship won a piece of Fine Furniture

In "Social New York under the Georges"—Esther Singleton says: "Sometimes a shooting-match was held in the form of sweepstakes, the prize being some object of value instead of money." One advertisement (1753) read:

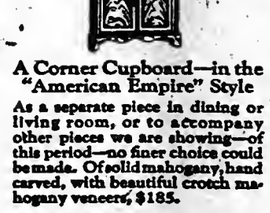
"To be shot for, a good mahogany chest of drawers, with eagles' claw feet, a shell on each knee, and fluted corners, with good brass work and locks." An admirable description of a fine piece of furniture cherished as much then as it is today!

Of Sheraton and Early American Influence—$560

The handsome double pedestal table is reminiscent of Duncan Phyfe. The woods so skillfully used are the costliest real American walnut with decorative overlays of East India satinwood. Worthy of note are the beautifully shaped Sideboard, and the Chairs, upholstered with small patterned damask. Any piece sold separately, or the 10 pieces—$560.

HATHAWAY'S and home beauty are synonymous in the minds of many of New York's leading hostesses. They know that this Store concentrates not only on Furniture, but on good Furniture—influenced by the best of enduring styles.

Now—as Thanksgiving approaches—you are invited to see the special Dining Room groupings Hathaway's is displaying—from many of these separate pieces may be purchased!



A Corner Cupboard—in the "American Empire" Style

As a separate piece in dining or living room, or to accompany other pieces we are showing—of this period—no finer choice could be made. Of solid mahogany, hand carved, with beautiful crotch mahogany veneers, $185.

Love Seat—Special at $150

A rare value, as inspection will prove! Its back and arms have a very graceful roll, and the modified cabriole legs enhance its dainty lines. Covered with field cloth, or your own fabric.

A "Spanish" Dining Group—10 pieces—$475

You would enjoy leading guests into the dining room if your napery and silver were set off by the rich simplicity of this furniture! Dark, rubbed walnut and maple are its woods, with characteristic iron stretchers on china cabinet. Brocatelle is used to upholster the chair seats and backs.

Charming group for the Dining Room, walnut veneer and gumwood. Open stock, or 10 pieces $325

Apartment Dining Group in chestnut and oak. The chairs are upholstered in "antique" leather, and there are embossed leather panels on the china cabinet. 10 pcs. $340

Custom Made Upholstered Sofa and Armchair—with loose seat cushions, down-filled. Covered with field cloth or your own fabric. 2 pcs. $315

Cogswell Chair—custom-made with extra size cushion and cushion back, both down filled. Covered with field cloth $8[illegible] or your own fabric ...

Two-in-one Table—mahogany veneer and gumwood. For the combination living-dining room. A really handsome piece—closed: 54x22 inches. $4[illegible] Open: 54x36 inches ..

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregular Decline in Stocks—Money 4½%, Francs Reach Highest Since April.

Following the stationary markets of the day before, nearly all of yesterday's markets moved to some purpose. Wall Street perhaps paid most attention to the reduction of Stock Exchange money rates to 4½ per cent., for the first time during the week, and to the rather general decline in stocks which occurred along with it. But the franc's renewed advance was the really striking movement of the day.

A further rise of nearly ⅛ cent carried the franc to 3.43½ cents, the highest rate reached since April 13, and practically 1½ cents above the low figure of last Summer. This renewed advance did not occur in response to any fresh development of French finances, but rather to the growing sense of confidence that the problem of gold resumption will be successfully surmounted. At Paris, the pound sterling fell from 145 francs to 141 1-3; its present value, therefore, being nearly midway between the two alternative rates, 150 and 125, commonly named in Europe's markets as the possible "stabilization point."

Action of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday proved nothing except the extent to which purely transient and superficial speculation dominates the present swing of values. The recent trend of such movements having been upward, and average prices having risen about 5 points since the beginning of November, yesterday evidently witnessed increased professional profit-taking, and the day's average 1⅛-point decline was the result. Like the advance which had preceded, yesterday's downward reaction was very irregularly distributed. A considerable number of industrial shares lost 2 to 4 points, yet most of them regained part of the loss before the close and there were some net advances. Probably the most attention was paid to the 3⅝-point decline in United States Steel. But that stock had been bid up 7 or 8 points last week, on the basis of "rumors" which the company had to take the trouble of denying. That alternation fairly illustrates the character of the present market. Outside of financial markets, the day's noteworthy movement was the rise in cotton. It brought the spot price to the highest since Oct. 16—a week after the Government's 16,627,000-bale estimate and three weeks before the 17,918,000 forecast.

It appears, from the mid-week steel trade reviews, that production is now running about 3 per cent. lighter than in the preceding week, 10 per cent. or so under the October average and more than 5 per cent. below that of September. Last year, production in November exceeded that of the preceding month by 8 per cent. and ran fully 16 per cent. beyond September; it averaged above the present rate. The decrease at the moment is the basis for much of the talk of trade reaction. But the lighter Autumn business does not by any means indicate decreased general consumption as compared with a year ago. The Iron Age pointed out a week ago that our actual steel production, in the ten months ending with October, had exceeded 1925 by 3,672,000 tons, or more than 10 per cent.

Yesterday's report on railway traffic initiated during the first week of November shows surprisingly little slackening of the movement. The loadings decreased 79,222 cars from the week preceding, when the high point of the year was reached; but if the period reported on is considered a five-day week because of the election holiday, then its daily loadings would average larger than in the last week of October. This is not an exact method of measurement, and the decrease of election week has usually been followed by further progressive weekly decrease until the year-end. But other comparisons are more interesting.

For example, even with the lighter loadings of a holiday week, November is shown to have begun with an actual volume of traffic never equaled in any week on record until last September. The increase over the corresponding week in 1925 (also an election week) was nearly 7 per cent. A 6 per cent. average increase in loadings during the full month of September was translated into an increase of nearly 8 per cent. in the month's net operating income of the roads; which would indicate that, if traffic during the rest of November maintains the first week's relation to that of 1925, the month's railway profits will be nearly $9,000,000 above last year.

How Excess Inheritance Tax May Properly Be Avoided
The shrinkages in the value of many estates, due to inheritance and estate taxes, could be substantially reduced by proper precautions on the part of those creating the estate. How this result is to be accomplished is clearly outlined in our Booklet entitled "Why Estates Shrink." We suggest that you send for this Booklet No. 964.

BIG TRADE IN STOCK OF STANDARD OIL

Jersey Company's Preferred Shares Bought as Short Term Investment.

LISTED SALES TOTAL 12,000

New Subscription Rights Also in Demand, 173,400 Changing Hands on Exchange.

Heavy buying yesterday and on the preceding day of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey's 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock, which has been called for retirement on March 15 next, represents a demand from institutions which prefer these securities as a short-term investment, because of their superior yield, to the available short-term notes and certificates of the United States Government.

The total transactions in Standard of New Jersey preferred on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday amounted to about 12,000 shares, and the price ranged from a low of 117⅞ to a high of 117¾, with the closing quotation of 117¾ showing a net gain of ¾ point. Additional stock changed hands in private transactions, and the bulk of the buying came from institutions.

Trading in rights to subscribe to the new common stock of Standard of New Jersey was begun on the Exchange yesterday with an unusually heavy turnover. Fifty thousand rights changed hands in one transaction at 2¼. Total sales for the day were 173,400 and the price ranged from 2⅛ to 2⅜. The Committee on Securities of the Exchange ruled yesterday that rights may be dealt in on a when-issued basis on and after yesterday. Transactions in the rights must be settled by Dec. 21. The right to subscribe to additional common stock of the company will expire on Jan. 15, 1927. The company is to issue 3,449,317 shares of additional common to stockholders at par, $25, in the ratio of one share of additional stock for each six owned.

Another ruling issued by the Stock Exchange yesterday provided that transactions in the common stock of the company shall be ex-rights to subscribe to new stock on Nov. 26.

The offering of $120,000,000 of 5 per cent. debentures of the company by J. P. Morgan & Co. probably will not be made before the middle of next week. It was learned yesterday. The flotation will be only a nominally public offering, since the demand for the debentures from present holders of the preferred stock of Standard of New Jersey, who are to have preference in the allotments, will be sufficient to absorb a large part of the issue. The subscription books will be opened and quickly closed.

It is generally expected in Wall Street that the offering price will be 101, although it may be slightly higher than this. Transactions on a when-issued basis were reported yesterday a shigh as 102. Quotations in the outside market were said to have ranged from 101⅛ to 102⅜. Advance orders for the debentures continued to pour into the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co.

REFUSES TO STOP SALE FOR JAMESON GROUP

Federal Judge Takes Plea in Case of St. Paul Railroad Under Advisement.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today declined to halt the foreclosure sale of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, which is scheduled to take place on next Monday at Butte, Mont.

The Jameson Committee of bondholders, acting through Robert N. Golding as counsel, was responsible for the last-minute move to stop the sale. Mr. Golding submitted a petition to the Court for an immediate order permitting an appeal from Judge Wilkerson's order for the sale, entered on Sept. 28. Judge Wilkerson refused to pass upon the petition at once, announcing that he would take it under advisement. Counsel for the road's trustees thereupon said the sale would take place as planned. It was the second attempt on the part of the Jameson group to have the sale postponed.

Charles H. Spencer, roadway engineer for the Interstate Commerce Commission, was the principal witness of the day in the investigation being conducted into the road's affairs under the supervision of Frederick I. Cox, a member of the Commission.

Granting that excessive prices had been paid by the road in the construction of its Puget Sound Division, he said, this portion of the St. Paul system was "one of the finest pieces of railroad in the West." He added that in many instances the excess prices had been paid in order that completion might be rushed, and that in his belief no money was lost dishonestly in the construction of the division, which cost $99,000,000.

F. M. Kerr of the Montana Power Company testified that electric power was obtained by the road at a contract price below the cost of production. After 1925, he said, his company's contract with the road was not fulfilled because of the receivership.

STRAWN AT INDIA HOUSE.

Silas H. Strawn, Chairman of the International Commission on Extraterritorial Jurisdiction in China, discussed conditions in China at a luncheon of the American Asiatic Association in India House yesterday. Colonel Lloyd C. Griscom, President of the association, was Chairman. Others present were Elbert H Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, and E. P. Thomas, President of the United States Steel Products Company.

As the report of the commission will not be made public by the State Department for about a week, Mr. Strawn's remarks at the luncheon were not released. It was said after the luncheon, however, that the report would bear the signatures not only of the representatives of the fifteen foreign powers who conferred on extraterritoriality, but also of Wang Chunghui, representative of the Peking Government.

TREASURY WITHDRAWALS.

The United States Treasury Department will withdraw today $2,933,000 from depositary banks in this Federal Reserve district. The withdrawals from banks throughout the country will total $10,498,000.

The withdrawals this week, mostly in connection with the payment of $66,000,000 in interest on Liberty Loan bonds, have amounted to $55,488,000. After today there will remain $26,402,000 of Government funds on deposit in New York banks.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

A reactionary movement of stocks in the final hour on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday came after a fairly spirited advance during the first four hours of trading; the market closed with the large body of active stocks showing losses. Pressure on United States Steel common gave the signal, if Wall Street correctly appraised the situation, for the selling movement which got under way in the late transactions. This stock's net loss of 3⅜ points was the widest break that had appeared in it in almost exactly a month.

Implement Stocks Decline.

An uncommonly wide break in agricultural implement stocks caused comment in stock market circles. No satisfactory explanation was offered. Advance Rumely preferred sold off for a net loss of 6⅞ points, J. I. Case Threshing Machine was down 10⅞ points at the close of the market and International Harvester ended the day with a net loss of 3⅛ points. That the stocks of such a group of representative implement companies should break so sharply was considered strange. Wall Street found it difficult to locate any recent development in the economic situation of the agricultural sections to account for the selling pressure.

Return of Capital to France.

Yesterday's rise in the franc to its highest price in seven months and 77 per cent. above the rate of July 20, followed publication of estimates made in Paris that 80 per cent. of the French balances accumulated abroad since the war had been taken back to France in the last three months. It was declared in banking circles, however, that there was not the remotest chance of arriving at the exact amount of money involved in such transfers. "Exportation of capital," it was explained, covers a wide range of operations. Since it is against a French law and the money sent out of the country was transferred sub rosa, the bankers here in closest touch with French affairs would be the last to be advised of it for obvious reasons. The principal manner in which balances were built up here and in other foreign countries, however, was through commercial exports, in which the French sellers permitted the proceeds to remain on deposit in the foreign countries. Bankers, however, said there was no doubt that money sent out of France has been returning in very large quantities recently.

U. S. Steel's Dividends.

While Elbert H. Gary's statement of Tuesday as Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation seemed to be an emphatic denial, Wall Street yesterday resumed the popular pastime of trying to predict the date of the long-expected extra distribution by United States Steel. Mr. Gary's statement was interpreted in various ways. Many persons, whose wish may have fathered the thought, asserted that the dividend declarations of the Steel Corporation never were determined upon until shortly before action is taken. For this reason, they professed to feel that nothing that Mr. Gary had said could be construed as precluding the possibility of favorable action after the first of the year. Other commentators, who appeared to represent the majority opinion in the light of the sharp decline in Steel common, insisted that all hope of any special disbursement to stockholders within the next several months must be abandoned.

***

Silence on the Loree Plan.

L. F. Loree, who ordinarily talks freely on subjects that interest him, explains his silence regarding the "missing link" in his proposed eastern railroad system as due to a special request made by the Interstate Commerce Commission that he refrain from making his plan public. In railway circles, however, it was believed that there were other sufficient reasons for keeping it quiet, chief among which was the fact that almost all of Mr. Loree's ideas were diametrically opposed to those of Messrs. Atterbury, Willard and Crowley, and to give information regarding them would be simply to furnish aid to the opposition.

Railroad Superlatives.

One of the Wall Street statistical bureaus, in summing up the progress made by the railroads this year, lists several record achievements in 1926, as well as others which closely approach records. Records will be established by the roads this year, this bureau predicts in the following details: Gross revenues, net operating income, net income available for common stock, car loadings, net ton miles, taxes paid. In addition, the same analysis shows, they will have made the lowest transportation ratio since 1916 and the lowest operating ratio sin 1918. Records will have been attained also in 1926 in such technical factors as weight per train load, car miles per car day, traffic density and efficiency in locomotive fuel consumption. The rate of return on property investment (book accounts) will have been the highest since 1916.

***

Christmas Demand for Currency.

Bankers in the financial district look for a considerable expansion in Federal Reserve circulation during the next month, but doubt that this will have any particular effect on the money market or on the bank's statement because of the small likelihood of any sharp reduction in commercial borrowings between the present and the first of the year. The expected expansion in circulation is an annual affair due to the greater demand for currency during the holiday season.

***

Southern Railway Situation.

Granting of the right to appeal to the preferred stockholders of the Southern Railway in their case against the company does not, in the view of railway men, imply that the decision of Judge Crump denying their claims will be reversed. On the contrary, local railroad men and bankers incline to the opinion that the decision will stand, as the courts now have authority to interfere in the distribution of dividends by a company if that distribution is clearly defined in the corporation's charter. The directors held off the advance in the common dividend from 5 to 7 per cent. until they were convinced by Judge Crump's decision that the contentions of the holders of the preferred stock would not be upheld.

Complexities in Standard Oil Deal.

The complexities surrounding the offering of $120,000,000 of Standard Oil of New Jersey debentures continued yesterday to provide a basis for much discussion in Wall Street investment houses. Due to the fact that preference will be given to preferred stockholders in alloting the new issue, and the further fact that a total of $230,000,000 cash, or close to twice the amount of the new offering, will be paid to the preferred holders, there appeared to be difficulties in apportioning the debentures. For this reason it was believed there would be little or no supply for the general market, which was held to account for the premiums already being paid for the debentures on a when-issued basis. While there will be a public offering of the new securities, it is possible that this will be purely nominal, and that the bankers will announce in advance that all the debentures have been sold. The public offering is not expected to take place much before the middle of next week.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 17, 1926.

Stock Exchange call money was easy, rate dropping to 4½ per cent. after renewals had been arranged at 5. Money was in plentiful supply, so much so that there was a flow to the street market where 4¼@4 per cent. was made. Dealers gave it as their opinion that while recent stiffness in rates may have been due to Nov. 15 payments, that undoubtedly the bank call by the State was expected and banks were preparing themselves by "window-dressing." Time money continued firm at 4¾ per cent. for all maturities, a little four and six months' funds going that way.

New Issue

$11,250,000

The Potomac Edison Company

First Mortgage Gold Bonds
Series E 5%

Dated May 1, 1923 — Due November 1, 1953

Interest payable semi-annually May 1 and November 1 at the office or agency of the Company in New York and Chicago, without deduction for any Federal Income Tax now or hereafter deductible at the source, not in excess of 2%. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500 fully interchangeable and registerable as to principal only. Fully registered Bonds in denominations of $1,000. Redeemable, as a whole or in part, at any time, on four weeks' published notice to and including November 1, 1951 at 105 and accrued interest; thereafter to maturity at par and accrued interest.

The Company agrees to reimburse the holders of bonds, upon proper application made within 60 days after each payment, for the Pennsylvania and Connecticut Four Mills Tax, Maryland Securities Tax not exceeding four and one-half mills, and for Massachusetts Income Tax on the interest not exceeding 6% of such interest per annum.

Trustee: United States Mortgage and Trust Company, New York

Issuance of Bonds subject to authorization by the Public Service Commission of Maryland

From the letter of Mr. M. P. Riley, President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

Property: The Potomac Edison Company owns and operates electric power and light properties serving substantially all of western Maryland up to within twenty-five miles of Baltimore, and owns the entire common capital stock of the subsidiary companies supplying electric power and light service in adjacent areas of northern Virginia, northeastern West Virginia and southern Pennsylvania. The Company also supplies directly, or through subsidiary companies, electric street and interurban railway and motor bus service in various sections, and the gas service in Frederick, Maryland.

Security: The First Mortgage Gold Bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on all of the physical properties of the Company, subject to only $229,000 mortgage bonds due July 1, 1929 on a small division of the property. As further security all of the capital securities of its principal Virginia and West Virginia subsidiaries will be pledged under this mortgage except $217,800 par value of preferred stock.

Twelve months ended September 30,	1926	1925
Gross earnings	$4,323,547	$3,899,634
Operating expenses	2,190,849	2,001,058
Net earnings available for interest	$2,132,698	$1,898,576
Annual interest requirements on entire funded debt presently to be outstanding, including this issue	$23,720

The net earnings, as shown above, for the twelve months ended September 30, 1926, are equal to over 2½ times the annual interest requirements on entire funded debt presently to be outstanding, including this issue.

Growth of Business:

Calendar Year	Gross Earnings	Net Earnings	Kw. Hours Output	Electric Consumers
1921	$2,840,350	$1,134,013	73,210,745	21,650

*Twelve months ended September 30, 1926.

Management: The Potomac Edison Company is controlled through ownership of all its common stock by The West Penn Electric Company.

The West Penn Electric Company controls electric power and light and transportation properties serving over 900 communities in the great industrial area in western Pennsylvania adjacent to Pittsburgh, in northern West Virginia, northern Virginia, central and western Maryland and eastern Ohio.

The West Penn Electric Company is controlled through ownership of all its common stock by American Water Works and Electric Company, Incorporated.

Legal matters in connection with the issuance of these Bonds will be passed upon by Messrs. Seibert & Riggs, of New York, and for the Company by Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell, of New York. These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. It is expected that temporary bonds or interim receipts will be available for delivery on or about November 26, 1926.

MERCHANT MARINE HEARING ON TODAY

Shipping Board to Begin Last Public Inquiry on Future of Our Sea Carriers.

EXPORTERS TO GIVE VIEWS

Board Will Give Congress a Report by Jan. 1—Inquiries in Other Cities Are Completed.

The United States Shipping Board is to begin the last of a series of public hearings on the future of the American merchant marine this morning at the Merchants' Association rooms in the Woolworth Building, beginning at 10 o'clock and continuing probably until tomorrow evening. Shipping men of New York and others interested will give their views on the question that has been agitating exporters, shippers and the board for many months.

Five of the seven members of the board will be present and T. V. O'Connor, Chairman, will preside. Banking, industrial, exporting, importing and general business interests are expected to be represented, as well as men prominent in the shipping world.

Similar meetings have been held by the board in practically all the large cities of the country as a result of the Jones Senate resolution, which called upon the board to supply Congress by Jan. 1 with a plan for the future of the American merchant marine. The resolution specifically asked for plans for the maintenance of the merchant marine through private capital and under private ownership and also through construction, operation and ownership by the Government.

In the other cities visited by the board resolutions were adopted representing, in a measure, the recommendations of the several communities as to what the report should contain.

FOREIGN LOANS ON WAY.

$20,000,000 Berlin Utility Bonds Are Expected Soon.

A loan of $20,000,000 to the Berlin Municipal Electric Works is being negetiated by Dillon, Read & Co. and it is expected that public offering of the bonds will be made soon. The loan will run for twenty-five years and will bear a 6½ per cent. interest coupon. The company has obtained previous financing in European markets, including a loan floated in Switzerland and Holland a year ago, which carried a 7 per cent. coupon and was priced at 94.

Several other foreign loans are in the stage of negotiation with Wall Street banking groups. Among these is a $15,000,000 loan to the State of Saxony, Germany, which is expected to conform, in terms and interest rates, to other large German State loans recently placed here.

The Daimler Motor Car Company of Germany is understood to be negotiating for a $5,000,000 loan, and several South American issues are on the way.

CHICAGO TRANSIT AT CRISIS.

Bondholders' Committee Forecasts Receivership for Feb. 1.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Chicago's surface line transit problems came to the front at the City Hall again today with the following developments:

The Protective Committee of the Chicago Railways Company bondholders forecast frankly the failure of the City Council to reach a settlement in time to prevent a receivership on Feb. 1.

Feeder buses were approved in principal by the Illinois Commerce Commission in granting a permit for buses on Diversey Boulevard.

Frederick J. Lisman of New York set $264,927,000 as the value of property which he will turn over to Chicago at the end of thirty years if a franchise is granted to him.

Dollar Acceptances Rise.

Total dollar acceptances covering exports and imports for twenty-three banks in this country amounted to $315,700,578 on Nov. 11, as compared with $365,229,411 on Oct. 14 and $327,837,694 on Nov. 12, 1925, according to Export Trade and Finance. Acceptances in foreign currencies executed by foreign banks for account of twenty-one banks here totaled $35,209,107 on Nov. 11, against $33,046,400 on Oct. 14 and $49,810,694 on Nov. 12, 1925.

Belgian Bank 50-Franc Dividend.

A dividend of 50 francs, exempt from taxes, has been declared for the year ended June 30, 1926, by the Banque Belge pour l'Etranger, according to cable advices received by the New York agency of the bank yesterday. Net profit for the year was 18,099,208 francs, and the reserve fund has been increased by 8,000,000 francs, now standing at 40,000,000 francs.

Simms Petroleum Company

Three-Year 6% Convertible Gold Notes

Dated as of November 15, 1926 Due November 15, 1929

Convertible as to principal at the option of the holder at any time on or before November 15, 1928, or the tenth day prior to any date fixed for redemption, into shares of Capital Stock of Simms Petroleum Company at $25 per share.

Redeemable as a whole only, at any time at the option of the issuer, upon 60 days' notice, at 103% during the calendar year 1927; at 102% during the calendar year 1928; and at 101% thereafter but prior to maturity; in each case with accrued interest. Interest payable without deduction for normal Federal income tax not to exceed 2% per annum. The issuer will agree to refund, upon timely application, the Pennsylvania, California and Connecticut taxes not in excess of four mills per annum, the Maryland Securities tax not in excess of four and one-half mills per annum, the Tennessee, Kentucky and District of Columbia personal property taxes not in excess of five mills per annum and the Massachusetts Income Tax on the interest not in excess of 6% per annum, all as provided in the Indenture.

THE NEW YORK TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY, TRUSTEE

Mr. Thomas W. Streeter, Chairman of the Board of Simms Petroleum Company, has summarized his letter describing this issue as follows:

BUSINESS AND PROPERTIES: Simms Petroleum Company, through its 100% owned subsidiary, Simms Oil Company (herein called the "Company"), is engaged in the production, refining, transportation and marketing of petroleum and petroleum products. The Company's producing oil properties are located in the States of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma. Net production at the present time is averaging about 10,400 barrels daily. The Company owns a 4,500-barrel refinery located at Dallas, Texas, and is building a new refinery at Smackover, Arkansas. In addition the Company owns two casinghead gasoline plants; 24 retail marketing stations in Dallas and 31 wholesale tank wagon stations located throughout north and west Texas; approximately 134 miles of gathering and trunk pipe lines; steel storage capacity of 2,170,000 barrels and 595 steel tank cars.

EARNINGS: Consolidated earnings of Simms Petroleum Company and its wholly owned subsidiaries, Simms Oil Company and Trinity Drilling Company, as certified to by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, have been as follows:

	Year 1924	Year 1925	First 8 Months 1926
Gross Revenue	$6,399,485.65	$8,909,873.24	$5,371,317.12
Expenses (a)	2,248,943.61	3,243,361.29	2,637,438.62
Net Income before Deductions	$4,150,542.04	$5,666,511.95	$2,733,878.50
Productive Drilling Expense	$ 595,326.94	$ 984,548.22	$ 615,776.71
Property and Lease Abandonments	203,683.54	243,056.24	204,973.23
Depreciation	872,821.16	1,078,979.28	875,017.32
Depletion	510,459.13	518,202.22	388,525.50
Total Deductions	$2,182,290.77	$2,824,785.96	$2,084,292.76
Net Income available for Interest	$1,968,251.27	$2,841,725.99	$ 649,585.74
Ratio Net Income available for Interest to Interest Charges on these Notes	9.56 times	13.80 times	4.73 times

(a) Including rentals, taxes (except Federal income) and all miscellaneous charges.

Net income available for interest, as above, averages $2,047,336.08 per annum, equivalent to approximately 10 times annual interest charges on these Notes.

During the two years and eight months ended August 31, 1926, the income account was directly charged with productive drilling expenses, lease and property abandonments, depreciation and depletion, aggregating over $7,000,000 or over twice the principal amount of these Notes. Such charges were equivalent to approximately 38.8% of gross revenue for the first eight months of 1926, compared with 31.7% for 1925 and 34% for 1924.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of the sale of these Notes will be used for the redemption of the remaining $374,000 Equipment Trust Certificates now outstanding, for reimbursement of expenditures for additions to plant and property account, and for other corporate purposes.

ASSETS: The consolidated balance sheet of Simms Petroleum Company, Simms Oil Company and Trinity Drilling Company as of August 31, 1926, adjusted to give effect to this financing, as certified by Messrs. Haskins & Sells, shows total net assets of $16,990,596.24 applicable to these Notes, or over $4,950 per $1,000 Note, and net current assets of $5,149,094.09, or over $1,500 per $1,000 Note, with a ratio between current assets and current liabilities of over 4.88 to 1.

EQUITY: These Notes will be followed by the Capital Stock of Simms Petroleum Company, which is listed on the New York Stock Exchange. At current market prices the equity represented by these shares is in excess of $12,500,000.

Legal details in connection with this issue will be passed upon by Messrs. Beekman, Bogue, Clark & Griscom of New York City for the Bankers and by Messrs. Davies, Auerbach & Cornell of New York City for the Company. We offer Notes of this issue for delivery when, as and if issued and accepted by us subject to the approval of counsel. FOREIGN EXCHANGE

French and Italian Reach New Highs—Scandinavians Strong—Marks and Milreis Weak.

New highs on this movement were scored in the French and Italian exchanges yesterday. The fresh burst of speculative enthusiasm which accounted for these new tops originated abroad, before our opening, higher cables at our start being responsible for some active bidding on the part of local banks and dealers.

The Paris bill rose more than 8 points, to 3.44 cents, and the Italian description 6 points, to 4.25¾ cents. Dealers professed to see in the underlying strength of these two the belief that no difficulties will be encountered in the carrying out of Poincaré's program, which favorable reception of the Italian conversion loan yesterday helped the lire.

Strength in the Scandinavians also featured, the Norwegian kroner touching a new high at 25.98 cents, while the Danish and Swedish were both firm. Spanish pesetas were only moderately up on the day, at 15.26 cents, having to face realizing sales on top of Tuesday's sharp rise. Sterling was steady around $4.84 11/16, as were the Swiss and Holland documents. German marks were offered down to a new low at 23.72¾ cents. Banks again engaged in transactions in the belga, the new Belgian unit, which was quoted at 13.91½ cents. Silver currencies were strong, but in the South Americans the milreis was weak and at a new low.

CHEMICAL TRADE BRISK.

Manufacturers' Price Announcement Spurs Active Buying.

An active buying movement in the chemical industry has followed the announcement by manufacturers of various heavy chemicals of contract prices for 1927 deliveries, according to Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering. Some producers of caustic soda and soda ash are quoting forward positions at the same figures as applied in the current year, but prices are not being maintained generally as they were a year ago.

INDIANAPOLIS HALTS MERGER OF UTILITIES

Corporation Counsel Attacks Plan to Consolidate Two Light and Heat Companies.

Delay in a pending $40,000,000 financial transaction which has puzzled Wall Street men recently was explained yesterday when it became known that the merger of two public utilities in Indianapolis, Ind., on which the proposed financing was based was likely to be halted indefinitely by injunction proceedings. The companies involved are the Indianapolis Light and Heat Corporation and the Merchants Heat and Light Company of Indianapolis.

Given approval by the Indiana Public Service Commission, it had been planned to issue $32,000,000 of bonds, $14,000,000 of preferred stock and 300,000 shares of no-par common stock to finance the merger. Opposition to the merger, however, has culminated in a move by Albert Rucker, Corporation Counsel of Indianapolis, to obtain an injunction preventing the commission from acting on the merger or approving the issuance of the securities. His action follows charges made as to the relations between public utility operators and political leaders in Indiana.

The proposed merger of the utilities was the result of a successful effort by the Utilities Power and Light Corporation, or Harley-Clarke interests, to acquire domination in Indianapolis from Samuel Insull and his associates. The acquisition was accomplished, first, by purchasing a minority interest held by the Insull group in the Indianapolis Light and Heat Company and, secondly, by purchasing the controlling interests of Mr. Insull and his associates in the Merchants Heat and Light Company. The projected financing was to follow the merger of these companies.

Chicago Yellow Cab Net Profit.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30 last, the Chicago Yellow Cab Company reports a net profit of $477,380, after depreciation, Federal taxes, &c., which is equal to $1.19 per share, earned on 400,000 shares of no par capital stock. This compares with $554,961, or $1.38 a share in the preceding quarter, and $458,914, or $1.14 a share in the third quarter of last year. For the first nine months of 1926 the profit reached $1,587,716, or $3.96 a share, as against $1,601,449, or $4 a share last year.

The FRENCH PLAN

Fourth Retirement

34 East 51st Street

34 East 51st Street—a nine story building completed in July, 1922, was constructed under the FRENCH PLAN. Within four years after completion, the owning company, 34 East 51st Street, Inc., has made the fourth retirement of its capital, thereby paying back to its investors two-fifths of their investment in preferred stock.

In other words, investors in 34 East 51st Street, Inc. have received 40% of their investment in preferred stock, and an equity in the property through their ownership of bonus common stock. When the other 60% of this investment—when the preferred stock has been entirely redeemed—they will still hold common stock representing equal ownership of the property and will receive their share of all future earnings.

$10,000 and THE FRENCH PLAN

What may reasonably be expected from a fund of $10,000 invested under the FRENCH PLAN?

This question has been answered in both tabular and graphic form. The findings are decidedly illuminating. Assuming a ten year period to the retirement of the preferred stock and the reinvestment of all dividends and redemption payments, investigation shows that under average conditions $10,000 invested under the FRENCH PLAN will accumulate an estate valued at approximately $30,229 at the end of ten years.

If carried for another ten years, this reinvestment plan will result in an estate of approximately $68,470 in 6% cumulative preferred stock—plus 1141 shares of bonus common stock.

Duplicate copies of this report are available for distribution to interested investors.

How the FRENCH PLAN protects your Investment.

Not one dollar of profit may be paid to the FRED F. FRENCH COMPANY, Inc., on its holdings of common stock, until your original investment has been repaid to you, plus 6% interest.

Thereafter you will receive 50% of all net profits earned and distributed.

The FRENCH PLAN will show you how to multiply your money. Send the Coupon.

FRANCE RECOVERING EXPORTED CAPITAL

RESULT OF RISE OF FRANC

Business Men Taking Advantage of the Present Rate Before Exchange Increases.

With the French franc almost exactly a cent and a half above the low point which it reached in last July, bankers who make a specialty of international finances said yesterday that there was no doubt that a large portion of the funds transferred out of France when the franc was undergoing depression had been called home.

The discussion was started by an estimate made in Paris that 50 per cent. of the bank balances built up abroad by French interests since the war had been withdrawn to France in the last three months.

It was said here that there was no way to reach even an approximation of the amount of money represented in these transfers.

With the French position strengthened by the balancing of the budget, the creation of a sinking fund and the possibility of early ratification of the debt agreements, it is believed in many quarters that stabilization of the currency of France will be achieved soon. This confidence has been one of the factors in the return of capital to France, as many business men in that country believe they would have to pay more for their francs in the future than the rates at which they can get them now.

The franc closed yesterday at 2.41⅝ cent, a gain of 6 points, for the day, following a steady upward movement in recent weeks. The low point for all time was established at 1.93⅜ cents on July 20. The increased confidence in France has been reflected recently also in a strong upward movement in French bonds here.

BANKERS AID HOSPITAL FUND

Committee Aims to Raise $150,000 in City-Wide Drive for $1,000,000.

The Bankers and Brokers Committee of the United Hospital Fund of New York is appealing for contributions to the forty-eighth annual collection for the fifty-six non-municipal hospitals which are members of the fund. The total collection mark at which the fund is aiming this year is $1,000,000. Last year the collections of the Bankers and Brokers Committee totaled $92,000, the largest obtained by any of the fund's auxiliaries, and this year their quota is $150,000.

The committee comprises ninety bankers and brokers, who are trustees or directors of one or more of the fifty-six hospitals in the fund. James Speyer is Chairman, and Walter E Frew, Associate Chairman.

Appeal in Southern Railway Case.

The preferred stockholders of the Southern Railway, it was reported from Richmond, Va., yesterday, have obtained the right to appeal from the recent decision by Judge Crump in the Virginia Court of Law and Equity, which denied them the right to receive dividends in excess of 5 per cent. The case will be carried to the Supreme Court of Virginia. The plaintiffs contend that they should share equally with the common holders in any dividend distribution above 5 per cent.

Shaffer Oil Income Rises.

The Shaffer Oil & Refining Company reports a net income after expenses, for September of $442,294, as against $287,153 in September, 1925. Gross for the month was $1,731,894, against $1,113,719 last year. For the twelve months ended Sept. 30, the net after expenses was $6,051,767, against $3,874,893 last year. Gross for the period this year was $20,784,945, against $13,706,901 last year.

Benjamin Strong Improving.

The condition of Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, who has been ill with pneumonia for six weeks, has improved greatly, it was reported yesterday. Mr. Strong is recuperating at his home at 270 Park Avenue. He expects soon to go to the country for a few weeks more of rest.

LOREE EXPECTS I. C. C. TO APPROVE HIS PLAN

No Doubt of Permission for D. & H. to Lease B., R. & P. After Hearing Is Held, He Says.

Leonor F. Loree, head of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad and promoter of a "fifth trunk line system" of which the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh was to be an important link, commented yesterday on the failure of Examiner Weed of the Interstate Commerce Commission to recommend authorization of his plan to acquire the B., R. & P. He said he had "no doubt that the commission after the hearing, set for Dec. 21, will approve the lease."

Mr. Loree's confidence aroused much interest in Wall Street as the commission has established a precedent for following recommendations made by its examiners.

"It should be remembered," said Mr. Loree, "that this is merely the report of an examiner and that the matters involved will be decided by the commission. The case will be argued orally before the full commission on Dec. 21."

Regarding the point made by Examiner Weed that no connecting link between the Delaware & Hudson and the B., R. & P. had been provided, Mr. Loree said:

"The laws of Pennsylvania and New York always have permitted one road to lease a disconnected railroad if there is some connecting railroad. Such a lease was passed on favorably by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania as long ago as 1856.

"The boards of directors of the Delaware & Hudson and the B., R. & P. approved a lease; their shareholders voted 80 per cent. for and none against it; the roads are put together in the commission's tentative grouping; no witness brought forward any objection on the ground hit by the examiner; on the other hand, witnesses testified that the four connecting lines afford ample pass-over facilities."

NEW RAIL LINK BEGUN.

63-Mile Route Will Connect C. & O. and Hocking Valley.

Construction has begun, it was announced yesterday, on the 63-mile link between the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Hocking Valley railroads which the C & O is building under a special certificate of convenience issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The link is a double track railway between Gregg and Valley Crossing, Ohio.

The new line will be owned by the Chesapeake & Hocking Company, which has 700 shares of stock outstanding at the present time. Of this amount the C. & O. holds 693 and each of the road's seven directors, who include representatives of the Van Sweringens and the C. & O. minority, one share.

PAINTS WALL STREET MAN.

Broker's Wife Exhibits Canvas in Offices of His Firm.

An oil painting of "The Man Who Knows Wall Street" was placed on exhibition yesterday in the brokerage offices of Arthur M. Lipper & Co. at 50 Broad Street. It is the work of Janet O. Lipper, wife of Milton W. Lipper, a member of the firm.

The painting, which has been praised by art authorities, depicts an old man. It was done by Mrs. Lipper at Provincetown, Mass., last Summer. She has been studying art four or five years with Charles Hawthorne and other painters, but this is the first work that she has exhibited.

20% DIVIDEND BY BANK.

George B. Silzer, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Broad and Market National Bank of Newark, yesterday announced the declaration of a 20 per cent. dividend and the election of John J. Stamler as President of the institution, The Associated Press reported.

The dividend is payable at the first of next year to stockholders of record as of Nov. 15. It was the first dividend declared since last January, when Mr. Silzer and his associates acquired the bank.

Superior Oil Makes a Profit.

The Superior Oil Corporation reports for the third quarter of 1926 net earnings of $64,939, after interest, depreciation and depletion, as contrasted with a deficit of $192,962 in the preceding quarter and one of $168,009 in the third quarter last year. In the first nine months of this year there was a deficit of $310,821, against a deficit of $411,950 in the like period of last year.

A Plain Statement About A Second Mortgage Investment

Paying Guaranteed 7% Interest with Annual Profit-Sharing

Investors everywhere are now able to share in the substantial profits of the second mortgage investment field. This is made possible through a profit-sharing feature of the unconditionally guaranteed bonds offered by Premier Guaranteed Mortgage Bond Corporation.

Independent Trustee:

An independent trustee's signature must appear on every bond as registrar. One of the most important duties of the independent trustee is to see that bonds are not issued in excess of mortgages or cash deposited with them.

Guarantee:

The subsidiary company in pursuance of its agreement shall at all times keep on deposit with an independent trustee, mortgages or cash at least equal in face value to the amount of bonds outstanding. These bonds are unconditionally guaranteed by us.

Method of Operation

Under Supervision of State Bank Commissioner, Conn.

One of our subsidiary companies now operating in Connecticut is under supervision of State Bank Commissioner. These companies make or purchase independently appraised mortgages on completed residences in established and soundly growing communities. The mortgages are then deposited with independent trustees. In every case the combined first and second mortgages cannot exceed 75% of the appraised value of the property. The amount of the average mortgage purchased is $3,200, assuring wide diversification of security.

All mortgages made or purchased by the subsidiary companies are retired in three years or less. Amortization is made through serial payments, generally quarterly or semi-annually.

Earnings multiply in direct proportion to the extent of the Company's operations. One subsidiary has already declared a profit-sharing dividend in addition to the 7% guaranteed bond interest.

Safety Features:

1. Unconditional guarantee.
2. Mortgages deposited with independent trustees.
3. Property equity at least 25% in excess of face amount of bonds.
4. Mortgages on completed property only.
5. Mortgages mature in three years or less.
6. Independent appraisals.

The Men Who Put Safety in the Second Mortgage Business

IT has always been popular knowledge that the second mortgage business was a very lucrative field. But the United States Bond & Mortgage Corporation brought the added hallmark of safety to it by standardizing it, and applying a number of unique safety methods of operation.

The founders of this Company were veterans in the mortgage business—conservative and foresighted men; bankers, lawyers and business executives. Keen men, who recognized the absolute necessity of the second mortgage industry in modern home building.

They applied conformity of price and practice and conservatism of operation to a rich field. The result of their efforts is the largest second mortgage institution in America with assets well over $2 000,000.

They founded their business on the home—the home of the better middle class type, a time-tested rock of strength. A board of experienced appraisers, every one a substantial stockholder in the company was appointed and a rigid set of requirements laid down. The average principal of all mortgages owned is less than $4,000. None are purchased in excess of $15,000. All are amortized. All are held by the Corporation to maturity. Three men must individually appraise every property.

Today the Company stands with a record of earnings unique in the entire mortgage field let alone the second mortgage business, without a single foreclosure or loss to mar its register. Neither have any properties been taken over by any subsidiary companies.

The need for more working capital now provides the wise investor the opportunity of sharing in the profits of this great Company. Additional capital stock has been voted and is now ready for subscription. Inquiry may be made at the New York office, 8 East 41st Street, New York City.

If you are an interested investor and wish to learn more concerning this Company, its history and future—write for the book "Sharing Second Mortgage Profits With Investors." We shall gladly send it free, on receipt of the coupon below.

BANK OF BELGIUM BUYS GOLD HERE

$2,500,000 Purchase of Bullion In Connection With Money Stabilization Announced.

QUOTATIONS ON THE BELGA

Trading in New Unit Resumed After Bankers Hear Belgium Will Take Care of All Difficulties.

The National Bank of Belgium has purchased $2,500,000 in gold bullion in New York, according to an announcement made abroad yesterday. While no statement was made at the Federal Reserve Bank, it is understood that the purchase was part of the working of the international credit in which the Reserve Bank is participating and which was created when Belgium stabilized her currency on a gold basis last month.

In addition to the $100,000,000 public loan floated when the stabilization plan went into effect, an agreement was announced by which the principal central banks of Europe, the Bank of Japan and the Federal Reserve Bank undertook to purchase prime commercial bills from the Belgian National Bank on request up to a total of $10,000,000.

Coincident with the announcement of the gold purchase, bankers and foreign exchange dealers yesterday began making quotations on the belga, the currency recently substituted by Belgium for the paper franc as the medium of exchange. The belga is the equivalent of five francs, the par value of the belga being given at 13.904 cents and the franc at 2.78¼ cents. Difficulties arose over the bookkeeping involved as to how balances were to be maintained here and abroad and after a few days of trading in the belga there was a return to trading in the Belgian franc. Bankers have been informed now that bookkeeping details will be managed in Belgium, and resumption of trading in the belga followed.

The Belgian purchase of gold here was in conformity with the requirements of the stabilization loan calling for the national bank to maintain a minimum reserve in gold and foreign exchanges of 40 per cent. of its note circulation and other demand liabilities. Of the prescribed amount 30 per cent. must be in gold.

HIGH RECORDS MADE BY UNLISTED STOCKS

Industrials Lead in Trading Over the Counter—Fractional Gains Among Utilities.

Yesterday's over-the-counter market continued to display the tendency of the preceding several days, for a small number of stocks to move into new high ground. Fractional advances were the rule in the utility shares, and the bank group was again strong and active.

American Piano added 5 points to its price, making a new high record, and United States Trucking 8 per cent. cumulative preferred also scored a new high, advancing 1 point on the day. Remington Arms second preferred was prominent during most of the session and closed up 2 points, while the first preferred gained 3 points. Moderate improvement came to pass in Clinchfield Coal common and preferred, Syracuse Washing Machine, Troy Laundry Machine and Crocker-Wheeler.

First National continued to be an active performer of the banks section, reaching new high ground. Other high-priced issues, including United States Trust and Hanover, remained firm. Bankers Trust also reached a new high, and Lawyers Tile and Guaranty was slightly higher.

Texas Power and Light preferred, Arizona Power preferred and General Gas and Electric participating certificates, American District Telegraph and Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph were active issues.

Larutan Fuel Net $195,812.

The Larutan Fuel Company reports net earnings of $195,812, after interest, for the first nine months of this year. Gross operating profits were $298,216. It was also reported that to date regular monthly payments to the sinking fund have retired $325,000 principal amount of bonds, leaving $1,675,000 outstanding.

Mergenthaler Linotype Profit.

The Mergenthaler Linotype Company reports for the twelve months ended Sept. 30 a net profit of $2,625,033, after depreciation and taxes, which is equivalent to $10.25 per share on 256,000 shares of no par stock. This compares with $2,699,028, or $10.54 a share, on the present share basis in the preceding twelve months.

ONYX SALE IS APPROVED.

Directors Vote for Purchase by the Gotham Company.

The Board of Onyx Hosiery, Inc., approved yesterday the offer of the Gotham Silk Hosiery Company, Inc., for the purchase of the physical properties and good-will of the Onyx company. The directors authorized a special meeting of the stockholders on Nov. 29.

James Hammond, Treasurer of Onyx Hosiery, Inc., said Paul Guenther, President, would mail a letter to all stockholders setting forth the details of the offer. It is understood that the purchase of Onyx assets will be financed through an issue of debentures and preferred stock of the Gotham company.

Combination of the two properties will bring under one management two of the best known brands of silk hosiery. From a volume of 165,000 dozen hose and net earnings of $828,000 in 1921 Gotham's business has grown to 570,000 dozen and net earnings of $2,165,000 in 1925. For the current year sales are estimated at 800,000 dozen, and the management, exclusive of the Onyx acquisition, plans for production of 1,200,000 dozen in 1927.

The business was opened by Solomon E. Summerfield in 1911 with a capital of $30,000. Its total assets now approximate $7,000,000. The company employs no salesmen outside of its own retail stores.

$827,617 Profit for Ahumada Lead.

For the nine months to Sept. 30 the Ahumada Lead Company reports a net profit of $827,617, after depreciation, taxes, &c., which is equivalent to 69 cents a share, par $1, earned on 1,192,018 shares of stock. In the like period of last year the profit was $1,260,232, or $1.05 a share. For the third quarter of this year the company showed a profit of $230,094, or 19 cents a share, as against $497,503 in the September quarter of last year.

CITIES SERVICE INCOME SETS A HIGH RECORD

Net Is $2,049,868 in October—Earnings Statements of Other Utilities.

Net earnings, after expenses, of $2,049,868 reported by the Cities Service Company for October represent an increase of 51.1 per cent. over October, 1925, and the highest in the company's history. Gross for October was $2,139,926, against $1,421,387, and net to common stock and reserves was $1,289,289, an increase of 80.2 per cent. over the total of $573,815 reported for October, 1925.

$875,000,000 SET AS '26 RAIL OUTLAY

Results Shown in Way Record Traffic Has Been Handled, Association Finds.

OPTIMISM FOR 1927 VOICED

The first-class railroads of the country will have made total capital expenditures of approximately $875,000,000 by the end of the year and at the same time will have carried the greatest traffic in their history without serious transportation difficulties, according to reports made yesterday at the annual meeting of the American Railway Association at the Hotel Biltmore. R. A. Ashton, President, presided at the meeting, which was preceded by a meeting of the directors and a luncheon. At the directors' meeting the following were present: Hale Holden, President of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; E. J. Pearson, President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford; Howard Elliott, Chairman of the Board of the Northern Pacific; W. W. Atterbury, President of the Pennsylvania; W. G. Besler, Chairman of the Board of the Central Railroad of New Jersey; L. W. Baldwin, President of the Missouri Pacific; J. M. Davis, President of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad; P. E. Crowley, President of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad; A. C. Needles, President of the Norfolk & Western Railroad; E. T. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad; C. W. Galloway, Vice President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; M. J. Gormeley of the Car Service Division of the Association, and Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the association and also of the Association of Railroad Executives, which will hold its annual meeting today at the Biltmore.

Nine Months' Expenditures.

Capital expenditures during the first nine months of this year were $629,000,000, or approximately $100,000,000 more than for the same period in 1925, according to the reports. The purpose of the outlay, it was set forth, was to provide adequate transportation, increase in economy and safety. Positive results were shown, the reports go on, in that the roads have handled the greatest traffic in their history, without transportation difficulties and without car shortages, except temporary ones in isolated instances. The total capital expenditures last year were $748,191,000 and the grand total for the seven years since Federal control ceased was estimated at $5,196,658,000.

For locomotives during this year expenditures amounted to $72,324,000, an increase of approximately $30,000,000 over the same period last year. For freight cars $143,265,000 was expended, a decrease of $31,107,000 while for passenger train cars $43,403,000 was spent, compared with $29,645,000 the year before. There was also an increase of $200,000 in 1926 over 1925 in expenditures for other equipment.

Capital expenditures for roadway and structures amounted to $358,070,000, an increase of nearly $79,000,000, compared with the first nine months last year. Of this amount, $124,064,000 was expended for additional track, an increase of nearly $25,000,000, while $29,531,000 went for heavier rails, an increase of $4,500,000. For additional ballast $12,059,000 was expended, or $4,000,000 more than was spent for that purpose in the preceding year. For shops and engine houses, including machinery and tools, capital expenditures amounted to $29,115,000, compared with $22,676,000 in 1925. All other expenditures amounted to $163,281,000, compared with $123,878,000.

The report of the Car Service Division asserted that the performance of the roads this year had been unexcelled and gave credit in part to the Shippers Regional Advisory Boards which have been organized throughout the country.

Opinions of Executives.

Concerning the outlook for railroad transportation a number of leading railroad executives who are attending the meetings expressed optimism. Their opinions follow:

P. E. Crowley—As I see it there is nothing in the railroad situation which does not indicate a continuation of the present prosperous business in 1927.

E. J. Pearson—Business in New England in the past few months has been very good and indications are that it will continue. We have been handling the biggest business in history and there is nothing to indicate that it is abnormal.

J. M. Davis—The outlook for railroads in 1927 is good as far as we can see. Of course, the crop situation cannot be forecast, but on the whole the prospects for next year are very encouraging.

E. E. Loomis—We are hopeful for next year. As far as can be determined, the railroads will enjoy good business in 1927, and there is nothing in the transportation situation now visible that can cause alarm.

Hale Holden—General business is good in our territory, and it promises to continue in large volume over the year-end. Our October earnings were above those of October last year, and we shall finish the year with a surplus of more than $2,000,000 above last year.

L. W. Baldwin—Business throughout our territory is prosperous and is making progress in greater diversification. Many crops this year reached record volume, and preparations are being made for further increases next year, indicating a good backlog for 1927.

W. G. Besler—Our road is enjoying a very successful year and will probably have the largest gross on record. All classes of traffic are holding their own, with some showing favorable increases, and the general outlook is good.

WILLYS IN NEW MOTOR DEAL

Interested in Company to Produce Automobile in $1,000 Class.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 17.—It was announced here today that John N. Willys, President of the Willys-Overland Company, Inc., is one of the sponsors of the new Wayne Motor Car Company of Detroit, organized to manufacture a new Knight-motored six-cylinder automobile to sell in the $1,000 class.

John A. Nichols Jr., for ten years with the Dodge Brothers Company, will be President of the new organization. R. N. Harger and R. H. Allen, who have been with Dodge Brothers, and D. R. Wilson, Vice President and general manager of the Wilson Foundry and Machine Company of Pontiac, Mich., which manufactures Knight motors, will have executive positions in the new company. Frank Tillotson, banker, will be a director.

NON-VOTING STOCK UP AGAIN AS ISSUE

Wall Street Awaiting Action by Exchange on Listing of Pan-American Class B.

Application to list 666,628 additional shares of class B non-voting stock of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company yesterday brought before the New York Stock Exchange a problem, the solution of which will be watched with interest in Wall Street.

These additional shares represent the maximum amount of stock required to complete the Pan-American's acquisition of the entire outstanding minority interest of the Lago Oil and Transport Corporation. Stockholders of Lago had the opportunity some time ago to exchange their voting stock for Pan-American non-voting B stock on the basis of one share of Pan-American B for each three shares of Lago owned.

Two interesting points are raised in the light of the Stock Exchange's indicated policy of refusing to list non-voting stock except in extraordinary circumstances. In the first place, this stock is an addition to a block of non-voting stock listed on the Exchange long before the Exchange took a stand against the listing of such stock. For this reason, it has been pointed out in discussions of the subject, the Exchange may feel privileged to admit the stock to its trading privileges. Some time ago the Exchange admitted an issue of non-voting stock which had been approved for listing before its present policy was promulgated.

The other point, however, which has been suggested as a possible bar to the listing of the stock, is that the additional stock would take the place of a stock which has full voting powers—the Lago stock which is being exchanged for Pan-American B. Officials of the Pan-American company intimated some time ago that they could conceive of no reasonable objection to the listing of the additional stock since the non-voting stock already enjoyed the Exchange's trading privileges.

The application will be passed upon finally next Wednesday, it is expected. Meantime the authorities of the Exchange will weigh the matter carefully with the view to determining whether admittance of the stock would be a violation of the indicated policy of the institution. The Exchange never has gone on record formally as opposed definitely to the listing of non-voting stocks, but has let it be known that applications to list such stock would be subjected to the closest scrutiny.

Acquisition of the minority interest in Lago by Pan-American has been under way some time, and the latter company has controlled Lago for several months, having held an interest of about 60 per cent. before the offer of an exchange of stocks was made.

COLONIAL AIR TRANSPORT.

Corporation to Increase Resources to Bid for Mail Routes.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17 (AP).—The resources of the Colonial Air Transport, Inc., which now total $1,000,000, will be increased greatly in preparation for the entering of bids for operation of the air mail route between New York and Chicago, it was announced today by J. T. Trippe, manager of the corporation.

The first step in the expansion of the company, which plans to operate a passenger service between New York and Boston next Spring, appeared today when a three-motored Fokker plane, similar to one used by Lieut. Commander Richard E. Byrd in his flight to the North Pole, was delivered to the company. The company will begin trial flights between New York and Boston soon to determine a schedule. Another Fokker plane is to be delivered, and in January the company expects to receive two Stout all-metal planes.

SCOUTS ICE CO. STOCK SPLIT

W. M. Oler Says He Has Heard Nothing of American Concern Action

W. M. Oler, President of the American Ice Company, said yesterday he had heard nothing of a reported plan to split the stock of that company. He made light of a rumor in Wall Street yesterday that such a plan has virtually been decided upon.

"I have been hearing some such report for years," he said. Pressed for a statement regarding the latest report, predicting a four-for-one split-up of stock, with a $3 dividend on the new shares, he said:

"I have heard nothing of it."

Two plans have been under consideration, according to the published report. The other one suggested is said to have called for an increase in the cash dividend from $8 to $10 annually and an additional bonus of between $10 and $20 a share.

Working Together

A CERTAIN manufacturer opened a small account with us in 1917. His contacts in the bank were with an officer who knew a great deal about the depositor's line. Together they worked out plans for expansion, and the bank supplied the credit.

Since then, that Company has averaged earnings of more than $700,000 a year, and its net worth today exceeds $4,000,000.

Perhaps a similar case may not be exactly repeated. But hundreds of our clients know that our facilities and the counsel of our officers are constructive factors in their businesses. We invite executives to let us prove this to their satisfaction.

WANTS RAILROADS TO HANDLE MERGERS

Industrial Traffic League to Fight Federal Control of Consolidations.

WOULD SPEED I. C. C. WORK

Will Study Decentralization as a Means to Efficiency—Seeks Bigger Budget Also.

The National Industrial Traffic League, consisting of 896 firms, in every State in the country, will use its influence to defeat the consolidation of railroads under Government direction and keep the way clear for mergers by the railroads themselves as the best economic solution of the problem. At a dinner at the Hotel Commodore last evening as part of a two-day session of the league, R. C. Fullbright of Houston, Texas, Chairman of the Legislative Committee, told 400 members and 100 railroad officials that the shippers would appear before the next session of Congress to urge the passage of the Watson-Parker Consolidation bill, which protects this right of the railroads.

"This is not collusion between shippers and carriers," he said. "The railroads are in a public business and realignment should be allowed whenever they are in the public interest. We, as shippers, believed that operation of the railroads as it affects the public should be regulated by Governmental agencies, but we believe that the legislative bodies should keep their hands off and keep railroads and transportation out of politics."

Thomas F. Woodlock, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, urged closer alignment of railroads in various sections of the country, addressing the evening meeting.

At the afternoon session resolutions were adopted calling for investigation of the Interstate Commerce Commission, or other division of its duties. A committee was authorized to recommend measures which, if adopted, would bring about "more prompt, efficient and economical regulations of the common carriers of the country."

A questionnaire submitted by Representative Hoch, a member of the Interstate Commerce Committee in Congress, was the basis of a resolution authorizing the appointment of the committee. In the discussion of the resolution it was said by R. C. Fulbright, Chairman of the Association's Legislative Committee, that because of the many laws passed by Congress relating to common carriers, the work of the Interstate Commerce Commission had become almost impossible.

It was also said the action of the League should not be construed as an approval of a plan for regional commissions, it being a general feeling that such commissions would not give practical benefit to the shippers and carriers.

A further action taken by the League was the appointment of a committee to appear before the forthcoming session of Congress advocating an increase in the budget of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This action, it was said, is to enable the Commission to increase its force and reorganize its method of handling complaints.

Paul M. Ripley, of New York, the president of the Industrial Traffic League, was the chairman of the meeting. The other officers are, C. E. Childe of Omaha, Vice President; J. M. Belleville of Pittsburgh, Chairman of the Executive Committee; W. H. Chandler of New York, Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee; Joseph H. Beek of Chicago, Secretary; Edwin C. Wilmore of Chicago, Treasurer; Edward F. Lacey of Chicago, Assistant Treasurer.

HARRIMANS PURCHASE INTEREST IN BANK

Buy Into Eastern Exchange Bank—E. R. Harriman and Hamilton Pell Become Directors.

Purchase of a substantial interest in the Eastern Exchange Bank by W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc., was announced yesterday. In connection with the purchase it was also made known that Hamilton Pell and E. Roland Harriman of the Harriman firm have been made bank directors. No changes in the personnel of the institution will be made, R. L. Bigelo continuing as President.

Upon completion of the new thirty-six-story structure at 35-37-39 Broadway, to be erected soon by the Harriman interests, the bank will occupy quarters on the ground floor, extending from Broadway through to Trinity Place. Temporary quarters of the bank will be at 10 Broadway.

The Eastern Exchange Bank is the outgrowth of a private banking business established many years ago by Bigelow & Co., who began by accepting deposit accounts of customers. Later the Bigelow State Bank was formed, and the latter's name was finally changed to the Eastern Exchange Bank. This bank is said to be the only institution in New York City confining its activities entirely to individual deposit accounts, and makes a point of extending banking facilities to small accounts. It does no commercial business and discounts no commercial paper, confining its loans only to marketable collateral.

STOCK SALES SLUMP; MAY NOT EXCEED 1925

Sales of stock on the New York Stock Exchange, which all year have been running consistently ahead of the corresponding period of 1925, dropped yesterday for the first time during the year below the 1925 total. From present indications, the total sales for 1926 will not exceed those for 1925.

Thus far this year the total turnover on the Exchange has aggregated 394,035,803 shares, which compares with 395,166,272 in the same period last year.

Incidentally, customers of Stock Exchange members have paid commissions this year aggregating approximately $60,000,000, calculating the average commission at $15 for the purchase or sale of 100 shares of stock. The present rate of turnover is about 1,250,000 shares each day.

BURNS BROS. DEAL RUMORED

Wall Street Hears Rubel Ice and Coal Corp. Will Be Absorbed.

Reports in Wall Street yesterday were that negotiations for acquisition of the Rubel Ice and Coal Corporation by the Burns Brothers Coal Company were nearly complete and that an issue of securities to cover the purchase would be forthcoming within two weeks. No confirmation of the reports could be obtained from either the Rubel interests or Burns Brothers, but the fact of a report of a coming issue was taken rather generally to indicate that such plans were well under way.

The issue, it was said, would be $15,000,000 of either debentures or preferred stock, and Hayden, Stone & Co. would head the syndicate underwriting it. Such a purchase would make Burns Brothers the most powerful coal dealing concern in this section. Last year Burns Brothers bought the Wyoming Valley Coal Company.

Brunswick Terminal & Securities.

A statement issued yesterday by George W. Steele, President of the Brunswick Terminal and Railway Securities Company, showed that total current assets of the company as of Oct. 31 were $230,081, divided as follows: cash, $71,210; listed bonds at cost, $102,743; bills receivable, $37,600; accounts receivable, $4,128, and certificates of deposit, National Bank of Brunswick, $10,000. The company has no liabilities other than its outstanding stock, which totals 87,000 shares.

$5,466,500 BONDS ON MARKET TODAY

$3,431,500 Simms Petroleum Is the Largest and the Only Industrial Offering.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, FINANCING

Municipality to Sell $535,500 Bonds—Chicago Real Estate Issue Will Total $1,500,000.

New bonds totaling $5,466,500 will be offered to the public today, made up of one issue each in the industrial, municipal and real estate mortgage divisions. The largest offering of the day is $3,431,500 Simms Petroleum Company three-year 6 per cent. convertible gold notes, underwritten by Hemphill, Noyes & Co. and Luke, Banks & Co. The issue is priced at 101 and interest, to yield about 5⅝ per cent.

The Simms Petroleum notes are convertible up to Nov. 15, 1928, into common stock of the corporation at $25 a share. Proceeds will be used for the redemption of $374,000 equipment trust certificates outstanding and for other purposes. The company has no outstanding bonds or notes except this issue. The notes will be followed by capital stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange which at current prices represents an equity in excess of $12,500,000.

Offering is made of $535,500 City of Columbus, Ohio, 4½ per cent. bonds by Blodget & Co. and Graham, Parsons & Co. at a price to yield from 4.10 to 4.15 per cent. The bonds are due serially from 1929 to 1938.

Lawrence Stern & Co., the First Trust and Savings Bank and the Foreman Trust and Savings Bank are offering $1,500,000 of twenty-year closed first mortgage 6 per cent. sinking fund gold bonds of the 1,301 North State Street Corporation at par and interest. Proceeds will be used to complete the Hotel Ambassador East, a new residential hotel, in Chicago.

Oversubscriptions announced yesterday included the issue of $10,000,000 Public Service Company of Illinois 5 per cent. debentures and the new issue of $3,000,000 Beacon Oil Company ten-year 6 per cent. sinking fund gold debentures with common stock purchase warrants.

CURB STOCKS REACT AFTER MOVING UPWARD

Early Gains Modified, but Market Closes Fairly Steady—Oil Group Holds Up Well.

The price trend in the curb market yesterday was again upward during most of the session, but turned about abruptly in the last half hour. The late reaction, while modifying earlier gains, was not very drastic, and at the close the undertone was fairly steady.

There was a good deal of activity in the oil group and, considering reports of further cuts in Midcontinental crude, the list held up well. Good gains were registered by the leading issues during the morning and in the late afternoon, when the general reaction set in, most of the oils were reluctant to join in the movement. However, irregularity developed at the close.

Public utilities were among the foremost strong securities in the earlier trading period with several issues in the group reaching attractive levels, but subsequently the list gave way as profit-taking sales and professional bear pressure made themselves felt.

Bond dealings covered a wide variety of obligations in the domestic department and, in the main, advances were more numerous than losses. At best, however, fluctuations were in small fractions. Changes were also small in the foreign groups notwithstanding a steady trade.

CURB ADMITS SECURITIES.

Admission to the unlisted trading privileges of the New York Curb Exchange has been extended to the following securities:

Western Power Corporation, $10,000,000 of 5½ per cent. convertible collateral trust bonds, Series A, due Jan. 1, 1957; Beacon Oil Company, $3,000,000 of ten-year 6 per cent. sinking fund gold debentures, due Nov. 1, 1936, with common stock purchase warrants; Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, $10,000,000 of 5 per cent. debentures, series of 1926, due Sept. 1, 1931; Midwest Gas Company, $2,500,000 of first mortgage 7 per cent. gold bonds, Series A, due Nov. 1, 1936; Hood Rubber Company, 80,000 additional shares of no par common stock; General Tire and Rubber Company, 100,000 shares of $25 par common stock, and the Arnold Print Works, 10,000 warrants detached from 7 per cent. preferred stock entitling holder to purchase no par common stock. The four first-named securities were admitted on a "when issued" basis.

DEMAND SLACKENS IN IRON AND STEEL

Finished Steel Prices Maintain Strong Front Despite Uncertainty in Trade.

INGOT OUTPUT DECLINES

Reviews Note Drop in Pig Iron Market—Demand for Plates Continues to Be Large.

A state of uncertainty hovers over the iron and steel industry, with major indications pointing toward slackening. The decline has been noted in steel ingot output, demand for pig iron and specifications for various steel and iron products. Despite this fact, however, finished steel prices have maintained a strong front and the market is continuing firm but slightly less strong than previously.

"An easier situation obtains in both finished steel and pig iron markets," says The Iron Trade Review. "Idle steel mill capacity being augmented as all orders are worked off and new business, generally speaking, is not equal to shipments. Specifications on steel bars show a marked decline, especially at Pittsburgh, following last week's activity. Demand for pig iron tapered off rather sharply in keeping with the less tense fuel market.

"Demand for plates features the finished steel market. Ten thousand tons of tank work came out of Chicago, making the total pending there fully 18,000 tons. Placement of two Great Lakes ore carriers calls for 7,000 tons of plates and 3,000 tons of shapes. A welded pipe line in Washington will require from 8,000 to 10,000 tons of plates. Locomotive work placed in Philadelphia will take 8,000 tons of plates. Pittsburgh mills will benefit to the extent of more than 15,000 tons of plates through recent awards of 1,300 tank cars."

"End-consumers as well provided for their wants in their September and October buying that no considerable new demand is looked for in the next few weeks," says Iron Age. "Operations also promise some curtailment with the approach of the year end. Rolling mill schedules are slightly less this week. With a corresponding reduction in ingot output, steel works in the Pittsburgh and near-by districts are running at 70 to 75 per cent. of capacity. Steel Corporation subsidiaries are running somewhat less than 80 per cent."

BANK MAY ENLARGE CAPITAL

Seaboard National Considers Expansion, Its President Says.

Recent advances in the price of stock of the Seaboard National Bank have tended to create the belief in Wall Street that before the end of the year the bank will decide to increase its capital, resulting in valuable subscription rights to holders of its shares. The business of the bank has been expanding rapidly. Chellis A. Austin, its President, said yesterday that consideration was being given to the question of correcting the discrepancy between the amount of capital funds and deposits. No definite action had been taken, however, he added.

With capital of $6,000,000, surplus of $6,000,000 and undivided profits of $2,400,000, Seaboard is carrying deposits of nearly $160,000,000. Last December the bank issued new stock at $200 a share, with the shares then selling in the open market at about $630. The stock now is quoted at $700 in the unlisted securities market.

Reports that the Seaboard was to be merged with the Guaranty Trust Company were circulated last week, but have been denied officially.

Letts Arrives to See Willys.

Sir William Letts, managing director of the Crossley Motors, Ltd., and a pioneer in the British motor industry, arrived here yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic to confer with John N. Willys, President of the Willys-Overland Company, of whose English subsidiary he is head. He said he would visit Toledo and Toronto. The Olympia Motor Show in London in October was an extraordinary success, he said.

Milton Manufacturing Suspends.

SUNBURY, Pa., Nov. 17 (AP).—The Milton Manufacturing Company, manufacturer of small iron materials and employing 800 men, announced its suspension tonight pending the appointment of a receiver. Lack of sufficient working capital was given as the reason. No statement of assets and liabilities was made. The property is valued at more than $1,000,000.

Amalgamated Laundries, Inc., has purchased the Franklin Laundry, Inc., in Brooklyn.

The Chemical National Bank is prepared to deliver definitive Kentucky Rock Asphalt Company first mortgage 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, due on June 1, 1936, in exchange for temporary bonds.

The Chatham-Phenix National Bank and Trust Company has been appointed trustee of an issue of $2,000,000 Cady Lumber Corporation first mortgage and lien 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold bonds, due on Nov. 1, 1939.

CRUDE RUBBER PRICES DROP

Losses as High as 40 Points—June Option Alone Gains.

The market for crude rubber futures in the Rubber Exchange of New York yesterday continued weak, with all active positions except June closing with losses ranging from 10 to 40 points. June finished with a 10-point advance. The turnover involved 204 contracts in eight options.

March and December gave up the maximum ground, while January and April sold off 30 points. Other months were down 10 points. The first hour's business was done at a fairly steady pace, but reaction set in and the weakness continued right up to the close.

London moved in much the same manner as on Tuesday, opening easier and then developing moderate strength at the end. Prices were up 1/8d in all positions. The latest official London spot price was 20.310d, a decline of .017d from Monday.

Range of prices for the active deliveries follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
December	40.60	40.20	40.10	40.50
January	40.70	40.40	40.40	40.70

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Hog prices showed little change, with shippers and smaller packers paying $11.50@$11.65 for selected 160@250 pound kinds, while the bulk of the 160@225 pound averages were at $11.40@11.50. Packing sows sold largely at $10.50@$10.75. The top for the day was $11.75, while the average was $11.45, the latter being the same as on Tuesday.

Packers bought 19,100 and shippers, 3,500, with 5,000 left over. Receipts were 17,000, with 40,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Demand for fat lambs was slow, but prices showed little change. Best natives brought $13.15, with the bulk of sales at $12.50@$12.75. Sheep were steady, with main sales at $5@$6.50. Receipts were 10,000.

The cattle market showed a weak undertone, especially on heavy steers, and so far the yards have failed to clean up, although some are down $1 as compared with the close of last week. Best yearlings sold at $12, with heavy steers at $10.40, although few sold above $9.50. The bulk of beef steers brought $8.25@$11. Receipts were 14,000.

COTTON BOLLS HURT BY FREEZE AND RAIN

The weekly weather report of the Department of Agriculture, released yesterday at Washington, reads in part as follows:

"Freezing weather in the northeastern portions of the cotton belt damaged many late cotton bolls and practically all that had not developed was killed. The week was favorable for picking and ginning, with the cool weather and generally fair weather until the 14th, when unsettled, showery conditions set in over most of the belt. Heavy rains the rest of the week were unfavorable for picking and ginning in the northwestern portions of the belt, and there was some interruption in many other places to the westward. There is still considerable cotton in the fields in some northern districts, but elsewhere picking has been practically completed.

"From the Mississippi Valley eastward, the cool and fair weather the first part of the week favored the drying out of the corn crop and picking operations, but the widespread rains again stopped work near the close of the week. Some further molding in the fields and cribs was reported from the Ohio Valley States. Harvest progressed favorably quite generally in the Northwest and also in the Great Plains States, with only slight interruptions by rainfall.

Grain Seeding Progresses.

"Considerable wheat and oats were seeded during the week in the west Gulf area, and the early seeded is doing well. In the central and eastern portions of the Winter wheat belt the crop is doing nicely, and appears to be rooting satisfactorily, but much of the late seeded is still small. In the extreme lower Missouri Valley the crop made satisfactory growth in most districts, and is generally good in the Southwest and the eastern portions of the Plains States. In Kansas and Nebraska, rains have been beneficial, especially in South Central and South western Nebraska and in Western Kansas, where drought has persisted. In the last named area the crop is still poor, but some improvement is noted since the recent rains.

"The increased moisture in the Northwest has improved conditions in that section, especially in the north Pacific Coast States, but it continued too dry in California. Rains in the North Atlantic area have been very helpful to early seeded grains and in softening the ground for plowing and further seeding. The weather was mostly favorable for threshing rice in central and west Gulf districts. Threshing of grain sorghum progressed favorably in the southern Great Plains.

Argentina Conditions.

"The weather for the week ended Nov. 15 in Argentina was warm, dry and favorable for harvest where this work is in progress. The temperature averaged 72 degrees in the corn and northern wheat zone and 68 degrees in the southern wheat area, being four and three degrees, respectively, above normal. Rainfall was very light, the total weekly fall being only .2 inch in each area."

FISCAL AGENT

Dated October 28, 1926.

BUYING ON A BREAK CUTS DROP IN WHEAT

Sales by Northwestern Houses Are Countered by Purchases by Eastern Houses.

CLOSE ½ TO ¾ CENT LOWER

World Supplies Up 16,000,000 Bushels—Corn and Oats Make Gains, Rye Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Heavy selling of wheat futures by houses with Northwestern connections and local pressure carried the May and July deliveries down to a new low on the crop, and the December to within ⅛ cent of the inside figures of the season. The break brought in heavy profit taking by shorts headed by houses with Eastern connections, and the close was on a rally of around one cent from the bottom, with net losses of ½@¾ cent.

Buenos Aires was weak and 2⅛@3 cents lower, but part of the decline there was due in part to a break in the exchange rate. Heavy rains were reported in the Pampas, with fine weather in Buenos Aires. Winnipeg, after leading the decline early, reversed its trend and closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, the late strength there having some effect on the local market.

Considerable attention was paid to the increase of nearly 16,000,000 bushels in the world's available supplies the past week, making the total 234,817,000 bushels, against 175,363,000 last year.

The rally in wheat today was regarded as due largely to the technical position, the market becoming oversold. There was active buying of bids after the close.

High grade Argentine wheat is now about to start competing with the low-grade Canadian in the world's markets, with one-third to one-half of the Argentine crop beyond danger of damage except from wet weather, and harvesting progressing rapidly.

Conditions in Australia remain favorable. Harvesting in that country starts in practically all provinces at the same time with the result that a large volume of grain will be available for shipment within a comparatively short period.

Nat C. Murray has raised his estimate on the Argentine crop 4,000,000 bushels, suggesting an exportable surplus of around 155,000,000 bushels.

Primary arrivals today, 977,000 bushels; week ago, 1,052,000 bushes; last year, 1,916,000 bushels. Shipments, 1,340,000 bushels; week ago, 839,000 bushels; last year, 600,000 bushels.

Primary arrivals today were 629,000 bushels; week ago, 1,216,000; last year, 606,000, and shipments, 583,000 bushels; week ago, 686,000; last year, 285,000.

WHEAT FUTURES IRREGULAR.

Prices covered a wide range in the wheat futures market of the New York Produce Exchange yesterday. In the early trading the market sold off to new lows on a decline of from 1⅛ cents to 1⅞ cents as a result of highly favorable Argentine and Australian advices, weak cables and poor export demand. Support was weak then, but profit-taking developed, and the market closed with a rally of 1 cent to 1⅛ cents from the lows, but showing net losses on the day of from ⅛ cent to 1⅛ cents.

In the domestic wheat division, December opened at 1.37⅞ and closed at 1.38; May opened at 1.43½ and closed at 1.43⅝. In the bonded, Canadian, division, May opened at 1.41 and closed at 1.41⅝.

CRUDE OIL PRICE CUT MET.

Prairie and Sinclair Companies Follow Carter's Lead in Mid-Continent.

Two oil companies yesterday met the recent reduction in the price of crude oil posted by the Carter Oil Company and others in the mid-continent territory. They were the Prairie Oil and Gas and the Sinclair Oil Companies, two of the largest buyers.

Reports were received in New York of possible decreases in the price of gasoline in the Eastern territory.

The market for fuel oils promises to hold a strong position for some months to come, and unprecedented production of crude oil in the United States is a big factor, says the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter, despite the fact that the end of the British coal strike is virtually at hand.

Another influential factor is the growing demand for oil as a fuel for household heating.

COTTON PRICES GAIN IN LIVELY MARKET

December Sells at Highest Figure Recorded in Trading for Nearly a Month.

Trading in cotton continued quite active, and under steady demand from both spot and trade interests prices gained ground during the session and closed at a net advance of 11 to 14 points.

December sold at 12.70, the highest figure recorded in nearly a month. On the Washington report of Oct. 8, about six weeks ago, December sold at 12.36. The quantity of cotton offered in the South has not been adequate to supply the demand and weaken the market at the same time.

The feature of trading was the purchase of a block of 15,000 May on the opening call, the largest transaction in several weeks. This furnished the tone of the day's development, and after opening up 6 points a slow, creeping advance carried May to 13.20 before the close.

The fact that hedges in the December position are now being transferred to later months and that mills have fixed prices on a large amount of the raw material needed for consumption has created a demand for more contracts than supplied by the limited selling from Southern quarters.

Exports amounted to 115,000 bales, making 260,000 in two days, and bringing the total for the season 200,000 ahead of last year. The stock at New Orleans of 634,000 bales and of over 2,000,000 at the three concentration points of Galveston, Houston and New Orleans includes a large amount of cotton held by the scarcity of ocean tonnage.

REFORM IN TAXATION IS AIM OF NEW DRIVE

Five Great Industrial and Farm Groups Will Cooperate to Reduce Local Taxes.

NO WASTE IN STATES SEEN

The National Founders Association Hears Criticism of Federal Corporation Levy.

Five of the largest groups of industrialists and agriculturists in the United States are preparing to cooperate in a project seeking a decrease in local taxes and a reform in taxation methods, Henry H. Lewis, executive director of a movement known as "Better Understanding Between Industry and Agriculture," said yesterday at the thirtieth annual convention of the National Founders Association, at the Hotel Astor.

"The National Association of Manufacturers, the National Industrial Council, the National Founders Association, the National Grange and the American Farm Bureau Federation are going to unite in this move, and there are indications that other organizations will lend their aid," Mr. Lewis declared. "The real taxation problem lies in the community and the State. While the Federal Government is economizing and discussing tax reduction something must be done to eliminate the great local waste."

This will be made possible to some extent through the formation of a committee in each state to help create "tax consciousness," the 500 Founders Association members were told by [illegible] A. Emery, the Association's counsel. Such committees, he said, would be named to distribute information concerning local indebtedness and expenditures and to awaken the public to the fact that "the decrease in the national debt and in Federal expenditures is being equalized in the much greater increase in state and local expenditures and in the state and local debt."

Referring to national taxation, Mr. Emery said a decrease in the income tax rate upon corporations would bring relief to more individuals than a reduction of the personal tax rate.

"The corporation tax on incomes for 1926 is 13 per cent., an increase of one-half of 1 per cent. over the previous year, and the Government expects to collect 13½ per cent. on incomes for 1927, in the face of today's figures showing the Treasury expects a $400,000,000 surplus for the present fiscal year." He advised repeal of the extra half of 1 per cent. and the giving of more temporary relief through such decreases as the circumstances dictate.

Thomas E. Robertson, Commissioner of Patents, told the association that his department at Washington was seriously handicapped because of cramped quarters and salaries insufficient to keep experienced examiners, and that such a condition was a drawback to industry.

H. V. Kaltenborn, of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, was the chief speaker at a dinner of the association last night at the Astor. He described present-day conditions in Europe. Mr. Emery was toastmaster. The two-day session of the Founders will end this morning with election of officers.

GUM PATENT IS VOIDED.

Health Products Company Loses Suit Against Ex-Lax Concern.

The patent for the laxative chewing gum held by the Health Products Company was voided in a decision handed down yesterday by Federal Judge Moscowitz in Brooklyn. Judge Moscowitz's opinion was a victory for the Ex-Lax Manufacturing Company against which suit had been brought to enjoin the sale of a chocolate candy laxative.

[illegible] A. Edelman, counsel for the Ex-Lax concern, established that the latter had manufactured and sold its laxative product long before the granting of the patent to the other company. In his decision the Judge pointed out that the Ex-Lax chocolate had been sold since 1906, its substance being phenolphthalein embedded in chocolate.

Phenolphthalein placed in chewing gum was valueless, the Judge found, but by putting it in the candy-coated portions surrounding the gum, the Health Products Company was doing simply what the Ex-Lax Company had been doing for years.

The Ex-Lax Company introduced phenolphthalein as a laxative but never applied for a patent. The Health Products Company only recently entered the field and through its patent claimed exclusive rights to manufacture such a laxative.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—4½ per cent. for the best names. Tuesday—4½ per cent. for the best names. The quotations are for six months' paper.

Burlaps Are Weaker Here.

Prices for burlaps continue to ease off here under the continued neglect of buyers for other than small lots of goods for quick shipment, and prices in the last week on standard 40-inch cloths have eased off from 5 to 15 points. There was a temporary strengthening, due to reports of heavy shipments and small stocks at Calcutta, but that market yesterday cut prices from 5 to 10 points. This resulted in local price shading to the extent of about 10 points, but buyers still hold aloof. The great size of the jute and cotton crops, coupled with continued reports of the prospective replacement of burlaps by cottons, has apparently robbed buyers of their confidence in the future. These were the prices quoted here yesterday by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc., on standard 40-inch burlaps:

	8-ounce.	10½-ounce.
Spot	7.05c	8.60c
November shipment	6.50c	8.25c
December shipment	6.45c	8.20c

Select Ten Shades for Blouses.

Ten shades have been selected for the Spring color card of the United Waist League of America, which will be ready for distribution this week. Some of the shades embodied in it are taken from the card of the Textile Color Card Association. These are the waist colors that will be played up: White, Mother Goose No. 2, a soft tan; Sistine, a gray blue; Queen blue, a shade slightly darker than Sistine; rose beige No. 2; gooseberry green; Athenia, a shade between tan and rose; crane gray; goya, a clear red, and navy. The selections were made by a committee headed by Alfred Stern, Chairman of the League. They have been chosen primarily to supply a range of colors that will match skirts, suits and other articles of dress, and are not intended to limit the color activities of the individual manufacturers.

Gray Goods Buying More Active.

More active buying was noted in the local gray goods market yesterday, with the great bulk of the trading confined to printcloths and sheetings. In the former 38½-inch 64-60s sold for spot delivery at 7 cents, for November shipment at 6⅞ cents, and for January, in a pretty fair way, at 6⅝ cents. Spot business in Southern 38½-inch 60-48s and 44-40s was done at 5 9-16 and 4⅝ cents, respectively, and January business was done in 38½-inch 64-56s at 6¼ cents. Sales of spot sheetings included 36-inch 56-60 four-yard and 37-inch 48-square four-yard goods at 8¼ and 7 cents, respectively. For late November deliveries of 40-inch 2.85-yard sheetings buyers paid 9⅝ cents, and they also bought spot 31-inch five-yard sheetings at 6 cents. Drills also sold. Among the sales were those of 37-inch 3.75s, spot, at 7⅞ cents, and 37-inch 2.75s, November, at 10⅝ cents. Spot 30-inch 3.25-yard drills sold at 8⅝ cents.

Sweater Prices Still Held Back.

Contrary to trade expectations, there was no general pricing of sweater lines for 1927 deliveries here yesterday. If anything, mills and selling agents were even a little more coy about giving out quotations than they were on Monday, when some of the well-known lines were opened. From present indications there will be no general pricing of sweater lines here until after the opening at Chicago early next week. Enough has come out, however, to indicate that the reductions made in the lines priced here on Monday have set the pace that will be followed by the manufacturing end of the trade as a whole. The reductions ranged from $1 a dozen on fleece-lined cotton "lumberjacks" to $3 a dozen on the better grades of all cotton sweaters for men.

Cloth Coats at Retail Sought.

Absence of real cold weather to stimulate the demand for fur coats has turned the bulk of consumer attention to cloth coats. The dressy type of garment is now selling better than a few weeks ago, when the larger part of consumer buying was in sports garments. Interest in wine reds has dropped off somewhat and retailers now find the blue shades, particularly grackle-head, coming strongly to the fore. The suede, saddlepoint and bolivia varieties of fabrics are outstanding. Both shawl and tuxedo types of collars are selling.

Raw Silk Situation.

The raw silk market continues dull. Very little buying has taken place at Yokohama or here, but trade factors are disposed to expect more activity in the near future. Manufactures here, however, have become very cautious in their trading. The Japanese market, according to E. Gerli & Co., is being left to its own resources and reelers there are trying to maintain the present level of 1,480 yen for saiyu grades. Small holders, however, pressed for money, are being obliged to make concessions. In China the advance of silver exchange has caused a firmer tone, without, however, any American buying interest developing. Italian silks are still too high. On Japanese silks the following prices obtained here yesterday: $6 for crack XX and $5.85 for XX. Canton 14-16s ruled at $4.25 and 20-22s and 22-26s at $4.

Silk Shirts Selling Well.

Reorders and new business in men's shirts for holiday selling are shaping up nicely. A particularly good demand for silk merchandise is reported this year, with garments featuring novelty jacquard patterns on white ground selling well. The buying also includes plain and fancy broadcloths and novelty striped madras garments. Collar to match and collar attached styles continue to figure prominently and there is said to be every indication that this will be true of the Spring. Buying for that season has not yet developed actively, as many retailers are desirous of confining their attention to the holiday turnover.

Rayon Market Is Stable.

The rayon market continues on a stable basis here and so far the indications are that present price levels will be continued for the next buying period. While there is still some competitive underselling by importers of foreign rayon, leading producers here say this has not seriously affected the trading or the confidence of buyers in the present domestic level. Meanwhile the market here is broadening to take care of the increased output and new uses and expansion of the old ones are being developed. The good outlook for knitted rayon outergarments for the Spring is regarded with considerable satisfaction, as this trade is expected to absorb large quantities of the fibre. Use of rayon in underwear is steadily increasing in both the common and finer deniers.

Opens Plain Silk Line.

Ribbed weaves, taffetas, cashmere crêpes, crêpe satins and georgettes are featured in the plain silk lines which the Belding Heminway Company has just opened. The line is developed in two separate groups of colors. One is composed of vivid shades for sports wear and the other of pastel colorings for general and formal wear. All of the colors are designed to blend with the flesh tints. The crêpe failles and the firm's Grecian crêpe are stressed for sports wear. Cashmere crêpes in pastel effects are offered for both sports and general wear. The firm will open its novelty weaves, tub and printed silks at a later date.

Raw Fur Demand Is Sluggish.

Although the local market for raw furs is sluggish and the demand is uneven, there is an active call for certain articles. Notable among these are fine leopard and silver fox skins, as well as high-grade Russian sables, all of which are scarce. Fine badger, which is in light supply, is also selling, but the other grades of this fur are very quiet. Monkey is moving better than it did recently, with the call especially good for white monkey pelts from Abyssinia. The better grades of white fox also are in demand, as are Alaskan, Eastern and fine Russian red fox. Some improvement is noted in the sale of the marten group, but as yet the call for these skins has not become really active.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

DWELLING IS LEASED BY MRS. LE B. COOPER

East Fifty-third Street House Is to Be Altered for Antique Salesroom.

STORES ARE IN DEMAND

Brokers' Reports Indicate an Active Market for Retail Selling Space.

Mrs. Le Brun Cooper leased to Dante V. Leland of Florida the four-story brownstone dwelling at 36 East Fifty-third Street. After remodeling, Mr. Leland will use the building as a salesroom for furniture and antiques. Mr. Leland for many years has been doing business under the name of Southern Import Company, Inc., and now has establishments both in Miami and Palm Beach. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. negotiated the lease.

A demand for retail store space was indicated in announcements of brokers yesterday. Baumeister & Baumeister leased for a long term the store at 10 West Forty-seventh Street for the Happiness Candy Stores, Inc., to Keve, the florist; and for Jean Jordeau, Inc., space on the second floor in 562 Fifth Avenue to L. Louis for use as a hairdressing establishment.

Henry Brady rented Store 3 in 132-136 West Thirty-fifth Street to the Gift House, Inc., for retailing gift cards and brassware.

Greene & Co. leased for a term of years to a chain shoe store organization a store in the new corner building just completed at 2 West 125th Street for the 2 West 125th Street, Inc., and rented a store in the same building to Toby's Haberdasher, and another store to David Morris for rubber goods specialty shop.

Madison Avenue Floor Leased.

Cross & Brown Company leased for Thomas Addis Emmet Realty Company the third floor at 98 Madison Avenue to Julius Beckard Company, Inc.

Carstein & Linnekin, Inc., leased space on the eighth and ninth floors in the building at 486 Fourth Avenue to Pavel, Lindemann & Co., Inc.; also space in the same building to W. S. Gordon & Co. and Manuel Textile Company; the store and part of basement at 9-11 Greene Street, in conjunction with Spear & Co., to Aaronson Brothers.

Deal in Times Square.

Thoens & Flaehlacher, Inc., leased to Daniels Realty Organization, Inc., for the Bermey Realty Corporation, S. Kaufman, President, the fifteenth floor in the new Times Square Trust Building, at the northeast corner of Seventh Avenue and Fortieth Street.

Potter, Hamilton & Butler, Inc., have leased for the 16 East Fifty-second Street Corporation a large portion of the third floor in the new sixteen-story building under construction at 16-20 East Fifty-second Street, to the Arthur M. Rosenberg Company, tailors, of New Haven, Conn., for a period of years. Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co. represented the owners.

The Rosenberg-Colt Company has leased for a term of ten years the first floor in 1,179 Broadway to Abdo Haddad, who will occupy for a restaurant.

The same brokers leased through Charles F. Noyes & Co. the second floor in 1,178 Broadway to Livingston & Zimmerman, retailers of men's clothing.

Frederick Fox & Co., Inc., rented for Klein & Jackson the sixth, eighth and ninth floors at 78 Fifth Avenue, the sixth floor to Le Grand & Siegel, the eighth floor to A. S. Levine & Sons and the ninth floor to Singer & Snow Co., Inc. The tenants of these floors are all manufacturers of men's clothing.

Take Spruce Street Stores.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., leased at 21 Spruce Street two floors to the Rhodia Chemical Company.

Williams & Co. have leased 40,000 square feet in 333 Seventh Avenue for the Regent Construction Company to the following tenants: Schwartz, Drogutsky & Co., Rothenberg & Friedman, B. Axel Company and S. & I. Bamberger.

These leases are all for a long term of years, at an aggregate rental of $200,000, and complete the leasing of the building.

SHUBERTS CLOSE DEAL.

Lessees Required to Improve Wendel Estate Property.

A hotel or business building will be erected on a Wendel estate holding as a result of a lease negotiated yesterday between Rebecca A. D. Wendel and Elion V. Von E. Wendel, as lessors, and the Trebuhs Realty Company, a holding company for J. J. and Lee Shubert, as lessees.

The property involved in the lease comprises the four-story building at 1,876 to 1,884 Broadway, on a plot 116.2 by 171.8 feet, forming an "L"-shaped plot with the four-story building, on a lot 25 by 100.5, at 9 West Sixty-first Street.

The lease is for a period of twenty-one years with two renewals. According to its terms the lessees are required to erect a hotel or business building to cost not less than $500,000 on the plot.

The Shuberts, who have been consistently acquiring property in this section, recently added to their holdings in the block to the north, where they now control practically the entire block bounded by Central Park West, Sixty-second Street, Broadway and Sixty-third Street.

LENOX HILL PROJECT.

Madison Avenue Corner in $3,000,000 Improvement.

Another important Madison Avenue corner is to be improved by a new fireproof building with stores at a cost of $3,000,000.

Michael H. Lazarus and Goldman Brothers have leased for a term of eighty-four years 872 Madison Avenue, the northwest corner of Seventy-first Street, having a frontage of 102 feet on Madison Avenue, from the estate of Lueric F. Post, at a gross ground rental of over $2,000,000 for the entire period. William B. May Co. Real Estate, Inc., and Peter Grimm were the associate brokers in the transaction.

Abandons Plans for Flat In Resale of Tenth Av. Site

Martin-Murtha-Burger, Inc., sold for Kanter Realty Corporation the northwest corner of Fifty-sixth Street and Tenth Avenue, a plot 50 by 75 feet, consisting of two five-story and store tenements and a one-story business building in the rear. The property was held at $130,000.

It was Mr. Kanter's intention to erect on this site an apartment building, but in obtaining a substantial profit the property was resold by him.

PLAN TWO BIG HOUSES FOR YORKVILLE AREA

The Amity Corporation Assembles Plots on East Ninety-sixth Street.

The Amity Development Corporation of which L. Schanker is President has assembled plots in East Ninety-sixth Street which will be improved at once with two fifteen-story apartment houses.

Through William Weiss the corporation has purchased from Samnel and Leon Carasso 155-157-159 East Ninety-sixth Street, near Lexington Avenue, three five-story buildings on a plot 76 feet by 100 feet, on which it plans to erect a fifteen-story apartment house, containing suites of four, five and six rooms, and stores.

The corporation also recently assembled another building plot on the same block, 125 feet by 100 feet, on which there are now five five-story buildings, 167-169-171-173-175 East Ninety-sixth Street, and on which it also intends to construct a fifteen-story apartment house.

To protect the light and air between the two structures, the company has purchased 163 East Ninety-sixth Street, on a lot 25 feet by 100 feet S. Strndig, as broker, negotiated the transactions.

The construction of high-class apartments in this vicinity is a logical development of the changes which have taken place on East Ninety-sixth Street and on Lexington, Park and Madison Avennes during the last few years.

Old buildings have been demolished and apartment houses have risen on their sites.

The demand for apartments in the Park Avenne zone has spread rapidly eastward. The side streets are being rebuilt and several tall buildings have already been erected south of East Ninety-sixth Street, between Lexington and Third Avenues.

ROCKEFELLER BUYS TWO MORE HOUSES

John D. Jr. in Fifty-third Street Purchase to Protect the Family Residence.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has purchased two more residences in Fifty-third Street, it was learned yesterday, to link up his realty holdings and protect his own residence as well as that of his father on the south side of Fifty-fourth Street, just west of Fifth Avenue. The latest addition to the Rockefeller properties consists of the four and five story dwellings at 17 and 19 West Fifty-third Street, which were acquired from the estate of C. Adolphe Low. The sellers have owned the houses for twenty-five years.

Through this purchase Mr. Rockefeller now owns all of the frontage over to St. Thomas's Church, with the exception of the Manning residence at No. 15. On the Fifty-fourth Street side of the block the Rockefellers control all of the frontage from Fifth Avenue over to and including No. 24, with the exception of No. 18, owned by the William H. Browning family. The Rockefeller family also owns 13, 17 and 19 West Fifty-fourth Street, on the north side of the street.

Last year John D. Rockefeller Jr. bought the residence of Mrs. Florence A. Twombly at 684 Fifth Avenue as another step in consolidating his holdings in an attempt to preserve the residential character of the neighborhood. The Twombly house is a four-story brick and brownstone structure on the southwest corner of Fifty-fourth Street, fronting 48 feet on the avenne and 116 feet on the street.

It is assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $1,050,000 and is separated from St. Thomas's Protestant Episcopal Church, at the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third Street, by the old residence at 680 Fifth Avenue, which Mr. Rockefeller acquired a few years ago and converted to business use.

Mortgage Loans Placed.

F. S. Stoepel & Co. placed a first mortgage loan of $105,000 at 6 per cent. for ten years on 2,115 Walton Avenue, a six-story apartment on a plot 75 by 100 feet, for Melb Realty Company. The same company placed $20,000 at 6 per cent. for five years on 822 Beck Street, a four-story and basement apartment on a plot 37 by 100 feet for Louis Evans, and $12,000 at 6 per cent. for five years on 343 East 105th Street, a five-story and basement tenement.

Mapes Estate Plot Sold.

Louis M. Weise & Co., as brokers, sold for the Park Versailles Realty Corporation (The Mapes Estate), the plot of over 100 lots, fronting on East Tremont Avenue, Taylor, Beach, Leland and White Plains Avenues, Guerlain and Gray Streets, and Unionport Road, occupying five city blocks, fronting on East Tremont Avenue to Leo Silver, operator. This property has been in the hands of the Mapes Estate since 1846, this being its first sale. It was held at $550,000.

Vesey Street Project Planned.

Charles N. Whineton & Bro., architects, are preparing plans for a new two-story store and office building containing ten stores, to be located at the northeast corner of Washington and Vesey Streets, known as 80-86 Vesey Street and 209 Washington Street. The size of the plot is 53 by 77 feet and the building will be built for the Veston Realty Corporation.

Buyer of East 171st Street Flat.

Isaac Lowenfeld, operator, is the buyer of 451-453 East 171st Street, between Washington and Park Avenues, a five-story and basement new law apartment house, size 50 by 100 feet housing twenty families, with a rental of $12,000. The broker in the transaction was M. A. Wechsler.

The property was held at $325,000. The brokers in this transaction were the Rialto Realty Corporation.

Shenkin & Patterson, builders, bought through Grudin & Sawitch, the plot on the northeast corner of Walton Avenue and Clarke Place, 182 by 95 feet, held at $75,000, for immediate improvement with an elevator apartment house.

Grudin & Sawitch also, sold the business plot, 93 by 185 feet, on the east side of Franklin Avenue, near 169th Street, held at $40,000, for the Tregrand Realty Company.

Rnliman Brothers, Inc., sold for United States Trust Company, as trustees, for the Lichtenauer estate, the vacant plot, 50 by 117 feet, on the east side of University Avenue, 125 feet south of Merriam Avenue.

Ullman Real Estate Company sold for H. J. Sachs Company to a client, a plot 50 by 100 feet on the east side of White Plains Avenue, south of Mace Avenue.

Deal on Grand Concourse.

Beatrice Marblestone sold to Thomas J. Brown, vacant plot on the west side of the Grand Concourse, north of 182d Street. Albert D. Phelps was the broker.

J. Clarence Davies, Inc., sold for William Cohen the vacant lot, 25 by 91 feet, at the northwest corner of Broadway and 251st Street.

H. Trinkowsky & Son sold for the Lotland Realty Corporation a plot, size 100 by 100 feet, located on the west side of Barker Avenue, 175 feet south of Mace Avenue, to a builder. The same brokers sold for Miss Taylor and another the adjoining plot, size 50 by 100 feet, to the same buyer.

They also sold for the Mogul Realty Corpoation the vacant plot, located at the southeast corner of Mace and Wallace Avenues, size 100 by 100 feet. Solomon Petchers was co-broker in this transaction. A re-sale is pending.

Charles Feinstein sold for Barnett Males, 75 by 100 feet on the north side of 222d Street, 150 feet west of Needham Avenue.

Olson Realty Company sold for William Popcke, two lots, corner of Home and Neill Avenues, Morris Park; for Frances Rawling, two lots on Bogart Avenue, near Pierce Avenue, Morris Park, and for Morris Park Estates, a lot on Bogart Avenue, near Van Nest Avenue.

Flats for Kingsbridge Blockfront.

The blockfront on the south side of West 238th Street, about 200 feet west of the Broadway subway station, between Tibbets and Corlear Avenues, has been sold by the Terrestor Realty Company to the J. & M. Company, Inc., who have a re-sale pending to builders.

The builders expect to improve this block with two six-story elevator apartments and stores. Philip I. Globerman was the broker in the transaction.

Joseph T. Riordan sold for Rudnick-Hebron Corporation northeast corner 164th Street and Morris Avenue, plot 100 by 50 feet, to a client, who will build a taxpayer of nine stores.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

OPERATOR ACQUIRES RIPPOWAM VILLAGE

PLANS NEW APARTMENTS

Rippowam Village, a group of semi-detached English brick cottages, built by the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company at Stamford, Conn., as a part of its model housing program for employes, has been sold to Lawrence Burrow, a New York real estate operator.

The property consists of approximately seven acres of land overlooking the park at the railroad station and extending from South Street to the Rippowam River and from the railroad right of way to Richmond Hill Road, which is now being reconstructed so as to make it a through road.

The property also contains a dwelling group comprising twenty-eight semi-detached houses which was completed about three years ago. It is laid out in the shape of a square enclosing a large interior court with gardens and playgrounds.

It was originally the plan of the corporation to rent the cottages to its employes and to build additional units as they were needed. However, this plan was gradually modified so that many of the apartments were rented to other tenants. The new owner proposes to build on the remaining five acres of land a group of apartment houses and stores, carrying out the scheme of an English village. George Howe and H. J. & S. Weisenman were the brokers who acted for the parties in interest.

Another suburban deal of interest was negotiated by G. Rampolla, as broker, who sold to the M. E. B. S. Realty Corporation for $35,000, 105 acres of land, on the Foster Town Road, near Newburgh, in Orange County, N. Y. The property commands an extensive view of the Hudson River.

The new owner plans to develop the property into a Summer resort. Plans have already been made to construct about 100 four and five room bungalowe.

Deals in Westchester County.

Mrs. Watson B. Dickerman has added to her holdings on Quaker Ridge by the purchase of an adjoining eight-acre parcel owned by Dudley D. Sicher. This property was formerly the homestead of Bradford Rhodes, and was occupied for some time as his Summer home. Kenneth Ives & Co. were the brokers.

The Robert F. Farley Organization has sold to George A. Nyburn, builder, a plot on Downer Avenne, in its Green Knolls development overlooking the Parkway at Scarsdale. This is Mr. Nyburn's second recent purchase in Green Knolls.

Fox Meadows Estates have sold to John M. Voss a plot on Cohawney Road, between Tompkins and Kensington Roads, in Fox Meadow, Scarsdale, on which the buyer will erect a home of Colonial design.

They have also sold to George Waugh an additional plot to the one already purchased by him on the west side of Kensington Road. On the combined plot Mr. Waugh plans to build a home of early English architecture for his own occupancy.

The same company also sold to Winfred C. Allen a large plot on the corner of Fox Meadow and Chesterfield Roads, on which the buyer plans to erect a home of Colonial design.

The Homeland Company sold a plot 50 by 100 feet in Homefield at the Grey Oaks Station, Yonkers, fronting on St. Andrew's Drive, to Pauline A. Day. In Crestwood Gardens, Yonkers, they sold a plot 50 by 100 feet fronting on Westchester Avenue to Harold M. Allyn, and in Meado-brook, Dobbs Ferry, irregular plots were sold to Grace H. Wells and Lillian M. Vosburgh.
